Friends and business associates of the colonel said they received no word of his injury.

Colonel Henry Breckinridge, the flier's attorney in New York, said Colonel Lindbergh had not been injured in an airplane accident and was in "the best of health." Colonel Breckinridge said he had been in conversation with Colonel Lindbergh today. He smiled at published reports of a crash.

Asked if there had been any other accident, the lawyer retorted:

"Not that I know anything about."

EXPLOSION IN X-RAY DEPARTMENT OF HOSPITAL

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 18.—(AP)—One hundred and two patients in the University of California hospital here were rushed to other buildings for safety today after an explosion in the ex-ray department on the third floor started a fire that did several thousand dollars damage.

The only casualty reported was Miss Juanita Costenborder, 22, telephone operator, who leaped from a third floor window after sounding telephone warnings throughout the building and calling the fire department. She injured an ankle.

There were 216 patients in all in the hospital but more than half of them were left undisturbed in wings of the hospital not considered endangered. The equipment of the San Francisco fire department answered the alarm and the situation was cleared up in a short time. The blaze was confined to corridors and four rooms.

The fire started in the x-ray examination room, possibly from some piece of apparatus. The greatest loss was to equipment there.

TO PRESS INVESTIGATION OF THE TEXTILE INDUSTRY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18. — (AP) — Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, served notice in the senate today he would re-introduce and press for immediate adoption at the regular session a resolution for a general investigation of the textile industry.

Wheeler was the author of a similar resolution in the present session, but it has never been adopted.

Speaking during debate on the cotton schedule of the tariff bill, the Montanan said he thought it was a "shame" the ways and means committee of the house and finance committee of the senate should have the "temerity" to ask for increases in view of the "deplorable" conditions existing in the industry in many states.

He added that "miserable wages" were being paid, that hours of work had been increased and that the "stretchout" system of loom operation had been "doubled and doubled again" since 1922.

BUSINESS CONFERENCE AT WHITE HOUSE TODAY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18. — (AP) — Secretary Mellon, Secretary Lamont and officials of the United States chamber of commerce will sit in with President Hoover and the chief eastern railway executives at the first business progress conference to be held tomorrow at the white house.

Railway officials who will attend include Richard H. Ashton, president of the American Railway association, and the following trunk line presidents: L. F. Loree, Delaware and Hudson; Agnew T. Dice, Philadelphia and Reading; J. J. Bernet, Chesapeake and Ohio; W. W. Atterbury, Pennsylvania; P. E. Crowley, New York Central; Fairfax Harrison, Southern; J. J. Pelley, New York, New Haven and Hartford; Daniel Willard, Baltimore and Ohio, and Fred W. Sargent, Chicago and Northwestern.

Julius Barnes, chairman of the board, and William Butterworth, president, will represent the United States chamber of commerce. In addition Jeremiah Milbank of the Southern railway, will attend.

INSURANCE COMPANY SUED BY BRIDGEPORT WOMAN

BRIDGEPORT, Nov. 18—(AP)—Alexanderina S. Burn, of this city, widow of the late John Burn, builder, and partner in the Burn and Crump company, today filed suit in superior court to recover $30,000 from the Monarch Life Insurance company, of Springfield, Mass. It is claimed that the defendant has neglected to pay two policies for a total of $22,000 upon the life of Burn and which policies designated Mrs. Burn as beneficiary. Burn died on August 23, 1929, and the policies were taken out on February 26, 1929, and March 29 1929.

To Speed Up Govt. Building Program

Secretary Mellon to Propose That Congress Hasten Projects Involving $200,000,000.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Secretary Mellon announced today he planned to submit to congress a proposal to speed up the government's $200,000,000 building program throughout the country to permit completion of essential work.

The building program authorized by congress already has voted $175,000,000 for construction and it is the plan of the treasury to ask congress to enlarge the program by $100,000,000 outside of Washington, and by $75,000,000 within Washington and permit an increase in the annual expenditures throughout the country of from $25,000,000 to $35,000,000 while the limit in Washington would be increased from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000.

Under the present plans the government will expend $200,000,000 in addition to $40,000,000 it will have from the sale of old properties.

PIECE OF OLD YALE FENCE WAS STOLEN FROM STUDIO

This particular part of the fence was installed in the studio in 1879 after a student riot on the campus, and it is tradition that Yale football teams pose for the official photograph in front of it.

It is believed that the theft was committed at about 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon when all of the employes were at the Yale-Princeton game. It was taken out by a rear fire escape. Who stole it is a mystery.

Officials at the studio said they had had several offers recently for its purchase, but had declined them all.

TO TEST VALIDITY OF STATE GASOLINE TAX

HARTFORD, Nov. 18—(AP)—The validity of the present gasoline tax and the efficacy of the healing legislation adopted by the special session of the legislature in last August, will be tested by the Consumers Oil company, of New Haven, which for six months has been acting on the assumption that there is no legal tax on gasoline in Connecticut. Notice was served on the attorney general today that a hearing will be held in the superior court in New Haven, Friday on the application of the oil company for an injunction to restrain Motor Vehicle Commissioner Hopkins B. Stoeckel suspending the license of the company because it has refused to pay some $10,000 the state alleges is due for gasoline taxes.

MAYOR WALKER OF N. Y. INVITED TO BRIDGEPORT

BRIDGEPORT, Nov. 18—(AP)—The courtesies of Bridgeport will be extended to Mayor James J. Walker, of New York by Mayor Edward T. Buckingham when the latter arrives in New York tomorrow for a rest from the strenuous duties of the campaign and his inauguration here and Mayor Walker will be asked to set the date for his appearance in Bridgeport at a huge victory dinner which will cap the climax of the democratic success at the polls last election day.

Arrangements for the meeting of Mayor Buckingham and Mayor Walker were completed by mutual friends here two years ago. On that occasion he was the guest of Mayor F. William Behrens at the latter's farm, after speaking here.

QUIET IN MEXICO FOLLOWING ELECTION

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 18.— (AP) — Mexico accepted quietly today the results of the national elections of yesterday in which Pascual Ortiz Rubio was elected president. In marked contrast to the disorders attending the voting, in which 19 persons were killed and more than 50 injured, the celebrations today by members of the national revolutionary party passed off quietly.

An indication of the sweeping victory of the government party was shown in incomplete returns from the federal district which gave Ortiz Rubio 166,074 votes while Jose Vasconcelos, his anti-reelectionist party rival, polled only 2,580. Vasconcelos so far has shown no intention of carrying out his pre-election threat to declare himself president of the republic even if the polling went against him.

DECREASE LAST WEEK IN REV. FREIGHT LOADINGS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18—(AP)—Revenue freight loadings for the week ended Novembnr 9 were reported today by the American Railway association to have totaled 1,048,475 cars.

This was a reduction of 22,175 cars under the preceding week, attributed to the seasonal decline in freight traffic, and 4,870 cars under the corresponding week a year ago.

OBITUARY

John Cort

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—(AP)—John Cort, who first gained fame as a theatre manager more than 40 years ago by his enterprise in installing in his Seattle theatre "the new Edison incandescent lights," died today.

From the late 80's, when his letterheads attracted the attention of other managers all over the country by their announcement that his theatre out in Seattle was heated by steam and lighted by those new-fangled Edison lights, down to a year ago, when he produced his last play on Broadway, John Cort occupied a place of prominence among theatrical men.

When he retired, he retained ownership of the New York theatre which bears his name. All his theatres in the west he disposed of about eight years ago.

He died suddenly at the home of his son, Harry, in Larchmont. Only two days ago he returned from a trip he had taken to California for his health.

He is survived by his widow, the son at whose home he died, another son, J. Edward Cort, of Jamaica, L. I., and a daughter, Mrs. Loretta Lewis, of San Francisco.

Rep. Independent Senate[illegible] Obdurate

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18. — (AP) — Western republican independents in the senate rejected formally today the compromise offer to put through the tariff bill with the present industrial rates and increased agricultural duties which had come informally from the group of "young guard" republican regulars.

In a statement after a conference of the independents, Senator Borah, of Idaho, said, "Our single purpose has been to restore as nearly as may be, equality between agriculture and industry under the protective system."

"We do not favor the rates of the Fordney-McCumber tariff bill as sound nor do we accept the bill in principle.

"What we shall feel compelled to do in dealing with rates will be determined as they raised—we can not in wholesale determine in advance of the rates coming up for consideration.

"We heartily welcome all who want to restore agriculture to its place of equality under the economic system. That being our primary purpose, we will not compromise nor will we embarrass ourselves in advance."

BODIES OF SLAIN BROTHERS FOUND IN ABANDONED WELL

TEXARKANA, Ark., Nov. 18—(AP)—The bullet riddled bodies of two brothers, Arthur and Lee Madison were found late today in an abandoned well near Artex, Ark., 13 miles east of here.

The bodies were found by a searching party organized by relatives after the brothers had been missing for nearly two weeks. They lived seven miles west of here in Miller county, Ark.

Shortly after the bodies were recovered, two suspects, a man and a woman were arrested at the man's home, located two miles from the Madison residence. The man had served a year in the Arkansas penitentiary on a liquor charge. He was 35 years old. The woman 20 years old, was said to be a sweetheart of the man.

Officers expected further arrests. They believed moonshine activities in Miller county a motive for the shooting.

85 YEAR OLD SENATOR OVERCOMING BRONCHITIS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18—(AP)—Despite his 85 years, Senator Francis E. Warren of Wyoming, the dean of the senate, was believed tonight to have gained the upper hand in a struggle to overcome bronchitis.

For two days Senator Warren has been confined to bed by a cold which developed into bronchitis, but only today did his friends learn of the serious attack.

Illness is strange to the western senator and his rugged condition was counted upon by colleagues to bring him through.

DOHENY HAS PURCHASED THE PROPERTY OF FALL

ALAMOGORDO, N. M., Nov. 18.—(AP)—In a special masters' sale, here today, Edward L. Doheny, oil magnate, purchased the property of Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, for $132,491.81.

The sale followed a decree in the third judicial court on Aug. 15 this year ordering a sale of the property to cover a mortgage held on the Tres Ritos Cattle and Land Co. owned by Doheny. Fall was the owner of the property. Mark Thompson of Phoenix, Arizona, and Ed Holt of Las Cruces were present representing Doheny and Fall respectively, and W. D. Bryars acted as special master.

GIANT SUBMARINE WAS LAUNCHED AT CHERBOURG

CHERBOURG, France, Nov. 18.—(AP)—The French navy's newest submarine, one of the largest in the world, was launched here today and christened "Surcouf" after the famous Breton naval commander.

The submarine is 400 feet long and is of 4,000 tons displacement.

It can dive to a depth of 450 feet. The "Surcouf" can go 80 feet deeper than any existing submarine.

PROHIBITION CARDS IN BRITISH PARLIAMENT

LONDON, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Some one in America is trying to win the British parliament over to the cause of prohibition. During the week end postal officials of the house of commons received six mails bags from the United States containing pamphlets entitled "The Booze Fighter." Bundles of these publications, all addressed to individual members, were properly delivered but no comment by members was forthcoming tonight.

EARTH TREMORS WERE FELT FROM RHODE ISLAND TO N. F.

In Boston Buildings Were Rocked and People Rushed to the Streets—Felt in Office Buildings in New Haven and Hartford—No Damage Was Reported—Houses in the West Section of Worcester Were Visibly Shaken—First Tremor in New England Was Felt at 3.38 P. M.—Three Distinct Shocks Were Reported at Waterville, Me.—Eastern New York Also Felt the Tremblors.

BOSTON, Nov. 18—(AP)—An earthquake shook the eastern coastline from Rhode Island northward to Newfoundland today. Buildings trembled, furniture was moved and considerable alarm caused by the tremor which occurred at approximately 3:35 p. m. and was felt at intervals up to 4 o'clock.

Nova Scotia, Newfoundland, New Brunswick and all the New England state felt the shock. The trembling of the earth was felt as far west as Albany, N. Y.

The center of the quake was believed to be near No a Scotia as the shock was more severe there thany in any other place. The only reports of serious damage came from Nova Scotia where several isolated places it was said that houses had been torn from their foundations and the long iron bridge at Grand Narrow near Cape Breton had been knocked out of alignment.

New England points reported that buildings shook, pictures on walls rattled, doors slammed and furniture danced. At the state house here several employes ran into the street their alarm became so great. Not all sections of states felt the shock as it was not noticed in Rutland and central western Vermont while Montpelier, Barre and St. Johnsbury reported that it had been felt distinctly and that considerable concern had been caused.

Structures were rocked in Worcester, Springfield and other Massachusetts cities while Providence, R. I., Keene and Concord in New Hampshire and Portland and surrounding cities and towns in Maine felt the shock clearly.

LARGE OFFICE BUILDINGS IN NEW HAVEN JARRED

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 18—(AP)—The earth tremor which was felt throughout New England today, jarred large office buildings here. No damage was reported.

In one office building a near panic was experienced among a number of girl employes who rushed to the street at the height of the shocks.

Other cities and towns in Connecticut reported feeling the tremor, but no visible damage was reported.

The Peabody museum at Yale was besieged with calls for information. Readings on its seismograph showed that the center of the disturbance was 345 miles from here, and that the tremor began at 3:34 p. m., and lasted until 3:46. Its maximum intensity was reached at 3:39 o'clock.

TREMBLOR IN HARTFORD WAS OF CONSIDERABLE VIOLENCE

HARTFORD, Nov. 18— (AP) —An earthquake of considerable violence rocked the city today. Although the trembler caused no material damage, it frightened hundreds of workers in offices and factories, rattled doors, dishes and stove covers.

One woman, washing windows on the fifth floor of a downtown apartment house, nearly lost her hold on a casing when the first shock of the quake struck the city. Children who were kept after hours in one school were ordered out of the building. Bottles and canned goods were dislodged from store shelves, clocks stopped, pianos played discordant notes and gold fish quivered in their bowls. The first shock was felt at 3:34 and lasted several minutes. Public utilities service was not interrupted.

OFFICE BUILDING IN MERIDEN SHAKEN BY QUAKE

MERIDEN, Nov. 18—(AP)—Employes of the H. Wales Lines company, reported this afternoon that their office building was shaken perceptibly at 3:37 o'clock. The building moved in a north and south line for about a minute lights swaying and outside wires snapping. There were no other local reports of the earthquake.

HOUSES IN WORCESTER WERE VISIBLY SHAKEN

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 18—(AP)—Earth tremors shook a large section of Worcester between 3:30 and 3:45 this afternoon. Residents in the west side of the city said houses were visibly shaken. The Norton company, one of the largest manufacturing plants in the north side of the city said buildings were rocked.

No damage was reported.

MOST SEVERE QUAKE IN HISTORY OF NOVA SCOTIA

HALIFAX, N. S., Nov. 18—(AP)—Nova Scotia was shaken by the most severe earthquake in its history this afternoon, so violent was the shock that the indicator on the seismograph at Dalhousie university jumped the recording paper. Dr. H. L. Bronson, of the university, said nothing so severe ever had been recorded previously by the instrument. Houses rocked in Halifax, but no serious damage had been reported an hour after the disturbance. The shocks were felt throughout the province.

SHOCKS IN CENTRAL AND WESTERN MAINE

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 18—(AP)—Very definite manifestations of the earth shocks felt in many parts of central and western Maine at about 3:37 o'clock this afternoon, were observed in this city and South Portland. Three distinct shocks were reported at Waterville.

The most severe manifestation reported within an hour was at Eastport, apparently indicating that the quake originated in the Canadian provinces, as sometimes occurs when the tremors are generally observed throughout the state and in other sections of New England.

Milo, in Piscataquis county, reported two tremors in that town and vicinity at 3:45. Houlton, in Aroostook county, also on the New Brunswick border reported tremors lasting a few seconds, shook buildings and overturned bottles in drug stores.

The disturbance also was noted at Lubec, close to the New Brunswick border, on the extreme northwestern tip of Maine. Lubec residents reported a heavy shock at 3:40, lasting slightly more than a minute. Canned goods in stores were thrown from shelves, lights went out and houses were shaken noticeably.

TREMORS WERE LIGHT IN NEW YORK STATE

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 18—(AP)—Light earth shocks which seemed to move northeastward from the vicinity of Binghamton, near the Pennsylvania border, through Albany district and into Vermont, were felt between 3:40 p. m., and 4 p. m. today.

The disturbance was reported very mild at Walton, Delhi, Windsor, Sidney and Norwich, towns within forty miles of Binghamton and to the east of that city. The shocks in Albany, Troy and Schenectady were but slightly more decided.

OFFICERS RE-ELECTED BY THE NATIONAL GRANGE

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 18—(AP)—Indorsement of the plan of Senator Morris Sheppard, Texas, to make the buyer of illicit liquor equally guilty with the seller, was contained in a resolution introduced before the sixty-third annual convention of the National Grange here today by State Master George Schimeyer of California.

The resolution, which insisted that the grange would take no half way stand on the prohibition question, was one of a large group introduced before the delegates following the relection of all national officers.

The Michigan Grange introduced a list of resolutions directed at cigarettes, protesting in one against the use of young women's pictures in advertising cigarettes, and the advertising of cigarettes on radio programs. Another asked that all school boards make "searching investigations" of applications for teachers' positions to ascertain whether tobacco is used in any form with "special reference to smoking cigarettes."

The national officers selected were: Louis J. Taber, national master, who was named for his fourth consecutive term as head of the organization; Robert Robinson, former governor of Delaware, treasurer; Harry A. Caton, Ohio leader, secretary; David H. Agans, New Jersey state master, overseer.

New York was selected as the 1930 meeting place.

CONFERENCE ON ASSETS OF PROVIDENCE BROKER

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 18—(AP)—A series of conferences lasting until late this afternoon between bankers and lawyers, marked attempts to find ways of liquidating in satisfactory manner the assets of the brokerage firm of Mandeville, Brooks and Chaffee, suspended by the New York stock exchange today for failure to meet engagements.

Bankers and lawyers were discussing the situation with Robert S. Emerson, appointed temporary receiver for the Providence firm today by Judge Edward W. Blodgett in superior court on the company's voluntary application for receivership action on the ground that it is unable at this time to cope with indebtedness of between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000.

The partnership, formed in 1927, is the first to be thus affected by the market slump.

Members of the firm declare that assets are adequate to settle the outstanding indebtedness. However, time will be required, it is reported, before a portion of the assets is removed from the frozen class and hypothecated at figures sufficient to meet the obligations.

MAROONED DUCK HUNTERS SAVEC BY CHAUFFEUR

GREENWICH, Nov. 18—(AP)—Two duck hunters, marooned on Sand Island off Pod's Point when their motorboat was carried away, were saved from death today by a chauffeur, who went to their aid in a rowboat. The island was covered with water when they were taken off, and they stood in water up to their shoulders.

Those rescued were Samuel W. Taylor, Jr., 29, son of Samuel W. Taylor, editor of "Rider and Driver," and Arthur Warner, 28, both of Greenwich.

A high sea was running this morning when they put out in their boat at 7 o'clock. After several hours of hunting, they discovered their craft had been carried away. Then an unusually high tide came in and covered the island.

Bernard Juhlin, chauffeur for Frank McGraw, who owns a large estate near the point, saw their plight from shore, and set out in a rowboat for the island a mile away. He took them off about 1 o'clock.

BEATEN TEACHER FOUND IN BASEMENT OF SCHOOL

FON DU LAC, Wis., Nov. 18—(AP)—Beaten about the head and body and in a semi-conscious condition, Miss Clementina Keys, 20 year old school teacher, was found in a basement in her school at Empire, near here today.

When pupils arrived at the school this morning, the building was open but Miss Keys could not be found. Search was instituted and she was found in the basement room.

Miss Keys had received several threatening letters demanding that she resign, friends said. For two years several factions have been quarreling regarding the school.

MANSFIELD WOMAN FINED ON LIQUOR CHARGE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 18.—Mrs. Annie Dwonczyk, wife of Wasyl Dwonczyk of the Mansfield Hollow-North Windham road, was fined a total of $103.60 by Justice of the Peace Byron Houston of the Mansfield town court at a session held today. The woman was arraigned on three counts of violation of the liquor laws, to which she pleaded not guilty. The charges were: Actual sale, manufacturing liquor, and keeping liquor with intent to sell. Justice Houston imposed a fine of $100 on the first count and $20 on each of the remaining two, to which was added the costs of $53.60. Her daughter, Rose, was fined $10 and costs on a charge of resisting an officer during the performance of his duties. The fine was remitted, leaving the costs of $13 to be paid. Mother and daughter were represented by Attorney John H. King, who introduced several witnesses to show that the family was not in the bootlegging business. The Dwonczyks, testified that they had made the nine cases of beer taken by the state police in preparation for a christening. Frank Hall of Mansfield The beer was seized Saturday afternoon, Nov. 9, last, by State Policemen Henry Heinold and Terrell Cousens of the Stafford Springs barracks. Mrs. Dwonczyk was arrested in the absence of her husband, who was at his work at the time.

Witnesses for the defense included Clarence Maine of Windham, who stated that he had loaned the beer bottles and capping machine to the family so that a "batch" of the beverage could be made up for the chrisening. Frank Hall of Mansfield testified that he had never seen any evidence of liquor selling on the premises. In testifying for the state, William and Style Haywood of Windham and Eastford testified that they had purchased beer at the Dwonczyk home at 15 cents per bottle.

WEDDING

Dion—Taylor

Miss Catherine Caldwell Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Taylor of 142 Quercus avenue, and Leo Dion, son of Mr. and Mrs. Appollinaire Dion of 93 North street, were united in marriage at 8 o'clock in St. Mary's church this morning. Rev. H. C. Belec performed the ceremony and officiated at the nuptial mass. The attendants were Mrs. Antonio Duchesneau of Danielson, sister of the bride, as matron of honor and Antonio Duchesneau, also of Danielson, as best man. The bride wore a gown of blue satin crepe trimmed with chiffon velvet and hat to match. Her shower bouquet was of pink roses and sweet peas. Her matron of honor wore dark green satin crepe trimmed with chiffon velvet and hat to match. The reception was held at the home of the bride with guests coming from New York city, Worcester, Mass., Woonsocket, R. I., Holyoke, Mass., and this city, in attendance. Mr. and Mrs. Dion left later on a wedding trip to New York city, the bride wearing a gown of Nile green georgette under a black coat, for going away.

The groom is in the employ of the George Morin service station on lower Main street and is well known as a drummer with the Peerless orchestra. The couple received many valuable and beautiful gifts. The groom gave his best man a set of gold cuff links and the bride presented her matron of honor with a gold pendant.

Frank Allaire, 20, of Bridgeport was arraigned in police court this morning on a charge of evading responsibility in connection with an accident Sunday evening in which Judge James P. Twomey of 295 Jackson street was injured near his home when struck by a car as he was crossing the street. Another charge of driving a Dodge sedan with markers calling for a coupe was also lodged against Allaire. The accused was not put to plea today, the case being continued until Saturday morning owing to the inability of Mr. Twomey to appear in court before that time. Allaire is employed in Jewett City at the present. After striking Mr. Twomey, Allaire brought his car to a stop and went to the man's assistance, but he later drove away. Mr. Twomey is under the care of a physician for a cut on the back of the head, contusion of the forehead and injured right hip.

Robert, 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cushman of West Ashford, is a patient in St. Joseph's hospital, suffering from a wound caused when a .32-calibre rifle bullet penetrated his abdomen and lodged in his back in an accidental shooting near his home Saturday afternoon. The boy, with his 14-year-old brother, Lawrence, and Frank, 9-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Varga, was walking in the woods, the Varga boy carrying the rifle. While the trio were climbing over a fence the trigger of the gun caught on a twig, discharging the weapon. The bullet forced seven punctures in the intestines. At the hospital today it was said that the boy was in no immediate danger.

FUNERAL

Mrs. Mary J. Potter

The services for Mrs. Mary Jane Potter were held at the Avery & VanZandt mortuary parlors, 62 North street, at 2 o'clock this afternoon, Rev. Harold H. Critchlow of the Methodist church officiated. Burial was in the new Willimantic cemetery. The bearers were: Richard Whyte, Pierre Gagnon, Henry Boucher and Arthur Geer.

Minor injuries were sustained by three persons in an accident on Ash street hill Sunday night when a touring car owned by Frank Chicoine of 59 Milk street and operated by Leo Desilet of this city, skidded and turned completely over. Desilet sustained bruises and cuts. Blanche and Edward Frigeault, also of this city, aged 13 and 7 years, respectively, were similarly injured. Desilet said that in pulling his car sharply to the right to avoid a collision with a car ascending up the middle of the road, his machine skidded and he lost control. The other car did not stop. Officer John Killourey made an investigation of the accident.

Tuesday evening will be "surprise" night for members of the Willimantic Rotary club and several guests. The members will assemble under instructions of Attorney Harry S. Gaucher at the Nathan Hale hotel about 6 o'clock for departure to a secret meeting place where specialties in menu, entertainment and atmosphere will be enjoyed. The meeting is in charge of Jerard E. Loiselle, secretary of the club.

In police court this morning, Albert Chartier of Windham road was charged with trapping without permission and setting a steel trap without having his name on it. Deputy Warden George A. Willis of Chaplin made the arrest. The case was nolled upon payment of costs.

Reville Wadsworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Wadsworth of The Ridges, and Florence, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lewis of Perkins' corner, town of Mansfield, were married at the home of the bride's parents Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. Mrs. Florence Jones of Mansfield Center officiated. The bride was given away by her father. Lawrence Wadsworth, brother of the groom, was best man and Miss Ida Lewis, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Attending the reception were guests from this city, Glastonbury, Groton, Mystic, Hartford, East Hartford, Lebanon, Columbia, Mansfield, Coventry, South Willington and Providence, R. I. The groom is a salesman for the Willimantic Screen Co. The bride is a graduate of the Eastern Point school at Groton and the Williams Memorial Institute in New London.

Another continuance of one week has been granted in the Columbia town court in the case of Theodore Sorokolit of Hop River, charged with possessing pelts of fur-bearing animals out of legal hunting season. The actual defendant in the case is the 10-year-old son of Sorokolit, who had skunk and muskrat pelts in his possession during the absence of his father, who was at work in Andover. County Game Warden Edward Wraight of Rockville arrested the father on the ground that he was responsible for the acts of his son.

The annual inspection of St. John's commandery, No. 11, K. T., was conducted at Masonic temple tonight by Right Eminent Sir F. Ward DeKlyn of Danbury, grand inspector for Connecticut of the Knights Templar. The meeting, which opened at 7:30 o'clock with a large attendance, was preceded by a supper served by the members of Radiant chapter, No. 10, O. E. S. Dr. G. Percival Bard of Stafford Springs, eminent commander, presided over the session.

The old city yard buildings on Watson street are being razed to make way for improvements of the vicinity. All city yard business has been removed for some time to land purchased two years ago on West Main street from the Connecticut Co. The Watson street yard has been in use for about 10 years.

George D. Morin of 93 North street and Mrs. Delia Perrault of 28 Adelbert street were married by Rev. H. C. Belec at St. Mary's rectory Saturday evening. They were attended by Mrs. Cecelia Morin Mahoney, daughter of the bridegroom, and Delphis Perrault, son of the bride. Mr. Morin conducts a motor service station on lower Main street.

WESTERLY

CAPT. BREWER, CIVIL WAR BLOCKADE RUNNER, DIES

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 18.—Capt. John Stanton Brewer, 85, a sea captain of Civil war times, who died Sunday at his home in Lower Pawcatuck (Stonington), had been ill but a few days. Captain Brewer was the son of John D. and Rebecca Stanton Brewer and had always been a resident of Stonington. He attended the local schools until he was 16, when he went to sea, continuing on the water until he retired several years ago. During the Civil war he served on the schooner "James," Capt. Isaac P. Gavitt, of Stonington, and engaged in blockade running. He leaves a son, Warren E. Brewer, and a daughter, Mrs. William Seymour, both of Lower Pawcatuck.

Chorus Meeting Tonight

A large number of Pawcatuck and Stonington residents are listed among the sponsors and active members of the Community chorus being organized in Westerly. The chorus will hold its second meeting and rehearsal this (Tuesday) evening in the high school. John Archer, of Providence, will direct and Albert Bailey, of Westerly, will be at the piano.

Miss Lucy Crowley, of North Stonington, and Miss Augusta Stanton, of Westerly, have been named to conduct the annual Christmas seal sales in Pawcatuck and Westerly. The sales will begin Thanksgiving day.

FELT EARTHQUAKE JAR—THOUGHT IT DUE TO TRUCK

The earthquake shocks reported throughout New England were felt slightly in Westerly, although the majority of people who noticed their homes jarring thought it due to heavy trucks passing. Not until inquiry started did any realize the jarring was anything out of the usual. Police Commissioner John Monti last night said he noticed a jarring about 3:45 but gave it no thought. Mr. Monti had just returned from work and was sitting down when his chair swayed a bit and he noticed a slight jar. In the home of Joseph Fiero, dishes on pantry shelves rattled but, again, occupants of the house attributed it to the passing of a heavy truck or a train. One or two Main street business places reported similar disturbances.

The third and fourth degrees will be conferred on a class by Westerly grange at its meeting this (Tuesday) evening. The grange will also conduct its annual Thanksgiving service. A social hour will follow the ritual.

Col. Arthur N. Nash, past grand master of Connecticut Masons, a past grand high priest of the Grand chapter, R. A. M., of Connecticut, and regional director of New England, left Saturday morning for Boston. At Boston Colonel Nash joined a party of delegates making the trip to Chicago, to attend the meetings of the National Masonic Service associations.

Miss Cissy Pickhover, of Pawcatuck, left the first of the week for Augusta, Ga., to enter the employ of a winter resort hotel for the season.

Palmer chapter, No. 28, Royal Arch Masons, of Pawcatuck, Ernest F. Stenhouse, high priest, held a convocation Monday evening. Degree work was exemplified by the chapter officers upon a class.

COLCHESTER

YANTIC MAN IN PARTY HOME FROM TRIP TO HAVANA

I. Cohen, Irving Strick and Samuel Berman of Colchester and Nelson Polski of Yantic returned Sunday from a two weeks motor trip to Havana. The trip was made in Mr. Cohen's new car, 2,500 miles being covered by auto, the journey from Key West to Havana being by steamship. They went through New York city, Philadelphia, Washington, Baltimore and Raleigh, to Savannah, Georgia, where they visited relatives of Mr. Cohen. From there the party continued to St. Augustine, Florida, where an over-night visit was made with a former Colchester resident and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Israel Feiden. They then motored on to Miami Beach for a day's stay, thence to Key West, where they boarded the boat for Havana. Five days were spent in sight-seeing tours of Havana, during which they visited the new capitol building, the mammoth headquarters building of the exclusive Spanish club "Centro Astriano" the many beautiful tropical gardens and city parks and the ancient and interesting Morro castle.

On the return trip a visit was made to the Indian reservation in Florida and bathing was enjoyed at Miami Beach after which the party continued northward, stopping at Athens, Georgia for a brief visit with Mr. Cohen's sister and family. They motored on homeward through the cotton fields and rosin forests in South Carolina, then on to Winston-Salem, N. C., where a short stop was made. Continuing to Virginia they viewed the great natural bridge and the endless caverns. They were particularly interested in seeing the fine farming land in Virginia. The final lap of the homeward journey from Winchester, Va. through West Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania, New Jersey to New York city was made in one day.

Mrs. Mary Irwin

Mrs. Mary Irwin, 85, at one time a well known and esteemed resident of Colchester, died at the home of her son Thomas Irwin in Providence early Sunday morning after a short illness. She was born in Ireland, the daughter of Patrick and Joanna Fleming but had spent the greater part of her life in Colchester, having left here about 30 years ago.

She is survived by four sons, Thomas of Providence and Attorneys James, Daniel and Charles Irwin of Boston, several grandchildren and by two sisters, Mrs. Nelli Fleming and Mrs. Sarah Clifford, of Colchester.

John H. Conrad, Elias Fedus, Stanley Welch and John Polakevich were coon hunting on the outskirts of the village Saturday evening with Mr. Conrad's valuable 'coon hound. They returned with a nine pound 'coon. The hunting party expect to enjoy a 'coon supper at the Conrad home this (Tuesday) evening.

Joseph Weinstein called on Hartford friends Monday.

Tax Collector Harold Clark sent this through the mail Saturday for the $2.00 personal tax due and payable Nov. 15.

NEW LONDON CLUB COMES FOR DINNER AND DANCE

Members of the New London Thrift club enjoyed a dinner party and dance at Jaffee's Broadway hotel on North Main street, Sunday afternoon and evening. At 1 o'clock a full course dinner was served in the new winter dining hall. The menu included fruit cocktail, roast chicken with mashed potato, tongue entrees smothered with mushroom sauce, chicken soup with noodles, Russian pastry and fruit dessert. The table was effectively decorated with ferns and flowers. Following the dinner the guests retired to the reception room where card games, vocal and instrumental music, recitations and humorous stories were enjoyed. Later in the evening, light refreshments were served after which there was dancing and a social hour. Among those in attendance were Mr. and Mrs. Shapiro, Mr. and Mrs. Federmann, Mr. and Mrs. Elinsky, Mr. and Mrs. Swakal, Mr. and Mrs. Smithline, Mr. and Mrs. Friedland, Mr. and Mrs. Wool and Mr. and Mrs. Belekrad, all of New London.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Freedman have returned to New York after a two weeks' visit with Mrs. Freedman's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Jaffee. During their visit here, Mr. and Mrs. Freedman with Mr and Mrs. Jaffee and daughters, Misses Silvia and Minnie enjoyed a 200-mile motor trip the past week, to visit relatives in North Attlebero, Mass.

Expected Hartford Speaker

The Colchester Zionist organization and the local Hadassah chapter held a joint meeting Sunday evening at the synagogue on Lebanon avenue. Sixty members were in attendance. Harry Levine presided at the Zionist meeting and Mrs. Abraham Jaffee presided and addressed the Hadassah meeting. Due to the rainy weather the speaker of the evening, Mrs. Abraham Goldstein of Hartford was unable to be present. Mr. Goldstein took an active part in the Jewish defense against the Arabians in the recent Palestine disorders. He has promised to address a meeting of the local Zionist organization at the synagogue Sunday, December 1.

Home From Western Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Bunyan have returned from a 2,500 mile motor trip to Madison, Wisconsin, where a visit was made with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Leon H. Bunyan. Stops were made en route for several days' visit with their daughter Miss Margaret F. Bunyan in Evanston, Ill., and with Mr. Bunyan's brothers in Yellow Springs, Ohio, and Richmond, Indiana.

R. R. Carrier entertained relatives from Oakville Sunday.

We often wonder why the man who is always boasting of the splendid positions offered him continues to hold down a small job.

SHE THOUGHT:
"This theatre is warm—but that doesn't excuse 'B. O.'"
Yet, to be polite,
SHE SAID:
"I have a headache. Do you mind if we leave now?"

A white lie! It opened his eyes

... now he's free of "B. O."

GOING—in the middle of the picture! And she had been so eager to see it.

Her friend was perplexed. Rosalie's excuse didn't ring true. She was in high spirits when they came in. Had he offended her? How?

For days the matter troubled him. Then a chance word, overheard in a crowd, revealed the truth. "B.O."—Body Odor! Today Rosalie is delighted to go out with him. He knows the easy way to keep safe from "B. O." now.

The weather is cooler, yes! But clothing is warmer; rooms are apt to be stuffy, overheated. Now, more than ever—beware of "B. O."

Don't be fooled. We become insensitive to ever-present odors. But pores give off as much as a quart of odor-causing waste every 24 hours. On cool days, there's less visible moisture—but more invisible solid waste—the offensive, odorous part of perspiration.

Why not be safe? When you bathe, just use Lifebuoy. You'll find a real thrill in its refreshing antiseptic lather. Pores are purified so deeply, "B. O." has no chance.

Try Lifebuoy for clearer skin, too. Enjoy its health-guarding benefits. You'll love its pleasant, extra-clean scent that tells you Lifebuoy purifies—yet quickly vanishes as you rinse. Adopt Lifebuoy today.

Frightened by a Stubborn Spreading Rash

Los Angeles, Cal.—"My husband had a rash on his body and after using the usual remedies all but one of the spots healed, but that one was very stubborn. We used every kind of a salve we ever heard of, even prescribed treatments, but still the spot spread. I heard of Resinol, and in desperation started to use the soap and ointment faithfully as directed. After using one-quarter of a small jar the spot was completely healed." (Signed)—Mrs. C. E. Cramer.

The quickness with which Resinol acts in most cases of skin disorder, amazes many people. Itching is usually stopped at once. To adopt Resinol Soap for every day toilet use is to keep the skin clear and soft. At all druggists.

DANIELSON

MANY IN ATTENDANCE AT BERNIER-BELANGER WEDDING

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 18—This morning at 7:30 at St. James' church Miss Jeanette Belanger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Belanger of Tiffany street, became the bride of Peter Bernier, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Bernier of Reynolds street.

There were numbers of relatives and friends of the bridal couple in attendance at the service. Rev. J. A. Demers, M. S., performed the marriage ceremony and was celebrant of the nuptial mass. The wedding music was played by Mrs. Joseph Gareau, the church organist.

The bride was charming in a gown of navy blue transparent velvet with hat to match. She was attended by Miss Andania Bernier, sister of the groom, the bridesmaid wearing brown transparent velvet with hat to match. Both bride and bridesmaid carried bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums. Van Bernier, brother of the groom, was best man.

After the wedding service there was a reception at the home of the bride's parents. During the day Mr. and Mrs. Bernier left on their wedding trip, traveling by motor car, and planning to visit at various places in southern New England. The bride received many beautiful gifts.

Theodore White, 19, was before Judge W. Fenner Woodward in the town court this morning to answer to a charge of trapping without a permit. He was fined one dollar and actual costs. White was picked up Saturday on property recently purchased by the state near South Killingly. At the time he had a muskrat in his possession, but was unable to produce for County Game Warden Thomas Daniels of Plainfield the necessary written permit to set traps on the property. White said today that he did not know such a permit was necessary on state-owned land.

Check-up of trappers and their activities in this territory this fall is going to be more extensive and careful than ever before, it is stated. Mr. Daniels had several men out inspecting for traps today. One point that the state is insisting upon is that written permission must be obtained by trappers from owners of the land on which they wish to set traps, and this written permission must be carried by the trapper.

It is already apparent that this requirement is irking trappers, who contend, for one thing, that a trapper, though he has a written permission, cannot always be sure that he is on the land of the man who issued him the permission. However, the risk of getting over onto land not covered by a particular permit is one of the risks the trappers will have to take.

Conviction of trapping without a permit from the land owner carries in addition to the court penalty loss of the convicted one's trapping license.

In view of the fact that a comparatively small number of the bags distributed as a feature of obtaining Thanksgiving offerings for the Day Kimball hospital in the Danielson territory have been returned filled further opportunity to assist in this giving is being offered this week. Mrs. Richard D. Banigan of the committee of the Killingly Woman's club that distributed the 100 bags hereabouts said this morning that additional bags that may be filled may be left at Gallup Bros. and Lindner throughout the present week.

Up to early this afternoon Mrs. Marjorie J. Waller had received $1973 from the Red Cross roll call conducted during the past week by workers of Danielson chapter. Included in this amount was $100 from Joseph Powdrell of Powdrell and Alexander, $25 of this contribution being for one sustaining membership and the remainder to be forwarded to the national headquarters of the Red Cross at Washington, D. C. While reports on last week's efforts in the local chapter territory were incomplete today, no return having been received from the Brooklyn area, from a part of the Attawaugan district nor from the Main street plant of Powdrell and Alexander, the forecast is that the final total will be between $1150 and $1200. Last year the roll call brought in $1260.35.

OBITUARY

Mrs. John Levell

A death last night at the home north of Attawaugan near the Killingly-Putnam line was that of Mrs. Celia Morton Levell, wife of John Levell. She was 38 years of age. Mrs. Levell was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Shepard and was a native of Easton, Pa. In addition to her husband, she leaves a son, Harold W., two daughters, Laura J. and Shirley Frances, her mother, resident in Pomfret, and a sister, Mrs. Thomas McDermott of Putnam, formerly of Danielson. Mrs. Levell had been in failing health for some some time.

State officers of the Danielson barracks were seeking today to establish the identity of a hit and run driver that ran down Anthony Babiarz, a man about 40 years of age and resident in Plainfield, on the state highway and South Plainfield near St. John's cemetery just before 9 o'clock last night. It has been established that Babiarz boarded a bus at Brown avenue in Jewett City last evening en route to Plainfield and that he left the vehicle at South Plainfield. The first known of the accident was when the occupants of three cars came along and discovered Babiarz lying in the road. The accident was investigated by State Officer Theodore Strand. The injured man has a ruptured bladder, cuts on the back of the head and cuts and bruises on the body. Indications are that while he was struck by an automobile he was not run over.

One of the few otters likely to be taken in this territory this season has been shot at Old Killingly pond by Mason Babbitt, resident in that section. Mr. Babbitt was out duck hunting around the pond when he noticed an animal lying on a rock at the water's edge. Just about that time the otter slid off into the water, to poke his head above the surface a little later giving the hunter a successful shot at him. Included in the fur yield in this territory to date are several mink pelts. The mink are found in various parts of the town of Killingly as well as in other nearby towns.

You can whip our cream but you can't beat our milk. Pasteurized. Henry A. Myers. Tel. 397.—Adv.

December 8 has been set as the date for the Every Member canvass of the Westfield Congregational church. On the morning of that day the address at the morning service will be by Rev. Ansel E. Johnson.

On Wednesday evening of this week the recently eleced officers of Leo J. L'Homme post, American Legion, will be installed and some new members received into the post.

A truck and various pleasure cars will be used next Saturday to convey the approximately 100 Danielson boys who are to be guests at the Brown-New Hampshire game in Providence, the use of these motor vehicles being donated.

Flowers at the Westfield Congregational church yesterday were in memory of Mr. and Mrs. Simeon Danielson.

Several people from this section already have made the journey to Malden to visit the grave of Rev. Patrick J. Power, where several hundred thousand people have made visitations within the past three weeks.

Mrs. E. H. Keach of Broad street will have the members of the Fortnightly club at her home for a meeting Tuesday afternoon.

More than an inch of rain was added during last night and today in the precipitation for November in this territory.

CENTRAL VILLAGE

Miss Muriel Holdridge, of Norwich, was a week-end visitor with Mrs. Edith Hatfield.

Mrs. Elizabeth Mathewson has returned from Franklin, Mass., where she has been visiting relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Dona Despatie and Miss Bella Plouff were Norwich visitors Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Beaudry, of Marlboro, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon Chauvin, Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Chauvin, Brighton, R. I.; Mr. and Mrs. Delphis Chauvin, Mr. and Mrs. Delphis Chauvin, Jr., and son, Leo Chauvin, Pascoag, R. I., have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Peter Plouff.

On account of the storm, the no-school signal was given at 8 o'clock Monday morning. It has been such a long time since people had heard the signal on account of rain that telephones were used freely to learn the location of the fire.

Mrs. Fannie Stanton, of Summit, R. I., visited local relatives Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dean were in Canterbury Sunday.

Miss Fannie Brown has been entertaining Miss Lulu Bennett, of New Bedford.

Friends learn that Miss Germaine Salvas, of Harrisville, was the winner in the beauty contest in Putnam Friday evening at Odd Fellows hall. Miss Salvas was a former resident here and moved from here to Harrisville.

Several local people attended supper at the United Protestant church in Sterling Friday.

Mrs. Albertus Briggs, of Moosup, has been assisting at the office of the Central Worsted Co.

Miss Bella Plouff was a guest, Friday evening, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Parkinson in Moosup. Returning home, she found a party of friends and relatives, who had called to give her a miscellaneous shower in honor of her coming marriage. The guests were Mrs. Parkinson, Mrs. Alinda Larose, Miss Alinda Larose, Miss Evelyn Harrell, of Moosup; Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Beaudry, of Marlboro, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon Chauvin and Miss Alphonsine Chauvin, of Brighton, R. I.; Mr. and Mrs. Delphis Chauvin, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Delphis Chauvin, Jr., and son, Leo Chauvin, of Pascoag, R. I.; Mrs. Dona Despatie, of this village. The dining room decorations were green and white. A lunch was served. A guest cake was cut and Miss Larose got the ring, Mr. Chauvin the thimble and Mrs. Josephine Chauvin the coin.

DAYVILLE

Gertrude Elizabeth, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Morrison, received the rite of baptism at the Congregational church Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Greig and Percy Greig motored to Hartford Sunday afternoon to attend the concert featuring Roland Hayes. On the return trip they were accompanied by Mrs. William Swainson and son, Greig, who were leaving Hartford hospital.

Rev. William Swainson and daughter, Myfanwy, were dinner guests at Dayville Inn Sunday.

The Men's club of the Congregational church spent a pleasant evening Monday, when several members contributed to the enjoyment by an impromptu program. A feature of added interest was the appearance of Marjorie Thornley and Ruth Weeks in a song and dance.

Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Greig were guests at a birthday party in East Lyme, Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Nicholson, of East Glastonbury, were week-end visitors with Alexander Nicholson.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Brearley, Jeanette Nicholson and Nora Creighton motored to Providence Saturday

Mervin Chase, of Brown university, was at home over the week end.

PUTNAM

PUTNAM PEOPLE FEEL EARTHQUAKE SHOCK

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Nov. 18—The tremors of an earthquake, late this afternoon, were felt in this city, according to reports received tonight from Putnam people. Mrs. Alice C. Flagg, of 31 Center streets, said she was disturbed this afternoon by the shaking of walls and the clattering of a timepiece, hanging on the wall of her home. The shock, she said, lasted about six or eight seconds and occurred shortly after 3:30 p. m.

Miss Gertrude Perry, daughter of City Engineer George W. Perry, of Providence street, reported that she was alarmed at the same hour by the rattling of dishes in a china closet in her home. Walls of the house moved slightly over a period of six to ten seconds. The general disturbance was slight and caused no damage whatever at the Flagg or the Perry home. Miss Perry stated that she was uncertain as to what had caused the shock until late in the afternoon when a radio report informed of intense quakes in Boston, Springfield and Providence.

It is quite probable that earth disturbances were felt in other parts of the city since all three of the cities mentioned above are only short distances from Putnam.

A week has passed and yet no definite clues have been obtained by police investigators attempting to solve the mystery of the burglary at St. Mary's rectory on Providence street, which occurred last Monday morning. Police Captain William J. Jarvis, together with state and county officers, will go to Woonsocket, R. I., this week to examine criminal statistics on file at the police department there. Finger prints, according to police, have been secured at the rectory and they will be compared at the Woonsocket police headquarters with those of suspected criminals. Captain Jarvis was at work on the case today and late this afternoon said he had not uncovered any new clues.

The 1929 city political campaign is now a matter of history. The ballots which will be used on Monday, December 2 are being prepared by the state department. Candidates whose names will appear in the party columns, with the exception of two, are certain to be elected. Only one contest will take place, that of tax collector. Harvey J. Grinsell of Providence street, republican is opposing James J. Charron of Church street, democrat, for the office. Little, if any, interest is being manifest in this impending contest. The candidates are not conducting an open campaign and in view of this no large turnout of voters on election day is expected. In the city election of two years ago, Mayor Charles Richard and the present slate of city officials were elected by the expressions of less than a hundred voters.

Romeo Gomond, 13, of North Gros-venordale, died Saturday at his home there following a short illness. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elzear Gomond of North Grosvenordale. The youth was born in the textile village and lived his short life there. He attended St. Joseph's parochial school.

Mrs. Hulda (Wirz) Illi, for many years a resident of this city died Sunday at her home on Mechanics street following a short illness. Mrs. Illi was the wife of Rudolph Illi, former official of the Waterman Worsted company, who retired a few months ago. Mrs. Illi had not been in perfect health for some months, but her sudden death came as a shock to relatives and friends. Mrs. Illi was 69 years of age. She is a native of Switzerland, having been born there July 2, 1860. Before coming to Putnam Mr. and Mrs. Illi made their home in Rockville.

The following standing committees have been appointed by Commander Arthur C. Keith of the Anslem Maycotte post, American Legion to serve during the year: Executive committee, Charles A. Ryan, Henry Campbell, Raymond Medbury, Leon N. Farrin, Major A. D. McIntyre; James F. English, chairman of the state fund committee; J. Dyer Potter, newsofficer; William Rafferty, athletic officer. The committee appointments were made at the annual meeting and installation of officers held Friday evening at the Putnam Inn.

A large congregation attended the weekly Friendly Evening service held Sunday evening at the Congregational church, despite the inclement weather. Following the service, the parishioners were entertained with the screening of the motion picture hit, "Marianne."

Franklin Perry and Attorney Ernest C. Morse of this city were in Williamstown, Mass., Saturday where they witnessed the Williamstown-Amherst football game.

The matter of decorating the business section of the city with colored lights during the Christmas season is now being given consideration by the chamber of commerce. The merchants by cooperating with the chamber carried out the color scheme last year and in all probability the plan will be followed this season.

Madeline Bernier, less than a year old, a patient at the Day Kimball hospital was reported today as somewhat improved. The infant was made a victim of a child's careless use of matches. Her parents reside in Danielson.

There was no session of police court this morning, an incident which is considered highly unusual by the police and court officials. Judge M. H. Geissler is of the opinion that history is made when a prisoner is not on the docket.

Funeral services were held this afternoon at 2:30 p. m., from the home of Earl U. Austin on Woodstock avenue, for his mother, Mrs. Gertrude (Upham) Austin of Georgiaville, who died at her residence in that town Friday.

Walter A. Wheaton, Jr., and George Webster of this city escaped serious injury Saturday when a car in which they were riding capsized on North Main street in Danielson.

Whether or not a weekly indoor sports tournament will be held this year between the members of the Putnam lodge of Elks and the Masonic club rests with the Masons, according to a statement made today by Lionel H. Charron, exalted ruler of the Elks. Mr Charron said that a favorable vote had been passed at a recent meeting of the Elks lodge to play the weekly series and a committee will be appointed to confer with the officials of the Masons, who have taken no action as yet. The tournament between the two fraternal associations has been extremely popular in past years and much interest in the games has been manifest by members of both societies although the Masons have never made a seasonal triumph.

Dr. Minor C. Baldwin, a concert organist of international fame will render a musicale at the Congregational church this (Tuesday) evening. The appearance of Dr. Baldwin is expected to draw a capacity crowd to the edifice. Rev. James F. English, pastor of the church said today that no admission fee will be made.

Members of the office force at the local post office are now preparing for the advance rush of the Christmas holiday business, which always taxes the office to its capacity. A mail early slogan has been adopted by the clerks, who ardently hope, it will be followed by the public.

THOMPSON

Over fifty enjoyed the gentlemen's night of the Thimble club, at the Vernon Stiles inn, Thursday evening. Following a four course chicken dinner the entertainment was provided by William Dick, of Webster, in Scatch songs and dialect; Miss Jeannette Kelly, reader, and Mr. Foskett, of Dudley, in the Irish jubilee. The next regular meeting of the club is to be with Mrs. Oscar Munyan Wednesday next.

The W. C. T. U. holds its Thanksgiving meeting with Mrs. Harriet Sherman Thursday, Nov. 21st.

Mountain Laurel Girl Scouts have begun the Red Cross course in nursing with Miss Esther Welles, of Putnam.

Mrs. Hannah Bates, who has been caring for Mrs. Bixby, has returned home.

Grange meeting this (Tuesday) evening, Nov. 24th is the grange go-to-church Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Reynolds are spending the winter with Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Reynolds.

Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Elliott have gone to their son's home in New Jersey for the winter.

G. A. ROSS AND PARTY MOTORING THROUGH SOUTH

G. A. Ross and his party are at Durham, N. C., whence friends here have received handsome souvenir cards. Mr. and Mrs. Ross and daughter, Kate, are en route to California, motoring over the southern route. Mr. Ross writes of roses in bloom and cotton picking, Negro cabins, some built of logs, with chimneys outside. He was much impressed with a visit to the medical school at Duke university.

Seven Fox Sparrows Seen

The fox sparrow, another late autumn visitor, is here for a few days on his way to Florida, after having mated and spent the summer in northern Canada. He is cinnamon brown with a spotted breast, not easily mistaken, as one comes upon him in the shrubbery along some country road. Nobody in this latitude ever gets a glimpse of Mr. and Mrs. Fox Sparrow in their housekeeping or sees the beautiful eggs of pale blue spotted with brown. Next spring he will stop a few days as he hastens north in late migration. Seven were reported on the Pond road, near Frank Geer's, Saturday.

THOMAS G. CASHMAN DIES AT DORCHESTER

E. H. Hiscox received notification Monday of the death of Thomas G. Cashman, of Dorchester Center, Mass. These two men ran together, in the Boston and New York railway post-office, for 20 years and at the time of Mr. Hiscox's retirement were both assigned to the city delivery of Brooklyn, N. Y., which is done by clerks on the night mail train. On train 31, the Night Postal express, there are a dozen men assigned to work, for city delivery, the mail for New York, Philadelphia and Brooklyn. Men learn to be proficient in handling the mail for Philadelphia, for example, and become experts in its intricate distribution. They know more about the Quaker City than a man who has lived there a long lifetime, and yet, many of these lightning railway city clerks never stepped a foot into the state of Pennsylvania—all accomplished by continuous study of the government post-office scheme for city delivery, which they must keep correct by means of weekly changes issued by the department.

The Red Cross Roll Call opened Monday evening, the canvassers being served a supper in the Baptist vestry. The room was attractively decorated with Roll Call posters, American flags were used as table decorations, and at each place were tiny flag red crosses in marshmallow holders, and patriotic napkin designs. A large Red Cross flag draped a curtain background at the front of the room. The appetizing menu was roast fresh ham, escalloped potato, apple sauce, pickles, rolls, cake and coffee. The districts were assigned the young women, who will visit each home, working in couples. The Red Cross room will be open each evening from 7:30 to 9:30 to receive any memberships and reports. Mrs. G. H. Prior was in charge of the vestry arrangements and the supper was served by the Roll Call committee.

This (Tuesday) evening, Mt. Vernon lodge, No. 75, F. and A. M., C. E. Whitaker, master, is to receive an official visitation from its district deputy, Morris Payne, of New London. The Entered Apprentice degree is to be exemplified.

Faith chapter, No. 82, O. E. S., has accepted an invitation to be guests of Rebecca chapter in Moosup Thursday evening.

The Ladies' society of the Congregational church is to meet at Mrs. W. A. Broadfoot's home, Thursday afternoon at 2:30.

The hundreds of boroughites who must go across the main state highway here every day are realizing that the automobile traffic has divided the cross-over artists into two great classes, the "quick" and the "dead."

SOUTH WOODSTOCK

The officers elected by Senexet grange, for the ensuing year are:

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Swan of Providence, were visiting the latter's brother last week.

Miss Gladys Young, of Willimantic, was at home over Sunday and Monday.

The Ladies' Aid society held a very pleasant meeting last week Thursday at the home of Mrs. H. L. Sanger, seventeen being present. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess. Plans were discussed for a chicken pie supper to be given in the vestry.

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

AUTO JUNK YARDS

Connecticut isn't the only state which has grown sick and tired of seeing the automobile graveyards along its much-traveled highways. The problem of disposing of the useless machines is a general one and as yet there is no one who has worked out a method of disposing of them at a profit by making use of the material which now rusts away. The suggestion has been advanced that useless cars be taken to points where they could be demolished by prison labor and the broken up parts be disposed of as junk. If this has been undertaken on any extensive scale little has been heard of it.

The common practice seems to be to sell them to a wrecking company which removes such parts as are good for anything and then leaves the hulks to the action of the weather as a means of elimination. This is a slow and unsightly method and it grows worse as the number of such machines increases.

In some cities it has come to be the plan of some owners of broken down machines to drive them onto a little-used street, strip them of all that is worth anything and simply abandon them.

It would seem that the Connecticut legislation has made a good impression in Massachusetts from the proposal that has been made by one member of that legislature in supporting a bill calling for a penalty of $50 for anyone who abandons an old auto on the property of another without permission, and a penalty of $100 or a sentence of 90 days for maintaining an automobile junk yard for which no license has been obtained.

Getting rid of such disgraceful looking junk yards should be accomplished through such a method if the matter is given careful attention. It doesn't provide any different method of getting rid of the old cars, but it does mean such a control of the situation that they must be located at points where they will not be objectionable. The objection does not arise from the fact that automobiles are being wrecked and broken up at certain points, but from the fact that after the job has been partly done the skeleton remains indefinitely, growing worse in appearance, and the number being steadily increased until in some instances they occupy acres. It means a disfigurement that is offensive.

STICKING TO ITS WORK

Whether the determination to stick it out and endeavor to act on the tariff bill accomplishes all that is expected in the senate, the decision to continue at work removes any chance for the coalition to claim that that group was ready and willing to go ahead but the others were dead set against tariff revision.

As matters stand at the present, enough time has been utilized to accomplish the work twice over. This delay can to a great extent be attributed to the coalitionists. They have made it apparent that they disliked the bill presented by the senate finance committee and were determined to enact their own bill if any revision was accomplished. They were committed to only such legislation as concerned their sections, regardless of the merit of that which involved other sections. They even burdened the bill with provisions which it was known were displeasing to the president and could not get his approval. They demonstrated that they had the strength to accomplish anything they wanted and it would have been a big talking point from their position if there had been an adjournment without the sanction of that group of insurgents.

There were democrats who pulled away from the coalition on the matter of adjournment. That served their purpose in obstructing tariff legislation quite as well as anything else, but there was a group of republicans who gave due weight to the desire of the administration for tariff legislation at the special session and it is through their stand that the effort is being continued.

Thus it appears that there is one combination in the senate working against another. Whether the new combination will be able to upset the coalition of democrats and insurgents will be thoroughly tested in these two weeks. Possibly there will be a change of heart before the month is ended or before a tariff bill is completed, but just at present it is evident that the east is not giving the west a chance to claim that it ran away from its promise and duty to provide tariff legislation. The senate has been playing horse with the tariff too long already.

GATHERING THE EVIDENCE

Every time the question has been raised by the state of New Jersey that its shores were being polluted by garbage and rubbish that is dumped at sea from New York city, it has invariably brought the retort that there was no proof that it was coming from the big city. It was thus a case where New Jersey was confronted with the responsibility of building up irrefutable proof, and that is apparently what it has been doing over a period of many months.

New York collects its refuse, places it aboard scows and has them towed a certain number of miles to sea and dumped. There is a sufficient depth at that point so that there is no danger of creating an island there, but it is no secret that all such material does not sink. There is a certain amount of it that floats and, driven by the winds and tides, it is claimed that it is swept up onto the Jersey coast.

Naturally there is resentment over the fact that it ultimately becomes the dumping ground for New York city. If it were to be placed at certain points where waste land might be filled in there would probably be less and perhaps no objection, but to have it thrown upon its beaches is too much, and New Jersey doesn't propose to be deterred in its purpose to stop it by having New York try to place the blame upon someone else.

New Jersey authorities have had sealed bottles placed in the ocean at points where New York dumps its refuse and then picked them up on its shores. It has been able to get much of the refuse and this has been photographed to show the manner in which the nuisance exists. It insists that it has a grievance and it has been having a meeting for the purpose of getting its evidence together and considering the preliminary steps toward a legal contest over the matter. Inasmuch as there have been times when New York's own beaches have suffered from the same deposits as the Jersey coasts it would appear that Jerseyites are not the only ones opposed to the practice. Jersey is apparently convinced, however, that it is useless to start a fight until it can make a successful one and in the meantime it continues to pile up the evidence.

PLACING POSTERS

In connection with the fight that has been so long and consistently made against the billboard, it has also been recognized that there is ground for similar objection to the practice which has grown of placing posters at every conceivable place, including the poles and trees along the roadside. When resorted to to any extent it results in that same disfigurement which exists where the billboard is involved.

The natural reaction to such a practice is to secure legislation preventing it. In the city of Indianapolis this practice of attaching advertisements to poles has grown to such an extent that the association of merchants has taken it up, only to be told that there is in existence at the present time an ordinance against it. Under it a person convicted may be fined up to $100 for "painting, printing, posting, stenciling, marking or otherwise placing upon or attaching to or suspending from any fence, bridge, building or telegraph, telephone or gaslight pole or post, any word, letter, character, figure, sign, sentence, or device, or any handbill, poster, notice or advertisement of any character without first obtaining the consent of the parties owning or controlling the same."

The situation there appears to be that if anyone is able to obtain the consent of the pole owners they cover the poles with anything they desire in the way of placards and notices and that the public has nothing to say about it, even though it is looked upon as spoiling the appearance of an otherwise well-kept street or streets.

It is probable that the owners of poles would not consent to any such use should permission be asked. Likewise it is probable that such use is made without first getting the right, but it would also appear that with the practice going on there has probably been little effort made to check up on those responsible and bring influence to bear against it. Indianapolis is not the only city where such a practice is frowned upon or where legal restrictions exist against the idea of sticking up posters wherever they would be the most conspicuous.

SECRETARY GOOD

In the death of Secretary James W. Good of the war department the administration has lost a most valuable adviser and one upon whom much dependence was placed. There has also been removed a national figure who came into prominence because of his work in congress and later because of the service rendered in directing the last republican campaign in the west.

It was inevitable that a man who had given a dozen of the best years of his life in legislative service at Washington, should acquire a knowledge of many government activities that would make him invaluable as a counselor, or fit him for successfully administering the duties as the civilian head of the war department. It was a conspicuous service that Secretary Good rendered in the house of representatives as chairman of the appropriations committee, a post of great responsibility and one which he filled to the credit of his country, his state and himself, and that work was during a most unusual period of the country. He was brought into close touch with the army and the war department so that even though his cabinet place may have followed his successful work as a campaign manager he was especially fitted for it.

This marks the first break in the Hoover cabinet and one that up to a week ago had in no way been anticipated. From the time of his operation, because of the serious condition disclosed, there was little encouragement for his recovery, although a strong vitality spread the uncertainty over several days, only to end in the removal of a most valuable member of the cabinet.

The man on the corner says: We have not heard much this fall about the number of barrels the boys have ready for the Thanksgiving burning.

With Christmas less than six weeks away thoughts about shopping, and doing it early, ought to be crowding to the front.

Just because one young woman has selected a flying machine from which to commit suicide are we to expect a long list of such performances?

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18—Floor Leader Tilson came on to arrange about the pending recess so now it assured the tariff bill will be carried over to the regular session. Tilson believed the measure should have done through before September 1st, and so the members of the house be free instead of holding to the three-day recesses which have been the order of the day since early September. With no committees organized, there has been absolutely nothing for the house to do, but the members have not been free to be away except enough agreed to be present to open and prefunctorily adjourn twice each week.

When Col. Tilson came back this time, however, the appropriation committee was organized in order that there might be work provided for the beginning of the session December 1st, and also that general appropriations might be considered. Only holdover members of the committee were named, all vacancies to be filled in the winter session. For the first time Will R. Wood of Indiana is serving as chairman in his own right. He is also chairman of the house campaign committee. He has long been acting chairman of appropriations owing to the illness of Chairman Anthony, who has now retired from congress. There will be four democratic and one republican vacancy to fill. Col Tilson was a white house guest during the past week, having long conferences with President Hoover, as Tilson is one of the republican leaders in whom the president has the utmost confidence. Mrs. Walcott was also a white house dinner guest during the temporary absence of the senator.

Senator Cuttings of New Mexico is a decided contrast to the late Senator Jones, whom he succeeds in office. Jones was large of stature and soft voiced. He was conservative in many ways. I recall Jones telling me at the height of the suffrage fight in the senate, that he never ventured to cross the park alone, well knowing he would be accosted by militant ladies pressing their "cause." Jones was for suffrage but not for militancy. But he was polite and did not wish to offend the ladies, so he, as he laughingly told me, always asked two senators to make the crossing with him. Jones walked between them and so was able to avoid anything beyond a polite recognition of the ladies waiting to waylay him. Jones was chairman of the suffrage committee, as I recall it, in full sympathy with the move but not with the methods.

Senator Cuttings is of a more aggressive type. Much younger than Jones, Cuttings has the reputation of being a trail blazer. He is said to be an ardent advocate of freedom of speech and vehement in arguing for that privilege. He is a Harvard graduate, served in the World war and is one of the youngest men in the senate. He is reputed wealthy, is a bachelor and was at one time assistant military attachee of the American ambassador at London.

Cutting has just got a statement out of former Senator Hitchcock setting at rest the yarn long circulated to the effect that Secretary Fall, when senator, rudely pulled off the clothes from the bed on which President Wilson was helpless and ill, to see whether or not he was paralyzed.

The story was brought to the front during the recent trial of Fall. Mr. Hitchcock's reply was by telegraph. He said in part: "I am glad of the opportunity to deny" that Fall pulled down the bed clothes and added details that gave Fall a clean bill regarding the incident. He said Mr. Fall's conduct was in no way offensive. Without defending Mr. Fall as secretary in the Harding cabinet, one can't help wondering why Mr. Hitchcock waited ten years before seizing an opportunity to deny the charge against Fall, which the Nebraska senator says he is "glad to do."

And recalling the Wilson administration, brings to mind "Joe" Tumulty, as he is best known, secretary to the president during Wilson's two terms.

Tumulty hasn't lost any of his pep or cleverness, as was shown very recently when he made the principal address at a banquet of business men, in convention here from all parts of the country. He has the same keen sense of making the most of opportunity. It was an instance that reminded old timers in the press gallery of the famous "Wilson-Tumulty methods" of getting things across.

There were 300 guests, it was a non-partisan affair, but Tumulty's ears have never been attuned to that phrase. Tumulty was expected to give a talk where folks could laugh and applaud. But there were no amusing stories, for Tumulty launched out into a political speech, wherein he fired hot shot at what he termed "senate obstructionists" hampering things that might tend to bring the United States into the league of nations and the world court. In fact Tumulty fired plenty of Wilson ammunition taken out of storage for the occasion.

And the cream of the story is that although the guests had expected Tumulty to give a "funny" talk, for they were all in a merry mood, he kept his audience all keyed up and regardless of politics and varying views on the court and the league, they gave Tumulty a big hand at its close. All of which goes he still knows how to make the most of opportunity.

Some of us wonder if Senator Shall, the blind senator from Minnesota, experiences the same sensation when flying as to people who can peer down from dizzy heights. Shall recently flew from Michigan to Washington. He is led to and from the senate by a page especially assigned him. Outside the capitol he is always accompanied by Mrs. Shall, or his trained dog, which is an excellent guide.

Senator Oddie is one of the most interesting types of senator. Tall, well formed and ruddy in color, he is quiet and unassuming in manner. Seeing Oddie sitting quietly at his desk, always clothed in a way that pleases both his tailor and his friends, you would never suspect he began his business career as a cowboy, and that the great fortune he is said to possess was built on a somewhat hazardous $25 investment out in the gold fields of Nevada. Oddie is a republican and votes with his party. He was born in New York but has spent most of his life out in the Nevada hills.

It is nip and tuck between the women's divisions of the national republican and the national democratic parties, both having headquarters in Washington. The democratic women have reason to crow over their political adversaries as regards beauty and size of the headquarters, for they have a wonderful club house of their own. But the republican women won't yield a jot on results of the work done by the women, even if their headquarters are less pretentious. Each give weekly receptions and "talks," each have luncheons and lectures and meetings, but the palm for publicity must be accorded the democratic women, and they surely do secure "big guns" of their party for speakers. Each club conducts a political school, and there the republican women more than hold their own. If competition is the road to success, there is nothing lacking in the workings of either club.

THE NASTURTIUM SMOCK.

Wanda Heath took her place in the noonday throng that threaded the asphalt gorges of the loop, feeling very small, unimportant and lonely among this charming mass of motion. Fragments of wistful longings flitted through her mind, dream pictures. One recurred with insistency: A cosy house, hugged by rows of shrubbery and a space for a gay little garden.

"I'd have a border of nasturtiums," thought Wanda, "and I'd pick them every day. Dear me, how I've gone beyond my place. That's what wool gathering does to one." Quickly she turned, retraced her steps to the entrance of a huge department store and made her way to the basement bargains in search of a dress, not over $5, which she might use to wear to work. But the first thing that her eyes detected was a gay array of smocks marked "Special, $3.49," and she glimpsed among them a design of nasturtiums.

"Something?" inquired a clerk.

"The very thing to wear in the garden." Wanda forced a smile.

"All I have is a room."

"They're marvelous lounging robes also," said the clever little saleswoman. "You'd never believe how fresh you'd feel in one. You'd almost imagine that you had a garden."

"I'll take the one with the nasturtiums," Wanda finally decided. "You may deliver it." But after the clerk had written the name and address on the package Wanda said, "No, I believe I'll take it with me," and she quitted the store with the smock and a notion in her mind that she should have spent the money on something practical to wear to work. However, she could not help but feel gay. The smock was a luxury. Not often did Wanda treat herself to luxuries and she wondered what would come of such an extravagance.

Just then from the street sounded the piercing scream of a woman, followed by a sudden crunching of brakes. The crowd on the sidewalk gasped. Wanda had that something within her which responds automatically to distress signals and she was the first to reach the sprawling figure. She helped the woman, who was more frightened than hurt, to her feet. A crowd gathered. An officer appeared. Wanda noted the time, thought, "I'll be late to work," and slipped unnoticed to the sidewalk. A moment later she gave a small distress signal of her own.

"I've lost my smock." She turned again toward the crowd, but searched in vain.

"That's what comes of hurrying to help folks," she thought dismally. All that afternoon her heart was at low ebb. That evening passing shop windows, she saw three dresses marked down to $5, any of which she would have been glad to have. "If only I hadn't bought the smock," she sighed.

Over the gas burner in one corner of her room she broiled a chop, but it had no flavor. Nothing had any flavor. The landlady's feet shuffled in the hall. "She's after the rent," thought Wanda and reached for her purse.

But the landlady merely tapped on the door and said, "Miss Heath, there is a young man in the parlor to see you," and then shuffled on.

"It's a mistake," Wanda told herself. "There's no young man coming to see me." Yet there was one at the foot of the stairs, and he said, "Is this Miss Wanda Heath?" in the nicest sort of a voice. Then he held out a package.

"My smock!" cried Wanda in delight. "My nasturtium smock! Wherever did you find it?"

"On the street," explained the young man, "and as it had your name and address on the outside I thought I would return it. But do you like nasturtiums?"

"A garden? I've always wanted to know a girl who wanted a garden."

"Sorry," snapped the landlady, later on from the hall, "but my parlor is closed at 11. You'll have to finish your talk some other time."

"Not finish, but continue, I hope," said the young man, coming to his feet. And the twinkle in Wanda's eyes rivaled the very brightest nasturtium on the smock which she hugged in one arm.—Chicago News.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Through The Country Side

Mr. Editor: What is more rare than a day in June could very easily be changed into what may be more beautiful than a day like Sunday, Nov. 10th, for this was a day to be recalled as more like a day in May. Up early and out in the great outdoors to call upon friends, and then for a spin out toward the places I knew many years ago. I went to Willimantic to call on some very dear friends, but I did not find them at home, and I did not much blame them for taking advantage of such a fine day, and getting out, for when old Boreas comes along very shortly with his icy breath and freezes up the ponds and the rivers, there may be an exhilaration come over us as we sit in a closed car and look through the windows and yet it is all tinged with regret for we look upon the wreck that the frost has made. As we move along through Occum out on the road that leads into Baltic and so further into the country, I look into the woods, and I tell my very dear companions that perhaps we may be fortunate enough to see some of the wild life we have read about in The Bulletin, for we recall the fact we had read of the law being off in Massachusetts, and that the wild deer seem through some uncanny instinct to know it and are crossing the border line into the Nutmeg state. The thought takes possession of me and I wonder if these wild creatures have some means of telling to each other that the hunters are coming into the woods to kill them. Can it be they have a way of communicating with each other and warning one another of their danger? Who can answer?

There have been many wonderful laws made and they are observed, to protect the wild life that is to be found in the woods and to prevent their extermination. In some cases it was too late, for, taking the wild doves, as an example, that were to be found at one time in New England in countless thousands, they are today practically extinct. In some very isolated sections of Pennsylvania they are sometimes seen. There the grey squirrels are among some others that are getting very scarce. This is not to the credit of the "pot" hunters who are the cause of this. All these thoughts take hold of me as we move along with our dear friends.

I had the extreme pleasure Sunday, Nov. 10, of seeing the map of the Post-Gager cemetery, and if I, after seeing this, understand the matter correctly this is town property, and if such is the case it means the people, and thus is belongs to the people collectively. If so, no one person could sell this without the sanction of all the people, or by legislative enactment to vacate the premises by due process of law. If this is not done and if the people as a whole have not empowered the ones in authority to sell, can they give the buyers a clear title or warranty deed to something they were not authorized to sell by the people who are the town, the tax payers and the owners? If the people are the owners and it was sold without their consent, any agreement entered into becomes null and void. Construe this as you will, it is the facts, still the property of the people and possession is nine points in the law.

On my recent trip into the Rose of New England I had the extreme pleasure of calling at the home of one of the Social Corner writers, Black-eyed Susan, and with my friends she entertained us with several brilliant piano selections, for she is a pianist of more than ordinary ability. Here, we spent a very pleasant hour and left them with much regret. Then we went back to our very dear friends in Case street, who gave us a very good dinner as they alone know how to prepare, and then to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Brown on Norwich avenue, in Taftville, to make a short call. We found them very delightful people. And now the day is done, and darkness falls upon the earth, and all nature seems to revel in contrasts for we see in the western sky the horizon tinted with the gold of the dying day and I realize my visit will soon end. I wish I could stay longer, for I have many others whom I would like to visit, but with a limited time I am unable.

There is much sentiment in the make-up of every one of us, and Lamartine has said sentiment is the poetry of the imagination. Some, there are who take life too seriously and after all, what is it worth, for today will be yesterday's tomorrow? There are many who go around all the time looking for trouble. Life appears to me to be too short to be spent in nursing discontent, and the man who has won success is the one who has led the way to Laughtertown and has made others smile and forget their troubles. He has gained the respect of men and the love of little children. Such a man's memory is enshrined in the hearts of those who know him best and take him at his true worth. I have met such men and today they smile at me from some dim corner of my memory.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18—Not many Washington visitors know that hidden within one of the inner courts of the huge square of the library of congress is an auditorium dedicated to the highest of highbrow music.

It was placed there under private endowment, the gift to the nation of Mrs. Elizabeth Sprague Coolidge of Pittsfield, Mass.

The primary purpose of the auditorium is to supplement the musical collection of the library, already the third largest in the world, and to afford a place for the holding of the annual festivals of chamber music under jurisdiction of the library authorities.

It was to one of the concerts of the festival of this year—that in part devoted to "Negro exaltations," the "spirituals" now so much in vogue, and to Kentucky mountain songs—that Isobel MacDonald was taken by Mrs. Hoover during the brief stay of the British prime minister and his daughter in Washington.

Seldom-Played Works.

The great majority of the works rendered during the three concerts, however, were of a far from popular nature. Among them, for instance, was Bach's "Die Kunst der Fuge," which included the Graeser orchestration, and 16 examples of contrapuntals never before played in the United States.

Mrs. Coolidge, in making the endowment, said it was her purpose to make possible "the composition and performance of music in ways which might otherwise be considered too unique or too expensive to be ordinarily undertaken."

She desired, in arranging also for annual prizes, that precedence be given "to considerations of quality over those of quantity, to artistic rather than to economic values; and to opportunity rather than to expediency."

Further to emphasize that purpose, the Further to emphasize that purpose, the donor added the hope that the audiences of some 500 who would be invited to attend the festivals would be chosen "from those whose musical taste and experience qualify them to listen sincerely and appreciatively."

Restricted.

Naturally that restricted the gathering of music lovers very largely to folks of highest rank in the amateur and professional musical world.

There is probably nothing elsewhere in the United States that vaguely approaches the gatherings in that respect.

Under the circumstances, it is hardly to be expected that many of Washington's political great ones could qualify for cards of invitation.

A few, of course, like Senator Fess of Ohio, chairman of the senate library committee and an educator of note, attend.

But there are at least three other political figures "on the hill" who are always present.

And they are Speaker Nick Longworth of the house, who cherishes a passion of chamber music, Senator Walcott of Connecticut, whose officially recorded background is rooted in the textile industry, and Senator Hebert of Rhode Island.

Of the three, Walcott probably is the most devoted lover of string quartet music.

The Bystander has heard that it has been his custom for years to gather three other players about him at his home, and spend a week of seven or eight hours a day satisfying his musical longings for expression.

New way to stop a COLD quickly!

If you feel chilly and your nose begins to run and you have a congestive headache, you're "coming down" with a cold—or possibly grippe. Check this trouble quickly. Clear it up with OZO MIST—before the cold lays you up for weeks, or possibly gives you the "flu"—or worse.

OZO MIST is a new, scientific, vaporizing liquid. Drop a few drops of OZO MIST on your handkerchief. Inhale the vapor. The first breath starts removing the clogged mucus, freeing the air passages. It stops sneezing or coughing. It soothes and cools the irritated membranes. OZO MIST kills the germs responsible for colds, grippe, chronic catarrh, etc.

With a brisk laxative and OZO MIST you will sleep soundly tonight—and feel better in the morning. Ask for OZO MIST—you will be delighted with its results. Breathe OZO MIST all winter and keep yourself free from colds.

A bottle of fifty treatments—costs only fifty cents. At your neighborhood druggists. Ask for the original OZO MIST.

YOUR HEALTH

Are You Fit to Marry.

By Arnold E. Strauss, M. D.
Lansing, Mich.
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

In the city of Berlin, Germany, an institution opened several years ago which undertakes to advise young people, after a very exact examination of their social, educational, psychological, hereditary and especially physical conditions, whether or not they can marry with a bright outlook to happiness. This institution is very much frequented. It has been said that it would be worth while for one of our philanthropists to found similar institutions in this country.

Now the experiences of this institution point especially to one outstanding step: A health examination before marriage really is of utmost importance. Millions of words are written every day about troubles within married life, about divorce mills, and of unhappy children of divorced parents, who in later life molest society. Much of this is due to unsuspected physical and mental conditions of the couple.

There are the so-called social diseases which ruin the life of the partner forever. Thousands of young women need operations in the first year after marriage without being pregnant. There are the many sexual incompatibilities. There are mental ailments, tuberculosis and other diseases, which might flare up soon after marriage and mean unforeseen expense, just when money is most needed. There is the great question of the child. How many people really ask themselves before getting married if they both would make an ideal pair to produce an ideal child? We should feel responsible for our children before they are produced, especially from the viewpoint of hereditary diseases. Then there are the matters of outstanding characteristics such as musical ability, or marrying a beauty only to find afterwards that she and her children lack intelligence.

We consider it our right and a sign of freedom to marry without knowing our parents-in-law, where it should be a duty to ourselves to know them. Laws of heredity have been found from the study of plants and animals, but we human beings feel ourselves too superior to consider the standpoint of the breeders. And future generations will blame us for this negligence.

Happier children, fewer divorces, and less than half the money spent in community welfare funds would be the result of more careful mating—knowing ourselves—being fit to marry.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Price and daughter, of Westerly, visited relatives in Norwich Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Chase, of Pawcatuck, and Mr. and Mrs. George A. Hyde, of Stonington, spent Sunday at the Hyde bungalow at Lantern Hill.

The Westerly Sun says: Friends of Miss Ruth Kinney, who has been a patient at Uncas-on-Thames, Norwich, for four months, will be glad to hear that she is now able to stay home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs Ralph Kinney.

Miss Helena Leahy, of Norwich, whose marriage with Daniel O'Neil, of New London, is to take place Dec. 2, was given a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Hugh Smith, of 14 Crocker street, New London, Saturday evening.

FUNDS FOR DECLASSED JEWS IN RUSSIA

Total cash donations of nearly $500 were made at two meetings held here Sunday which were addressed by Judge Jacob Pankin of New York, who is president of an organization which is raising money to provide tools for the Jews in Russia who are declassed.

At a gathering at the home of Daniel Polsky on Canterbury turnpike $370 was contributed by about 25 people who were present and at a meeting in Bickoff's hall, 9 Thames street, the 150 present made a good contribution.

Judge Pankin desires the sum of $1,000 to be raised here. He speaks from first hand knowledge of conditions in Russia and is preparing a book which will show conditions on Soviet Russia and eastern Europe, as most of the reports which have come out from there are censored and are very contradictory.

Judge Pankin gave a very lucid explanation of what a declassed person means. The judge pointed out that in order to be a citizen of Russia one must be in one of the following four classes: An officer of the government, a farmer on the land, a professional man in the sense of the soviet economy, and a working man productively employed. It therefore follows that there are in Russia several millions of people who formerly were prosperous business and professional men who are declassed and therefore possess no civil and political rights. The condition of these people, the judge said, is most precarious as the deprivation of rights means that the government's co-operative stores refuse to sell them food and clothing or give them shelter without an identification card, and they are, therefore, forced to pay twenty-five times more for their supplies from private sources which are frowned upon by the soviet government. They also cannot gain admittance to hospitals or have their children attend school. This misfortune is added to their inability to earn any money with which to obtain the necessities of life. Among the millions declassed people in Russia are about 1,000,000 declassed Jewish people.

TAFTVILLE PEOPLE IN RIGHT OF WAY SUIT

The common pleas court here, with Judge C. B. Waller presiding, was engaged all day Monday in trial of the $750 damage and injunction suit over a right of way in Taftville, brought by Romain and Mary A. Beauregard, husband and wife, against Clarinda Goyette.

The Beauregard claim is that Mrs. Goyette has begun the construction of a garage which encroaches two feet on the right of way, which leads from Norwich avenue, Taftville.

The only witnesses heard were George D. Phillips, who is from the office of Chandler & Palmer, civil engineers, Mr. Beauregard, the plaintiff, and Civil Engineer Elmer E. Pitcher. Both the civil engineers explained plans of the property and the trial came to a halt when a stipulation was entered into by the attorneys to have either Loren E. Daboll or George K. Crandall of New London run two certain lines about which the two Norwich engineers could not agree. Report is to be made to the clerk of the court by Dec. 5 and the case will come up again on Dec. 9.

MADE SUICIDE ATTEMPT IN CELL IN HARTFORD

Daniel Dunn, 53, a narcotic addict, who escaped from the Norwich state hospital a week ago by driving off in a car that was parked there, attempted suicide Saturday night by slashing his throat and wrists with a safety razor blade. His injuries are not serious, but he is a patient in the hospital in Hartford. The police found him at his home Saturday night, but he had spent the previous night with the Salvation Army in Springfield.

The man had been committed to the state hospital by the probate court for a six months period of treatment. He had formerly been employed as an attendant in hospitals.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Burton Robbins

Mrs. Mellissa Dean Robbins, widow of Burton Robbins, died Saturday night at the home of her father, Edward M. Dean, in the Laysville section of Old Lyme, from a paralytic shock suffered a week ago Saturday. Her husband died suddenly at Providence about four years ago.

Besides her father, Mrs. Robbins is survived by a son, Burton Robbins, 12 years old; two sisters, Mrs. Ernest Keeney, of Rockville, and Mrs. Annie Dean Daniels, of New York state, and two brothers, Marshall Dean, of Colchester, and Allen Dean, of Old Lyme.

Mrs. Robert Thorne

Notification reached Norwich Monday evening of the death during the day of Ruth Bond, wife of Robert Thorne, of 863 Park avenue, New York. Mrs. Thorne, who has been in ill health for a number of weeks, was the daughter of Henry R. Bond and Mary Ripley, and a granddaughter of Rev. Alvin Bond, D. D., for many years the distinguished pastor of the Second Congregational church, Norwich.

She is survived by her husband, a New York attorney, and by her brother, Henry R. Bond, Jr., of New York, a former resident of Norwich. Her sister, Mrs. Alfred Tyler, of Anniston, Alabama, died during the spring of the present year.

By birth or marriage Mrs. Thorne was connected with a number of prominent families in Norwich and New London and the announcement of her death will be the cause of profound sorrow to friends in both cities.

Week-end Motor Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Witchekowski and family, with Wylie and Leonard Cormier, all of Norwich Town, motored to Lynn, Mass., over the week end, going by way of Providence. Upon the return trip, stops were made at Chelsea, Mass., Waltham and Worcester, where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Frank McAnson.

OVERHEATED OVEN STARTS FIRE IN PROVIDENCE BAKERY; $10,000 LOSS

Fire caused by an overheated oven resulted in an estimated loss of $10,000 at the Providence Bakery, No. 82 Franklin street, Emil M. Fox, proprietor, early Monday evening. While trying rear doors of adjoining buildings about 7:30 o'clock, Officer Luke Riley noticed smoke and glancing at the windows in the rear of the bakery building saw flames shooting up on both floors.

Running through the nearby alley leading to Chestnut street, Officer Riley notified the fire department at the Central fire station and Squad A and Engine No. 1 quickly responded to the oral alarm. A minute or two later Box 225, corner Franklin and Willow streets, was pulled in calling out additional apparatus.

The flames had gathered considerable headway when discovered and gave the firemen a hard half hour's battle. Squad A fought the fire from the rear of the building, running a water line from Chestnut street, and two two-inch lines were laid on the Franklin street side of the building.

The fire was confined to the rear of both floors and there was very little water damage to the large stock of flour on the second floor.

Both ovens were extensively damaged, and will probably have to be replaced. One of the large ovens is located on the ground floor and suffered extensively from water. The other oven, installed about a year ago, on the second floor, was also badly damaged, as was the flooring at the rear of the second story, the roof and the electric wiring above and in the vicinity of the oven. The loss is covered by insurance.

A rapid response by the fire department and highly efficient work by the firemen saved the building from much greater loss.

The fire was in the rear section of the building, which is of brick and four stories on the street front, but only two stories in the rear. It is owned by Mr. Fox.

The main floor on the street level is the Providence bakery store and the floors above are occupied by the Keefe rooming house. The flames did not penetrate to the store nor to the rooming house apartments.

MEMBERS OF BACKUS HOSPITAL AUXILIARY

Further names of members of the Women's auxiliary of the Backus hospital are given herewith. The membership committee hopes that men of the city will realize that they can serve the hospital through membership in the auxiliary and that they will send the annual dues of $1 to Mrs. Walter F. Lester of Laurel Hill avenue if they have not received the regular card notices of the membership campaign.

Suit on Two Notes

Damages of $2,300 are claimed by Stanley Zawislenski of this city in a suit brought in the superior court against the Airproof Rubber Co., and filed with Clerk John H. Walker. Property owned by the rubber company, about 90 acres, located in North Stonington, has been attached.

According to the complaint, the hubber company is indebted to Zawislenski in the amount of $1,500 on two notes, one given on April 16, 1926, for $1,000 and the other for $500, dated May 12, 1926.

L. W. Club Met

The monthly meeting of the L. W. club was held at the home of the Misses Doris and Edith Pulsifer, of West Main street. After the business meeting, Prof. Frank T. Maples entertained with several selections. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostesses. Decorations were appropriate for Thanksgiving.

Motor Law Violation Charge.

On the charge of improper use of automobile markers and driving without a license, James Scavitt of Versailles was arrested Monday afternoon by State Policeman Arthur Whitmarsh and brought to police headquarters here where he gave bonds for his appearance in court.

DESCRIBES APPLICATION OF WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION LAW

Albert J. Bailey, compensation commission for the second district, was the speaker before the Men's club of St Andrew's Episcopal church when it held its regular meeting Monday evening in the guild room at the church with a large attendance, including a number of guests.

After the words of welcome by President Lockhard and the singing of "America," two solos were rendered in a pleasing manner by George Hollingsworth and Mr. Mathews gave two well rendered violin solos.

President Lockhard introduced Commissioner Bailey as the speaker of the evening upon the workmen's compensation law.

In part Commissioner Bailey spoke as follows:

The compensation law of this state was enacted in the year 1913 but did not become operative until Jan. 1, 1914, as it took the fall of 1913 to prepare forms, rules, etc., necessary for carrying out of the provisions of the law. Our Connecticut law followed very closely the English act which had been in force for sometime. The state was divided into five districts and each district contains the same territory as our congressional districts, so the second district, which is the district in which I have jurisdiction, includes the counties of New London, Middlesex, Tolland and Windham, or nearly one-half of the area of the state, and each commissioner has exclusive jurisdiction in his respective district and is not beholden in any way to any of the other commissioners, and any appeal from the doings of a commissioner goes directly to the superior court and is not reviewed by the other commissioners as is the practice in a great many of our states. There are compensation laws in all the states with the exception of three.

It is my conception of the compensation law that a commissioner's duties require him to go farther than to see that the law is complied with, but he should also see that the spirit of the law is carried out, for in a great majority of industrial injuries compensation is paid to the employe and these payments should be paid promptly, as that old legal maxim, "Justice delayed is Justice denied," is especially applicable in all these cases, as the inured employe and his family as a general rule suffer when payments are delayed and become dissatisfied and in many cases it actually hinders his or her recovery. A commissioner should look after the interests of an employer the same as an employe, in other words he should be absolutely impartial in his decisions, but should always have in mind the rule that has been laid down in the courts of last resort in all states, which is, that the law in all cases be fairly and liberally construed. In this state the commissioner is not required as he is in many of the states to see that safety devices are installed in the factories, yet it is for the interest of the employers to see that they are installed so as to reduce the number of accidents as much as possible and thereby lower the insurance rate which he has to charge off as an overhead expense, and also save the public from paying for unnecessary accidents, for in the last analysis it is the community at large that pays for all injuries to employes, as the cost of compensation is charged in to the costs of articles the same as rent, lights, coal, etc., are charged up to the costs of production.

94,362 Accidents Reported.

The number of accidents that have been reported in this district since Jan. 1, 1914, is 94,362. There has been 2,700 formal written claims for compensation, and there has been 22,096 agreements entered into. There has been 1,312 formal awards filed, but there has been a great many more hearings held than is indicated by the number of formal awards. There is one element of the law that the employers do not seem to understand, or if they do, they ignore it in a great many cases, and that is when they take out insurance their duties to their employes do not cease, as they should in all cases report injuries promptly and then they should see to it that their insurance company makes a prompt investigation of the accident, and that payments are made promptly to the injured employe, and he would then have a satisfied employe instead of one who is hostile. The employer should always bear in mind that he is primarily liable irrespective of any insurance that he may carry. It is one of the, most fundamental doctrines of the compensation law that an employer takes an employe as he is, and we know from medical science that the perfect man is yet to be found, so there is now a waiver clause in our law whereby an employer may have his employes examined and require them to waive any physical defects they may have. If such a waiver is signed the employe cannot thereafter claim any compensation for any injury that is attributable to the physical defect that he has waived.

For Occupational Diseases.

In this state we pay compensation for occupational diseases and in my opinion this is a very just provision of our law. I can see no reason why a machinist who is working with a lathe and who develops an eruption on his hands from the continued use of cutting oils and thereby becomes disabled is not entitled to compensation just as much as if he had cut off one of his fingers, the only difference is that in one case it is sudden while in the other it may run over a number of years. Dependency is one of the sections of our law that does not seem to be understood by the public. A wife who is living with her husband and is regularly receiving support from him is a dependent and vice versa a husband is a dependent, also all minor children under the age 18 years, and, any child over said age who is mentally incapacitated from earning. If the wife lives and does not remarry she is entitled to compensation for six years, but upon her death or remarriage the compensation goes to any children under the age of 18 years, but if there are none, it goes to parents or brothers and sisters who may be totally or partially dependent. If on the death of the wife or husband as the case may be, there are no other dependents, the compensation ceases at once. In all fatal cases the employer also pays all medical bills and $200 toward funeral expenses. The employer in all cases has the right to pick the doctor whim he desires to have treat the injured employe, but if he does not attend to this matter the employe can choose his own doctor and the employer is required to pay for his services. The commissioner has nothing to do about picking out doctors, who shall attend the case unless the employe is dissatisfied with the medical man chosen by the employer. In such a case the employe may apply to the commissioner for a change of doctors, and after a hearing it is within his discretion whether a change shall be made or not.

Not In Compensation Class.

There are certain people who are not entitled to compensation and I refer to an out-worker and a casual employe. The former is any person to whom articles or material are given to be treated in any way on premises not under the control or management of the person who gave them out, and the latter is any person whose employment is of a casual nature, and one who is employed otherwise than for the purpose of the employer's trade or business. Neither can an employe who is guilty of wilful or malicious conduct or who is under the influence of alcohol or drugs secure any compensation for any injury that is caused by reason of any one of these elements. The compensation law does not pretend to reimburse an employe for all the losses he may suffer by reason of an accident, but it does materially help, and in a great majority of the cases he does not have to expend one cent to secure this financial help.

I wish to take this opportunity to state that the compensation commissioner's office does not handle or pay out any money, and after an agreement or an award and finding is made and filed in the superior court it is out of his hands of the commissioner, and if the employe does not then get the money he has to ask for an execution from said court. This is a large subject to try and cover in such a short space of time and I have only touched on what I consider the more important sections of the law, but I will be glad to answer any questions that any of you may have in mind.

Refreshments were served by the members of the entertainment committee and President Lockhard announced that Judge Arthur F. Libby of the city court would be the speaker at the December meeting and the subject of his address would not be announced but would be held as a surprise for the members and their guests.

ENGLISH BOY SCOUTS GRATEFUL FOR NORWICH GIFT

A letter acknowledging the greetings of the Norwich Boy Scouts to the Boy Scouts of Norwich, England, has been received by Scout Executive John L. Sellman from Claude Stratford, district commissioner and chairman of the Boy Scouts of the English city. The letter reads:

My dear Commissioner:

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Norwich Boy Scouts association, Norfolk, England, I was desired to write to you an expression of our grateful thanks for the fraternal greetings conveyed to us from your association by the right worshipful the lord mayor of Norwich, England. We also desire to thank you very much indeed and through you all the members of your association and of your different groups for the totem pole and arrow heads which accompanied your good wishes.

I have no doubt that you will have heard from the lord mayor of Norwich, of the wonderful gathering we had in the huge civic hall, St. Andrews hall, Norwich.

The hall is a very ancient one and the walls bear portraits of former lord mayors and mayors and great people, such as Lord Nelson, etc., and formed a wonderful setting. The floor of the hall was filled by Rovers, Scouts and Cubs squatting in their various groups, and an aisle being left in the centre for the procession of flags to the camp fire which was immediately in front of the platform on which were gathered the leading citizens with the lord mayor in the chair. The camp fire was declared open and a sing song then took place and then a speech by the lord mayor and the presentation of the totem pole and the arrow heads with a reply by myself. I enclose a flashlight photograph taken by a local photographer.

The totem pole and the arrow heads will find an honoured place in our scout museum which we are hoping to start quite shortly.

With all good wishes.

Yours fraternally,

I am,

CLAUDE STRATFORD

District Commissioner and Chairman.

Mr. Sellman has also received from Lord Mayor Herbert P. Gowen a number of clippings from the Eastern Daily Press with reference to the presentation of the totem pole and arrow heads, together with copies of the presentation programme and a flashlight photograph of the presentation.

HUMANE SOCIETY MANAGER PRESENTS HIS RESIGNATION

State Senator Charles E. Wheeler, who has been manager of the Connecticut Humane society succeeding H. Clay Preston, has resigned as general manager on account of the increased demands of his private business which will require his whole time in the future.

Senator Wheeler has been an active and devoted manager of the society and the importance of the work has increased greatly under his administration. For more than a year he has been anxious to hand in his resignation but has been persuaded up to now to continue.

The directors at their regular monthly meeting of Wednesday have voted to secure the services of J. Seth Jones, now with the Children's Aid society of Buffalo. Mr. Jones was assistant to Dr. Carstens in the society of Massachusetts for many years in charge of both the Boston office and later of the Brockton office and brings to the society a varied experience in both children and animal work. He is expected to take office by Dec. 9.

Senator Wheeler has assured the society of his continuance in an advisory capacity in the work for the present.

Library Association Vice President.

James Lane of Salem has been elected a vice president of the Connecticut Library association. For 15 years Mr. Lane has been a trustee for the Salem library and has been been identified as a tireless worker on behalf of the institution.

FUNERALS

Mrs. William Crowe, Sr.

The funeral of Mrs. William Crowe, Sr., was held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at her home, No. 38 Laurel Hill avenue, with many relatives and friends present. Rev. Joseph Cooper, pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, conducted the service and there was a wealth of beautiful floral tributes.

The bearers were William, Samuel and John Crowe, sons and Edward McNamara, son-in-law and burial was in Maplewood cemetery. Rev. Mr. Cooper conducting the committal service. Mourners were present from Worcester, Providence, Westerly, Jewett City and Chester, Penn. The Henry Allen & Son Co., had charge of the funeral arrangements.

STOMACH UPSET, SOUR? THIS WILL COMFORT

Don't let sour stomach, gas, indigestion make you suffer. And don't use crude methods to get relief. There's no use when millions know the quick way; the pleasant, harmless way.

Just take a spoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water. It is alkali in the best form. It neutralizes many times its volume of excess acid—and does it instantly. It will probably end your distress in five minutes. Then you'll know what to do the next time. Crude, harmful methods will never appeal to you again.

Phillips Milk of Magnesia is the perfect way to end digestive disorders due to excess acid for men, women, children—and even babies. It's the method doctors endorse; which hospitals use. For fifty years it has been supreme.

To know the many important uses of Phillips Milk of Magnesia is to keep a bottle in the house, always. Full information with each bottle. Your drug store has the 25c and 50c sizes. Insist on the genuine. A less perfect product may not act the same.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of the Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor Chas. H. Phillips, since 1875.

INDI-GESTION
ACIDINE never fails to banish and keep it away.
This remarkable new discovery really banishes, not merely relieves, indigestion, acidosis, gaseiness, sour stomach, sick headache, acid stomach, chronic constipation, head colds and acid rheumatism. It alkalizes, balances excess acid, keeps the whole digestive system sweet and clean.
ACIDINE is the only perfect, modern, anti-acid which is combined with Japtase, a powerful starch digestant—it digests 900 times its own weight of pure potato starch in 30 minutes. Your stomach deserves protection. ACIDINE gives it.
A meat and starch digestant, anti-acid and carminative beyond compare. Soothing to the stomach and intestinal membranes. Slightly laxative, but not excessively so. A really perfect medicine for mother, father, children and babies. Used and recommended

KOZIOL MATCHED TO BOX LEDOUX ON NEXT SHYMA CLUB CARD DEC. 6

Matchmaker Leo Flynn of the Shyma club has started arranging his card for the next show which will be held at the Parish hall in Taftville on Friday evening, Dec. 6th. For this card he intends to have three star bouts of eight rounds each supplemented by two four rounders to give the fans the customary 32 rounds of boxing.

For one of his star bouts he has signed Leo Ledoux of Worcester to meet Al Koziol, the Norwich Cyclone, which means that in this bout alone the fans are assured of their money's worth. Those who saw Koziol plaster Johnny Mack of New Haven last week know that the local lad will give them action in big doses.

This bout looks as though it would go more than three rounds by virtue of the fact that Ledoux holds a four round verdict over Koziol at Providence on Oct. 16th. Ledoux is a clever boy and is thoroughly familiar with the Norwich boy's style of fighting which should help him go the distance. But if Koziol fights the same tearing fight that he put up against Mack last week it doesn't seem possible that even a clever lad can stand up under it. Mack was not clever but he was tough and he could hit.

Koziol clearly demonstrated that he could take it as well as give it in his bout with Mack. The New Haven lad hit Koziol some real haymakers but the Cyclone merely smiled and kept boring in. Ledoux may find that he can't stand off Koziol over the eight rounds although he did it once for four rounds. The report is that Koziol tried to box with Ledoux in the Providence bout instead of slugging as he did against Mack which may account for his losing the decision.

However this bout is a headliner on any card and it should pack the house on its merits alone. Matchmaker Flynn has two other bouts in mind but has not yet completed arrangements for them. These other two rank right along side of the Koziol-Ledoux bout and from all appearances the fans should be treated to an even better show than last week if such a thing is possible.

A. A. U. PRESIDENT ADVOCATES CLEAR THINKING BY WRITERS

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 18.—(AP)—An appeal for clearer thinking on the subject of amateurism and leadership that will keep amateur athletes from "yielding to the opposing forces of greed and commercialism," was delivered tonight by Avery Brundage, national president of the Amateur Athletic union, at the annual convention banquet.

"During the last few years it has become increasingly popular to attack the amateur code," said Brundage, a former national amateur all-around champion. "Beset on one side by the professional promoter seeking to commercialize its popularity for personal gain; harrassed from the other direction by prominent athletes seeking by evasion and chicanery to obtain the material rewards of professionalism while maintaining their amateur standing, amateur sport finds its burdens increased instead of relieved by the press, and it will suffer a mortal wound if these assaults upon amateurism by those who have it within their power to educate the public, do not cease.

"Some newspaper writers have advocated the abolition of the amateur code and the elimination of the distinction between professionals and amateurs so far as the public is concerned. Editorials have been written referring to the amateur code as a joke and stating that there are no longer any amateurs. It is asserted that our amateur rules are producing a race of cheats and liars. The amateur code has been coupled with the Volstead act as an agent tending to break down the respect for law and the amateur athletic union has been denounced for attempting to uphold so archaic a system.

"When the A. A. U. or any other sport governing body disciplines a prominent athlete for violating amatur rules, it is hailed as a merciless tryant and a betrayer of the public interest. There is an astounding lack of clear thinking on this subject and after reading a few articles, one ceases to wonder that the public is bewildered and confused. We need to be brought back to fundamental principles."

After sketching the growth of amateur sport and citing the aims of the A. A. U. since its founding 41 years ago, to prevent commercialism, Brundage continued:

"Instead of yielding to the opposing forces of greed and commercialism, let us, after consolidating our position, proceed to overcome the materialistic forces of greed wherever found. Let us cultivate the sporting spirit of Lindbergh, that sterling citizen of St. Louis who refused to capitalize his exploit and endeared himself to the world.

"The report of the Carnegie foundation on American college athletics has been almost universally the butt of flippant sarcasm and jibes. The public has taken to football because they feel it is on the square. If the tendencies pointed out in the Carnegie report are allowed to prevail, it will not be long before our enormous college stadiums are as forlorn and empty as the Roman coliseum."

HARVARD HAS BLACKBOARD DRILL BECAUSE OF RAIN

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 18—(AP)—Rain forced the Harvard varsity football squad indoors today, when Head Coach Arnold Horween gave his players a long blackboard talk before sending them through a signal drill in the baseball cage.

Wally Harper, regular fullback, who missed last Saturday's Holy Cross game, and Art Huguely, a halfback, were back in uniform, the former taking his place on the varsity as it went through its plays.

The Crimson squad will celebrate its annual "holiday" tomorrow at the Myopia Hunt club. Every year during the Horween regime, the players have been given a day off just before the Yale game. They generally relax by playing golf, tennis or walking about the countryside.

YALE SQUAD HAS LONG BLACKBOARD TALK

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Practice for the Yale football team was called off today because of rain, and in its stead a blackboard talk was given by Head Coach Mal Stevens.

He pointed out mistakes made in the Princeton game, and spoke of plans for the Harvard contest next Saturday, the Blue's last game of the year.

All players save Albie Booth were present. Booth spent another day in the infirmary to give his "charley horse," a leg muscle ailment, more time to mend.

The backfield star, however, will be out with his teammates tomorrow, according to Stevens. Signal drill and light practice is expected to be the plan of action for the team during the remainder of the week.

LITTLE WORK ALONG COLLEGE GRIDIRON FRONT

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—(AP)—A combination of bruises, bad weather and a lack of immediate necessity of getting ready for games Saturday made eastern football practices almost a complete blank today.

Both Yale and Harvard, rivals in Saturday's most important battle, yielded to the weather, going indoors for brief light drills. The Elis listened while Coach Mal Stevens pointed out mistakes made against Princeton and outlined plans for the Harvard game. Only Albie Booth, who had returned to the infirmary to give his charley horse another day of rest, was missing. Harvard had a long blackboard talk, following it up with a signal drill in the baseball cage. Wally Harper and Art Huguley, injured backs, were in uniform again but John Trainer, regular guard, nursed a batch of bruises on the sidelines.

Rutgers and N. Y. U., which meet in another game of traditional rivalry, had light drills. The Scarlet had little more than signal drill while the N. Y. U. varsity rested as Coach Chick Meehan gave his attention to the reserves. Fordham spent most of its time on blackboard work starting its preparations for meeting Bucknell Saturday.

Army, with Ohio Wesleyan as its last home opponent, went through a light workout in the rain. Individual drill was in order. Villanova, which also has an intersectional opponent in North Carolina State, had a day of complete rest. West Virginia Wesleyan opened a search for three substitutes for regular backs who will be kept on the bench Saturday by Navy's three year eligibility rule.

Pennsylvania and Cornell set the example for the many teams which are expecting hard games on Thanksgiving day but have none before then by taking a day of rest before beginning hard work. Other rivals which followed this plan included Penn State and Pittsburgh and Columbia and Syracuse.

STRIBLING LOSES LONDON FIGHT ON A FOUL

LONDON, Nov. 18.—(AP)—William L. (Young) Stribling, Macon, Ga., heavyweight, made his European ring debut before the Prince of Wales and 8,000 other fans tonight only to lose on a foul in the fourth round of his 15-round bout with Primo Carnera, huge Venetian carpenter.

Two blows, a left and right, to Carnera's body were ruled foul and Stribling was disqualified amid the boos of the largest crowd that ever saw a fight at Royal Albert hall.

The referee's action terminated a spectacular fight in which Stribling, outweighed by 95 pounds and handicapped some eight inches in height, carried the fight to his foe and seemed on his way to an easy victory, probably by a knockout.

The American heavyweight gave Carnera a severe beating about the body in the first two rounds, which he won easily. In the third, Stribling connected with a right to the Italian's chin and Carnera went down for a count of six. In a fury, Carnera got up and swung his left to Stribling's jaw, and the American was floored for a count of nine.

The fourth round had barely started when Stribling sent home two solid blows to the body and Carnera went down again. Both were ruled to have landed low and the American was promptly disqualified.

The crowd booed Stribling enthusiastically and shouted and whistled for five minutes before the official decision could be announced.

The Georgian seemed bewildered by the verdict, it being plain he thought he had won by a knockout. "Ma" and "Pa" Stribling patted him on the back as he retired to a dressing room.

CANADIAN BOXING BODY NAMES DOMINION CHAMPS

QUEBEC, Nov. 18.—(AP)—The Canadian Boxing federation, at its annual convention here today, named the official holders of all the dominion's boxing championships.

Those ruled to hold titles were:

Heavyweight, Larry Gaine, Toronto; light heavyweight, Charley Belanger, Winnipeg; middleweight, vacant; lightweight, Al Foreman, Montreal; welterweight, Jackie Phillips; featherweight, Leo Kid Roy, Montreal; bantamweight, Joe Villeneuve, Quebec; flyweight, Frenchy Belanger, Toronto.

There was some discussion over the award of the bantamweight crown to Villeneuve, Montreal delegates asserting that Bobby Leitham of that city, had defeated the champion at the title weight.

He was not awarded the title because officials of the Quebec commission had decided the title was not at stake. The federation decided that Leitham should be given a chance to challenge Villeneuve for the title.

The federation voted to instruct incoming officers to take up with the National Boxing association of the United States the question of broadening the National association and making it an international one with right to exercise control both in the United States and Canada.

TWO AWARDS ESTABLISHED IN MEMORY OF J. E. SULLIVAN

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Establishment of two annual awards in memory of the late James E. Sullivan, pioneer executive of the Amateur Athletic union, were decided upon by the convention today.

One, known as the Sullivan trophy and in the form of a gold cup, will be awarded each year to the outstanding American athlete. The other, known as the Sullivan service medal, will be awarded to the athlete, leader or executive figure considered to have done the most for any of the branches of sport fostered by the A. A. U. The medal award will be open to foreign as well as American competition.

The convention appropriated $2,500 from the James E. Sullivan Memorial fund on the recommendation of Joseph B. McCabe, of Boston, to cover the Sullivan trophy award.

AGGIE SQUAD STARTS BASKETBALL PRACTICE

STORRS, Nov 18.—(AP)—The Connecticut Agricultural college basketball squad held its first practice today. Captain Ray Ryan, of New Haven, was among those who were present.

The Aggies look forward to a good season, as only two of the regulars of last year are missing.

The schedule for the season follows: January 4, East Stroudsburg; 10, Yale; 11, Tufts; 18, Massachusetts Aggies; 21, U. S. Coast Guard; 23, Brown; February 1, Trinity; 8, New Hampshire; 15, Rhode Island; 19, Wesleyan; 22, Holy Cross; 28, Springfield; March 1, Rhode Island.

Had a letter from one of the Three Horsemen yesterday who signs himself as a "Would-Be-Cowboy."

He says I was giving them the grand razzberry yesterday. Well, I may have, but to tell the truth I didn't know who the three were. What I was thinking of most was the poor horse.

It seemed to me kind of tough on a horse to run him at full speed on a concrete pavement. I doubt if the owners of the horses would want them tired that way.

This boy who signs himself as a Would-Be-Cowboy says that in the trio there was a real cowboy, who had ridden with a real western show. He said he was riding at his own risk just to show Norwich folks what he could do.

He says this real cowboy was "fanning his horse and raking him from head to foot with a pair of rowel spurs". Of course that is real western treatment for a horse.

He says that this boy deserves a lot of credit for his brilliant riding and hopes I'll give him a nice write-up. If we have another Tom Mix or Buffalo Bill in town he should get a write-up.

But I have always heard that a real rider and lover of horses was very careful of the treatment he gives his mount. I don't know that this boy was one of those running his horse on the cement other than what is implied in the letter I received today.

I heard a good one the other night about a local druggist. It seems that several people who live out in the country have been in the habit of ordering their prescription from number by mail.

In payment one would always send the correct amount in stamps. The druggist received a letter requesting that prescription No. ..... should be filled and sent to him and the right amount in stamps was enclosed.

Somehow the druggist forgot to enter the payment on the book and a bill was sent to the man. A few days later the druggist received a letter, written in a childish scrawl.

The letter said: "Dear Mr. ....: What you send me the bill for? What the hell do you think I sent them stamps for—a gift? Thank you." And the letter was signed by the man.

PALACE PROVES SUPERIOR TO BROADWAY ONCE AGAIN

Mgr. Hamilton's Palace Pin Pounders crashed through to an easy victory over Mgr. Fitz' Fearless Five last night at the Aetna Alleys. The Broadway boys showed much better last night than in the previous two matches and managed to capture one string from the Pin Pounders. The bowling of Mgr. Hamilton was far below his usual Peerless style. The scores:

TROJANS LOSE HARD FOUGHT GAME TO NEW LONDON

Sunday afternoon at Morgan park the Trojan A. C. lost to the Boys' club of New London by a 13 to 7 score.

Both teams battled evenly through the first half. The kick-off in the second half proved to be the big break for New London. Callahan kicked to the Trojan 20 yd. line but it was missed by a receiver, the ball rolling to the 1 yard stripe where it was scounded by a New London man, giving them the ball. In two plays they had the ball across the line. They missed the point after touchdown. A pass to Devine gave them their second touchdown and Hoy kicked the extra point.

In the last quarter the Trojans opened up an aerial attack which gave them their only score, through a pass to Economous who ran 50 yards through most of the Whalers. Krohn kicked the point.

SNYDER SCORES TECH. K. O. OVER DR. HAYMANN IN 7TH

Snyder weighed 190 1-2, and Haymann 197.

Rising from the canvas after being knocked out for the count of nine, Haymann hanging to the ropes, asked Referee Harry Hutt to stop the fight.

Haymann won one round, the fourth. The first two rounds were called draws and Snyder was given the others.

BERG TAKES DECISION FROM EDDIE ELKINS

Elkins surprised the fans by carrying the fight to the British boxer in the early rounds. Berg, however, rallied strongly in the last five rounds to earn the decision. Berg weighed 138; Elkins 137 1-2.

Massey Trims Blitman

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 18—(AP)—Lew Massey, Philadelphia, scored a technical knockout over Harry Blitman, also of this city, in the second round of a ten round bout here tonight. Massey weighed 128 pounds Blitman 129.

Kelly to Meet Flynn

HOLYOKE, Mass., Nov. 18—(AP)—Art Flynn, of Lawrence and Jack Kelly, of Waterbury, Conn., will clash in a 10 round bout at the Valley arena here Monday the 25th. Both scrappers will come into the ring at 170 pounds.

A. A. U. GIVES CONDITIONAL APPROVAL TO RECORDS MADE WITH STARTING BLOCKS

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 18.—(AP)—After a sharp controversy, the National Amateur Athletic union, at its annual convention today, went on record as favoring the principle of foot starting blocks for sprinters.

At the same time, the convention voted to withhold official adoption of the blocks or to permit their use in A. A. U. meets until they are recognized by international authorities as standard.

In effect, the A. A. U. decided that the starting blocks, several varieties of which now are in use, represent a progressive development for the betterment of track competition, from the viewpoint of the athlete as well as the spectator.

American delegates to the next conference of the International Amateur Athletic federation, to be held in Berlin next May, are expected to urge the adoption of a standard starting block. Because of the controversy over the blocks and the extent to which they aid the sprinter, if at all, conditional approval only was accorded by the convention to the famous 100-yard dash of 9 2-5 seconds by George Simpson of Ohio State at Chicago last June 8.

Simpson's mark was made with blocks, having the official approval of the National Collegiate A. A. U. It was decided that for the time being marks made with blocks will be classified separately, not displacing the other records on the books.

Unexpectedly it developed that acceptance of a mark of 9.5 seconds for the "100" made by Eddie Tolan of Michigan, Negro star and national champion at Evanston last May 25 may result in establishment of this mark as a new world's record. It was accepted unconditionally, since Tolan did not use blocks. It will be recommended for adoption to the I. A. A. F., which now recognizes performances registered by tenth-second watches. Tolan was barely beaten by Simpson on the latter's record race.

The conditional approval to Simpson's "100" applied also to the same sprinter's record-equalling 20 6-10 for 220 yards made at Evanston, May 25, and to the mark of 22 8-10 for the 220-yard low hurdles by Dick Rockaway of Ohio State, made the same day. Rockaway's time bettered by 2-10 second the world record now held by C. R. Brookings, formerly of the University of Iowa.

The principal other records given unqualified approval in outdoor competition, were: Pole vault, 14 feet 1 1-2 inches by Lee Barnes of Southern California at Fresno, April 28, 1928, a world's record; discus throw, 163 feet 8 3-4 inches by Eric Krenz of Stanford at Palo Alto, March 9, 1929, a world's record; shot put, 51 feet 11 5-8 inches by Herman Brix of Los Angeles A. C. at Fresno last April, an American record; 100-yard dash, 9 3-5 seconds by Charley Borah and Frank Wykoff at Fresno last April, equalling official world's record; 2,400-yard relay, 4 minutes 52 3-4 seconds by New York university team at Haverford, Pa., May 25, 1929, American record.

Among the indoor track and field records approved was one for 1,000 yards in 2 minutes 12 seconds, made by Harold Cutbill, the "Flying Parson," back in 1922 at Buffalo, N. Y. Other accepted indoor marks, all made last winter and regarded as world's records, were:

500 meters, 1 minute 5 seconds by Phil Edwards of New York university.

60-yard high hurdles, 7 2-5 seconds by Weems Baskin of New York A. C. and Harry Filppen of University of Virginia.

Two-mile steeplechase, 9 minutes, 55 2-5 seconds by Eino Purje, of Finland.

Pole vault, dirt runway, 13 feet, 7 3-4 inches, by Thomas Warne, of Northwestern university.

Altogether the convention accepted 66 track and field records by both men and women besides 48 assorted swimming records.

A Coincident

Last Saturday afternoon at the Palace theatre there was a quear coincident relative to the Notre Dame-Southern California game. In the Grantland Rice sportlight feature being shown at the theatre Mr. Rice was giving a very complete resume of the Notre Dame-California game which was played at Los Angeles last year. At the time this feature was being shown radio reports of the 1929 game at Soldiers field in Chicago were being received in another part of the theatre. Last year California won but Mr. Rice was predicting that Notre Dame might get revenge this year—and they were doing it.

WILLIAMS TO TAKE PLACE OF BRUSSO ON WEDNESDAY

Pop Williams, former C. A. C. football and basketball star, who has been held in reserve on the Plainfield Pro roster this season, will get into the game Wednesday night against the New York Pros. Williams was held out of the game last week because of his having played four games with the Providence Steam Rollers and was pretty well tired out.

Williams will take the place of Brusso in the forward line in tomorrow night's game as Brusso has been in poor health since the close of the baseball season. Brusso will be given a much needed rest but will be back with the Pros later in the season. Williams is fast and should team well with Kasper in the forward berths.

The Plainfield club is up against a real fast club in the New York Pros tomorrow night. The visitors have a strong lineup in Garland, Spellacy, Doyle, Schutz and Scott, all players well known in basketball circles.

There are at least 200 reserved seats ready for sale as well as 600 rush seats. Manager Salisbury expresses his regret at having had to advance the prices last week for the Renaissance game owing to the large guarantee demand by the Brooklyn club. The prices this week will be the same as usual.

DARTMOUTH SQUAD TO HAVE A REST OF TWO DAYS

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 18.—(AP)—While a heavy rain flooded Memorial field and washed away the remnants of Dartmouth's gala victory over Cornell, the Green football squad underwent its first day of complete rest before starting work for the Navy game at Philadelphia on November 30.

The Indians will face another day of relaxation tomorrow for Coach Jackson Cannell has decided to delay preparations for the Navy until Wednesday. A number of the Dartmouth gridmen visited the field house rubbing room this afternoon to be limbered up by Trainer Harry Hillman and his assistants, Yudicky, Wolff, Morton and Bromberg, who received bruises against Cornell, and Crehan, whose knee injury makes his status for the Navy game doubtful, were among this group.

KAPLAN TO TRY TO GET REVENGE ON CABANA TONIGHT

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 18—(AP)—Louis (Kid) Kaplan, of Meriden, former featherweight champion of the world, will meet Emery Cabana, of Philadelphia, in a return ten round bout here tomorrow night. Cabana defeated Kaplan here last September. The boxers are matched to meet at 135 pounds.

Two eight rounders are carded in which Jimmy Watts, Atlanta, Ga., featherweight, meets Huckie Devlin, of New London, in the semi-final windup, and Jack Red Knight, undefeated New Haven lightweight, clashes with Joe Carpino, New York.

TEAMMATES OF McGINNITY ARE GUARD OF HONOR

McALESTER, Okla., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Teammates of Joe McGinnity, baseball's "Iron Man" in the days immediately preceding his rise to fame as a pitcher with the New York Giants, formed an honor guard today as McGinnity's body lay in state at the Elks lodge here.

Burial services were held this afternoon in Oak Hill cemetery. Profuse floral offerings, many from distant points, covered the grave at the close of the brief ritual of the Elks.

RAIN HALTS WORK OF ACADEMY AND BULKELEY

Both the Academy and Bulkeley football squads had a day of rest Monday because of rain as the week of their annual classic dawned. This gave each team a chance to recuperate after grueling tilts on Saturday, when Bulkeley battled to a scoreless draw with Chapman Tech and the Academy nosed out Stonington, 6 to 0.

Speedboys Defeat Sterling.

Sunday afternoon at Ashland park, Jewett City, the newly organized Speedboys ran rough-shod over the game, but inefficient Sterling Town team to win 33 to 0.

From the very start of the game until the end Jewett City's powerful backs tore the Sterling line to shreds, gaining practically at will. The outstanding feature was the ball carrying of Jake Sawicki who twice went through the entire Sterling team for runs of 50 yards, both ending in touchdowns. Murphy, of Norwich, and Walsh scored the other three touchdowns.

No little credit for the victory belongs to the Jewett City line, who opened large holes in the Sterling frontier throughout the game. Pop French and Allard, played the best for Sterling. The entire Speedboy team played excellently.

EBBETS-DEVOS BOUT MOST IMPORTANT ON FISTIC PROGRAMME THIS WEEK

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Two of the outstanding challengers for Mickey Walker's middleweight title will be seen in action when Harry Ebbets, blonde slugger from Freeport, Long Island, clashes with Rene Devos, the Belgian fox, in Madison Square Garden Friday night.

This bout, most important on the national schedule this week, is scheduled for 10 rounds but it may go less if Ebbets' famed right hand punch connects with the Belgian's chin. Devos has been an outstanding contender for the middleweight title for more than a year but his stock has slipped a bit as a result of defeats by Dave Shade, Ace Hudkins and an unknown, Dec Conrad, of New Jersey.

Nick Testo, of Troy, N. Y., meets Vince Dundee, Baltimore middleweight, in the semi-final of 10 rounds and Black Bill, of Cuba, battles Eugene Huat, French flyweight, in the first 10. This latter bout is one of the semi-finals of the flyweight tournament designed to bring about the naming of generally recognized champion.

Eddie Shea, Chicago featherweight, and Chick Suggs, veteran New Bedford, Mass., boxer, are matched in the wind-up bout at the Paradise arena, Chicago, Tuesday night, with Mique Malloy as master of ceremonies.

Other bouts on the national schedule include:

Monday—At New York, St. Nicholas arena; Jack Kid Berg, England, vs. Eddie Elkins, New York, welterweights, Ben Jeby, New York, vs. Tony Vaccarelli, New York, middleweights, each 10 rounds; at Louisville: Jackie Dugan, Louisville, vs. Frankie Graham, Utica, N. Y., featherweights, 10 rounds.

Tuesday—At Cleveland: Farmer Joe Cooper, Terre Haute, Ind., vs. Tommy Freeman, Cleveland, welterweights, 10 rounds; at Los Angeles: Frankie Campbell, Los Angeles, vs. Harry Dillon, Minneapolis, heavyweights, 10 rounds.

Wednesday—At Cincinnati, O.: Midget Mike O'Dowd, Columbus, vs. Santiago Zorrila, Mexico, featherweights, 10 rounds.

Friday—At Hollywood: Joe Schlonker, Hollywood, vs. Freddie Fitzgerald, Oregon, welterweights, 10 rounds; at San Francisco: George Dixon, Portland, Ore., Negro, vs. Wesley Ketchell, Salt Lake City, middleweights, 10 rounds.

INTERNATIONAL LEAGUE FAILS TO ELECT PRESIDENT

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—(AP)—The International Baseball league failed in its efforts to elect a president to succeed the late John Conway Toole, today and postponed any further efforts to fill the vacancy until the minor league meeting in Chattanooga, Tenn., next month.

After spending most of the afternoon balloting, the league found itself unable to give a majority to either of two candidates, understood to be Jack Hendricks, former manager of the Cincinnati Reds, and William L. Dill, New Jersey state commissioner of motor vehicles. Each was understood to have four votes of the total of eight.

ATLANTIC CARTON LEAGUE OPENS AT THE AETNA

Last night, the first matches in the Atlantic Carton Bowling league were rolled at the Aetna alleys with the Strippers, Cutters and Office as winners. The Strippers beat the Printers three straight as did the Cutters in their match with the Shippers. The Office took two strings from the Dyers. The scores

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Tempted by the fact that prices had risen as much as 12c a bushel in a week, sellers threw immense offerings into the wheat pit today prices gave way as a result, influenced also by disappointment over scantiness of a decrease today in the United States wheat visible supply. Bearish significance was attached to a showing that whereas accumulation points showed decreases of the visible supply totaling 3,049,000 bushels, increases were mainly the rule at the chief distributing centers.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled at 3-4 to 1 1-4c per bushel lower than Saturday's finish. Corn closed 3-8 to 7-8c off, oats 1-8 to 3-4c down, and provisions varying from 7c setback to a rise of 12c.

Shrinkage of the United States wheat visible supply total today was announced as only a scant 529,000 bushels, compared with 2,394,000 bushels decrease a week ago and 1,333,000 bushels decrease at this time last year. Hopes that a more rapid falling off in the amount of wheat on hand in this country would be shown were thus quickly dashed and the circumstance added to the weight of huge sales today to realize profits on the part of recent buyers. Besides, advance in price today had to contend with the effect of many standing orders from speculators to sell on all bulges owing to the swiftness with which the market had risen from last week's bottom level.

On the other hand, upturns in wheat values during the earlier trading only were accelerated by lively new purchasing based a good deal on reports that black rust is spreading in Argentina, and that rain and heat there were threatening to make crop damage worse. Losses of probably 15,000,000 bu. were reported as having taken place already in Santa Fe and Cordoba provinces alone. Furthermore, export business in North American wheat today continued active, being estimated at 1,500,000 bu. Much notice was also taken that the amount of wheat on ocean passage was continuing to diminish, totaling today but 33,760,000 bu. against 35,408,000 bu. a week ago and 56,088,000 bu. at this time last year. However, all such factors were largely lost sight of toward the end of the day, and with sellers in a decided majority, for at least the time being, the market closed at the day's bottom figures and with all the earlier gains more than wiped out.

Corn and oats receded with wheat, despite a forecast of unsettled weather likely to hinder the movement of the new corn crop.

Provisions averaged lower, mainly as a result of selling induced by the late downturn of grain values.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 18—(AP)—The bond market made further progress today toward recovering the losses it suffered during the recent interval of distress selling. Advances were general in domestic corporation loans, while four of the listed United States government securities touched new 1929 peaks.

Improved credit conditions, reflected in easier money rates, together with an investment from individuals seeking conservative employment for their funds, were factors in the improvement. Time loans were quoted as 5 1-2 to 5 3-4 per cent for all maturities, and some money brokers believed the rate could be even lower. Call money renewed at 5 1-2 per cent and then dropped to 5, its low for the year.

Trading in obligations of the United States was in small blocks, but the light demand sent First and Fourth Liberty 4 1-4s, as well as the Treasury 3 1-4s and 3 3-8s of 1940-43 to new high ground for the year. First grade rails, industrials and utilities showed gains averaging considerably less than a point, but there was some easiness in the secondary carrier loans.

Advances of one to two points were scattered throughout the domestic list, notably in Armour 5 1-2s and 4 1-2s, Baltimore & Ohio 5s, Central of Georgia 5s, St. Paul 5s and Adjustment 5s, Chicago & Western Indiana 5 1-2s, Hudson & Manhattan Adjustment 5s, Louisville & Nashville 4s, Missouri Kansas Adjustment 5s, Skelly Oil 5 1-2s, American Smelting 5s, American Writing Paper 6s and Atchison General 4s. Gains of about half a point appeared in numerous high grade rails. The utilities were rather dull.

Convertibles idled through an irregular session. American Telephone 4 1-2s had a net decline of 4 1-4s, while International Telephone 4 1-2s, after selling 3 points higher, suffered a net loss of one point. Public Service of New Jersey 4 1-2s rallied 11 1-2 points from their recent low, but the gain was made on a small turnover. Reading Coal & Iron 6s gained 3 3-4s, Commercial Investment Trust 5 1-2s went to a new low.

Foreign bonds were likewise irregular. Brazilian issues, which have been weak in sympathy with the depressed coffee markets, hardened, but Colombian Agricultural Bank 6s, also affected by the coffee situation, went to new lows on further liquidation. European government loans tended higher.

POETRY FOR THE WIDEAWAKES

The Little Mohee.

As I was wandering for pleasure one day,
In sweet recreation I aimless did stray
As I sat amusing myself on the grass,
Oh, who should come there but a young Indian lass?

She sat down beside me, and taking my hand,
Said, "You are a stranger in a strange land,
But if you will follow, you're welcome to come
And dwell with myself in a snug little home."

The sun was fast sinking far over the sea
When I wandered along with the little Mohee.
Together we wandered, together did rove
Till we came to a cottage in a cocoanut grove.

When this kind expression she made unto me:
"If you will consent, sir, and stay here with me.
And go no more roving upon the salt sea,
I'll teach you the language of the Indian Mohee."

"Oh no, my pretty maiden, that never can be,
For I have a true love in my own country;
And I'll never forsake her, for I know she loves me,
And her heart is as true as the pretty Mohee."

'Twas early one morning, a morning in May,
That to this fair maiden these words did I say:
"I'm going to leave you, so farewell, my dear,
My ship's sails are spreading and home I must steer."

The last time I saw her she stood on the strand,
And as my ship passed her she waved me her hand,
Saying, "When you have landed with the girl that you love,
Just think of Little Mohee in the cocoanut grove."

And now I have landed on my native shore
With friends and relations about me once more,
I gazed all about me; not one could I see
That was fit to compare with the Little Mohee.

And the girl that I trusted proved untrue to me,
So I'll turn my course backward far over the sea
I'll turn my course backward, from this land I'll flee,
I'll go spend my days with the pretty Mohee.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDEAWAKES.

Before long the first snow of the season will fall to the enjoyment of the younger members of this generation and to the disgust of the older ones most likely. It will appear unexpectedly and be gone as quickly, melting almost as fast as it strikes the ground. Winter will have set in.

This season has many things of interest for the Wideawake member for it gives him skating, skiing, sliding and what not, all of which he would rather do than prepare his home work for school. At this time of the year mother always generally knows where she can find her boy in case she wants a pail of coal or an armful of wood. He will be cavorting about his usual favorite sliding place or skating on the nearest pond.

There are several dangers to be considered by the boys and girls in the winter sports. Usually at this time of year there are many who fail to come home alive, having met with an accident in sliding into a truck or stonewall that results fatally or breaking through the ice and drowning. A good thing to do is to heed the warning of mother on the proper time and place to slide and skate. She is generally correct in her warnings.

As a rule small boys think it is great fun to try the ice when it has only reached a thickness of a couple of inches. They like to make "benders", a habit that is dangerous where the water is deep or even low, for if one falls in he may meet his death or contract pneumonia that will result in a like fate.

So before going on the ice be sure that it is of sufficient thickness to hold your weight or that the sliding place you are using is not dangerous or has the protection of the police. It is a warning that is well to heed.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDEAWAKES.

Makes Jack o' Lanterns.

Dear Uncle Jed: I have written to the Wideawake circle many times and enjoy writing. This time I am going to tell you what I did on Halloween.

Shortly before Halloween my sister and I prepared our pumpkin Jack o' Lanterns. Although our brother has helped us make them in the past, this year we told him we would like to try it ourselves. We made my sister's Jack o' Lantern first. We took a small knife that was rather dull, and cut out a top. Then we took a spoon and scraped out the inside as thoroughly as we could. We made oval-shaped eyes and cut out a small slit for the mouth, so that we could put a pipe into it. We made a triangular shaped nose, and a little place inside the pumpkin where we could put a candle.

My pumpkin was a little different than my sister's as it did not have a pipe in its mouth.

We enjoyed ourselves very much on Halloween night. I believe many other children enjoyed themselves, also.

A Halloween Party.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about the Halloween party eight of us little girls had Saturday afternoon from two to five. The room was prettily decorated in Halloween colors, black cats and pumpkin moonshines. The first game we played was to see who could find the most hidden black cats. A prize was awarded to the one who found the most. We played several other games. We were trying to see which one of us little girls could pin the stem on the pumpkin in the right place blind-folded. Then we were called into the dining room where a great surprise awaited us. We had sandwiches, cocoa, cup cakes, decorated in Halloween colors, candy, ice cream and soda, also each little girl received a little yellow basket filled with black cats. We all went home very happy and looked forward to another Halloween party next year.

Riding in the Rain.

Dear Uncle Jed: What a cruel surprise to have it rain on Sunday. We had planned to go to Springfield but, of course, now our plans were spoiled. When daddy got up about two o'clock he said we would go to Putnam and to Putnam we went. I think it is a lot of fun to sit in the car all nice and warm and then to look out of the window and see the rain pouring down. It nearly puts you to sleep to hear its rain on the top of an automobile. I hope you will ride in the rain some day.

Fun Watching Planes.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about three airplanes that came to Jewett City. Two gave rides and one made stunts. The one that made stunts had yellow wings and a blue body. The other two had yellow wings and green bodies.

Many people took rides. A ride cost $2.50. The two airplanes that gave rides took up four passengers at a time. One of the pilots tried to sell my sister a ticket, but she did not want to go up. There were six pilots there.

The airplanes had Whirlwind motors. They were just like the one that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh had in his airplane in which he flew from New York to Paris.

There was a big crowd on the field, and we had a good time watching the planes take off and land.

Our Gang.

Dear Uncle Jed: I haven't written to the Wideawake circle for a long time. But now I must write and tell you about "Our Gang". I read all about them in a book and now I want to tell you about it.

Our Gang, as they are called, are six little boys and girls who act in the moving pictures. They are all a jolly and fun-loving bunch of children, especially Joe Cobb, who is 11 years old, and is as jolly as he is fat.

Then there is the cute little colored boy called Farina. You know that isn't his real name. His real name is Allen Clay Hoskins. And the third one of the gang is hard boiled Harry who has a million freckles and no front teeth.

But wait till I tell you about Wheezer, the youngest member of the gang. He is three years old and has a dog that is called Pete.

There are also two little girls with this gang, too. Jean Darling is a golden haired little girl, who is six years old. She looks like a big doll that any little girl would be glad to own.

And last of all comes freckle faced Mary Ann Jackson. She is five years old and the rascal of the gang.

I wish I could tell you more about this gang of boys and girls, but I'll have to close my story.

How Chipmunk Received Stripes.

Dear Uncle Jed: Long, long ago there lived a cat. One day this cat saw a chipmunk. He chased the chipmunk into a stump, then he put in his paw and brought his claws across his back and that is how the chipmunk got his stripes.

Saw Three Airplanes.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you. I am going to tell you about three airplanes that flew over Jewett City, Saturday, Nov. 2, 1929.

Saturday afternoon at 3.15 p. m. there were three airplanes, a small one and two big ones. The small one did more tricks than the two big ones. After a while they landed at Roode's field for Sunday they were to take up passengers and that's all I saw of them until Sunday. I hope the Wideawakes will like my story.

A Surprise Party.

Dear Uncle Jed: The evening before Halloween a party was given in honor of Marion Nicholson. It was a surprise to her. A great many children were present. We played games, after which refreshments were served.

Marion, I know, was very well pleased. Everybody had a lovely evening. We all were very tired when the time for going home came.

My Trip to the Woods.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the second letter I have written to you. I am going to tell you about a trip to the woods.

One day my sister and I thought we would take a trip to the woods. I live on a farm of 400 acres, of which 250 acres are woods. We took a basket with us so if we would find anything we would have something to carry it in. The woods were lovely in the fall dress. When we had gone a little way we saw an old oak tree where we had gotten mushrooms the year before. We looked all around. At first we didn't see any, but we soon found them. We picked them and crossed a wall. On the other side there were lovely leaves all around. I gathered quite a few of them. I also gathered moss and nuts. As we went home we saw three beautiful pheasants. Later my father killed one and had him stuffed.

I am in the sixth grade in school and like it very much.

Finds Cave in Woods.

Dear Uncle Jed: I thought I would write to you and the Wideawakes while I have spare moments. I am going to tell you about "Our Exploration of the Woods."

One day some of my friends and I decided to go into the woods and have a look at nature. So we prepared a lunch and started for the woods. As we were tramping about we decided to make marks on the trees where we were so we made dashes on them. After we had gone on further we came to a great many rocks. We decided to have our lunch there. As we came nearer to the rocks we saw a cave and then a smaller one. After we ate our lunch some of us volunteered to go through the cave to the other side. After we came out we explored the cave and farther into the woods. We thought we had gone far enough so turned back to the cave.

We found large flat stones and fixed the floor with them. Soon it began to thunder, so we started to go home. We have not been up there for a long time but when we do we expect to find twigs and leaves.

My Visit to Franklin Park.

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you.

Last summer while I was in Boston, my mother, father and I went to Franklin park. There we saw many animals. They were monkeys, lions and elephants. When I fed the monkeys, peanuts, they ate them like men. There was a yellow and black snake about two yards long. In the museum there I saw many different kinds of flowers. There were prize dahlias and roses. Many kinds of tropical trees, from the other parts of the country were there.

I went on the ferris wheel and when I got to the top it stopped. I thought I was falling from a high tower.

I had a very good time at the park and hope to go again.

Prejudice Thrives Where Ignorance Hives!

AN ANCIENT PREJUDICE HAS BEEN REMOVED

AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE beckons all to cultivate knowledge. Tyranny, intolerance and poverty wither as schools grow in this great land of opportunity.

"toasting did it"—

Gone is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes—Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos.

YEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes. That criticism is no longer justified. LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobacco, properly aged and skillfully blended—"It's Toasted."

"TOASTING," the most modern step in cigarette manufacture, removes from LUCKY STRIKE harmful irritants which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way.

Everyone knows that heat purifies, and so "TOASTING"—LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process—removes harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. Thus "TOASTING" has destroyed that ancient prejudice against cigarette smoking by men and by women.

"It's Toasted"—the phrase that describes the extra "toasting" process applied in the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes. The finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—are scientifically subjected to penetrating heat at minimum, 260°—maximum, 300°, Fahrenheit. The exact, expert regulation of such high temperatures removes impurities. More than a slogan, "It's Toasted" is recognized by millions as the most modern step in cigarette manufacture.

STEADY STREAM OF LIQUIDATION WAS READILY ABSORBED IN STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 18—(AP)—With nerves steadied over the week end, the stock market was able to absorb a steady but moderate stream of liquidation during today's session without losing its equilibrium. Although a handful of stocks lost from 10 to nearly 20 points, few leading issues declined more than 5 points, and several closed higher.

The volume of trading for the three-hour session was but 2,746,770 shares, and at no time was the ticker more than 20 minutes late. This was the smallest turnover in more than three weeks, and compared with daily sales of from approximately 4,300,000 to 7,700,000 during the preceding four sessions.

The selling appeared to be largely profit taking on the advance late last week. It was notable that distress selling failed to reappear, and bearish pressure was light. The daily reports which the stock exchange is still requiring from members showing which of their customers are short of the market, and to what extent, has insured caution among the professional bears, as has also heavy support orders still underneath the market.

The exchange's prized record of having come through a major selling panic without the failure of a member was spoiled by an announcement, in the final minutes of trading, that Mandeville, Brooks and Chaffee of Providence, R. I., was unable to meet its engagements. This house was a comparative newcomer, however, and had practically no customers outside of Rhode Island. The announcement was made too late in the session to be reflected in the action of the market, but Wall street did not regard it as of a serious import. Accounts with the firm's New York correspondents were reported well secured.

The day brought forth another assortment of extra or increased dividend declarations, and other developments of a character further to bolster confidence. Studebaker corporation's marking up of prices, after cuts by several other automobile manufacturers was particularly reassuring, as were reports of a revival of activity in some of the motor making centers, particularly Toledo. A further reduction of California crude oil production reported for last week was accepted as evidence that crude output is definitely under control.

Credit continued to cheapen, with call money renewing at 5 1-2, and ranging to 5 for the first time this month. In the outside market it loaned as low as 4 per cent. There was little business in time money, but most dealers quoted still lower rates—5 1-2 to 5 3-4 per cent for all maturities. Bankers acceptances were in good demand, with the supply limited.

U. S. Steel closed at 160, off 4 1-4 points, having ranged from 164 1-2 to 159 3-4. Such shares as American Can, American Telephone, American and Foreign Power, Baltimore and Ohio, New York Central, New Haven, Eastman Kodak, Montgomery Ward, Public Service of N. J., Sears Roebuck and Republic Steel showed net losses of 2 1-2 to 4 1-2 points. General Electric and Johns Manville closed about 6 points, after selling off as much as 8. Federal Light and Traction, in a few sales, dropped to 60 1-2, and rallied to 70, where it was off 19 1-2. J. I. Case, Auburn Auto, Columbia Carbon and Western Union, all of which are subject to wide movements closed down 10 to 14 points.

Allied Chemical was a strong spot, gaining 14 points, Calumet & Hecla and Hershey Chocolate closed about 7 points higher, and Chesapeake and Ohio, General Foods, Macy, Norfolk and Western, Marma Copper, Devoe and Raynolds, and St. Louis-San Francisco were among shares gaining from 1 to 4 points. Studebaker closed up 1 3-4 points.

Foreign exchanges sagged to the lowest levels in weeks, further removing the prospect of a drain upon New York gold with the lower rediscount rate. The decline was attributed to accumulation of dollar demand over the week end, and anticipation of a possible lowering of the Bank of England rate this week. Sterling cables sagged 5-16 of a cent to $4.87 7-16. The Canadian dollar rallied nearly 1-5 of a cent, reducing its premium to 3 cents.

Commodity markets generally eased. Cotton was particularly heavy, influenced by lower prices at Liverpool, and realizing on the advances late last week. Losses in the various positions ran from $1.30 to $1.45 a bale. Wheat futures sagged a cent and more, and wheat nearly as much on bearish weather and crop reports.

BUILDING PERMITS SHOW DECREASE AS WINTER WEATHER APPROACHES

There was a marked decrease in the number of permits issued by Fire Marshal Henry R. Taft during the past week when only four were granted as compared to 14 for the previous week. The four permits were for only small work such as additions and a garage.

With the cold weather only a few weeks away local contractors have been extremely busy during the past week in rushing work to completion or to such a point where the extreme cold will not hamper them.

At the Norwich Inn, the contractors have made exceptionally good progress during the past week. The rear wall has been started and is now up to the second story. The front and east walls are nearly complete and the gables are being erected. It is expected that the building will be ready for the roof with another fortnight.

Other projects in the city have been brought along toward completion at a rapid rate. In the Fanning avenue section a number of the new houses being built there are nearly completed.

To Joseph Ferri, to erect a frame hen house in the rear of 124 Asylum street. The house will be 15x25 feet with cement foundation and frame superstructure. The estimated cost is $50.

To William O'Neil, to build an addition to his house at 15 Slater avenue, to alter the present building into a two-apartment house. The addition will be 4x11 feet. There will be a new back staircase erected and also a new front entrance. The estimated cost is $500.

To Arthur Ouilet, to build an addition to the present frame shed at 15 Third street. The shed will be altered into a two-car garage. The estimated cost is $75.

To Arthur E. Henry, to add to the present building at 111 Roath street. A new porch is to be built onto the building. The porch will be 4x8 feet. The estimated cost is $50.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

In Norwich during the past week there were ten sales of real estate as compared to six sales made during the corresponding week in 1928. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $44,150 and $22,050.

There were six sales of real estate in New London during the past week, two more than during the same week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $68,139 and $41,600.

NEW LONDON.

With winter approaching but with continued mild temperatures there has been no noticeable let up in construction activities about the city and in many quarters the opinion is certain that there will be none. Besides the normal amount of home building now under way there is as much if not more construction work of a larger scale either under way or soon to be started.

Two of the most important jobs now under way are the new children's ward of the Lawrence and Memorial Associated hospitals and the new administration building for the Connecticut College for Women, both of which are being erected by the H. Wales Lines company.

In the commercial field is included a new business building going up in Main street and a large garage addition in Church street. According to Building Inspector Gunn the number of new houses now in the process of construction total more than 20, as many as there has been at any time during the present year.

The dangerous condition existing at the railroad crossing in Maple avenue, now fenced against public use, may possibly be eliminated in the near future by the construction of an underpass and the changing of the street level at that point. After considerable study of the situation City Manager Holt and City Engineer Waters have concluded that this plan offers the best solution to the problem, inasmuch as no funds are available at this time, however, it is expected that any actual work on the project will be deferred until next year.

Building Permits.

Standard Cotton Stores, Inc., store alterations, 138 State street, $3,000.

Augustus Ray, alterations, 63 Pitch avenue, $400.

Sidney Sulman, garage addition, rear 26 Church street $5,000.

Number of permits for the week 8; estimated cost of buildings, $27,000.

BUILT-IN SHELVES ALWAYS ATTRACTIVE

Built-in open bookshelves be in every home. They make one's books temptingly handy and have a decided decorative value as well. Almost every house has some space in living rooms and bedrooms where shelves may be placed to excellent advantage—at each side of a fireplace, flanking a doorway, filling an entire wall space, or the side walls of a window seat or dormer.

Handing shelves are also quaint and attractive accessories of many modern homes. They are suitable for any type of house and for any room. They are equally useful for books, collections, art objects or china, and are colorful and decorative in any of these uses. Firms specializing in these have produced some unusually attractive designs, most of which follow the beautiful colonial lines of shelves and closed-in wall cupboards found in most 18th century New England homes.

PROPER WAY FOR USING CLEANSERS

So many people are accustomed to the use of cleansing liquids who apparently know nothing about how they should be applied that perhaps the advice of an acknowledged expert along this line would not be amiss. Gasoline and others containing the same cleansing properties are perfectly all right for cleansing heavy draperies, portieres, furniture upholstery and even hats and coats provided they are used properly. The trouble is, few know the proper method and as a result the cleansing process usually results in a permanent "ring" remaining on the material cleaned. The tendency is to blame the cleansing material, where, as a matter of fact, the fault is with the person who does the cleaning.

According to the expert the proper way to proceed is to take a piece of clean cheesecloth roll it into a tight ball and then saturate it with whatever cleansing material is to be used. The cheesecloth then should be wrung almost dry, or until it is impossible for the liquid to run when applied. If this is done the stains can be removed and in a brief time the cleaned spot will dry without showing the least trace of the cleansing fluid. Not enough liquid has been used to cause any portion to become completely soaked and thus carry the dirt in rings into the material.

Many make the mistake of believing that material must be thoroughly soaked with cleansing material to remove stains, whereas it is that method which tends to leave rings that no amount of cleansing will remove.

CONN. BUILDING AT YEAR'S PEAK DURING OCTOBER

That the advent of cold weather no longer has a minimizing effect on building activity in Connecticut is evidenced in the October building survey conducted by the committee on industrial development of the New Haven railroad, which shows that, after undergoing a slump in September, building permits in this state took such a decided rise last month that the state's total value of permits issued exceeded that of any other month this year.

Moreover, the increase in building was generally spread throughout the state, 15 of the 23 cities covered in the railroad's survey showing gains over their September figures. While these gains naturally contributed in making the October total the largest of the year, the main reason for the extraordinary rise was the permit issued by New Haven to Yale university for the construction of its new three million dollar law school building.

The 15 communities whose building permit totals for October exceeded those of September were Bristol, Derby, Greenwich, Hamden, Meriden, Middletown, Naugatuck, New Britain, New Haven, Norwich, Torrington, Wallingford, Waterbury, West Hartford and West Haven. Eleven cities and towns showed increases over their building figures of October, 1928. They were Danbury, Greenwich, Meriden, Middletown, Naugatuck, New Haven, New London, Wallingford, West Hartford, West Haven and Willimantic.

City	Oct. 1929	Oct. 1928
Bristol	$127,715	$ 195,062
Bridgeport	268,783	271,505
Danbury	87,465	87,545
Derby	19,750	33,234
Greenwich	1,022,870	924,880
Hamden	202,360	271,950
Hartford	770,063	956,805
Meriden	112,015	92,230
Middletown	74,975	89,200
Naugatuck	39,500	13,975
New Britain	132,850	397,177
New Haven	3,359,542	767,500
New London	159,675	80,490
Norwalk	176,330	488,830
Stamford	255,190	528,595

WIPE YOUR FEET!

If the man of the house has any consideration at all for the "lady of the house" he will gain favor in her eyes by buying a cocoa mat and placing it at the foot or on the landing of the cellar stairs. A surprising amount of dirt is tracked up from the cellar and deposited on the kitchen floor, or even on the rugs in the living room, dining room and hallway. The introduction of a mat and regular use of it has been known to eliminate many "home jars."

NEW FANNING AVENUE HOUSE

The above is a picture of the new house recently completed by Contractor Patrick F. Sweeney on Fanning avenue. The house was built by Mr. Sweeney for investment purposes and is one of the attractive homes in this rapidly developing section. It is of the American architecture, simple in design, yet well built and very roomy.

There are six rooms and bath in the house, all finished in hardwood and hard finish plaster. The exterior finish is in wide clapboards, with cedar shingled roof and gables. A large porch extends across the front of the house. There is a small ell in the rear. The windows are of the six-over-one design and the front door is of plate glass and oak.

The floors are of oak throughout. There is a large fireplace in the living room and the kitchen is equipped with built-in cabinets.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Vick's VaporRub

Mr. Johnson, representing the Vick Chemical Co., has just arrived in town to conduct a sampling campaign here. A small test sample of Vick's Vapo-Rub, he says will shortly be placed in every home in the city.

Many of our readers recall this product's familiar advertising slogan—first announced when it reached "17 Million Jars Used Yearly"—then raised to "21 Million." This year's advertising shows still another increase in the figures as there are now "Over 26 Million Jars Used Yearly."

Mr. Johnson attributes this rapid and ever-increasing sale of Vick's in part to sampling, which gives people who have never tried it a chance to test the merits of Vick's by actual use. "Besides," he added smiling, "we always use good newspapers to keep everybody reminded of Vick's whenever they catch colds."

Palace Theatre

A famous stage play that has been transferred to the talking screen, is to be presented at the Palace theatre for three days beginning Wednesday. This is "The Great Divide," romantic drama of mountain and desert life, starring Dorothy Mackaill, Ian Keith and Myrna Loy.

Never has the colorful west been the background for a more powerful and compelling romance than "The Great Divide." The mighty scenery of that country is the setting in which men and women move in heroic, titanic roles, roles that take the breath away even as the sight of Nature's handiwork does to those who look upon the vast sculptured mountains, valleys and canons of the west. Running through the entire drama is a rhythm and melody that softens the rugged aspect given by the surroundings. Tuneful theme songs give the picture the air of an operetta at times, but the drama and the romance, the conflict of human emotions and human wills remain.

Crude and harsh is the atmosphere in which Manuella, exquisite little Spanish beauty, is thrown. It is the west of gunmen, of rough placer miners, of cow and sheep-herders who know more about the open country than they do about the social graces. Yet she moves like a flower among them, unharmed and untainted, and when the crisis comes she proves she is made of just as hard metal as the hardest - riding, loudest - cussing, straightest-shooting man jack of the crowd.

Today for the last time the Palace presents Colleen Moore in that scintillating drama of metropolitan life and morals. If you saw the "Gold-Diggers of Broadway" and enjoyed it, don't miss "Footlights and Fools."

Broadway Theatre

With today's performances the engagement of the delightful collegiate musical-drama, "Sweetie," comes to an end at the Broadway. Starting tomorrow for a brief three days, Rupert Hughes' amazing story of womanhood's tremendous part in the World war is brought to the screen in the thrilling film-drama of the same name, "She Goes to War." Here is a side of the greatest conflict in history that has never been revealed, either in story or film, and with Hughes' masterly pen furnishing the story, a screen production of magnificent scope has been made. Eleanor Boardman is the society miss who goes overseas for a lark, and finds herself at last regenerated by the sordidness and utter misery all about her, finding an outlet for her enthusiasm in relieving the suffering of others, and ultimately rewarded by a great love born in the smoke, grime and thunder of the trenches. A big cast, including John Holland, Edmund Burns, Alma Rubens and Al St. John, with Margaret Seddon, Eulalie Jensen, Yola D'Avril and hundreds of troops, including the crews of a battery of gigantic "tanks," with Henry King directing and Gen. Charles P. Summerall supervising the war scenes, a story of rare dramatic intensity and accuracy is unfolded in this tremendous epic. The latest Fox Movietone news and selected Vitaphone acts complete the bill. During the engagement of "She Goes to War," all Gold Star Mothers, World War Nurses, Yeowomen and Field Clerks (F), and members of the Women's Motor Reserve corps will be admitted as the guests of the management at any performance. In preparation for Saturday's opening is the wonderful all-outdoor all-talking film version of Owen Wister's famous novel, "The Virginian," starring Gary Cooper in the title role, with Walter Huston as the notorious "Trampas," and Richard Arlen and Mary Brian in the supporting cast. A vivid spectacle of the old west with its trail herds, mushroom towns, and "free 'n easy livin'" is presented, with the finest recording of dialog ever achieved in an all-outdoor picture.

Richard Barthelmess and Alice Day in "Drag"

Lila Lee, pretty brunette actress, plays one of the two feminine leads opposite Richard Barthelmess in the latter's newest First National-Vitaphone starring vehicle, "Drag," which is currently running at the Breed theatre. Alice Day, an equally pretty blonde, plays the second feminine lead in this story of domestic strife.

Sale For Blind People

A sale of the home products of the older blind people of the state will be held at the Boston store all day Wednesday, Nov. 20, with Miss Izetta Dellett of Norwich in charge. Miss Dellett is one of the blind home teachers of the state board of education of the blind who travels through eastern Connecticut teaching blind people to read with their fingers and to make useful articles. The fellow citizens of the blind who see are invited to purchase these products, most of which are of good workmanship and can be utilized in the household and as gifts.

Some of the articles which will be placed on sale are made by blind people in Norwich and vicinity.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Flip Is Filled With Pride.

By Thornton W. Burgess.

Be not too hasty in your pride;
Be sure the cause is justified.
—Old Mother Nature.

There was a lot of excitement down behind Farmer Brown's henhouse. Flip the Terrier had discovered Unc' Billy Possum there and he was dancing around Unc' Billy, barking and watching for a chance to rush in and seize him. Unc' Billy, on his part, was turning so as always to face Flip and was snarling and showing a set of very sharp teeth. All the time Unc' Billy was trying to edge along until he could reach one of the posts of the henyard. Of course, Flip didn't know this. Flip didn't know Unc' Billy or anything about him. No, sir, he didn't know who Unc' Billy was, so of course, he had no suspicion of what Unc B'lly was trying to do. All Flip wanted was a chance to dash in and seize Unc' Billy by the back of the neck. If he could once do this, he felt he could shake Unc' Billy to death in a minute.

So he continued to rush and bark, and Unc' Billy continued to gradually work along until he turned the corner of the henhouse. If he could just get down the length of the henhouse to where the fence began, he could climb one of those fence posts and be safe. How he did wish that he had remained in the old stone wall! He hadn't known anything about Flip. You see, it was a long, long time since he had been up to Farmer Brown's and it was only a short time that Flip had been living there. Unc' Billy knew all about Bowser the Hound. He had met him before. Flip was wholly different. Bowzer was slow, while Flip was quicker than a flash.

Gradually Unc' Billy was edging along nearer and nearer to that first fence post. He turned his head for a quick glance and Flip saw his chance. He rushed in and got hold of Unc' Billy by the skin of the neck. He didn't have a good hold. He didn't have a hold that would let him shake him thoroughly, if he wanted to shake him. He knew it. He was sure that he hadn't even hurt Unc' Billy. So you can perhaps guess how surprised he was when Unc' Billy suddenly went limp. Flip dropped him at once. He had killed many rats. He knew that when a rat went limp that way it was dead. So Unc' Billy must be dead. Flip let go of him and stood over him, trying to believe his eyes. There lay Unc' Billy on his side his eyes closed, his mouth half open and not a sign of life about him. Flip backed away two or three steps. Certainly this queer fellow was dead. He went up to him again and rolled him over with his nose. There was no doubt about it—this fellow was dead.

"Well," thought Flip, "this fellow was easy. He looked like a fighter, but never in my life have I killed a rat as easily as I killed this big fellow." You see, Flip was still thinking that Unc' Billy was some kind of rat.

Then Flip became filled with pride. Yes, sir, he became filled with pride. He left that he had done a big thing. I wonder what Bowser the Hound will say to this," thought Flip. "Yes, sir, I wonder what Bowser will say to this. I'll go up and get him and bring him back here. He'll have to see it with his own eyes. He won't believe that I could kill any one as big as this so easily. It's funny, I must have scared him to death. I didn't break his neck or I didn't even have a good hold on him. I wonder if I could carry him up to Farmer Brown's. That would be even better than bringing Bowser down here."

So Flip got hold of the loose skin of Unc' Billy's back and carried him a short distance But Unc' Billy was too big and too heavy for a small dog to carry far. He tried it two or three times. Then he dropped Unc' Billy, stood and looked at him pridefully for a few moments, and then raced off to get Bowser the Hound. There wasn't a prouder dog in all the Great World than Flip

The next story: "Pride Has a Fall."

A Granite City (Ill.) woman was shot in the arm by her estranged husband. That was last June. In the meantime the woman discovered that she had lost her wrist watch. The wound in her arm did not heal, and, thinking the bullet was in it, she had her arm operated on, and there was her wrist watch.

POETRY

The Flock At Evening

Sunset is golden upon the steep,
And all our little valleys lie
Golden and still and full of sleep
To watch the flocks go by.
Down through the winding leaf-hung lane
Now blurred in shade, now bright again,
They trail in splendor, aureoled
And mystical in clouded gold.

As insubstantial as a dream
They huddle homeward past my door—
From what Theocritean stream,
Or what Thessalian shore?
An ancient air surrounds them still,
As though from some Arcadian hill
They suffled through the afterglow
Across the fields of long ago.

Is this the flock Apollo kept
From straying by his reed-soft tunes
While the long ilex shadow crept
Through ancient afternoons?
In some dim legendary wood,
Ages ago, have they not stood
Wondering, circle-wise and mute,
Round some remote Sicilian flute?

I think that they have gazed across
The dazzle of Ionian seas
From the green capes of Tenedos
Or wave-washed Cyclades,
And wandered through the twilight down
The hills that gird some Attic town
Dim-shining in the purple gloam
Besides the whispering of pale foam.

What dream is this? I know the croft,
Deep in this vale, where they were born;
I know their wind-swept fields aloft
Among the waving corn.
Yet, while they glimmer slowly by,
A fairer earth and earlier sky
Seem round them, and they move sublime
Among the dews of dawning time.

—Odell Shepard.

Home-Coming

When I stepped homeward to my hill
Dusk went before with quiet tread;
The bare laced branches of the trees
Were as a mist about its head.

Upon its leaf-brown breast, the rocks
Like great gray sheep lay silent-wise;
Between the birth trees' gleaming arms,
The faint stars trembled in the skies.

The white brook met me half-way up
And laughed as one that knew me well,
To whose more clear than crystal voice,
The frost had joined a crystal spell.

The skies lay like pale-watered deep
Dusk ran before me to its strand
And cloudily leaned forth to touch,
The moon's slow wonder with her hand.

—Leonie Adams

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Johnny—Well, Pa said a bank was no good unless it had a big capital.—Chicago Tribune.

Landlady—I can't allow you to play the piano today. It's the Sabbath, you know.

Lodger—But I'm playing sacred music.

Landlady—It doesn't matter. The neighbors don't know the difference.—Royal Arcanum Bulletin.

Judge—Mr. Jefferson, you are accused of removing a fat chicken from this man's roost and carrying it two miles to your home. Have you anything to say in explanation?

Judge—I'm afraid I shall have to fine you. That was carrying a joke too far.—The Pathfinder.

An English lord had greatly annoyed his American host by comparing everything he was shown with something like it in England that was bigger or better. Finally, the American decided he'd find one thing that couldn't be compared, and that evening he put a big turtle in the Englishman's bed. His guest had barely gotten into bed before the turtle had his toe.

There's no fire so good, it cannot be made better with a sprinkling of Fyrebell — specially prepared small size Reading Anthracite. Order a few tons today.

SAVE YOUR MONEY WHILE ENJOYING BETTER HEATING

Just call your Reading coal merchant and ask him to deliver both Reading Furnace and Reading Fyrewell coal in the right amounts for burning together.

Reading Furnace is the size that has been standard for fine furnace fires for generations.

Reading Fyrewell is a specially prepared small size hard coal that sells much below the larger sizes.

The average price of the two sizes gives you an initial fuel cost but little above and often less than that of smoky or quick-burning fuels—a delivered heat cost that is much lower.

Your furnace fires will last longer, burn more evenly, need less attention.

Right NOW is the time to start enjoying such heating. Call your coal merchant today. He has these sizes of Reading Anthracite, or can get them quickly for you.

NEW LONDON COUNCIL TOLD FIRE ALARM EQUIPMENT NEEDS REPAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 18.—The city council, in a meeting of two and one-half hours this evening, transacted much business. There were two members absent. The fire alarm equipment of the city is becoming defective and in order to place it in repair, the city asks for the expenditure of $5,000 for repeaters. The system has been in use here 29 years and is becoming worn out so that minor repairs will not place it in proper condition. The equipment for repairs must be bought from the Gamewell Co. who have patents on the appliances.

In discussing the recommendation of $5,000 for the fire alarm, the city manager said it was not safe to have the system in its present condition.

The sum of $1,315 was asked for totalisers for machines in the tax collector's office. The recommendation was adopted and the money was appropriated.

County Treasurer Albert Bailey asked for $48,085 for the county tax for the new county home. No notice of the city's liability in this respect had been given, so New London was not prepared to meet it. Therefore, the transfer of money from various appropriations was recommended by the city manager.

Mayor Twomey said the council had no right to make the fire alarm appropriation, as it had not been set up in the budget, but that it should go to committee that they might canvass the whole situation. City Manager Holt claimed that the appropriation was an emergency and an absolute necessity to perfect the alarm and avoid failure. He said it was not now reliable. He also imparted the information that the city will save $9,000 on state and military taxes. Councilor Scott held that inasmuch as an emergency existed, the council was authorized to make the expenditure. He did not want a seney Lubchansky spoke for the chamhave an alarm in use.

Councilor Miner seriously objected to expending the money the council was appropriating in what he called an extravagant manner. He said there was $42,000 for county tax. $6,000 for fire apparatus and other extraordinary expenditures; if the balance in the appropriations existed the tax was too heavy. The matter should be referred to committee; it should be thoroughly canvassed and considered in the next budget. The disposition was to spend the city's money too freely, no matter where it came from. He was opposed to it and voted alone against it. He said that if the system, in use 29 years, had gradually deteriorated, somebody was negligent in line of duty.

City Manager Holt said that the fire alarm had failed—had gone out of use unexpectedly. Councilor Fox said that inasmuch as an emergency did exist he was in favor of making an appropriation, that the city must be provided with a proper fire alarm.

Councilor Fox, for the administration committee, reported progress on hearings on amendments to the zoning ordinance. The committee would report in favor of extending the commercial zone at Dell avenue. Attorrious fire to occur and the city not ber of commerce favoring that. He said the chamber had applications for manufacturing sites and could not supply them. Dell avenue was not a proper place for a residential section, it was marshy and wet. Mr. McLaughlin, who petitioned for amendments to the zoning ordinance had offered to fill in the land and grade it at his own expense. It was proposed to erect a storehouse there alongside the railroad tracks and rent a portion of it. Mr. Lubchansky said that the city was greatly in need of manufacturing and that it should provide sites to accommodate it. The late George Beck owned three lots and they were sold for $190, which did not indicate that there was anything in taxes for the city on land there.

The New London Horticultural society petitioned the city for the preservation of the land on the water side of Pequot avenue. Councilor Fox endorsed the petition and said the site was the prettiest in Connecticut and should be protected by city ordinance. The city should procure land there to keep the view. Mayor Twomey agreed with him, but said that there were legal questions in this, and referred the matter to the city manager and director of law, the city manager to acknowledge the receipt of the petition to the Horticultural society.

A quit claim deed to land from Daniel Bentley and Jesse Joseph for the extension of Dow court to Cedar Grove avenue was received and accepted.

USE OF PUNCH BOARDS BRINGS $10 FINE AND COSTS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 18—Joseph Poretta, 2 State street, a member of the firm of Poretta and DiMarco, proprietors of a periodical and confectionary store, was charged with violation of the gaming laws by permitting the playing of punch boards in his place of business. He was fined $10, and costs. Detective Sergeant John Cavanaugh and Sergeant Samuel Hick went to the store Saturday afternoon when they received information that punch boards were having much patronage. Two such devices were found displayed on a counter and were seized. Although there are probably a hundred or more stores and restaurants throughout the city that provide punch boards for patrons to take a chance on, Poretta was the only proprietor arrested. The removal of punch boards from all business places was ordered a year ago at which time Daniel M. Cronin, now of the police court, was prosecuting attorney. Within a few months store proprietors have caused the punch boards to be put back and with prizes more elaborate than ever for the players to attempt to win by chance.

CITY MANAGER RESERVES DECISION IN REHN CASE

The hearing of charges of neglect of duty against Patrolman Walter Rehn was conducted at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the office of City Manager William A. Holt. With the conclusion of brief testimony, the city manager reserved decision. The principal witness to substantiate the charges was Street Sergeant John Courtney. Rehn, it is claimed, failed to make his 4:30 o'clock call over the police signal box on the morning of Nov. 15. Sergeant Courtney, covering Rehn's beat and not finding the patrolman, went to the State Armory garage and found Rehn, it is claimed, asleep in an automobile. When the report of the sergeant was made at police headquarters, Captain Charles A. Pinney filed charges against Rehn. Rehn admitted being found in the automobile, but said that he was not asleep, but had entered the garage and sat in the auto for the purpose of resting his leg, which was broken over a year ago when he was struck by a Yellow cab on State street. It is expected that City Manager Holt will render his finding in the matter within a day or two.

The police in making their liquor raids Saturday were not altogether successful, for they went to the home of Casio May, in the Fort Neck section and searching May's house failed to find any evidence of liquor, not even a bottle of beer.

John Ritch and Asal Norris, U. S. Section Base 4, this city, are under arrest at Norwalk, charged with being deserters. The New London police informed the coast guard officials Saturday of the arrest of the sailors and assurance was made that a guard would be sent for Ritch and Norris today. Tonight, the Norwalk police informed the New London department that a guard had not arrived for the sailors and no information on the matter could be obtained until tomorrow.

Contraband Booze Destroyed

A quantity of home brew beer, aggregating about 200 bottles and a small amount of liquor, all of which were seized by the police in raids within the past week, were taken to Calkins park today and destroyed in compliance with orders to that effect issued by Judge Daniel M. Cronin.

WILL GO IN SEARCH OF TIPS FOR POLICE SCHOOL PROJECT

Captain of Police Charles A. Pinney and Desk Sergeant William T. Babcock will leave New London tomorrow for a several days' trip for the purpose of obtaining information which, it is believed, will be beneficial to the members of the New London department when the police school is started next month. Captain Pinney and Sergeant Babcock will go first to Bridgeport where Chief of Police Wheeler will provide the visiting officers with such information as is possible and reveal the methods employed in instructing newly appointed officers in the methods of pursuing criminals and general police work. From Bridgeport, Captain Pinney and Sergeant Babcock will go to New York and obtain such information as will be beneficial to the New London department regarding the instructions given New York rookie officers. Captain Pinney and Sergeant Babcock will also visit Springfield, Mass. where a police school is maintained. The officers will return to New London the latter part of the week and it is planned to have the New London police school begin sessions as soon after Dec. 1 as possible. Sergeant Babcock will be in charge of the conduct of the school.

Tony Lynch, Warner street, Groton, was in Groton town court today, charged with violation of the liquor law on two counts, actual sale and keeping with intent to sell. Lynch pended guilty and was fined $200 and costs on each count. Lynch could not pay and was committed to jail. Lynch was arrested Friday by state police officers and members of the Groton department. A quantity of liquor found in the cellar of Lynch's home was seized as evidence.

Mother Of Fifteen Fined

Mrs. Josephine Mazella, Center street, Groton, and the mother of 15 children, eight of whom are living, pleaded guilty to a charge of violation of the liquor law and was fined $100 and costs, amounting to $12.55. Mrs. Mazzella was given the privilege of paying the fine and costs as her financial condition will permit from time to time.

A batch of auto drivers were penalized for various minor infractions of the law and in the cases of five others, absolute nolle was ordered.

PATROLMAN DUFFY DIES WHEN WOUNDED BY ROBBER

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 18.—Patrolman John J. Duffy, New York police department, who with several other officers engaged in a gun fight with Peter DeLaicey, noted New York Negro robber on the streets of that city early Saturday morning and who received two bullet wounds, died at Mt. Sinai hospital, New York, Saturday night. The funeral will be held in New York tomorrow forenoon and the body will be brought to New London for burial. Patrolman Duffy was a brother-in-law of Mrs. William H. Corkey, 35 Lower Boulevard. It is probable that Captain Charles A. Pinney will provide an escort of patrolmen as the cortege moves from the station to the cemetery.

The continued cases of Bradford Lake, Goshen street, charged with non-support, and William Metzermacher, Truman street, charged with breach of the peace and intoxication, were disposed of by nolle. Both men were arrested a month ago upon complaint of their wives.

John Spitzel, Main street, New Britain, charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law in passing an automatic danger signal, failed to present himself in court and his bond of $15 was forfeited.

Two cases of intoxication were tried. One man was sentenced to 60 days in jail and the other was given suspension of judgment.

Henry Crocicchia, 75 Howard street, was charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law in the use of improper markers, and Joseph Logico, Belden street, was charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law in loaning markers. The charge against Logico was nolled, but the case of Crocicchia was continued to the 23rd inst. It is claimed that the markers used by Crocicchia were loaned him by Logico. The two men were arrested Sunday by State Police Officer James Dygart.

DAUGHTER OF MINISTER IN SAILORS' CAMP SCANDAL

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 18.— As an aftermath of the arrest of three young girls in New London several days ago on charges of lascivious carriage, Fred Irons, William Gallagher and Fred Ziengenfus, sailors stationed at the submarine base, were charged with the same offense. The bluejackets pleaded guilty and Irons and Ziengenfus were fined $50 and costs and Gallagher, who was claimed was the head of the trio who sought company of youthful girls at a tenement rented by the sailors at 79 Garfield avenue, was fined $75 and costs. The police last Tuesday raided the tenement following receipt of information from the Worcester, Mass. police that Florence and Grace Brown, aged 17 and 20, respectively, but not related, had run away and would probably come to New London. The girls arrived in New London last Sunday night and were taken to the Garfield avenue house by a sailor who objected to the attentions bestowed upon the girls by the other sailors. So jealous was the bluejacket that he tipped the police as to what was going on at the sailor's "camp." The information given the police resulted in the raid and when officers went to the house not only the runaway girls, one the daughter of a minister, were found there, but with them was Gallagher and Mary Ferreira, 18, of 76 Everett street, Fall River, Mass. The Brown girls were delivered into the custody of their mothers and the Ferreira girl was committed to the House of Good Shepherd where she had been an inmate before.

Cases Nolled

E. J. Fakourey, proprietor of a gymnasium, rear of 727 Bank street, was charged with conducting a gambling house and Charles Canfield, Luigi Riamandi, Petro Valli, Nick Harris, Habit Nahass, John Stengas, Narrif Nichel and Jack Piscatella, were charged with frequenting. The cases of both Fakourey and the alleged frequenters were nolled upon recommendation of Prosecuting Attorney Max Boyer for sufficient evidence was not provided upon which a conviction could be established. The gymnasium was raided by Sergeant John Courtney, Automobile Patrol Officer Clarence Martin and Patrolmen John Sullivan and John Foley at 4:30 Sunday morning.

John Fish, of Mystic; Mrs. Joseph Grillo, 19 Woodbridge street; Erling Blackwell, Lyme; Miss Eva Ryley, Noank; Roscoe Pinnell, U. S. Coast Guard and Mrs. Elvira Clark, Lyme, patients at Lawrence Memorial hospital, were discharged Sunday and today.

Chief Petty Officer Carl Bahm, U. S. Coast Guard, residing at 17 Lenox street is at the government hospital, Chelsea, Mass., where today he was operated upon. Chief Bahm has been in charge of the coast guard shore patrol for several years.

FUNERAL
Harry W. Hicks

The funeral of Harry W. Hicks, of 28 Moore court, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at A. M. E. Zion church, the services being conducted by Rev. John B. Wallace, the pastor, assisted by Rev. Sinclair Grimstead, pastor of Shiloh Baptist church. The bearers were Archie P. Ravside, Henry Fulford, John Ware, Albert Floyd, Thomas Coleman and James Taylor. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

OBITUARY
Mrs. John Chipman

Mrs. Mary W. Chipman, 70, widow of John Chipman, died Sunday night at her residence, 122 Baker avenue, Groton. She had been ill for many weeks. Mrs. Chipman, who was born in Stonington and had resided in Groton for many years, is survived by a daughter Miss Alice Chipman; a sister, Mrs. John Eccleston, Barkinkton, R. I., and a sister-in-law, Mrs. John Ebbets, of Noank. Mrs. Chipman's husband, a former employe of the New Haven railroad died several years ago.

THESE MYSTIC SCHEMERS PROVE NOT SO CLEVER

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 18—Earl Lee and Younas Cooper, both of Mystic were arrested yesterday by State Police Officer John Smith, the former charged with theft and violation of the state motor vehicle law in using improper markers and the latter charged with theft, using improper markers and driving while his license is under suspension. The young men stole two automobiles and a battery and by putting on the cars markers that had been issued to other cars, Lee and Younas figured that they would be able to drive without detection of having violated the law.

POSSESSION, REPUTATION, GET GOSHEN ST. MAN IN BAD

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 18—Arsido Secchiaroli, a moulder, residing at 58 Goshen street, was charged in the police court this morning with violation of the liquor law on two counts, possession and reputation. Secchiaroli was fined $200 and costs on each count. Secchiaroli's home was raided Saturday afternoon by a squad of blue coats after information had been obtained that liquor was being sold there to a large patronage. A quantity of home brew beer and whiskey was seized.

Same Charges Against Woman

Mrs. Reffella Marino, 619 Bank street was also charged with violation of the law on two counts—possession and reputation. Mrs. Marino was fined $100 and costs on the first count and on the second charge a penalty of $50 and costs was imposed. Mrs. Marino's home was visited by the raiding force, Saturday and a quantity of whiskey and alcohol was found and seized.

MISS GAGNON'S INJURIES PROVE VERY SERIOUS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 18. — Miss Phyllis Gagnon, 21, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Gagnon, 19 Mott avenue, who was one of a party of four thrown from an automobile in Waterford Saturday night, is more seriously injured than was at first supposed. The young woman, who is a patient at Lawrence Memorial hospital, is suffering from a fractured skull, crushed left shoulder, fractured upper and lower left jaw, lacerations of the head and face, and innumerable body bruises. Besides she has lost all her front teeth. At the time of the accident it was known that Miss Gagnon had suffered a brain injury, but it was the opinion of physicians that this injury was no more serious than concussion.

Miss Gagnon and Miss Alice White, the latter daughter of Michael White, of 2 Union court, Lieut. Norman Habel and Lieut. John Waterman, both stationed at the submarine base, started for Saybrook about 11 o'clock Saturday night in a roadster. Near Station 7, Waterford, an auto driven by Arthur Martin, of Waterford, was overtaken and Habel attempted to drive his car ahead of Martin's. Habel's auto sideswiped the other car, causing the roadster to overturn and hurl its occupants to the concrete highway. Miss Gagnon, who was riding in the front seat, landed upon her head and it was plain to the other occupants of the car that the young woman was seriously injured. She was rushed to the hospital. She was conscious today and her condition was somewhat improved. Miss White sustained bruises but Habel and Waterman received lacerations as well as bruises. The accident was investigated by State Police Officers Peter Busch and Edward Murphy and Habel was arrested, charged with driving while under the influence of liquor. He was released upon his own recognizance and will not be in Waterford town court until it is positively determined whether Miss Gagnon will recover. In the event that the young woman dies from her injuries, the charge will be amended to that of manslaughter.

An exchange of land by the city and Annabelle Douglas to make the line of Truman street conform with the Meyers survey was perfected. Mrs. Douglas gets 107 square feet of land and she is to quit-claim land east and west of the proposed Myers line.

The council voted to purchase of H. S. Dorsey, conservator of Margaret Ganley, land on Federal street, junction of North Bank street, for $975. The estate owes $900 in taxes.

P. W. Phillips asked for the improvement of Phillips street. That was referred to the city manager.

Nineteen building applications were received.

The city board voted to buy 1,000 yards of sand at $1 a yard. Three bidders bid exactly alike and the contract was apportioned between them.

A shepherd dog at Buena Vista, Col., had lost her one and only puppy and seemed heart broken until her owner found a baby jack rabbit and brought it home. The dog adopted it at once and fed it as though it had been her own. The rabbit was kept in a large box on the porch and when it was hungry it would make a queer drumming sound with its hind legs. From as far as she could hear this sound, the dog would come and climb into the box and feed her adopted baby.

TAFTVILLE

OBITUARY

Adam Troeger

Following a long illness, the life of Adam Troeger came to a close Monday. Mr. Troeger was born in Germany, and came to this country when a young man. Until the time of his illness he had been employed in the weaving department of the Ponemah mills. He is survived by five sons, Christopher, Richard, Edwin and Howard of Taftville and Henry of Deep River; and eight daughters, Mrs. Thomas Brown, Mrs. Walter Hindle and the Misses Lena, Louise, Hilda, Mildred, Agnes and Helen Troeger, all of Taftville.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Blanchard of Riverside grove were visitors in New Haven Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Fletcher and little son James of North Third avenue have been recent visitors in Malden, Mass.

There were no sessions at the Wequonoc school Monday, the day being observed as teachers' visiting day.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fagnant and family who have resided in the house owned by Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Krauss in Blissville, have moved to their new place on the Newent road.

WILL FACE CHARGE OF ABANDONING AUTOMOBILE

Charged with abandoning his Ford coupe on a public highway in this city, Fred LaChance, 24, of South A street, Taftville, will be tried in the city court Wednesday morning. The accused is understood to have deserted his machine here about two weeks ago and left town. The car was taken in charge by the state police from Groton barracks and stored in a garage awaiting the owner's return. LaChance was arrested Sunday by State Trooper Johnson.

CENTRAL VERMONT RAILWAY BUSINESS SHOWS GAIN

The net operating income of the Central Vermont railway for the month of October, 1929, was $168,137 against $137,494 in the same month last year despite a decline of operating revenue from $813,240 in October, 1928, to $755,858 in the same month this year.

For the first ten months of 1929, the net operating income was $1,621,908 against a deficit of $1,303,781 in the 1928 period.

The operating revenue for the ten months was $7,621,334 compared with $6,212,616 in the 1928 period.

GORDON'S DAUGHTERS CLAIM NO KNOWLEDGE OF SUIT IN WORCESTER

(Special to The Bulletin)

WORCESTER, Mass, Nov. 18.—The jury hearing the trial of the $5,000 suit of the estate of the late Aaron Gordon of Norwich, Conn., against Louis E. Feingold, a Worcester attorney, was dismissed from further consideration of the case in superior court this afternoon when Judge Nelson P. Brown was shown a letter in which Attorney Josiah Greenstein, of Norwich, counsel for the Gordon family, denied that he or the family had given authority to prosecute. The court then ordered the case continued.

The letter from Attorney Greenstein was written to Judge Jacob Asher of the Worcester district court and was as follows: "I enclose herewith a clipping from The Norwich Bulletin of today's date pertaining to a suit brought by the executrices of this estate against Louis Feingold. I do not know what the case is all about, nor do any of the members of the Gordon family, including the executrices.

"It is quite apparent that the suit and use of the names of the executrices is entirely without authority and I wish you would check up on this matter immediately for the estate, and if it is necessary you are also authorized to appear before the trial judge and explain the circumstances to him."

Judge Asher took the letter to Judge Brown and after a long conference the jury was excused from further consideration of the case.

Attorney John H. Reid, counsel for Attorney Feingold, protested against a continuance and wishes to continue with the trial. Attorneys Abraham C. Lourie and James I. Yoffa, who represented the plaintiff estate, claimed to have letters in their Boston office giving them authority to prosecute.

It was represented during the trial that because of the death of Mr. Gordon since suit was brought, the action was being prosecuted by his daughters, Miriam Gordon Kontoff, of Cambridge, and Clara Gordon Markoff, of Norwich, as executrices under his will. The court had allowed a motion requesting that they be allowed to act as plaintiffs. Neither of these women were in court however. Attorney Yoffa is a son-in-law of the late Mr. Gordon.

Mr. Gordon claimed in his declaration that he had invested $4500 in a third mortgage on real estate in Worcester on false representations made by Attorney Feingold. He claimed that Attorney Feingold had paid $800 to one Zieve and kept the remainder for himself. Mr. Feingold showed checks, however, to prove that he only kept $100 as a counsel fee. The attorney testified today that Gordon had invested a total of about $800,000 through his office at different times.

Attorney Yoffa testified that his father-in-law suggested at one time that he become associated in the Feingold law office in Worcester. The witness said he met Feingold, to please Mr. Gordon, but that nothing came of it and that he himself had no desire to enter the Feingold office. He said he often attempted to get Mr. Gordon to invest his money in Boston, but the elder man always replied: "I have known Louie too long. I don't do anything unless Louis passes on it."

OTIS LIBRARY EXHIBIT TO MARK BOOK WEEK

This week is being celebrated all over the country as "Book Week." Formerly, it was known as "Children's Book Week" and was devoted to stimulating an interest in bringing children and books together. The title has been changed to "National Book Week", a more inclusive term, but for most people the old name remains the same and holds its delightful appeal.

Here in Norwich, the Otis library, as the centre of children's reading, is holding an exhibition of the new books bought recently for their juvenile department. This will continue during the week. Those who have watched the growth of this department during the past few years have been impressed with great number of fine books bought for the children and their gratifying response to them. The circulation of the department has increased by leaps and bounds. Part of this may be due to the fact that the children have a place to themselves—inadequate as it is—and have free access to their own shelves. But a great deal of the added interest comes from the splendid quality of the new books, and the fact that the old favorites are ever renewed as they wear out. Constant handling by children's careless hands is hard on the best bound book. All children have the right to take out the books on the open shelves and the empty look of these shelves is due to the fact that the books are where they should be, in the homes of the children. The finer books, as far as illustrations are format go, have been put in two separate collections. One is called the "clean hands book." Any child can read any of these books at the library or take them from the library on his card, if his hands are in such condition that he will not injure the book. The other collection is known as the "parent-teacher" section. No child can take these out, but any adult who will be responsible for their good condition can do so. These shelves, which "back" the "clean hands" books, make a pleasant and profitable browsing place for older people who care for these lovely books and wish to become acquainted with the more unusual ones. The newest books on child psychology are also placed on these shelves. Parents and teachers are availing themselves of the privilege of taking the finer books to the children, but those watching the children, themselves, cannot but be impressed with the splendid, substantial reading they take out.

There is good stuff for our children at the library from the youngest who wants Mother Goose or Peter Rabbit to the older ones who clamor for Robin Hood, King Arthur, or the latest books of science or adventure. Those in charge of the Otis library are gratified that the children are coming there in ever greater numbers, yet no one in town is more cognizant of what could be done for them if the children had a room of their own and there were sufficient funds to supply their appetites for good books and to inspire them to love fine literature. It would seem as though no truer or more constructive piece of philanthropy could be imagined than to provide such a place for the children of Norwich and to add sufficient endowment for books and equipment.

The books on view this week are selected from the best of the year's output. Any one out of touch with juvenile literature will have a great surprise at the quality of these books, at their beauty or quaintness, the new and vivid types of illustration, their real appeal to childhood and youth. Those who remember the stories of their childhood will be delighted to see familiar friends in new dress, or in the old form for many publishers are going back to first editions for the make up of the older books. One feels as he looks at these tables of really admirable books as though childhood had come again and an answer had been granted to all his wishes, a fairy Christmas. The public is cordially invited by the library officials to look them over during this week for next Monday, they will be placed on the children's shelves.

WOMAN ADMITS THEFT AND SALE OF DIAMOND RING

Elizabeth Klein, 22, of Worcester, charged with theft of a diamond ring valued at $1,000 from a Mrs. Lintz of this city, appeared in the city court Monday morning. Her case was continued to Wednesday morning in order that an attempt might made to recover the property, which the accused claimed that she disposed of for $35 at Boston. In court she acknowledged the theft and sale of the ring. She will be taken to Boston by County Detective William Lewis to see if the ring can be found.

The Klein woman is charged with stealing the ring from the owner about a month ago, following which she left the city and was later apprehended by authorities in Worcester. Officer Clifford Crary, of the local police, went to the Massachusetts city and brought her back here to stand trial.

OCTOBER BUSINESS WAS NORMAL IN CONNECTICUT

Stock market conditions to the contrary, general business activity during October remained normal in Connecticut, with increases in several lines over October, 1928, according to the monthly business survey conducted by the Connecticut chamber of commerce in conjunction with the leading local chambers of commerce in the state.

The money market situation somewhat lessened building operations in several parts of the state, but this should give an opportunity for natural growth to catch up with building expansions. On the other hand, the value of building permits issued in New Haven increased 341% over those of October, 1928, and the value of those issued in Norwich increased 103% over the same period. Building permits were also greater in Greenwich, Middletown, New London, Naugatuck and Torrington. Post office receipts were greater last month than during October, 1928, in all but one city reporting.

Merchants reported satisfactory sales in the face of the stock market disturbance. With one exception, every community reported more telephone installations than during October, 1928. Derby noted a 100% increase in installations. Gas and electricity consumption showed substantial increases over the same period a year ago.

COAL SHOVEL WEAPON IN HIGH STREET FIGHT

In the city court Monday morning Joseph Dondiski, 40, and Peter Bogdon, 52, neighbors living on High street, charged with breach of the peace, had their cases aired with the result that the former was sentenced to 30 days in jail and the latter had his case continued for six months. The accused were arrested about midnight Saturday by the local police, following an altercation that took place at Bogdon's home. In the fracas Dondiski received a gash on the head from a coal shovel and Bogdon sustained a black eye.

The two men have for several days been engaged in fights, claimed Bogdon in testimony, with the older man receiving the worst of the attacks. Bogdon claimed that Dondiski came to his home Saturday night while he was asleep and punched him in the eye and mouth, breaking off a tooth. Bogdon said he picked up a coal shovel and used it on his opponent's head, in self defense.

In denying these accusations, Dondiski claimed that his neighbor asked him to come to his house and meeting him on the street the other said, "Let's stop fighting and go over to my house for a drink." Dondiski said at the house his opponent secured the coal shovel and hit him over the head.

TWO FINED FOR FIGHT IN COVE STREET HOUSE

Found guilty of a charge of breach of the peace, Leona McCarthy, 30, colored, and John Williams, 30, both of Cove street, were each fined $5 and costs, when they were presented in the city court Monday morning, as the result of an altercation which is said to have taken place at the Williams home Sunday evening. They each are to pay $12.67.

In court conflicting stories were told by the accused. Williams claimed that the colored woman, who is his housekeeper, smashed a water pitcher over his head, inflicting a deep gash. He said this happened when he tried to quiet a number of her friends who were in the house.

Mrs. McCarthy said that Williams received the gash when he bumped into the kitchen range, denying that she had struck him with the pitcher. "If I had hit him with a pitcher he would have had a worse scar than he has now," was her answer to the question if she had hit Williams with the pitcher.

OCTOBER BUSINESS IN NEW LONDON NORMAL

In the statement made for October to the state chamber of commerce, Secretary George H. Garlepy, of the New London chamber reported as follows: Real estate sales for October, 1929, remained about the same as October, 1928, with prices also the same. Postal receipts for October, 1929, amounted to $17,206, showing an increase of $386 over October, 1928. Retail business for October, 1929, showed a decline. The local factories are operating about 80% of normal. There were 58 building permits issued in October, 1929, amounting to $129,675, showing an increase of 12 permits and $10,758 over October, 1928. Electricity consumed during October, 1929, totaled 1,659,939 k. w. h. using 10,556 electric meters and showing an increase over October, 1928, of 190,833 k. w. h. and 346 electric meters. Gas consumed totaled 35,874,200 cu. ft., using 7,549 gas meters and showing an increase over October, 1928, of 1,583,700 cu. ft. of gas and 255 gas meters.

WILLIMANTIC CRASH BRINGS INJURIES TO THREE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 18—Three people were hurt and cars badly damaged in a rear-end collision at the corner of Jackson street and Lewiston avenue at 8:50 o'clock tonight between a Chevrolet sedan, owned and driven by Edward Girard, 37, of 128 Union street, and a Ford delivery truck driven by Delphis Bacon, 18, of 1 Oak street. Girard sustained a compound fracture of the left thumb and is now a patient at the hospital where a partial amputation of the finger may become necessary. His wife, sustained a slight sprain of the shoulder. Everett Shippee, of Ash avenue, passenger in the Bacon car, sustained injury to his right leg and elbow.

Girard was proceeding easterly on Jackson street and was turning to the left to enter Lewiston avenue, as the Bacon truck came easterly on Jackson street. Bacon said that he did not see the hand signal given by Girard until he was near the car and when he applied his brakes, his truck skidded on the wet road. The left front part of the truck struck the left rear of the sedan, causing it to skid for several feet and turn over on its right side. Mr. and Mrs. Albin Swanson, of 124 Oak street, riding in the Girard car, escaped injury.

Cullaine Berard, of Jackson street, third passenger in the Bacon machine, was also uninjured. The crash was heard for some distance around and attracted a crowd. Bacon was placed under arrest by Officer Albert Montie, who investigated, on a charge of failure to give the right of way. He will be presented in police court Tuesday morning.

NORWICH BUILDING AT INCREASE IN OCTOBER

In a review of business conditions in Norwich during October, made for the state chamber of commerce, Secretary Walter H. Plicher, of the Norwich chamber, reported as follows: Building permits increased 103% in value last month over the corresponding month a year ago, due to the erection of a new county home, permit for which was issued during October of this year. The totals were: October, 1929, $257,024 and October, 1928, $126,396. There was a decrease of 5.5% in bank debits, the amounts being $20,226,137 last month and $21,401,604 a year ago. Savings bank deposits amounted to $44,913,670 last month, an increase of 1.5% over the figure of $44,226,727 in October, 1928. Gas consumption, amounting to 15,003 m. increased 3.9% over the figure for October a year ago, when the total amount consumed was 14,442 m. There were 1,214,100 kwh of electricity consumed during October and 1,032,000 kwh used a year ago, an increase of 17.5%. There were less telephone installations last month than there were in October, 1928. Post office receipts amounting to $11,083 showed an increase of 1.1% over the $10,960 figure for October, 1928.

FIRE ENGINE SMASHES BIG SIDEWALK CLOCK

While responding to box 225, pulled in for the fire at the Providence bakery Monday evening, Engine No. 6 from the Thamesville station knocked down the large sidewalk clock on Main street, owned by the Plaut Cadden Co. Coming from Washington square the apparatus was driven through Main street against the one-way traffic in this part of the street and when it reached the clock a west-bound trolley car was stopped there and parked automobiles on the south side of the street gave no chance for the fire apparatus to get by on that side. The driver turned to the north side and slowed up but there was hardly room for the apparatus to pass between the trolley car and the curbing, and the left rear hub of the engine struck and knocked down the clock. There was no damage to the apparatus, but the clock was broken into half a dozen pieces.

VERNON PASTOR ACCEPTS EAST HADDAM CALL

Rev. A. H. Gates, pastor of Vernon Center First Congregational church, has accepted a call to the First Church of Christ, East Haddam, and will leave for his new pastorate next week. He has been pastor of the Vernon church for two and one-half years.

Born in India of missionary parents, the late Rev. L. S. Gates and Mrs. Gates, the latter now living in Brooklyn, Mr. Gates entered the missionary field after graduating from Yale in 1912. He attended the theological seminaries at Hartford and Oberlin, graduating from the latter in 1917. During the war he served two years overseas in the medical corps, being stationed at base hospital No. 4 at Rouen.

His first pastorate in Connecticut was at Scotland where he served two years before entering foreign missionary work and being sent to Hawaii where he was stationed four and one-half years.

Backus Hospital Dismissals

MRS. ATWELL TALKS ON PARITY IN THREE FIELDS

Mrs. Marion Gaylord Atwell, of New York, gave another interesting talk on current events Monday evening at the Wauregan hotel, under the auspices of the current events committee of the Woman's City club. Her remarks upon the various subjects that are now receiving widespread publicity in the press held the closest attention of her large audience.

The first three topics receiving the attention of Mrs. Atwell were parity in the political, educational and tariff fields. Parity in politics, she said, was suggested as the result of the recent elections in New York and Virginia. It has been suggested that it would be better for the democrats to rule for four or eight years and then the republicans for a like period, instead of one party having charge of the government for a long time.

There is also a demand for parity in education, she said. She alluded to the dinner of representatives of seven leading women's colleges when it was announced that more endowments to the women's colleges should be made. She said that Mr. Hughes, in an address at the dinner, made a splendid appeal to the public that this should be done, and not all of the endowments made to the men's colleges.

In speaking of the demand for parity along educational lines for the children of the states, she said that illiteracy was now comparatively widespread and there are today 5,000,000 of people over ten years of age in this country who can not read nor write. A great deal of this illiteracy is found among the persons who were born in the United States, she said.

The president, who is tender toward children, has decided to form a committee to make a survey of the conditions in the 48 states, she said, this committee to report back at the end of a year with some plan to remedy the conditions.

There is also a demand for parity in tariffs, she continued, which brings us to Washington, where a farm board and revolving fund has been created for the relief of the farmers of the country. She spoke at length upon the progress that has been made toward the formation of a bill asked by the president, and of the movement started by the "young people" of the senate. She said that some people feel that the bill will be passed, while others are of the opinion that it will not.

The speaker also referred to the uncomplimentary remarks that have been made by various senators and went on to tell of the effect that the statements of Mr. Hoover had upon the people of the country at the time the bottom fell out of the stock market, when they feared the country was not sound. She said that the announcement of the president, relative to the tax cut of one per cent and his statement calling for an economic conference made at the psychological moment changed pessimism to optimism.

The speaker also spoke at length upon the Armistice day address delivered by the president, who suggested that in order to bring about peace we must organize for peace. She said that Hoover is a worker for peace, but believes that we must have a defense, so that no nation can step upon our shores. She said, he believes that we must not have one unnecessary armed man or a single unnecessary gun, but just enough to defend ourselves.

The speaker also referred to the statement made by Mr. Hoover in his address that ships carrying food in time of war must not be molested. The president said, the speaker added, that starvation of women and children should not be tolerated among civilized nations in war. This statement by Mr. Hoover has created considerable discussion, she said, and that's a good thing to debate these things. It is the old question of the freedom of the seas.

She also spoke of the return of Ramsay McDonald to England and of the new prime minister and cabinet of France, concluding her talk by reading the message of peace in the president's Armistice day address, which she said all persons should read if they haven't already done so.

LINCOLN AVENUE HOUSE SHAKEN BY EARTHQUAKE

The earthquake which was felt along the New England coast Monday afternoon produced tremors that were felt in this city about 3:30. One Lincoln avenue family where a party of ladies were playing cards had a vivid experience of the earthquake shock when the card table began to quiver, the electric light cord swung back and forth, the chandeliers sang and in the guest room a mirror teetered from side to side.

One of the ladies who ran out of the house in alarm and walked around it to see if there were any explanation of what was going on declared that it looked as if the house were tipping and another lady who was reclining on a bed declared that she felt the bed shake. It was stated that the tremor lasted several minutes, or long enough for one to walk around the house.

The shake was felt on Chestnut street in the carpenter shop of P. F. Sweeney, where the floor trembled in such a way that one of the workmen ran outside and would not stay in the building until he was sure it was safe.

Residents of Lisbon also reported feeling the earthquake.

MISS LOUISE C. HOWE AT CONN. COLLEGE DINNER

A dinner for the faculty and trustees of Connecticut college was held Saturday evening in Thames dining hall at the college. The room was decorated with chrysanthemums. Miss Elizabeth C. Wright, bursar of the college, gave an interesting talk on the early history of the institution, reading several old letters in connection with its founding. The trustees present were Mr. and Mrs. George S. Palmer, William H. Reeves, Miss Mary Partridge, of Hartford, and Miss Louise C. Howe, of Norwich.

Detroit reported the greatest excess of births over deaths of any large city in the United States last year.

CHAPLAIN OF EAGLES PRESENTS HIS RESIGNATION

At a meeting of Norwich aerie, No. 367, F. O. E., held Monday evening in its home on Cliff street, the resignation of Henry St. Laurent as worthy chaplain of the lodge was accepted with regret. Mr. St. Laurent, who has filled the position in a creditable and efficient manner, is soon to go to New Hampshire, where he will make his residence. Louis Gregory was appointed to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. St. Laurent's resignation.

Nine applications for memberships were handed in and a report on the Thanksgiving dinner was given at the meeting.

TIRE THEFTS CHARGED AGAINST MYSTIC MEN

Charged with theft and several counts of violating the motor vehicle laws, Earl Lee and John Cooper, both of Mystic, were arrested in Ledyard Sunday by Trooper John H. Smith of the Groton barracks, who held them for trial in the Ledyard justice court. In addition to stealing several tires and other automobile accessories, Lee is charged with driving without a license and with improper registration, and Cooper with driving an automobile while his operator's license was under suspension and with driving an unregistered car.

BANKING AND BUSINESS ARE IN GOOD CONDITION

Atmosphere of Optimism Marked Opening Conference in the White House on Business Progress—Members of the Advisory Council of the Federal Reserve Board Reported That Banking and Business in Each of the Twelve Districts Over the Country Are in Good Condition—Railway Officials Give Assurance of Cooperation in Maintenance of Employment.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.— (AP) — President Hoover's business progress conferences got under way today in an atmosphere of optimism which is expected to go a long way toward removing such apprehension and hesitancy in the industrial and commercial fields as usually are manifest after a collapse of prices in the stock market.

Railway executives who gathered at the white house in the forenoon gave assurance of cooperation in the maintenance of employment by proceeding with full programs of construction and betterments, while members of the advisory council of the Federal Reserve board reported in the afternoon that business and banking in each of the 12 districts over the country were in sound condition.

So encouraging is the outlook generally that the bankers said the prospects were that money would be available at lower rates of interest to keep moving the wheels of industry and commerce. This was interpreted to mean that the council might recommend to the Federal Reserve banks a lowering of the rediscount rate from the present 5 per cent rate to perhaps 4 1-2 per cent now obtaining in the New York Federal Reserve district.

This of itself would stimulate business, in the judgment of federal officials, and would materially assist in the carrying forward of the program which the president had in mind when he decided to summon to Washington the heads of industrial, commercial and agricultural groups in an effort to prevent the slowing up of business generally because of any psychological effect the stock market situation might exert.

Besides promising to carry out the present program of construction and betterments, which during the next six months will exceed those of the corresponding period of last year, the railway chiefs said they would canvass the situation as to further possibilities of expansion.

Meeting with the advisory council of the Federal Reserve board were Secretaries Mellon and Lamont, Governor Roy A. Young, and C. S. Hamlin and U. C. Miller, of the board, and John W. Pole, comptroller of the currency.

Governor Young issued this statement:

"At a meeting of the federal advisory council, the members of which represent the 12 Federal Reserve banking districts in the United States, with the president, the general business situation was reviewed, and each member of the council reported that business and banking throughout his district are in a sound condition and the prospects were that money will be available at lower rates."

Members of the council gathered here yesterday to consider the matter of reducing the rediscount rate. Their authority is that merely of advising, but there appeared to be a well-founded impression in some official quarters that in the present situation any recommendation by them would be followed.

Advisers of the president plainly held a deep satisfaction as a result of the first conferences and they voiced belief that equally as hearty cooperation and encouraging reports would come from the other groups, which are to assemble at the white house Thursday, Friday and probably Saturday.

Because of the funeral of Secretary James W. Good at the white house tomorrow, the session of representatives of the industrial field had been postponed until Thursday morning, which was an open time on the executive office schedule for the conferences.

SEN. WARREN WINNING FIGHT AGAINST BRONCHITIS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.— (AP) — Cheered by a visit from General John J. Pershing, his son-in-law, Senator Francis E. Warren, of Wyoming, was reported tonight to be "getting along very well" in his fight against bronchitis.

Arriving today from France, General Pershing went immediately to the bedside of the Wyoming senator, who has been confined to his home for more than ten days.

"Senator Warren is very much improved," General Pershing said later, "and shows signs of being very much better after so severe a bronchial attack."

Colleagues of the 85-year-old senator at the capitol inquired anxiously after his condition today and were encouraged by the word that he appeared to have overcome the trouble.

SEVEN JURORS SELECTED FOR M'MANUS MURDER TRIAL

NEW YORK, Nov. 19—(AP)—Seven jurors had been selected to hear the trial of George A. McManus for the murder of his gambler associate Arnold Rothstein when the second day's session was adjourned late today. Six of the jurors were picked at today's session. The other had been selected yesterday.

The seven jurors selected are::

Herman T. Sherman, a middle-aged sales manager.

Eugene A. Riker, young salesman.

William E. Belknap, an elderly insurance man.

Joseph F. Callaghan, middle-aged contractor.

Alfred Somborn, real estate man.

When court was adjourned until 10:30 tomorrow morning Judge Charles C. Nott, Jr., who is presiding, allowed the jurors to go to their homes for the night.

EXPLOSION INJURED FIVE PERSONS AT LEOMINSTER

LEOMINSTER Mass., Nov. 19.—(AP) —An explosion and fire at the plant of the Dupont-Viscolored company today caused injuries to five employes. The fire, which came after the explosion, caused only slight damage. Windows in plant buildings were shattered by the blast.

Two of the injured men, Joseph Marielle and Frank A. Richardson, were taken to the Leominster hospital. Marielle's condition was reported as serious.

The explosion was believed to have been caused by a spark from a workman's tool which ignited chemical fumes in a vat in which the men were working.

DR. KATHARINE BLUNT TEA GUEST IN NEW HAVEN

NEW HAVEN Nov. 19.—(AP)— Dr. Katharine Blunt, president of Connecticut College for Women at New London, was formally introduced in New Haven this afternoon at a reception and tea given by Dr. Marian P. Whitney, professor emeritus of Vassar and a trustee of Connecticut college, and at a dinner tonight at the Faculty club.

Members of the New Haven Vassar club, New Haven branch of the Connecticut College Alumnae association and other prominent college women of the city, were present at the tea. Miss Blunt is an alumnae of Vassar, and received her doctorate at the University of Chicago.

18 MINERS BURIED ALIVE IN COAL MINE IN BELGIUM

MONS, Belgium, Nov. 19 —(AP)— Eighteen miners were buried alive today in the Houssu colliery, when a slight earthquake or explosion caused a cave-in.

Rescue crews were working desperately tonight in an effort to reach the entombed men.

TESTIMONY BEFORE THE SENATE LOBBY COMMITTEE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Investigating a recent disturbance among Cuban sugar producers over possible intervention by the United States in Cuban affairs as the result of charges made against the administration of President Machado, the senate lobby committee was told today by John H. Carroll, Washington attorne that he had been paid $27,000 to ascertain the facts about the Machado government.

Carroll, who gave his age as "71 years old plus" and said he was "just an old worn-out man," testified he had been employed seven months ago by H. C. Lakin, president of the Cuban Co., of New York, but had been prevented by illness from visiting Cuba.

MENTIONED FOR POST OF SECREARY OF WAR

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19—(AP)—Several new names entered today into the conjecture as to who will be named to the vacant post of secretary of war, but in some official circles the talk still centered on Patrick J. Hurley, of Oklahoma, new acting secretary.

Some talk was heard that Representative John Q. Tilson, of Connecticut, republican leader in the house, and high in republican party councils during the last campaign, might be tendered the post.

Another name around which some wholly unofficial speculation revolved was that of Walter H. Newton, now administrative assistant to the president.

DEFINITE IMPROVEMENT IN CONDITION OF LORD BYNG

LONDON, Nov. 19.—⅞—Lord Byng of Vimy, former governor-general of Canada who now is head of the London police, showed definite improvement tonight from the lung congestion from which he was suffering. He passed a quiet day which restored some of the strength lost last night.

Beside his own doctor, Lord Byng was visited today by Sir Thomas Horder, noted specialist and physician to the Prince of Wales. Although the police commissioner caught a chill early this month he insisted on going on a shooting trip and this was believed to have aggravated his illness. He has been confined to his bed since November 10.

INVESTIGATING ACTIVITIES OF DEFUNCT BANKERS' CORP.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—(AP)—A federal grand jury today started an investigation of the activities of the defunct Bankers' Capital Corp. and its affiliated companies through which state and federal officials allege patrons have lost more than $6,000,000 in security deals.

H. H. Gunder, chairman of the board of the Capital Corp. chain of firms; R. J. Randall, president of the Bankers' Capital Corp., and E. J. Sturges, president of the Bankers' Capital Co. of Connecticut, sent word through their attorney to Charles H. Tuttle, United States attorney, that they would stand on their constitutional rights if taken before the grand jury. None of them was called today.

HONORED U. S. SOLDIERS WHO DIED IN RUSSIA

CHERBOURG, France, Nov. 19.—(AP) —The last military honors in Europe, were paid tonight to the bodies of 75 American soldiers who died in Russia and are now homeward bound aboard the steamship, President Roosevelt.

Eleven bodies of the 86 recovered and brought here from Russia will be buried in France in an American war dead cemetery.

The 86 bodies recovered were those of Michigan soldiers who died during the Archangel campaign in Russia.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

BERLIN, Nov. 19—(AP)—The German cabinet decided to appropriate funds for relief of 10,000 German farmers in the soviet union and appointed Daniel Stueckiem member of the Reichstag as relief commissioner.

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., Nov. 19—(AP) —The government announced it would issue a state loan on December 1 to the amount of 125,000,000 rubles (about $60,000,000) to increase capital for constructive work.

VATICAN CITY, Nov. 19—(AP)—Official announcement today that the Pope would hold a secret consistory on December 16 and a public consistory three days later led to almost certain belief that a number of cardinals would be appointed to fill the many vacancies now existing in the sacred college.

GAINS IN PRICES IN NORMAL STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 19—(AP)—Trading in the New York securities markets continued in normal volume today, with prices showing moderate gains, as President Hoover began his conferences with railroad executives and federal reserve officials to consider plans for stimulating industrial activity.

The stock market ran into a flurry of selling at the opening, which carried many issues down $1 to $8 a share, but offerings were quickly absorbed, and a steady demand for the leading industrial, railroad and public utility shares carried them $2 to $10 a share above yesterday's closing levels, with even larger gains in a few specialties. Final quotations generally were around the day's high levels.

TUNNEY WINS POINT IN DEFENDING $500,000 SUIT

BRIDGEPORT, Nov. 19.—(AP)— The first legal skirmish in the $500,000 breach of promise suit brought by Katherine King Fogarty, of New York city and Fort Worth, Tex., against James J. (Gene) Tunney, retired heavyweight champion, has been decided in his favor.

Judge Carl Foster of superior court in a memorandum of decision returned this afternoon, rules against counsel for Mrs. Fogarty on a request to have striken out 20 paragraphs of the former champion's counter-claim to her suit.

Frank L. Wilder, local counsel for Mrs. Fogarty, asked that the paragraphs be excluded from the counter-claim upon the declaration that they were immaterial and of evidential nature and purely without place.

RECEIVED $10,000 REWARD FOR LOCATING LOST PLANE

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 19.—(AP)— George K. Rice, Western Air Express pilot, who located the lost Transcontinental Air Transport plane "City of San Francisco," which crashed into Mt. Taylor, New Mexico, with a loss of eight lives, today received a $10,000 reward.

The Trans-Continental Air Transport offered the reward.

HARRY F. SINCLAIR TO BE LIBERATED FROM JAIL TODAY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.— (AP) — Harry F. Sinclair tonight was obtaining his last sleep on the not-too-comfortable iron cot assigned to him since his commitment to the District of Columbia jail on May 6.

Only one more day of work as jail druggist and physician's assistant remains for the millionaire oil man, whose confinement of seven months and a half on charges of refusing to answer questions of a senate committee and shadowing jurors, ends at midnight tomorrow night.

His plans could not be learned, but it was believed he would depart immediately for his Long Island home.

BILL TO INVESTIGATE THE NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—(AP)— A resolution to authorize the senate lobby committee to make an examination of books and accounts as well as methods of procedure of the New York stock exchange was introduced tonight by Senator Heflin, democrat, Alabama.

The investigators would be directed to report the sales made on the exchange, particularly during the recent decline, and the extent of the transactions of investment trusts which have been dealing directly with the exchange. The committee also would be asked to recommend legislation.

PLAYS BY THE WESLEYAN PAINT AND POWDER CLUB

MIDDLETOWN, Nov. 19.—(AP)—The Paint and Powder club of Wesleyan university, tonight presented three plays. They were, "The Boor," by Anton Chekov; "The Great Catherine," by George Bernard Shaw, and "The Way Out," by John R. Swain, '29.

Mr. Swain, who is Olin fellow in English this year, personally directed his play which dealt with the effects of over-emphasis of athletics on a serious-minded athlete.

TWO ARRESTS AFTER FATAL AUTO ACCIDENT

NORWALK, Nov. 19.— (AP) —Two persons were under arrest tonight as the result of an automobile accident in which Mrs. Catherine Ross, 40, of New London, was killed.

They were Richard Ross, husband of the dead woman, who was driving to New York, and Miss Esther Borger, of Orange, who drove her machine out of a driveway at a filling station between Norwalk and Darien, into the path of the Ross car. Both were held under $3,500 bonds on a charge of manslaughter.

CHARGED WITH STABBING STENOGRAPHER TO DEATH

AUSTIN, Tex., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Indicted here today on a charge of murder for stabbing to death Miss Lehlia Highsmith, young stenographer at the state capitol, John W. Brady, 59, prominent attorney, and former judge of the court of civil appeals, indicated through counsel that he would seek to obtain his release from jail on bond pending trial.

Henry Brooks, Youthful district attorney, announced that he would oppose all efforts to obtain bail and prepared to combat the expected application of defense attorneys for a writ of habeas corpus.

4 Violent Deaths In Conn. Yesterday

Putnam Man Was Killed by Train — New London Woman Was Fatally Injured in Automobile Accident.

(By the Associated Press)

Four persons met violent deaths today in widely separated sections of Connecticut. Motor vehicles were involved in three of the deaths, while the fourth was caused by drowning.

The dead are:

James Nickols, 40, of Bridgeport.

Monty Mason, 34, of Putnam.

Mrs. Catherine Ross, 40, of New London.

Joseph Zielenski, 2, of Wallingford.

Nickols was killed and two others injured, one critically, when their automobile plunged down an embankment in North Haven after crashing through the guard of a bridge over the Quinnipiac river. He remained unidentified for several hours after the mishap. As a result of the accident, James Spiro, 40, of New Haven, and Lambro Nastic, of Bridgeport, are in Grace hospital, the former on the danger list with a possible fractured spine. James Andius, of Bridgeport, the driver of the machine, and Olerands Rallis, of Springfield, the owner, escaped injury.

A train-truck collision at the Attawaugan railroad crossing four miles from Danielson, resulted in Mason's death. Mason drove the truck, which was loaded with wood, on the tracks just as a train of the New Haven railroad approached the crossing. Joseph Gaudette, of New London, was engineer of the train.

A passenger in a machine operated by her husband, Richard Ross, Mrs. Ross was instantly killed when the vehicle overturned on the Boston Post road, between Norwalk and Darien, after colliding with another car driven by Miss Esther Borger, of New Preston. The impact hurled Mrs. Ross out of the machine.

Ross escaped injury, while a third person in the machine, Mrs. Addie Clark, of Orange, sustained minor injuries.

The Wallingford boy was drowned in Community lake, Wallingford, when he fell off a boat in which he and another boy were playing.

$3,913.02 CLAIM FOR RETAIL LIQUOR LICENSE FEES

DANBURY, Nov. 19.—(AP)—The U. S. government today filed an attachment on a house here owned by Alexander Dzuback, former steward of the Russian club, in settlement of a claim of $3,913.02 for retail liquor license fees.

Dzuback pleaded guilty in New Haven in 1927 to a charge of unlawful possession of liquor, and again in 1928 to charges of unlawful possession, maintaining a nuisance and as a second offender.

The Volstead act provides that confiscated liquor shall be taxed on the old scale of about $5 a gallon, and that this amount shall be doubled in cases of unlawful possession. On top of this a flat tax of $500 is added.

The attachment today was filed by Deputy U. S. Marshal Joseph M. Park, acting under direction of Assistant U. S. Attorney George H. Cohen, of Hartford.

PROPOSAL THAT PRESIDENT PARDON THREE REPORTERS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.— (AP) — After a call upon the three Washington newspaper reporters held at the District of Columbia jail for contempt of court, Representative LaGuardia, republican, New York, proposed today that the president should pardon the trio.

They were simply carrying out their duties in telling the simple truths about prohibition, LaGuardia said, adding that while they were in jail bootleggers still were at liberty and doing business "with the full knowledge of the court and the authorities."

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—(AP)—A plan to award ocean mail contracts to the lowest bidder was announced tonight by Postmaster General Brown, who said it would provide a stimulus which would fill American shipyards to capacity with new building contracts within six months.

Solon Indicted For Possession Of Liquor

WASHINGTON Nov. 19,—(AP)—The indictment of Representative Edward E. Denison of Illinois by a federal grand jury today on a charge of possession of liquor added new force to the storm which has raged recently over prohibition enforcement in the capital.

A leaking suitcase and a trunk containing liquor, addressed to John Layne, in care of Denison, 411 House Office Building, were the basis of the indictment, which also named Layne, who was his secretary nine years ago. Denison said the indictment resulted from a mistake, and Layne disclaimed any connection with the case.

The grand jury action follows a report by prohibition agents Nov. 8, that they had found a leaking suitcase at the Union station and later a trunk containing liquor at Denison's office last Jan. 19, after Denison returned from a visit to Panama. He made the Panama trip accompanied by his nephew, Charles Lane of St. Louis, his secretary, Miss Lucille Lee, said.

Denison has been a consistent dry voter during his eight terms as representative of the 25th Illinois district, which includes Williamson county where the Herrin riots occurred. He voted for the 18th amendment, the Volstead act, and the Jones law. The latter imposes drastic penalties on liquor law violators.

He was advised at his home in Marion, Ill., of the grand jury's action. The situation was explained to him by Miss Lee in a telephone conversation, and an Associated Press staff reporter asked him if he desired to make a statement.

Expressing "surprise" that an indictment had been returned, Denison said:

"When the prohibition agents came to my office and inquired about a trunk, I permitted them to inspect it. I found that the trunk was not mine; that it belonged to someone else and that the express company had made a mistake in directing a trunk to me that I did not own. I explained it fully to the agents and I am very much surprised that an indictment has been returned."

A similar mistake had been made, he said, with regard to a handbag. His nephew, Lane, he added, had a bag but a mistake had been made and the wrong one sent to him. He indicated he thought the matter had been disposed of satisfactorily. He expects to come to Washington soon.

The prohibition agents' report stated shipping tags on the bag and trunk were addressed to John Layne at Denison's office. When they first called at the office, they said Denison told them he did not have a key to the trunk, but when they called again, they said, he had decided the trunk was not his and gave his permission for them to force it open. It was found, they reported, to contain whiskey and gin.

John Layne, who is in the general counsel's office at the internal revenue bureau, said today he did not accompany Denison to Panama, never had been there and that he was not out of Washington during January. He was emphatic in declaring that he was not connected in any way with the case and that the indictment was the result of "mistaken identity."

The indictment caused much surprise among Denison's colleagues in the house, two of whom—Representatives Michaelson of Illinois and Morgan of Ohio—have been embroiled with prohibition enforcement authorities during the past year.

Michaelson was indicted for smuggling liquor into Florida from the West Indies but was acquitted. His brother-in-law, Walter Gramm, of Chicago, pleaded guilty to prohibition charges in that case which followed the Michaelson acquittal and was fined $1,000.

Morgan was said by customs officials in New York to have brought in liquor from Panama, but denied it and the treasury accepted his explanation of the matter.

REPORT DECREASE IN VOLUME OF DRY LAW CASES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19—(AP)—The senate was informed today by Secretary Mellon of a decreased volume of dry law cases under the increased prohibition staff and Senator Harris, democrat, Georgia, was preparing tonight to demand another boost in the funds for prohibition enforcement at the next session of congress.

Coincidentally, the Georgia dry leader, suggested that President Hoover's law enforcement commission make a report of its studies early next session, even though it be a preliminary one.

The Mellon report disclosed that although 552 additional prohibition and customs agent shad been employed since March 4, under an increased appropriation of more than $2,000,000 made available last session, the volume of enforcement work was somewhat less in the seven months since April 1 than during a similar period last year.

The slackening was attributed by James M. Doran, prohibition administrator, to an improved quality of work due to a policy of concentration on investigations.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 19.—(AP)— An 18-year-old youth from the hills of Arkansas, Caridon Patton, of near Wooster, who mixes education with agriculture, tonight was crowned the "Star Farmer of America," and given a prize of $1,000.

The ceremony took place in the arena of the American Royal Livestock show. Patton was chosen from 26 previously selected members of the "Future Farmers of America," an organization of vocational agriculture students functioning in 20 states. The 26 youths were named as outstanding members of the club from their respective sections.

W. H. Woodward, keeper of the Manana Island fog signal station, Maine, was commended by the commissioner of lighthouses for the "valuable" assistance rendered by him in saving a tower trawler which became disabled off Monhegan Island November 6.

Expressing opposition to companionate marriages, divorce, bobbed hair, short skirts, prohibition and petting parties, Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Blackmar, believed to be the oldest married couple in the world, observed their 78th wedding anniversary in Columbus, Ga.

Thomas Delehanty, 35, who hired William Mericle, of Dayton, Ohio, to kill Edward McCrumb, 49, for $500 "as a personal favor" was convicted of first degree murder in Pontiac, Mich., and was sentenced to a life term in the Michigan branch prison at Marquette.

Police were called to city hall in Cleveland to quell a disturbance started by 40 young men and women and children members of the Young Communist league, who broke up a meeting of city council with a demand for passage of an ordinance providing free street car rides for school children.

PROSPECTS OF PASSAGE OF TARIFF BILL ARE FADING

Rank and File of Republicans and Democrats Have Reached the Conclusion That It is Impossible to Complete the Bill in the Remaining Few Days of the Extra Session—Considering Motion to Adjourn Friday of This Week—Tilson Believes Some Sort of a Compromise Between the Senate and House Bills Can Be Found

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 19—Apparently the newly organized block of "Young Turks" cannot carry its "tariff this session" mission to a successful finish. Word has gone forth that the rank and file of republicans and democrats to the number of 24 or more have decided it impossible to complete the tariff bill in the remaining few days of the extra session and will tomorrow make and carry a motion to adjourn on Friday of this week.

It is expected the house will concur, although Floor Leader Tilson stoutly maintains the senate should have sent the bill to conference before adjournment. The bloc of "Young Turks" have held several conferences today to determine whether they will vote in a unit against adjournment or leave each member to act on his own judgment. The outlook tonight is they will vote as a unit and can command 24 votes. Senator Walcott is a leading member of the new bloc while Senator Bingham has stood with the so-called "old guard."

VOTE AGAINST HIGHER COTTON TEXTILE RATES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19—(AP)—After listening to denunciation of the finance committee's recommendations for higher cotton textile rates by coalition opponents of the tariff bill, the senate today generally slashed the proposed increased duties to the level of existing law.

Only a few increases were allowed to stand and these were cut down to the rates proved in the house bill.

The former exclaimed it "reeked with corruption," and added if the coalition leaders intended to vote for higher levies, they could count him out of that group so long as the measure remained before the senate. He attacked particularly labor conditions in the south and New England manufacturers for what he said was the transfer of operations to the south to obtain cheaper labor and longer working hours.

Blaine contended higher tariffs would not benefit the textile industry of New England and the south and blamed lack of "efficiency, economy, decency and humanity" in operations as the cause of whatever depression exists today.

Senator Walsh, democrat, Massachusetts, said increased duties would help some branches of the industry and he would vote for these particular rates. He maintained, however, that other branches were prosperous and needed no additional protection.

The most important increase approved, before the senate entered upon its fourth night session on the bill under an agreement to meet at one o'clock tomorrow afternoon to permit senators to attend Secretary Good's funeral, would affect plain cotton cloths by providing a minimum rate of fifty-five one-hundredths of one cent per average number of yarn counts per pound.

TILSON BELIEVES SOME COMPROMISE CAN BE MADE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19—Commenting on the possible passage of the tariff bill before the regular December session, Floor Leader Tilson said yesterday "I believe a tariff bill can be passed and in conference before the regular session. I think some sort of a compromise between the senate and the house bill can be found. It cannot of course contain the debenture clause, but I think that can be eliminated. The flexible tariff clause is already in effect and may well be continued. The house is ready to put the measure before conference as soon as it comes from the senate, regardless of what sort of a measure it is."

Senator Walcott feels some tariff legislation must be enacted this session to permit the president to carry out his campaign pledge, and today stated to your correspondent that he would work to the fullest to compel the senate to stay in session until that was accomplished." Both Walcott and Bingham spent many hours yesterday in working for Connecticut's interests in connection with the tariff on tobacco, Bingham leading the debate.

Members of the Young Turks bloc of whom Senator Walcott is one, make it clear they do not intend to join any other bloc except as necessary to gain tariff action at this session by preventing adjournment.

Senator Fess stated he felt certain the group had the friendly sympathy of the president in their undertaking otherwise the group would not have taken the stand it has as they are strickly "administration" senators.

COLD WAVE WITH SNOW IN ROCKY MOUNTAIN REGION

DENVER, Nov. 19—(AP)—A snow storm and freezing temperatures gripped the Rocky Mountain region today. Snow was reported in Montana, Wyoming and Colorado, with the storm, which today centered around Cheyenne, Wyo., headed toward New Mexico.

Three inches of snow had fallen in Cheyenne and no cessation was predicted by the weather bureau until some time tomorrow. Four inches of snow fell at Lander on top of a nine inch fall which still was on the ground.

Helena, Montana, suffered numerous minor casualties with a two inch snow, when steep hills in the city became virtual toboggan slides for automobiles and pedestrians alike. Many automobiles crashed against stone walls at the bottom of the hills.

Western Colorado and Nebraska escaped the snow but lower temperatures were reported. There was a little snow in western Kansas and a heavy fall in eastern Colorado.

Telephone and telegraph facilities were only slightly hampered by the storm. Bus lines continued in operation but the highways in some places in Wyoming and Colorado were rapidly approaching an impassable condition. Air mail service was halted. Train service was about normal.

The storm today had little effect on the beet crops since digging was suspended during the last storm and had not been resumed.

Denver was experiencing the stormiest first half of November since 1922 when precipitation was an inch and a half above normal. Thus far this month, precipitation is only about half an inch above normal.

WHITE HOUSE SERVICES FOR SEC'Y GOOD TODAY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19—(AP)—The last tribute of the government will be paid tomorrow to James W. Good, secretary of war in the east room of the white house where sorrow, triumph and happiness frequently have been written into American history.

In the presence of President Hoover and a distinguished company, the rites of the Presbyterian church will be conducted and later the body will be placed upon a special train to Cedar Rapids, Iowa, for burial Friday.

One for his public services that Mr. Good would be remembered, but also "for his loyal and self effacing friendship."

While the service tomorrow will be as restricted as is possible for such an important figure in public life, the full honors of military burial will be extended. A guard of honor, which took its station shortly after the secretary died, will remain with him until his body is placed in his native soil.

BANK ROBBER TAKEN FROM JAIL AND LYNCHED

EASTLAND, Tex., Nov. 19.—(AP)— Marshall Ratliff, under death sentence for the Cisco bank robbery in 1927, tonight was taken from the Eastland county jail here and lynched. Ratliff who robbed the bank while in the full regalia of a Santa Claus, last night shot and seriously wounded Deputy Sheriff T. A. Jones in an attempt to escape from the county jail.

Furious at the wounding of Jones, a mob of approximately 1,000 persons gathered around the jail tonight. Ratliff was taken from the building and hanged after one rope had been broken and another one obtained.

MAY RESTRICT VISITS TO GRAVE OF REV. POWER

MALDEN, Mass., Nov. 19.—(AP)— Plans for restricting the great throngs who continue to flock to the grave of Rev. Patrick J. Power in Holy Cross cemetery, seeking bodily or spiritual aid, were taken under advisement today, when there was no indication of abatement in numbers.

Edward J. O'Connell, superintendent of the cemetery, conferred with Captain John R. Aylward, of the Malden police. They considered closing the cemetery five days a week to all except owners of grave lots and persons having physicians' certificates showing they suffered from illness. Another plan considered was to close the cemetery to all between the hours of 6 in the evening to 8 in the morning. O'Connell and Aylward said they would announce their decision at the end of the week.

Throughout the day thousands filed past the grave, which has become a miraculous shrine to many. Rich and poor knelt side by side at the last resting place of the humble priest to ask divine intercession for their ills.

Mrs. Curtis Guild, widow of a former governor of Massachusetts, knelt with her sister, Mrs. John Lavalle, to ask health for the latter. A 23-year-old girl, who is but 30 inches tall, prayed there and walked, she said, for the first time in many years. Several cures were claimed during the day.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19. —(AP)— Suit for $500,000 for alleged slander and defamation of character was filed in supreme court today by Raoul Alvera, former Roumanian diplomat, against Baroness Marie Louise De Hampsburg, the former Mrs. Alfred E. Norris, of New York and Newport, R. I.

Alvera married the baroness' daughter, Dorothy Louise Norris, September 4, 1920, at Narragansett Pier, R. I. The wife obtained a divorce last year.

Alvera's complaint charged that the baroness told others untrue things about him, which injured his good name, reputation and credit, and alleged that although she at one time retracted, she later repeated the accusations.

REDUCTION IN WHOLESALE PRICE OF REFINED SUGAR

NEW YORK, Nov. 19—(AP)—Two reductions in the wholesale price of refined sugar were announced today by several of the country's leading refiners.

The first reduction, announced around noon, brought the price from 5.85 cents to 5.10 cents. A second reduction sent the price down to 5.00 cents a pound.

The companies announcing the reductions were the American Sugar Refining Co., Arbuckle Brothers, and the Spreckels Sugar Refining Co.

KILLED WIFE AND DAUGHTER, THEN COMMITTED SUICIDE

NEW YORK, Nov. 19—(AP)—The bodies of Dr. Augustine Anastasides, a dentist, his wife and their ten year old daughter, were found today in their West 154th street apartment. All had been hot to death. Police said the dentist had killed his wife and daughter and then committed suicide.

STATE OFFICERS HONORED BY REBEKAH LODGE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 19.—State assembly officers were honored by Violet Rebekah lodge, No. 57, I. O. O. F., here tonight. A banquet, attended by about 40, was held in the Nathan Hale hotel and this was followed by the regular lodge meeting, presided over by Noble Grand Mrs. Marion St. John, when the first nomination of new officers took place. The visiting state officers were Mrs. Maude Briggs of Middletown, president; Mrs. Harriet M. Wilson of Bridgeport, vice-president; Mrs. Mildred J. West of Hamden, warden; Mrs. Mary Greene of Norwich, district deputy. Mrs. Mary E. Lovett of this city, a past state president, also attended. The meeting, held in the First Congregational church house on Valley street, was largely attended. An entertainment was carried out under the direction of Mrs. Charles H. Beebe of this city.

In the case of Delphis Bacon, 18, of 1 Oak street, a nolle without costs was ordered in police court Tuesday. Bacon was charged with failure to give the right of way as the result of an automobile collision at the intersection of Jackson street and Lewiston avenue late Monday evening. Disposition of the case was based on the explanation by Prosecuting Attorney Harry S. Gaucher that Bacon had assumed responsibility and agreed to settle for the damage. The cars involved in the accident were a Chevrolet sedan, driven by Edward Girard of 126 Union street, and Bacon's Ford delivery truck. The sedan was making a turn into the side thoroughfare when struck by the truck proceeding along Jackson street in the same direction. The passenger car was turned over by the impact and three persons were injured. Girard received a compound fracture of the left thumb and Mrs. Girard a slight shoulder sprain. Everett Shippee of 21 Ash avenue, a passenger in the car, met with slight bruises to his leg and elbow. Mr. and Mrs. Alvin V. Nelson, who were riding with the Girards, escaped injury, as did Culhand Berard of upper Jackson street. Girard put out his hand when turning into Lewiston avenue but the signal was not noticed by Bacon. Officer Albert Montie investigated the accident. In the only other case before the court, Ollie Rock was fined $5 and costs for intoxication.

A large attendance is anticipated at the regular monthly meeting and supper of the Brotherhood of the First Congregational church in the church house Thursday evening. The speaker of the occasion will be Dr. George Alan Works, president of the Connecticut Agricultural college. Attorney John H. King, president of the club, will be in charge of the business session and John B. Sullivan, chairman of the entertainment committee, is to introduce the speaker.

A meeting of the democratic city committee and party workers is to be held in the Al-Pierre Tabarin this evening to formulate campaign plans for the coming election. A buffet lunch will be served.

Funeral services for Town Clerk Louis W. Daniels of Coventry, held in the South Coventry Methodist church Tuesday afternoon, were largely attended. Rev. Robert M. Clark of North Coventry officiated. A committal service at the grave in the Nathan Hale cemetery was conducted by Uriel lodge, A. . & A. M., of Merrow. The honorary bearers were Secretary of State Dr. William L. Higgins, Deputy Sheriff Albert E. Harmon, Harry Smith, DeWitt Kingsbury, Elmer H. Lounsbury, Louis A. Kingsbury, Charles Schroeder and Arthur Vinton. The pall bearers were Stuart Ayer, Louis Phillips, Albert M. Gilman, Eugene W. Lattimer, Herman Meyer and Franklin Orcutt. In addition to delegations from the various Masonic organizations with which the deceased was affiliated, there was one in attendance from Willimantic lodge, No. 1311, B. P. O. Elks. Avery & VanZandt were in charge of the arrangements.

The funeral services for Charles B. Jordan were held at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Carleton S. Pollard, of No. 109 Lewiston avenue Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock. Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock, pastor of the First Congregational church, officiated. Interment took place in the Willimantic cemetery. The bearers were Frank L. Alpaugh, Albert L. French, Arthur L. Clark and William P. Jordan. Arrangements were in charge of Avery & VanZandt.

Stephen Voytek of Bridgeport and Miss Mary Fasrak, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Fasrak of Ashford, were united in marriage at St. Philip's church, Warrenville, by the pastor, Rev. William J. Dunn, during a nuptial high mass Monday morning at 9 o'clock. The attendants were Miss Elizabeth Schaeffer of Stafford and Frank Voytek of Bridgeport, brother of the groom. A reception followed the ceremony at the bride's home. Mr. and Mrs. Voytek are to reside in Bridgeport.

DANIELSON

PUTNAM MAN KILLED AT ATTAWAUGAN GRADE CROSSING

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 19. — Money Mason, of 24 Ballou street, Putnam, was instantly killed just before 2 o'clock this afternoon when he drove his ton Ford truck, loaded with cord wood, onto the main track of the New Haven road at Attawaugan crossing into the path of a south-bound light locomotive, No. 1333, bound for New London. Mason's skull was fractured and his neck broken in the crash, which hurled him out of the cab of the truck and a considerable distance down the right of way.

The body was viewed by Dr. George M. Burroughs, medical examiner, and Coroner Arthur G. Bill. Permission was given for its removal to Putnam. Sergeant G. L. Gardner and State Officer Royal Scranton of the Danielson also investigated the accident.

Two lines of freight cars standing on a siding each side of the crossing opening probably figure largely in the bringing about of Mason's death. He was coming east with his load of cord wood along the road at the north shore of Alexander's lake. Approaching the crossing his view to the north, from which direction the locomotive was coming, was cut off by the cars on the siding north of the crossing. A strong breeze blowing at the time is also regarded as a factor in Mason's failing to hear the locomotive, from which the usual crossing warning signal was sounded. Engineer Joseph P. Gaudette, of New London, was operating the locomotive, which was coasting along at about 30 miles an hour when the crash came. The fireman was A. T. Ruell, of Groton, and also riding in the cab was Flagman J. H. Starne, of New London. Some of the cord wood from the truck crashed against the locomotive, but no one of the railroad men were injured. It was regarded as a possibility that Mason's neck was broken by the crash of much of the load of wood against him at the time of the impact. Mason was 41 years old and has a family. Dr. R. C. Garcia, Dayville, called to the crossing just after the accident, found Mason dead.

Announcement was made by Chief John McFarland this afternoon that a new no-parking regulation will become effective next Monday. This new restriction against parking will apply to the westerly side of Main street from Academy street to Spring street. Parking will continue to be allowed on the easterly side of the street from Academy to Reynolds street. This new limitation on parking has been contemplated for a long time. Being a double-trunk line highway at this point there is constant heavy traffic, and with lines of parked cars invariably lining both sides of the streets the area remaining for moving vehicles is dangerously narrow. The new no-parking regulation will considerably relieve this condition.

This afternoon at the home on the West Side, funeral services for Ashley P. Mills were conducted by Rev. Harding W. Gaylord of the Westfield Congregational church. Burial was in the South cemetery at Brooklyn, where the committal service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Gaylord and Rev. Ernest Lyman Mills, a son of the deceased. The bearers were all relatives, Rev. Ernest L. Mills and Ashley Mills, sons; Dr. A. Ernest Mills and John Mills, grandsons; William C. Mills, a brother, and George C. Foote, Southbridge, a brother-in-law. There were many beautiful floral tributes. A. E. Wood was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Coroner Starts Investigation

This afternoon at his office here Coroner Arthur G. Bill began his inquest relatives to the deaths of George Wood, Waterford, Louis Denzento, New London and Louis Ely, West Mystic, Southern New England Telephone company employes who were all instantly killed when the car which Wood was operating crashed into a huge boulder beside the state highway south of Plainfield during the noon hour of Saturday, Nov. 9.

Three witnesses were queried by Coroner Bill this afternoon, and their testimony was all that will be taken in the inquest. They were Harry Carpenteri and his sister, Rose Carpenteri, and Arvine Dawley, all of Plainfield. Carpenteri and his sister were in a car just ahead of the machine Wood was operating immediately before the accident. The Carpenteris testified this afternoon that their car had been slowed down in order to turn into a side road at that point. Wood's machine shot past them at high speed only to encounter another car coming in the opposite direction. To avoid a collision with this machine he swung off to the shoulder of the road, lost control and the car crashed against the stone.

Mr. Dawley testified that he was walking along the highway about a mile northerly of where the accident occurred when the Wood car passed him going at such a terrific speed that it was swaying and swinging from a straight course from time to time and toward the left hand side of the road. Coroner Bill said that Mr. Dawley estimated the speed of the car when he saw it at between 60 and 70 miles an hour.

Enumeration of the children of the town of Killingly for the purpose of fixing the allowance to be made by the state for educational purposes has been completed and shows that the town has a total of 2087 children between the ages of four and sixteen years, this being a gain of 11 over the figures for 1928.

Of this year's total 1055 are in the Danielson district, 49 at Killingly Center, 23 at Mashentuck, 214 at Dayville, 247 at Goodyear, 103 at Attawaugan, 103 at Ballouville, 11 in the Tucker district, 64 at East Killingly, 29 in the Valley district, 18 at Sparks, 48 at South Killingly and 23 in the Horse Hill district. The state will pay the town $2.25 for each child enumerated.

Brooklyn likewise shows an increase in children enumerated this fall, with a total of 539, over the figures for last year, when the total was 498, the gain being 41. In Brooklyn, the children are located by districts as follows: Brooklyn Center, 89; Gilbert, 12; Church street, 11; Allen Hill, 12; Christian Corner, 52; Tatnic Hill, 4; Stetson, 5; Bush Hill, 12; East Brooklyn, 366; Canterbury area, 6.

The cast of this year's Killingly high school senior play— Skinner's Dress Suit—has, as for years past, been coached by John T. Heald, of Webster. The characters and cast follow: Tommy Thomas A. Ray; Mr. Briggs, Robert T. Princeton; Honey Rutherford, Henrietta Thompson; Mr. McLaughlin, Eugene P. Shippee; Mr. Perkins, Ernest T. Elfgren; Skinner, Francis Hammett; Mrs. McLaughlin, H. Gladding Hutchins; Mrs. Colby, Florence M. Ellisson; Olive, Ruth P. Mellor; Willard Jackson, Clark B. Wood; Mrs. Willard Jackson, Loretta P. Mullin.

Danielson appears to have escaped all effects of yesterday's earthquake, although a few persons recalled today some slight and unusual tremors shortly after 3:30 p. m.

Killingly high school's football team, now shaping up for its final game of the season, with Putnam high school at Putnam on Thanksgiving day, will have the support of many local rooters in that contest.

A. W. Noone, who has a summer place near North Sterling and who often visits here, is reported ill at his home in Peterboro, N. H.

Many pictures were made of the Armistice parade here last week, and members of Leo J. L'Homme post, American Legion are anxious to have copies and will gladly pay for them.

Members of the fire department, in uniform, are to assemble at the central fire station Sunday morning at 10:30 to be photographed in a body. The firemen, having new uniforms, are now a spic and span body.

Members of the town school committee have arranged a reception for the teachers of the town of Killingly at the high school building Wednesday evening. A dinner is to be served in the cafeteria of the school.

Gifts for the deaconess work in Providence will be brought in when the Thanksgiving social is held at the Methodist Episcopal church Thursday evening of this week. An interesting program has been prepared for the evening.

A fine showing of dogs is expected at the sanctioned show of the Windham County Kennel club to be held here the coming week end. A corps of experienced judges will pass on the merits of the contestants for ribbons.

JEWETT CITY

TWO LOCAL RESIDENTS NOTICED THE EARTHQUAKE

Earthquakes will have to come stronger than the tremblers of Monday to create any extra commotion in this borough. What with the stream of 150-car freight trains, the puffing and clattering of a half dozen hoisting engines and the steady passing of the 25-ton truck parade, this burg is in a state of regular rocking, both day and night. Now that the identity of the extra punctuation of Monday afternoon is known, some report that they felt it, but thought it was only the usual racket. Mrs. F. C. Whiting and Miss Dorothy Paul are the only two that called the name, when it happened. The former, working in her greenhouse, noted several evidences of the quake and reported it. Miss Paul called a friend at once and said, there has sure been an earthquake, which proved to be a fact.

USED TWO KINDS OF BAIT TO CATCH THESE RIVER EELS

The last angler of summer was seen fishing alone under the lower railroad bridge, Tuesday afternoon. The Quinebaug eel does not enjoy the protection of the state fish and game laws, which fact proved his undoing Tuesday. The lone fisherman had provided two separate and distinct sorts of bait. One species he carried in a can that sat on the bank beside him, and from this tin he threaded a few squirmers on his hook. With the other brand, he occasionally anointed his internals. One of the two had proved effective, for, strung on a stick close at hand, the man had a half dozen fine eels. Pointing to them, he said: "I make the soup for my waf."

Following a hold-up of parts of two days, caused by the easterly storm, work on the new bridge got under way again Tuesday with the weather fine for outside work. The cement pouring for the east abutment has begun. One pier is done, another is filled and the mould for the west abutment is in process of construction. Given another month of good weather and the work in the river will be over.

Charles B. Palmer has purchased the Kalko property on the Preston road. Previous to its occupancy, Mr. Palmer is making numerous improvements.

Several trucks were employed, Tuesday, carting the cotton looms from the Ashland mills for shipment to other plants. This to make room for the new rayon equipment which is regularly coming in.

The Junior Epworth league of the Methodist church meets this (Wednesday) afternoon at 3:30 at the church. Thursday afternoon, at 2, the Ladies' Aid society will meet to work for the Christmas sale. After the evening meeting Wednesday, there will be a rehearsal for the Missionary program to be given next Sunday evening.

MOOSUP

NEW LIONS' CLUB TO HOLD MEETING THIS EVENING

The first regular meeting of the newly-organized Moosup Lions' club is to be held this (Wednesday) evening at 6:30 at the Girls' club rooms.

Invited to Plainfield

Sunday evening, the Baptist Young People met at 6:30. The time was devoted to preparations for the union Y. P. service in Plainfield, Sunday night next. The Congregational Young People of that church have invited the local group to lead the meeting. Miss Winogene Pratt is to preside. Harold Burgess is to be present with the orchestra. Charles Roper was appointed transportation officer and Charlotte V. Kitchen has charge of publicity; also will sing a selection at the meeting. The topic will be The Youth of the Bible. Brief stories of facts of the youth of the Bible will be narrated by Olin and Marguerite Miller, Dorothy Bennett, Daisy Dawley, Dorothy Mortimer, William Pratt. Phyllis Sanderson will give a reading. The orchestra is made up of Harold Burgess, Ira Baker, Olney Pratt, William Asal, Wimogene Pratt, Ruth Wilson and Phyllis Sanderson. Helen Dawley will read the scripture. After the Young People's meeting, all are invited to remain to the motion pictures. Rev. R. W. E. DeWolfe will speak for ten minutes during the pictures on "Why We Are Incorporating Our Church," as the Plainfield church has been considering incorporation.

PUTNAM

HARTFORD AVIATOR CRACKS UP AT PUTNAM WHEN MOTOR DIES

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Nov. 19—Andrew Bleau, of Hartford, a transport pilot, escaped death by inches this morning when the motor of his Challenger plane went dead while over this city and after a few hectic moments in the air crashed into a woodland area in the vicinity of the River road, when strong westerly winds prevented him from gliding back on to Mantup field where he took off a few minutes after ten o'clock. Damages to the plane consisted of a broken wing and a bent landing gear, in addition to the fuselage being torn in various places when the ship nose-dived into the trees. Bleau escaped with a wrenched ankle and a few scratches about his face.

Following an investigation this afternoon it was discovered that water had seeped into the cylinders, during yesterday's rain storm, and mixed with the gasoline, causing the motor to stop functioning. When his motor stalled Bleau was soaring at an altitude of about 700 feet and was over the Mauatanasett section of the city. When aware of the danger he attempted to reach the rolling acres of Mantup field. The head winds cut down the cruising speed of the plane and the alternative for the pilot was to land into the tree tops. A few spectators at Mantup field, a quarter of a mile distant gasped as they witnessed the airplane suddenly go into a nosedive and disappear in the woodlands. By going about the roadway the rescue party was handicapped when they lost their bearings and were forced to tramp the woods for nearly an hour before locating the disabled plane.

Bleau was pinned in the cockpit, but was spared of injury by failure of the body to smash, which proved fortunate for him. Bleau is an experienced flier and his daring feat in clearing the thickly populated village in the south of the city, doubtlessly spared others who perhaps would have been victims had he attempted to land in any small clearing thereabouts.

After several hours of work spent in removing trees and brush the damaged plane was removed from the wooded area. Temporary repairs will be made Wednesday and Bleau will endeavor to reach his home port in Hartford to have the disabled ship overhauled. The pilot appeared to be undaunted late this afternoon when he returned to Putnam. He discussed his misfortune with a few who gathered to learn of the mishap, informing them that he would pilot the plane back to Brainard field.

Irving H. Miron's career as tax collector for the town of Putnam terminated today, when the incumbent turned all town property relative to this office over to Alfred Bonneville, democrat, who defeated Miron in the campaign at the town election last October. Collector Bonneville will officially begin his new duties on Wednesday. Mr. Miron's action took place this morning, upon receipt of a certificate of audit from town auditors, Lucius P. Merriam and John J. McGarry, stating that his accounts were in perfect condiction.

Mr. Miron, as tax collector has established an enviable record, one that will be difficult to surpass. In fact, Collector Miron received a warrant from town officials for the collection of over $140,000 in taxes due the municipality. Of this amount he turned into the coffers of the town, all but $6,000. Mr. Bonneville like his predecessor, holds an excellent record for his past performances as city tax collector, and today he assumes this town position, with the best wishes of town and city officials for success in his responsible undertaking.

Funeral services were held this afternoon in Wilsonville for Mrs. Viola C. Bates of that village who died Saturday evening following a brief illness. A prayer service was held at the house with committal services at the grave in the East Thompson cemetery. The pastor of the Swedish Lutheran church of North Grosvenordale officiated.

From indications, New York sportsmen who have made hunting expeditions into the Maine woods this fall have experienced a successful season from the standpoint of troubles bagged. This morning two New York registered automobiles passed through this city with carcasses of two deer and a moose roped on the vehicles. Each speciman was marked with a tag issued by state officials of the Pine Tree state authorizing the hunters to transport their spoils of the expedition from one state to another.

Several sportsmen and city officials, including Mayor Charles A. Richard, members of the fire and police departments gathered at the Putnam Inn Sunday evening and enjoyed a supper —the feature dish being raccoon.

The Putnam public school teachers will have a visiting day Friday, November 22. The observance of this day incidentally will mean the suspension of all sessions. Visiting other schools is allowed local teachers once each year and the purpose of the day is to enable teachers to procure new ideas for the improvement of the class instruction.

The slogan, "A health examination including dental, for every child in the public schools of Connecticut each year," is being realized in Putnam this year for the first time, according to a statement made today by Superintendent of Schools Leon M. Farrin. The health of the students is the first of seven cardinal objectives of the local school commission, according to Mr. Farrin.

Plans have been formulated by a group of interested persons, cooperating with the superintendent of schools for the organization of a class in public speaking. A meeting of the committee and those planning on taking the course will be held Tuesday evening, Nov. 26, at 7:30 in the auditorium of Putnam high school.

Another interesting item released by the school department today concerns the holding of an old fashioned spelling bee which is to take place at the Israel Putnam school on December 6, between the sixth grade pupils of Miss Whiting's and Miss MacConnell's Classes. The students of both classes are preparing a social programme to be rendered following the contest of words.

PLAINFIELD

MANY AT DEDICATION OF NEW CATHOLIC SCHOOL

The dedication of St. John's parochial school was held Sunday afternoon. At 1:45 there was a short parade. Leading the parade was a color guard of Boy Scouts from St. Mary's parish, Putnam, and followed by St. Mary's Boys' band, also of Putnam. Emile Dupere was marshal of the day, his aides being Adelard Lafreche, John Leahy, Joseph Metevier, Wilfred Lemieux, Edward Beaudoin, Lea Fournier, Augustus Coffey, William Crooke, Arthur Mathieu, William Sedden and Ovila Charron. Men and women of the parish and the school children were in the line, which marched to the Old Village and returned to the church, where they disbanded at 3 o'clock. The dedication of the school by Rt. Rev. Bishop M. F. McAuliffe took place. Vespers in the church followed, sung by the children's choir of St. Mary's church, Jewett City, directed by Sister Cecelia and assisted by soloists. The sermon in French was by Rev. Alderic O. Bellerose, of St. Mary's church, Putnam. That in English was by Rev. John J. Reilly, of St. Patrick's church, Norwich. The service closed with benediction of the blessed sacrament. Although a rainy day, a large crowd attended the impressive exercises.

The calendar at the First Congregational church was given Sunday by William H. Devolve and sons, Alfred and Henry, in memory of their mother, Mrs. Ruth E. B. Devolve. The decorations were furnished by the Ladies' Aid society. The service was held in the vestry. Subject: What Should Young Men and Women Expect of Each Other? The leader was Miss Lena Butler and the pianist Ernest Plassman. The motion picture service was an educational one-reel film, The Pole Pushers of Puget Sound. The second picture was the last three reels of the interesting film, The Stream of Life. A solo was sung by James Royle. The pastor was assisted by Rev. William Williams, of Wauregan. Mrs. Henry Leach was organist.

Tuesday, at 7, a special meeting of the Lincoln club executive board was held at the parsonage of the First Congregational church.

A meeting of the Plainfield Cemetery association is to be held with Walter Kingsley this (Wednesday) evening.

WOODSTOCK

Woodstock Academy hall was crowded last Friday evening to enjoy the second annual minstrel show given by the students of the academy under the supervision of Headmaster Ellis. Eugene Hibbard was interlocutor. The end men who were in costume were Raine Tourtelotte, Dudley Gifford, James Child, Evelyn Butts, Martha Kuper and Katherine Foskett and they, with songs and jokes furnished much of the fun of the evening. Helen Morris entertained by a dance called the "Volga Hop" and Marian Cady and Eva Langlois executed a clown dance which brought down the house. Elsie Hibbard dressed in a slicker sang a solo with chorus by the end men, which was well received. The Sheldon sisters gave a step dance, Treffy Cross, Donald French and Mary Hibbard gave instrumental solos.

The addition to Palmer Memorial hall which is to contain the town and probate offices, is being roffed in. It is to be fireproof and all the furnishings and vault is to be up to date.

WESTMINISTER

A supper and lecture at Westminster Congregational church Thursday evening, brought a large gathering of townspeople and many from out of town to partake of the real old-time chicken supper, prepared and served by the Ladies' Aid society. The pastor, Rev. Harry T. Smail, acted as master of ceremonies during the evening. The supper was followed by a short programme by the children, under direction of Mrs. Smail. A violin solo by little Manfred Moody was so well rendered that an encore was demanded. Music during the evening was by the talented Wibberly family band, without which no town affair is quite complete. An instrumental selection by Mrs. William Wright organ, and Francis Perkins, saxophone, brought a storm of applause and an encore. The lecture by Rev T. Hawthorne Jones, pastor of Mansfield Center Congregational church of India, As She Was and As She Is Today, was thoroughly appreciated by the large audience. Rev. Mr. Jones a very interesting speaker is an authority on the subject, having spent many years of his life in India. The closing prayer was offered by Mrs. T. Hawthorne Jones.

In checking up on hunters one day recently the local game warden met Wilfred Griggs, of Brooklyn, on a hunting trip in the woods asked if he had a license. The man, who is 93 promptly produced it and proudly exhibited a squirrel he had just taken to the astonished warden.

What a difference Gas has made!

YOU women of today have but to think of the endless hours of loving drudgery which your mothers and grandmothers endured in sweltering kitchens in order to realize what a wonderful thing the gas industry has done for the freedom of women.

Compare the hours formerly spent over a hot stove—watching a meal through every stage of the cooking process—with the few minutes of attention now required when you have a gas range equipped with Heat Control.

Heat Control is a most remarkable device which enables you to put a meal into the oven, set a little indicator to the correct temperature, and then forget all about it until meal time.

You owe it to yourself to see the new ranges now being demonstrated by your gas company, and to learn more about how much one may mean to you and the welfare of your family.

THE UNIMPROVED ROADS

Connecticut is not the only state where there is a demand being made for the improvement of the side roads or the country roads. It is experienced in commonwealths where there is a feeling that some attention should be given to other than the through motorists, where the opportunity exists for bettering state highway conditions in general and where in justice to those who are being taxed for that purpose better facilities should be provided.

It is pointed out by the Detroit News that "the whole subject of highway construction is being forced to the fore by the advocates of more low-cost roads. It is a fact that the bulk of highway construction not unnaturally, has gone into the so-called high-cost permanent highways of most service to the long distance motorist, or into important radial roads centering in important and densely populated communities. . . . But it seems that the time has come for the more liberal development of the subsidiary highways, which act in a manner of branch line to the great trunk roads."

Connecticut is one of the states which has done extensive work in the matter of road construction, and it is one of the states which handles a large volume of motor vehicle traffic because of its location. This traffic crosses it in all directions, but while these fine main roads are highly valuable and desirable for Connecticut people they have unquestionably attracted traffic which never thought of using them before their improvement. At the same time there are those who have contributed their share to the construction of these roads who are far from any modern highway facilities and at certain seasons are unable to get to them because of the condition of the country roads, those feeders for the main highways and those short cuts for many highway users if they were only put into good condition.

These are not roads that call for permanent construction, but they are entitled to some degree of consideration and not in all instances simply for those who happen to live upon them. Those called into such territory on business of any kind and those who would use such roads to reduce distances have an interest in such improvement.

PUT IDLE LAND TO WORK

In connection with the session of the forestry committee of the New England council this week in Boston, Charles Lathrop Pack, president of the American Tree association, asks the pointed question concerning New England, "Why not put her 2,139,000 acres of idle forest land to work growing forests?"

This is a question to which the committee may well devote serious attention. It is no secret that New England is paying millions of dollars in freight rates to import timber from other parts of the country and it is fully understood that it has this large acreage that is producing little or no return.

In part of the New England states there has been a slight increase in the production of lumber. The four northern states showed a greater production in 1928 than in 1927, with Massachusetts showing the largest percentage of increase of the four, but both Rhode Island and Connecticut showed decreases, the former by over 32 per cent and the latter by nearly 37 per cent, and yet there is an increasing demand for such production within these states.

Just why it should be necessary to bring timber from the Pacific coast to supply states which are able to grow a much larger amount than they do and come nearer to supplying their needs, doesn't concern the western states. It does or should concern New England and if the New England council can formulate a programme that will arouse the interest of those who are in a position to grow trees and obtain productivity where practically none exists today it will be rendering a highly valuable service to this part of the country.

The need of awakening New England to a realization of the importance of forestry work has been recognized for years. Some progress has been made in that direction, but the opportunity for more intensive work prevails. Through the constant keeping of the situation and the opportunities before the people it can be expected that they will gradually take steps to meet the situation by putting the idle acres to work.

AT A HALT

Whether the retirement of William Phillips as the American minister to Ottawa will have any effect upon the St. Lawrence waterway project has been questioned. Mr. Phillips has not offered the failure to bring about successful negotiations as the reason for his giving up of the post and leaving the diplomatic service, but it is apparent that little headway has been made and, from all indications, there is no promise of early developments.

That Mr. Phillips was regarded as an excellent man to open and carry on any negotiations that would be necessary in bringing the two countries to an understanding was evident. He was brought from a post that ranks higher than that at Ottawa in the belief that such service was going to be required at no distant date. For a time there was favorable progress but the dominion hasn't gotten to the point where it is ready to go ahead. Two years have passed and there is no greater readiness on the part of Ottawa than there was when Mr. Phillips was appointed, and there are those who are drawing the inference that the prospects of an agreement are not good.

There have always been those in this country who were opposed to such a project because they believed the traffic that would be sent through Canada ought to be brought through ports of this country, and they have favored the building of a large canal across New York state. There is a fear in Canada that the entrance of ocean-going vessels into the lakes would take away much of the business now centered at Montreal, but there is also a question as to what would be done with the great amount of hydro-electric energy that would be developed in connection with the improvement. Canada is represented as taking much the same view that has been displayed in Maine of restricting any such energy to use in Canada. This would be much greater than it would have any use for now or for a long time. It would be electricity that could be disposed of and would be liked in this country, but that is one of the points on which Canada is divided.

The demand for the waterway improvement has by no means abated but it is one of those projects on which no apparent progress has been made for some time.

PROTECTED NEW ENGLAND

This part of the country is not able to boast that it has never experienced an earthquake shock. There have been several of them, of varying degree of severity, but it has reason to feel secure in that if has never experienced any such disastrous results as have occurred in other parts of the country or the world.

New England has had its shakes, there has been the rattling of dishes, the trembling of buildings and the various other minor results which go with the vibrations from such a disturbance, but it has never approached anything like those which have occurred in California, and there are reasons for believing that it never will. If such is the case there is nothing to worry about.

Time and again have we had reason to appreciate the apparent security which surrounds this part of the country. Through certain other sections there are the devastating tornadoes or the destructive hurricanes. In other sections there have been disastrous floods, and these have been frequently repeated. New England hasn't been entirely spared when it comes to floods and the records are filled with them, but the number of serious ones is small in comparison with other sections.

When it comes to hard storms, and destructive wind and hail, we are not exactly immune but we have had occasion for congratulating ourselves that we were spared conditions which were experienced in Florida, the Mississippi valley or on the western plains.

This week's tremors will recall other similar vibrations but it is evident that if we experience nothing worse we have good and sufficient reasons for being thankful that we are living in a section of the country that is so well surrounded with safeguards. It is one more reason for appreciating old New England.

"TAY PAY" O'CONNOR

One of the leading Irish figures for many years was Thomas P. O'Connor, probably better known as "Tay Pay" O'Connor. He has taken part in all the struggles that have been made in behalf of home rule for Ireland the past 60 years. He was prominent among the old nationalists and yet for the greater part of his life he has lived in England and been the representative in parliament of a Liverpool constituency.

Quite the same as he was prominent in his efforts for Ireland he was also conspicuous for his legislative work and for his journalistic endeavors. He was a brilliant writer, a most interesting speaker and one who was much quoted, either through his speeches or his writings in his own weekly or in other papers.

Tay Pay was known on both sides of the ocean. He had a great number of friends and followers in this country, those who not only knew of and backed his work but who admired his bright writings and his principles.

He was able to see a vast improvement in conditions in Ireland even though the nationalists did not obtain control. He was what might be termed a broad humanitarian and there are those who have felt that if he could have had his policies put into effect there would never have developed any such feeling as existed between England and Ireland.

His death, in his 82nd year, removes a never-flagging optimist, a widely-known, respected and sincere man among men and a statesman whose loss will mean much to friends everywhere and particularly in the Emerald Isle.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The man on the corner says: There's a chance for someone to claim that he put a stop to the earthquake.

Of course, if you cannot find anything else to blame it on there is the stock market.

There's no mistaking the fact that this is going to be a busy week for President Hoover.

One might think from the trouble they get into and out of that judges in Texas can do about as they please.

Following the move for the reduction of federal taxes there is an insistent demand for similar relief in various states. It is a natural reaction.

The discovery of another plan for the escape of prisoners at Canon City, Colo., indicates a condition at that institution which ought not to exist.

If the senators are exhausting themselves by their work on the tariff there is no one to blame for it but themselves. They may have to call on the lobbyists.

WILLOW AND A HARP

Hilary Masters shifted restlessly in his chair and then looked back at the harpist. He wondered at the intrinsic value of playing an instrument and was lost. Once he had tried to play a ukulele, but the result was so appalling that he gave the thing to a neighbor boy and went in for bridge instead. But a harp—well, maybe some day he would have a chance to play one. If he were very good. How could one help being good with Aunts Tabitha, Maude and Valerie watching over you?

"The Sunday evening musicales are so uplifting, Hilary. They seem to lift you right out of the week's worries and we three want you to be our guest at them from now on," Aunt Tabitha had remarked that first Sunday five years ago. And to refuse such an aunt was like overthrowing a kingdom. Hilary complied.

"You'll enjoy the Tarpers," Aunt Maude had cut in. "They are so cultured. And you can well know that at their musicales, only the most appreciative audiences are present." It was final. Hilary would join the ranks and applaud each Sunday evening at the Jeffry Tarpers from then on.

And hadn't he? Like a veteran. Sometimes a little weary with the same nodding of the three aunts, the same "how-do-you-dos," and the Bach, Beethoven and inevitable classics. But after the sixteenth Sunday Hilary became impassive. The music floated up to him, around him, but did not touch him. He was miles away, in the midst of magic words, characters and situations.

To the strains of a wailing violin one Sunday he conceived the character of Willow. Hilary had left college with the decision of planning a novel. And here, at these absurd Sunday evening musicales, the thing was taking form. "Summer Gone," as he called it, was acquiring wings.

Aunts Tabitha and Maude and Valeria had melted into a flutter of kindness. They were eager for "Summer Gone" to develop and expand into the final chapter when they could announce to the Tarpers that their nephew was no longer a little boy whom they had sheltered for five years. That he was now a grown man of achievement. A novelist!

And then today something unexpected happened. Hilary, sitting with his three aunts at the Tarpers, suddenly jumped to his feet and realized he was being introduced to the soloist of the evening, the harpist whose music not three minutes ago had made him wonder if he would ever reach heaven.

"Miss Isabel Tarper," Aunt Tabitha crooned, and the dear aunts, nodding and supremely happy, left Hilary holding the slim hand of a pretty young girl; the hand of a girl who was so like his very own heroine, Willow, that he wondered if his novel was coming to life.

"Warm in here, Mr. Masters. And we have a short intermission. I know a cool spot," and she whisked him out of the music room into the library.

"My uncle, Mr. Tarper, asked me down for the week to assist on the program tonight. Aren't they rigid old things about these Sunday evenings?" and she startled Hilary with her wide brown eyes.

"I used to think so," Hilary admitted. "But I've grown fond of them, now. In fact, I'm awfully glad I heard you play the harp. It has cleared matters up." Yes, Willow would have to play a harp. Isabel Tarper tilted her head and decided she liked this rather quiet, sharp, although she doubted the space of thing about harmonies.

"Did" she questioned. "Cleared matters up? Have you been groping for a solution?" There was a challenge in her voice, neither one of them quite certain of what would come next.

But Hilary knew. It was Willow. Willow of "Summer Gone" standing before him, coming to life, asking him questions. How had he ever written or dared to write about this glorious child without first knowing Isabel Tarper? It was astounding, but true. He surely could not finish that book without dancing, having tea and motoring with the girl who was the very symbol of his first novel.

Back again in the music room Hilary Masters joined the three aunts. They were wise, these three old ladies, but their wisdom was obscure.

Hilary let the soft tinkling of the harp mingle with his exaltation. He would hurry home soon and look over the can. Wasn't he going to weigh and ponder the wonderful Willow with the more wonderful Isabel at his side tomorrow? They were going to the seashore for the day.

Hilary, watching the three aunts nodding to the music, shifted in his chair and then looked back at the harpist.—Chicago News.

If We Followed Europe

If the United States were to adopt the recent European practice of reviving old place names such as Oslo for Christiania, Nidaros for Trondjhem, Helsinki for Helsingfors, Warszawa for Warsaw, and Praha for Prague, the roster of the 48 states would vary in many cases, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographical society.

Nineteen states have different original Indian names they could go back to: Alibamu, Arizonac, Quonoktacut, E-dah-hoe, Illini, Ayuhba (Iowa), Kanza, Kentake, Massawadschuasch (Massachusetts), Mishigamaw (Michigan), Missisipi, Missiuri, Ohionhilo, Tanasee, Texla, Ute, Mishkonsing, Mcheuwomink (Wyoming), Akansea.

Restoration of old names would require Delaware to revert to De la Warr, the name selected in honor of Lord de la Warr. New York was named for the Duke of York, but if origins were to be pushed back as far as possible the Empire State must revive the old English form, becoming New Eurewic.

Revival of an historical name, such as that of Lwow for Lemberg in Poland, would restore Vert Mont in honor of the French, Roode Eylandt in respect to Dutch explorers, and Orejones, as a compiment of Spanish Conquistadores.

Illinois serves as an example of states whose present names are pitfalls to the unwary. Persons not familiar with the French adaption of the original Indian tribe name, pronounce the last syllable "noise." George Washington, it is said, called the Illinois country Black Island because he thought the French spelled it Ile Noir.

Tree Calendar Will Be Rosetta Stone

Dating the occupancy period of the famous Pueblo Bonito in Chaco canyon, New Mexico, giant communal dwelling which has been called "America's first apartment house," and of some 40 other major pre-Columbian ruins of the American southwest, is in immediate prospect, according to an announcement made today by Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, president of the National Geographical society.

Study and codification of about 5,000 tree sections, including a series of cross sections located this summer after years of search, is being concluded by Neil M. Judd, leader of the National Geographical society's expeditions which revealed Pueblo Bonito, and by Dr. A. E. Douglass, leader of the timber and wooden beam research parties which are about to yield the answer to America's foremost archological problem.

These scientists and their aids, the National Geographical society explains are about to write the final answer to a "scientific detective story" that has progressed through chapter after chapter until this summer's work culminated in finding the missing tree ring links that spell the solution.

This solution will enable The society to date the period when the complex and highly developed civilisation of Chaco Canyon reached its culmination in the Beautiful Village (Pueblo Bonito), a communal dwelling of some 2,500 people, centuries before the white man set foot on American soil. There this aboriginal people, with no apparent communication with the Egyptians Babylonians or Assyrians, constructed their masonry residence, equipped it with household utensils, furnished ceremonial chambers, and wrought intricate jewelry of marvelous beauty.

These mementoes of a civilisation which rivaled those of the ancient Old World cultures, of which the Benitans apparently knew nothing, have already been brought to Washington from year to year, and have been viewed by thousands and pictured in publications the world over.

But always there was the perplexing question about Pueblo Bonito, as about the other pre-Columbia ruins, "How old are they?"

Archeology, botany, astromy, micro-photography and plain "sleuthing" were brought to play to solve this scientific mystery. The trail led along the tree-rings patiently collected from sections cut in various parts of the Southwest, to be compared with similar rings found in the ancient wooden beams of Pueblo Bonito itself.

Years of painstaking research were based on the commonly known fact that tree growth deposits a ring for each year of the tree's life, and under a microscope each year's ring shows individual characteristics. Lean years or "fat" years, in terms of rainfall and consequent tree nourishment, are registered indelibly and unmistakably.

Therefore it follows that trees which have grown in the same region, and thus have been subjected to the same cycle of dry, normal or moist years, will show the same characteristics, and their timbers can be identified by comparison.

The life of a single tree in New Mexico will not span many centuries. But an old tree and a young tree, growing side by side, will register the same season records. Thus the young tree can be dated and will carry on the record for years after the older tree has fallen or has been cut for timber.

Hence the problem was to fit the beams of Pueblo Bonito, and those of other ruins, and by matching the overlapping sections of one series with another until the record was linked up with sections of living trees, reconstruct the tree-ring calendar.

When the season's work started the scientists were so near a solution that the lapse in their records was all the more baffling. They had worked back a chronology after years of patient study of old timbers and sections of living trees that gave them a calender to 1540 A. D. They had established another chronology covering a pre-Columbian period of 586 years.

All so far proven was that Pueblo Bonito dated some time before 1540. To get exact dates it was necessary to dovetail the two chronologies. Is there a gap between? Or do they overlap?

Telegraphic advices to Dr. Grosvenor give assurance that the timber sections collected this summer are adequate to link the two calendars, and thus solve a major problem affecting all the important pre-Columbian ruins of the Southwest.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 — When Nelson Johnson goes from the state department to relieve Jack MacMurray as minister to China, the United States will be represented at Peiping by a man who not only talks but eats Chinese.

It has been part of his philosophy since he first went to China many years ago in the consular service to "live upon the country," so to speak, wherever he was stationed.

He wanted to know not only how the people among whom he lived talked and thought and acted, but what they ate. He probably knows more about oriental dishes than anybody in Washington.

He has shopped o'mornings in many a Chinese native market, carting home the results to be cooked in native style for his own table.

Always Curious.

This intimate interest in the ways and works of folks of every color or custom is a part of the Johnson makeup. The present assistant secretary of state, in charge of far eastern matters, exhibits it in whatever he does.

His vacation this year, for instance, was spent driving his own car over the historic trail of the family of Abraham Lincoln from Virginia to Illinois; and he came back full of closeup pictures of the surroundings that bore upon the makings of Lincoln's character.

That is the way this latest "career" recruit to the diplomatic corps takes his history.

There have been previous American ministers to China who had a knowledge of the language; but not many of them. It takes a man of Johnson's cheerful outlook to absorb a language so widely differing from his own.

It was a part of his instinctive effort to understand sympathetically the people among whom he dwell. He wanted to talk to them in their own tongue.

Yet behind that student interest with Johnson stands the safeguard of a very cautious acceptance of other men's points of view. He is not easily stirred to enthusiasms. His sense of humor is too great. He can be relied upon to see through exhibitions of oriental guile he may encounter—and to look upon them with amused delight.

Aid to Coolidge.

Back in the days when American naval forces were being rushed to Shanghai and other Chinese ports to protect American nationals, Johnson was a tower of strength for the Coolidge administration. You could see him almost any day, strolling across to the white house with the most recent crop of official advices.

President Coolidge usually called for Johnson in person in that regard. No doubt he found the calm manner of the ruddy-faced, sandy-haired and rather plump career man a relief in times of perplexity as to how to meet the emergencies that arose.

Nobody ever saw Johnson excited. He isn't built that way. Even back in his consular days, when he was on the firing line in a number of Chinese revolutionary crises, his calm remained unruffled.

Johnson is a diplomat by habit of thought as well as long training. He favors peaceful solutions, not "strong arm" policies, which should increase his influence as minister.

U. S. CUSTOMS AGENTS WARNED NOT TO "PRY"

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Sent back to France after an absence of a year and a half, United States customs agents have been instructed to avoid all suggestion of prying into the secrets of French industries.

The agents were withdrawn on complaints from Paris that the Americans were in position to obtain trade secrets and pass them along to American competitors of the French.

By consent of the French government it had been their business to acquaint themselves with the domestic value of French exports. After their withdrawal the United States treasury had no choice except to assess ad valorem duties on French merchandise on the basis of value in American markets. It resulted in duties so high that in many cases French manufacturers suffered a loss of trade.

Investigation, the treasury says, proves the complaints to have been without foundation and that there is little or no ground for believing American agents ever betrayed their trust.

The new understanding between the two governments places American agents on much the same footing as that enjoyed when they were recalled.

YOUR HEALTH

The Eye in Children.

By George M. Tralle, M. D.
Santa Ana, Calif.
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

Parents often say to me—"Doctor, I do not want to put glasses on my child, unless it is absolutely necessary."

My answer is: "I heartily agree with you. Glasses are a nuisance to wear—I do not like to wear them myself—and unless the benefit to be derived by your child from wearing glasses will outweight the expense and inconvenience, I will certainly not recommend them."

Glasses are quite limited in what they accomplish. If the eyeball is too large or too small in relation to its refractive media, or if some part of the refractive media is not perfectly accurate in shape, then glasses may be able to bring the rays of light to a sharp focus and thus improve the vision and relieve the eye strain.

Glasses do not cure diseases of the eye. They may assist by relieving eye strain, and are therefore only one of the many means or agents used in treating and correcting errors and diseases of the eye. Other remedies are often of much more importance than are glasses.

It is a safe rule to have your child's eyes examined every year or so, in order to forestall trouble. It should be taken to a good occulist for a thorough examination, and if any defect is found the proper means to correct it should be employed. Childhood is the time of growth and development, and the eye should grow and develop along with the rest of the body.

A defective eye may be so corrected as to become normal, or to improve very much as the child grows. I have seen many children whose eyesight was so defective at the first examination that it was possible to read only the largest letter on the test card, but after a few years of proper care the normal line could be read. Had these children been neglected and been permitted to reach maturity before having their eyes examined, such results would have been impossible, and their eyes would have remained defective through life.

Little Talks on Thrift

Savings Bank Account Should be Regarded as a Friend Ready to Help Us When We Need Us.

"I have learned to look upon my savings bank account as a strong, dependable friend—the kind of friend that will stand by me if I should ever be in need. It affords me satisfaction to know that I have a good friend of this kind."

The foregoing paragraph is from a letter recently received by this writer from a man who has been patiently saving money for a number of years. The idea of personifying one's bank account in this manner is, we believe, a very helpful idea. Human friendship is one of the most splendid things in life. A friend who can always be counted on is indeed a priceless possession. We may have other blessings in life but we never can rise above the need of a human friendship.

There is an old saying that "a friend in need is a friend indeed" and that is the kind of friend one's savings bank account always is.

Human friendships are, of course, not fostered for the purpose of having a place of refuge or help in times of trouble. In the same way, a savings bank account should not be created merely for the sake of having something to fall back on when we are in need. But when troubles do come to a man, he turns to his friend for sympathy and if need be, help. In the same way he turns to his bank account as a means of salvation when he might otherwise be swept down in ruin.

It also is to be remembered that one's bank account is a friend to whom one may turn for help when opportunities for self-advancement come along. Many a man owes his success in life to the fact that he was able to take advantage of an opportunity when it presented itself—an opportunity that could not have been utilized had he been without funds.

It is well to keep in mind the thought that a savings bank account is a friend and that every dollar we add to this account makes this friend just that much stronger and that much more able to help us when we have need or opportunity for assistance.—By S. W. Straus, President American Society for Thrift.

Cascara is Good for the System

The best thing yet discovered for the purpose is still the little candy Cascaret! Take one whenever the liver and bowels are not functioning as they should.

Cascarets are pleasing to the palate, and pleasant in their action. You eat them just like candy. They work while you sleep. Gentle, but thorough. Cascarets don't stir up the stomach or upset the system. But they cleanse the entire thirty feet of bowels in one comfortable, thorough action that leaves the system clean and sweet; leaves you with an untainted breath, uncoated tongue, and clear head.

Cascarets are made of cascara—long regarded one of the most beneficial laxatives known to medical science. They are sweetened with pure cane sugar and flavored with real licorice. Children love them. So do most grown-ups! Why take anything harsh when constipation threatens? Whenever a dull headache, lassitude, or sick stomach with loss of appetite warns you of poor elimination, a Cascaret or two is the most harmless form of help you could give a lagging system.

Take a candy Cascaret tonight and see how fine you'll feel in the morning—and for days after.

OBITUARY

Elijah W. Lathrop

Elijah W. Lathrop, 87, one of twin brothers, died suddenly just before 8 o'clock Tuesday night at his home in the Gardner lake section of Montville. He had just gone to bed after eating a hearty supper when he was seized with a fatal attack of heart trouble.

Mr. Lathrop had been a farmer all his life, living in the towns of Bozrah and Montville, and for many years carried the mails in the Gardner lake section, giving him a wide acquaintance and many friends in the neighborhood. He was born in Bozrah, Jan. 29, 1842, the son of Elisha and Charlotte Ayery Lathrop. His wife died several years ago and he is survived by three sons, James, of Raymond Hill, Earl, of Gardner lake; Lawrence, who lived with his father, and two daughters, Mrs. William R. Denison and Mrs. William R. Sanders, both of Norwich. He also leaves four brothers, John, Francis and Walter, all of Bozrah, and Elisha, of Yantic, his twin. He also leaves a sister, Mrs. Hannah Payne, of New London.

LOCAL POLICE SCOOP IN 21 IN SERIES OF SURPRISE LIQUOR RAIDS

Twenty-one men and women were scooped in on liquor law violation charges in a score of simultaneous raids by the local police early Tuesday evening. At an early hour this (Wednesday) morning less than half of the accused had been released on bonds. In each case bonds were set at $1,000.

Orders From Higher Up

Orders for the surprise raids, it is understood, originated from sources higher up than the police department. The orders to raid were issued so unexpectedly that proprietors of liquor bars and speak-easies in nearly all sections of the city and town were entirely taken by surprise and before they realized what it was all about found themselves in custody and on the way to police headquarters. Few, if any, of the police officers who participated in the raids had any inkling of the wholesale liquor cleanup when they received orders Tuesday afternoon to report at police headquarters at 6 o'clock.

The majority of the "regulars," day and night men, were ordered Tuesday afternoon to report at police headquarters at 6 o'clock. There they were detailed into squads of two, three and four men, handed warrants, and ordered to raid the premises named in the warrants. The warrants had been issued in advance by Prosecuting Attorney Charles W. Cassidy, on evidence of liquor violation secured, it is understood, by out-of-town "stool pigeons." The out-of-town "stool pigeons," it is said, have been quietly at work for some time past, securing evidence that the liquor law was being openly and widely violated in Norwich.

Little Liquor Seized

Within an hour after the warrants had been handed to the raiding details most of the 21 accused men and women had been or were being booked at police headquarters. Seizures of small quantities of beer, alleged gin and whiskey were made in a number of the raids but in other cases no "wet goods" were found in the raided premises. That the authorities responsible for the raid orders had secured evidence of the violation of the prohibition laws in advance was evident from the fact that a number of those scooped in were arrested despite the fact that no liquor was found in the places which they are accused of conducting.

Town Becomes Sahara

News that the police were raiding on a wholesale scale spread like wild fire and within a short time after the raiding squads started to book prisoners at police headquarters the city and town was drier than the Sahara desert. A number of those who were fortunate enough not to receive surprise police visits immediately got rid of their stocks of liquor and closed up for the rest of the night, and many a thirsty patron had the unpleasant experience of foregoing his or her evening highball or bottle of beer. That the end is not yet in sight was hinted Tuesday evening.

List of Arrests

Angelo Panagiotos, Greek, 45 years of age, of No. 27 Thames street; liquor seizure, two bottles of beer; raiding squad, Sergt. John Casey and Officer Henry Davis.

Nora Ouellet, of No. 248 Main street; raiding squad, Officers Hugh McAvoy and John Donovan.

Joseph G. Bedard, 55, of No. 163 West Main street; seizure, a bushel basket filled with bottles of alleged beer, an empty pitcher, an empty quart bottle, and a half dozen glasses.

Carlo Depucchio, Italian, 43, of No. 284 Central avenue; seizure, about four gallons of home brew beer in the making; raiding squad, Sergt. Matthew Delaney and Officers Bernard Keenan, John Quinn and Patrick Murphy.

Arnold Headon, 42, of No. 10 Railroad avenue; raiding squad, Officers Albert Lamphere and Daniel O'Neil.

Dennis Sullivan, 64, of No. 10 Railroad avenue; raiding squad, Officers Albert Lamphere and Daniel O'Neil.

All of the accused will be presented in the city court to answer to the charges against their names this (Wednesday) morning.

The cell block at police headquarters bulged with occupants for a time until the matter of bonds could be arranged as those arrested were shunted along to a cell as soon as they had been brought in and booked. The women's room at headquarters had four occupants at one time.

A man who thought to provide more comfort for a woman friend who was destined to spend the night under arrest arrived with a blanket to be given to her. He was told to take it home, as she was in a place where she had steam heat and more comfort than she was probably in the habit of experiencing.

RECORD-BREAKING MEETING BY WHITE CROSS COUNCIL

At the regular meeting of White Cross council, No. 12, Tuesday evening, the first degree of the order was exemplified before the largest meeting ever held in the K. of C. home. The various activities of the council were reported by the committees, among these announcement of the pie supper which will be served in the early part of next month. This is an annual event of the winter season and largely attended by the members.

Plans are being considered for an addition to be made to the present home. This would be 40"x75" and would contain a ball room, assembly room for very large meetings, recreation rooms, etc.

Grand Knight James P. Sheridan, reviewing the progress of the council in recent months, pointed out that wonderful strides have been made financially, socially and in acquiring new members.

After the business meeting, a lunch was served to the members.

WATER DEPARTMENT EARNS THANKS OF MOTORISTS

The city water department will earn the thanks of Norwich motorists for a piece of work done Tuesday on Broadway where a projecting hydrant in front of the T. A. B. building has been set back so that it can no longer hook into passing automobiles that came close to the curb.

Superintendent John H. Bowman, Jr., has had the hydrant set back 10 inches, where there is no possibility of further trouble to the drivers of cars.

WEDDING

Mazurkiewicz—Tramontozzi

The marriage of Nelson Mazurkiewicz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mazurkiewicz of 16 High street, and Miss Mary A. Tramontozzi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Tramontozzi of 28 Baltic street, was solemnized at a nuptial high mass Monday morning at 8 o'clock in St. Patrick's church. The officiating clergyman was Rt. Rev. Msgr. Michael H. May. William Masurkiewicz acted as best man.

The bride was attractive in a gown of satin and carried a bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley.

League Will Continue Pinochle

The schedule for the sixth night's play of the City Pinochle league, this (Wednesday) evening at the Eagles home, is as follows: First half—Thermos vs. Icy Hot, Foresters vs. Duwells, Eagles vs. American Legion. Second half—Thermos vs. American Legion, Icy Hot vs. Foresters, Duwells vs. Eagles.

The prizes in last week's play were taken by E. J. Mullins of the Thermos, with a score of 8,060 and Fred Moll, score 7,855.

Recovers Ring in Boston

County Detective William Lewis got back from Boston Tuesday afternoon with Elizabeth Klein of Worcester and the diamond ring which she is accused of stealing from Mrs. Linz of this city. The ring was recovered in a Boston pawn shop where Miss Klein secured $25 on it.

CHILD STUDY GROUP HEARS TWO SPEAKERS

An excellent discourse on the subject, "Understanding Ourselves," was presented Tuesday evening at the Wauregan hotel by Mrs. T. Grafton Abbott, clinical psychologist of the Judge Baker foundation, Boston's institute for the study of problem children, under the auspices of the child study committee of the twice department of the Woman's City club. An address of signal importance was also given by Niels I. Poulsen of Ansonia, department commander of the American Legion, who spoke upon the topic, The Legion's Rehabilitation Programme. The speakers were introduced by Mrs. Charles B. Gilbert and heard by a large gathering.

In his talk Mr. Poulsen, who was first to speak, said in part as follows:

The tremendous magnitude of the work involved in the rehabilitation of veterans is such that only by a presentation of figures can the true situation be shown.

To begin with there were approximately 4,748,000 people that officially made up our military population during the war period. About 125,000 were killed or died in the service. The wounded according to official figures exceeded 250,000. Since the war period came to an official end thousands of veterans in addition to the previously stated have become ill because of diseases caused by their service in their country's defense.

It is hardly believable but nevertheless a fact that approximately 25 per cent of the armed forces of the United States during the World war have submitted or had submitted in their behalf claims for death or disability compensation. Over 1,100,000 veterans or their representatives have taken this step. Roughly 550,000 claims have been allowed, the remainder have been disallowed because of the inability of the veteran in submitting the necessary evidence to connect his disability with the service.

In Connecticut our military population was approximately 65,000, out of which number over 7,800 have applied for disability compensation. About 3,500 claims have been allowed and a few over 1,000 are not considered of a sufficient disability to be considered compensable; to receive compensation a veteran must be considered disabled to a degree of 10 per cent. Over 1,500 claims have been disallowed because sufficient evidence has not been received by the government to consider their disabilities service connected.

The annual cost according to the budget for the coming year of 1930 for providing for World war veterans is very near $600,000,000, with the additional cost of the pensions for care of veterans of previous wars making a grand total of $828,844,000. In Connecticut in just compensation to disabled men approximately $175,000 monthly is distributed. In compensation alone, this does not include insurance benefits, dependency allowances paid to dependent parents, widows and children.

Women Compensated

Nearly 40,000 women served in the military forces of Uncle Sam during the war, over 2,300 of whom are today receiving compensation because of disability incurred in the service, receiving an average monthly disbursement of $125,000. Over 200 of the women receiving compensation are in government hospitals, and there are hundreds who are not receiving compensation that are suffering from disabilities. In Connecticut our records indicate that 726 women served in the active forces of Uncle Sam, navy 398, nurses, 328. Four women from Connecticut died during the war period while in service.

At present over 27,000 disabled veterans are patients in 49 government hospitals. In addition there are thousands who are confined in soldiers' homes, both nations land state, who are suffering from some disability or other. There are over 800 Connecticut men in government hospitals all outside the state of Connecticut.

Mental Disease Peak in 1946

It is estimated that the peak of the load, particularly of cases of neuropsychiatric diseases will not be reached until the year 1946. Connecticut's new hospital at Newington has a capacity of 250 beds.

There are over 500,000 claims of one character or another that have been presented by men who believed that they were sick enough to receive compensation that have been disallowed.

The American Legion at its recent convention in Kentucky passed 65 resolutions pertaining to amendments to the law, increased hospital facilities and various other needed benefits to veterans and their dependents. Over 7,000 veterans are at present hospitalized in state, county and city institutions, not on government status. There are also over 2,500 veterans suffering from neuro-psychiatry disability alone who are awaiting hospitalization. The legion is going to demand at the next session of congress that a sufficient number of hospital beds be supplied for our veterans who are in need of such, and who are at present in all sorts of places from insane asylums to jails.

The American Legion with over 10,500 posts throughout the country is square behind the needy veterans and dependents and they can be counted on to do their best to obtain legislation that will benefit the needy. When the time comes for assistance from the public I feel sure that all citizens who know the true facts with regard to the true needs of the veterans will rally to the support of the legion program of a hospital bed for every sick veteran.

In closing the speaker made the plea that the members of the club give their wholehearted support to the American Legion and its auxiliaries in any endeavor undertaken by them as they are accomplishing wonderful work.

Gives Advice About Children

In introducing the second speaker of the evening, Mrs. Abbott, Mrs. Gilbert said that she was well qualified to discourse on the subject of "Understanding Ourselves," as she is a clinical psychologist at the Judge Baker foundation for the study of child problems in Boston and she is also the mother of five children.

Her talk, which was forcefully and interestingly given, was of particular importance to parents of children. We are in the habit nowadays of taking periodical health examinations, but we have still to take stock of ourselves mentally, she said in opening her talk. We are much interested in our neighbors and their children, but we are not so much interested with ourselves and our children. We regent criticism. If we could see ourselves objectively it would be a great shock. If we could see ourselves through the eyes of our children how would it affect us. It is important for us to understand ourselves emotionally and mentally.

At great length she cited special old cases that came to the attention of various schools, from which valuable contributions were received, and dealt with modern methods employed in the study of behavior and personality problems of young children and adolescents. She gave practical suggestions to parents as to their treatment and handling of difficult problems.

In discussing day dreaming, which is especially followed by children, she said a secret thought is often pleasureable. If it were not for day dreaming there would not be an Edison, Lindbergh and other great men of today, she said. Day dreaming beyond a certain point is dangerous.

She spoke of fixations, of adults who do not grow up, and who act like spoiled children. We must guide against fixation. We must see that we let our children think for themselves during adolescence. That is something you parents must guide against.

Fear, minor and major physical defects and mental handicaps were given by the speaker as bases of inferiority of children, and also spoke of the four desires of people, desire of response, recognition, security and for new experiences.

The speaker advised against parents choosing professions for their children as sometimes they were not adopted to the chosen vocation. She said that no individual means to do wrong, there is always some reason behind it.

She spoke of the certain categories in which we are born, intravert and extravert, and of the categories into which we might shift ourselves, such as the dominant type, which is a dangerous one for parents as it takes away the initiative of the children, the nagging type, who are always nagging their children, and the over-solicitous type, those pampering their children. She also spoke of the unchanged attitudes of parents.

What we need to do, said the speaker in conclusion, is to think of ourselves objectively, to get advice from someone else's eyes. No matter how clever you are in a certain field if you have a problem at home an outsider can always clear it up better than you can. We have to get adjusted to the world, we have to face our difficulties with determination. We need to be able to meet people on our level, get other people's views and give and take of each other's experiences.

POLICE TAG PARKERS ON WILLOW STREET

Four local men who parked on the restricted side of Willow street, while they were attending the evening performance at the Broadway theatre, found police tags on their machines after the show. Three of the men left the usual $2 at police headquarters to cover the fines which will be imposed on them in the city court this (Wednesday) morning. The fourth driver decided not to leave the usual $2 deposit and was ordered to appear in the city court this (Wednesday) morning at 9 o'clock. All of the four drivers stated at police headquarters that they did not know there was an ordinance against parking on that side of the street, and also stated that they did not see any no parking sign there.

AFTERNOON OF CARDS BY GRANGE AUXILIARY

An afternoon of whist and pinochle was enjoyably conducted Tuesday at Grange hall, Norwich Town, by the ladies' auxiliary of Norwich grange. Prizes were donated by the members and went as follows: In whist—Mrs. E. Stott, 41; Mrs. Clark Hummell, 30; in pinochle—Mrs. Walter Palmer, 7,080; Mrs. Hunt, 6,940. The scorers were Mrs. Jennie Davis in pinochle and Mrs. Mertice Tibbitts in whist. Mrs. Charles Browning and Mrs. Alida Boyens were in charge.

Water Pipe Break

A water pipe leak on Laurel Hill avenue, near the corner of Walnut street, which broke out shortly after midnight Monday, gave the city water department an all-night job to make repairs.

The leak was caused by electrolysis at the point where a service pipe joins the main, allowing a two-inch stream to gush out and causing a small flood in the street and the loss of considerable water before it could be stopped.

PLAINFIELD PROS FACE TOUGH TEAM AT COMMUNITY HOUSE TONIGHT

Tonight's Lineups

Plainfield		New York Pros
McElwain, rf	rf	Gardner
Williams, lf	lf	Spelacy
Conway, c	c	Doyle
Dissinger, lg	rg	Schutz
Bernot, rg	lg	Scott

When the Plainfield Pros face the New York Pros this evening at the Plainfield Community house they will be playing against one of the strongest professional teams in the Metropolitan district. The New York team comes to Plainfield with a most impressive record which includes victories over some of the leading teams of New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania, the Long Island Pros, Patterson Pros, and the Elizabeth, N. J. Pros, being number among them.

Realizing that the Pros are foes worthy of their metal the Plainfield team has been strengthened for this game. Billy McElwain, now of the New York Celtics will be in one of the forward positions, teaming with Pop Williams of Danielson. McElwain and Williams supplant Brusso and Kasper who are on the sick list. This forward line is as strong as any in the country. Jerry Conway will be at center and Roy Dissinger and Whitey Bernot will take care of the guards. Conway has fitted nicely into the Pros lineup and is improving the play of the team. He held Cooper of the Renaissance scoreless. Bernot is rounding into mid-season form as was shown last week when he caged six baskets and three fouls. Dissinger who has been playing a stellar guarding game has been the backbone of the team this season both on the offense as well as on the defense.

For the preliminary game the Buddies will clash with the Baltic Independents in a fast attraction. The Buddies are taking over the opposition as fast as it appears on the court.

Dancing will follow the game as usual. The preliminary goes on at 8 o'clock to be followed by the main game at 9. There will be plenty of seats for everyone as there are now 200 reserved seats and 600 rush seats.

BRUNDAGE RE-ELECTED HEAD OF AMATEUR ATHLETIC UNION

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 19.—(AP)—The Amateur Athletic union closed a stormy convention today by re-electing Avery Brundage of Chicago to the presidency for a second term, rattifying the selection of Pittsburgh for the 1930 national track and field championships and picking Washington, D. C., for the next annual meeting.

Brundage was re-elected unanimously as president for 1930, along with the following

Third vice president: Herman Obertubbesing, New York.

Fourth vice president: R. L. Probst, St. Louis.

Secretary-treasurer: Daniel J. Ferris, New York.

Five new allied members were accepted. They are the International Railroad Athletic league, representing 14 railroads, with headquarters in New York city; the Grand Trunk Western Recreation league, Detroit; the German-American Athletic union, New York; American Billiard association, New York; and Missouri-Kansas-Texas System A. A., St. Louis. The three railroad organizations add 3,000 registered athletes to the A. A. U. roster.

SHARKEY OFFERED 35 PER CENT FOR BOSTON BOUT

BOSTON, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Jack Sharkey, of Boston, recognized as the American heavyweight champion, today was offered 35 per cent of the gate to meet the winner of the encounter between Jimmy Maloney and K. O. Christner at the Boston Garden on Friday.

The offer was made to Sharkey and Johnny Buckley, his manager, during a conference with Boxing Promoter Eddie Mack. The latter claimed that the Boston Garden could be sealed to draw $125,000 and that Sharkey's end would be at least $45,000.

Sharkey, according to Mack, has promised to give his answer to the proposition within the next few days and the latter has set December 20 as a tentative date for the proposed bout. Sharkey has already defeated Maloney and Christner.

ACADEMY AND BULKELEY MAY SCRIMMAGE TODAY

Both the Academy and Bulkeley elevens went through snappy practice sessions Tuesday and scrimmage is expected at both camps today, probably the last of these sessions this year.

At the campus Coach Whitney had his men at the tackling dummy for a considerable spell and also gave them work on individual assignments.

YALE-PENN GAME OPENS COLLEGE BASKETBALL LEAGUE

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Yale and Pennsylvania, the teams which played the first game of intercollegiate basketball 32 years ago, once more will open the intercollegiate league season with their annual game in Philadelphia, set this year for January 4. The league schedule, calling for the customary thirty games among Yale, Princeton, Pennsylvania, Columbia, Cornell and Dartmouth, was announced tonight by Ellwood W. Kemp, Jr., secretary-treasurer of the organization.

The season also will end in Philadelphia, with Pennsylvania entertaining Princeton on March 15. Dartmouth, Cornell and Princeton will see their first action in games one week after the Yale-Penn opener, but Columbia will not play until January 15 when Princeton is to visit Morningside Heights.

Pennsylvania will be the defending champion, seeking its third straight title. The Red and Blue took the championship two years ago by nosing out Princeton in a play-off game, but won somewhat more easily last season, although the final clinching of the title was delayed when the Pennsylvanians struck a slump just past mid-season.

BILLY MULDOON PUTS IN A VERY BUSY DAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—(AP)—William Muldoon, aged New York state athletic commissioner, put in one of the busiest days of his eventful life today. Subpoenaed as a minor witness in two law suits in widely separated parts of the city almost at the same time, he still found enough spare moments to hold his own court of fistic woes at the commission's weekly meeting.

His chief task at the commission was the untangling of the troubles of Jack Robinson, a patient heavyweight, who has been under the management of one John Martin since 1923 without ever taking part in an actual bout. When Robinson tired of perpetual training with no apparent progress in his profession, he complained to the commission which found he had a 16-year contract with his manager. Something will be done for Robinson later.

George Godfrey, Negro heavyweight, was suspended in concurrence with the action of the Massachusetts boxing fathers because of an unsatisfactory bout with Jimmy Byrne, of Louisville. Vince Dundee, middleweight brother of the former welterweight champion, Joe Dundee, was placed on the ill and unavailable list until he recovers from hurts and fulfills a contract to box at Madison Square Garden.

PRINCETON FOOTBALL STAR ANNOUNCES HIS MARRIAGE

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—(AP)— Kept secret until after the close of the Princeton football season, the marriage of William G. Caldwell, of New Rochelle, N. Y., center on the Tiger team that lost to Yale on Saturday, became known today. The wedding took place October 12.

Caldwell, a senior at Princeton, has left college and will sail for Bermuda tomorrow with his bride, who was Miss Mary T. Folk, also of New Rochelle. Upon returning he expects to enter business in New York.

FORTY REPORT FOR YALE HOCKEY TEAM

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Forty men reported today to Coach Larry Noble as candidates for the Yale ice hockey team. Among those on hand were Ding Palmer, Frank Luce and Frank Farrel, stars of last year.

Other regulars will be out as soon as fooball season ends. They are Captain Bob Wilson, "Chick" McLennan, Snead, West and Austen.

Yale opens its season December 14 against Boston university.

Susie Says

Well it looks like a dry Thanksgiving.

Whatcha going to do for your Thanksgiving cocktails now that twenty-one oases have been dried up?

Looks like we'll have to do the same as the Pilgrims on that first Thanksgiving, either make your own or drink spring water.

Guess the first course of the Thanksgiving dinner will be grapefruit and a cherry and if your imagination is strong enough you may get a kick out of it at that. Though I doubt it.

The only thing I ever got out of a grapefruit was a lotta seeds and an eyeful of juice. And since my association with grapefruit, I believe it was a grapefruit that Eve handed Adam and instead of being fired out of the Garden of Eden he walked out himself.

But there's one thing we can be thankful for and that is that turkey is not prohibited. The only thing that prohibits turkey is the price. They have not formed an anti-turkey league as yet although it is strongly favored by the turkeys.

Of course, if you must have a cocktail to start your Thanksgiving dinner there are lots of substitutes. The ingenuous housewife can concoct a number of drinks that will knock her guests cold, right from things in her kitchen.

She can take a dash of carbolic acid, a little lemon juice, a drop of peppermint and a sprig of carrot tops and it's safe to say her guests won't know but that it's a mint julep.

Another nice drink to serve on Thanksgiving day can be made by taking equal portions of some good liniment and tatasco sauce to which add ginger ale and an olive. This should be served ice-cold. Each guest should be given a piece of ice to swallow immediately after drinking the cocktail.

Kerosene or high test gasoline may be used in place of liniment if so desired. We recommend that when gasoline is used as an ingredient that the hostess retrain from having lighted candles on the table.

Other recipes will be furnished on request.

HIGH SCHOOL SPORTS

This week's schedule:

Friday

Chapman Tech at Westerly

Saturday

N. F. A. AT BULKELEY

Both of the games for eastern Connecticut fans this week are conference tilts.

Of course, the whole noise this week end will be the Academy-Bulkeley game, a renewal of the oldest schoolboy rivalry in the United States. The Orange and Black of Bulkeley and Red and White of the Academy have been "hating" each other about this time of the year for well nigh onto half a century. It's a grand old rivalry.

Saturday's game promises one of the closest games since the war. The Academy will enter the game a slight favorite but that usually means little when these two tangle. Last year, when the Wildcats won 18 to 0, was the first time they had had anything easy in ages but now Bulkeley has a new coach and Billy O'Brien has instilled a lot of fight into the Tigers. True, they haven't been able to win a game but they have tied three pretty good teams, Windham, New Haven Hillhouse and Chapman Tech. And Windham beat the Academy.

The work of the seven largest eastern Connecticut schools:

	W.	L.	T.	Pct.	Pts.	Op. Pts.
Westerly	7	1	0	.875	99	26
Chapman T.	4	2	2	.667	102	41
Stonington	3	3	1	.500	34	39
Windham	2	3	2	.400	50	51
N. F. A.	2	5	1	.286	44	84
Putnam	2	6	0	.250	47	110
Bulkeley	0	5	3	.000	25	72

Conference Standing

	W.	L.	Ties	Pts.
Westerly	4	0	0	8
Windham	2	1	2	6
N. F. A.	2	2	0	6
Stonington	2	2	0	6
Chapman Tech	0	2	2	2

AND—While the Academy will be battling for a tie at second place in the conference standing by winning from Bulkeley Saturday, the Tigers will be fighting to keep out of last place, where they are now tied with their brethren of New London, Chapman Tech.—Tech will meet a tartar in Westerly the day before—the Academy and Bulkeley have played more games than Yale and Harvard—they play their 48th Saturday.—Dave Morey, who coached Court Whitney and Gus Mullen at Middlebury, has just been given a bonus for turning out a state champion for Bates in Maine.—Passaic high, which has such great asketball teams also has an undefeated football team this fall.—Medford high in Massachusetts, clears $30,000 on its football seasons—the records of the Academy and Bulkeley each contains a tie with one of the Big Three schools (so-called) in Connnecticut. New Britain and New Haven Hillhouse—the only other game of note in the state Saturday is the Hartford-New Britain annual classic which is just a few years younger than this Norwich-New London affair.

ACADEMY HAS MARGIN OF FOUR WINS OVER BULKELEY IN FOOTBALL HISTORY

Meeting in 33 games in the modern version of their 65-game rivalry, the Academy and Bulkeley have fought to pretty close to even terms. In this space of time, dating from 1904, the Wildcats have 17 victories, Bulkeley 13 and nine have ended in ties.

Saturday's game, no doubt, will draw hundreds and even thousands to Mercer field in New London, the scene of this year's scrap, and among the fans will be many who have witnessed a majority of these games. Thrillers have been mixed in with one-sided affairs and ties, three of them scoreless affairs, have also been included.

The Academy held a big edge from 1904 to 1910 when Bulkeley lost nine out of ten games, five of the first six by being blanked. Bulkeley won, 6 to 0, in the first game of 1910 and then from 1912 to 1915, held the upper hand, winning five of six games. The Academy then climbed back on the top, winning with one exception, until 1919. For the next few years things were even after which, until 1926, Bulkeley dominated again.

The Academy broke the string at the campus in 1926 when a Brigham-coached eleven won, 6 to 0, Jimmy Williams scoring the lone touchdown. Bulkeley scored what many termed a moral victory in 1927, down at Mercer field, holding a highly favored Academy team to a 6-6 draw. Last year, the Academy had no trouble in winning, 18 to 0, at the campus, so that the Whalers have not won in four years over the Wildcats.

N. F. A., 44; Bulkeley, 0.

KOP AND TOURAIN BOX RETURN BOUT AT TAFTVILLE NEXT MONTH

Matchmaker Lee Flynn, of the Shyma club scored another hit last night when he signed Alex Tourain, of New Haven, and Johnny Kop, lightweight sensation of Norwich, for an eight-round bout on the all-star card to be staged at Parish hall on Friday evening, Dec. 6th. This bout along with the Koziol-Ledoux bout makes the card rank ace-high with any boxing show that has ever been put on in Norwich.

This bout is a return match between Kop and Tourain and a sequel to the bout that was staged in Hartford two weeks ago. In the bout at Hartford, Tourain took a decision from Kop due to Kop being drawn too fine from overtraining. In the Hartford bout Kop had Tourain practically out in the second round but was unable to put on the finishing touches. As the bout progressed Kop appeared to tire fast and the decision went to the New Haven lad. Kop had trained hard to make 135 pounds for a lightweight fight at New Haven and when the bout was called off he continued to train for the bout with Tourain, overdoing his work.

Kop has been anxious for another chance at Tourain as he claims that it was only his weakened condition that prevented him from taking the New Haven lad by a knockout. Tourain, on the other hand, has been seeking a bout in these parts through his manager, Charlie Brown, and was happy to get another crack at the local sensation. Tourain will be remembered as a Putnam boy who fought a number of times in the amateurs here a year or two ago before entering the pro ranks.

Vic Darr, another local favorite, will appear on the card in a six-round preliminary against some opponent yet to be named.

For the opener, Promoter Flynn is bringing back Young Lizzio, of Westerly, against a Worcester boy.

There is still another eight-round star bout to be signed and the Shyma club is considering several proposed bouts before making their selection.

With Koziol and Johnny Kop appearing in two of the main bouts, both against opponents who hold decisions over them, it can be seen that there will be plenty of action.

DARTMOUTH SQUAD STARTS FINAL PRACTICE TODAY

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 19.—(AP) — The Dartmouth varsity football team will open its final week of practice here tomorrow, as well as its drive for the Navy game at Philadelphia on November 30. The Indians spent yesterday and today in shaking off the effects of the hard Cornell battle and the entire squad, excepting only Al Marsters will be ready to begin work tomorrow afternoon.

Len Clark, regular halfback, who was lost to the team on the eve of the Yale game, and Ping Ferri, second string center, who suffered a fractured hand in that contest, are expected to be in shape for their first practice in several weeks. Trainer Harry Hillman has also promised to have Paul Creehan, injured guard,

CHOCOLATE WINS VERDICT OVER JOE MARTINEZ

Baby Face Quintana punched his way to an easy victory over Willie Bonaventri of Brooklyn, and Juan Cepero won the decision over Alex Tourain of New Haven. Quintana scored a technical knock-out over Bonaventri in the fifth round when the referee halted the bout. Cepero won the decision over the New Haven Frenchman in the six-round semi-final.

BULKELEY BAND TO GIVE CONCERT HERE FRIDAY

The Bulkeley band, of Bulkeley school, New London, invades the stronghold of Norwich Academy on the eve of the annual Bulkeley-Academy football classic when a concert will be given Friday afternoon and evening of this week at the Palace theatre. Bulkeley intends to give the Academy a real shellacking at New London on Saturday on the gridiron and the band is coming to the Palace theatre to show just how much pep they can put into the game. The band will give a varied program of school songs along with a popular and classical score.

Wolgast Wins

HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 19—(AP)—Midget Wolgast, Philadelphia, claimant of the flyweight title, easily defeated Jose Allano, Philadelphia, in 8-round bout here tonight. Wolgast had a wide margin in every round, winning the judges' decision without getting his hair mussed.

EARTHQUAKE GIVES GOLFER A COVETED HOLE-IN-ONE

BELMONT, Mass., Nov. 19.—(AP) — The earth tremors yesterday gave James Cash, Jr., of Omaha, Neb., a Harvard law schol student, a hole in one according to members of the Belmont Spring Country club.

Cash, playing in a foursome, teed off from the 16th hole and his ball landed on the green and stopped on the lip of the cup. The golfers felt a disturbance and when they next looked at Cash's ball it was in the cup.

HORWEEN AND STEVENS DIFFER ON COACHING

NEW YORK, Nov. 19. —(AP)— Arnold Horween and Mal Stevens have different ideas as to how Yale and Harvard should prepare for their historic football clash at Soldiers' field, Cambridge, on Saturday.

Horween, Harvard coach, today gave his varsity a complete holiday from football, as the Crimson players paid their annual visit to the Myopia Hunt club where they got their exercise on the golf and tennis courts before going indoors for a hearty meal. Horween annually declares a holiday during the week of the Yale game in the belief that a change of scenery and relief from routine practice puts the team on edge.

Meantime, at New Haven, Coach Stevens was sending his Yale team through a long practice session. The line was given a drill on fundamentals; the backs worked on new plays and then dummy scrimmage was held against Harvard plays. Albie Booth was not in uniform but, in street clothes, ran through several formations before going back to the infirmary where efforts are being made to rid him of the charley horse that kept him out of the Princeton game.

Fordham and Bucknell, which meet in another important battle at the Polo grounds Saturday, were hard at work all day. Bucknell drilled for the most part on the attack while Fordham was scrimmaging against the freshmen armed with Bison formations.

West Virginia Wesleyan's coaches tried to find three backfield men to replace the trio who will not be able to start against the Navy because of the midshipmen's three-year-Eligibility rule. Navy, believing it will have little trouble with the West Virginians, concentrated on the Dartmouth game November 30.

Coach Harry Stuhldreher at Villanova shifted his backfield around to get more punch before the game with North Carolina State The Southerners have an unimpressive record so far but Stuhldreher does not want to take any chances

Temple, which meets Drake, Missouri Valley conference champions, scored three touchdowns against the scrubs and should give the Mid-Westerners a real battle all the way

Most of the other college teams were preparing for Thanksgiving day games.

KAPLAN EVENS SCORE WITH EMORY CABANA

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 19—(AP)—Lou Kid Kaplan, of Meriden, former featherweight champion of the world, evened his score with Emory Cabana, of Philadelphia, at the Arena here tonight, easily winning a 10-round bout. Kaplan weighed 135 1-2; Cabana 133 1-2.

Cabana, who recently won a close decision over Kaplan, was outclassed throughout the match. According to newspapermen, Kaplan won seven rounds by big margins, while the other three went to Cabana.

In the semi-final, Pete De Grasse, N. Y., won a close decision over Jimmy Watts, formerly of Little Rock, Ark., but now of New Haven, in eight rounds. De Grasse weighed 129 1-2, Watts 128 3-4.

The preliminaries:

Joe Carpino, 182, New York, knocked out Jack Red Knight, 183 1-4, New Haven, in the seventh round of a scheduled eight round match. Knight had Carpino groggy in the fourth round, but was himself knocked down twice in the fifth frame.

Marty Sampson, 158 1-2, beat Tony Feranti, 163 1-2, in six rounds. Both men are formerly from New York, but now make their home in New Haven.

Maroons Beat Canadiens

MONTREAL, Nov. 19—(AP)—Montreal's Maroons showed their best form tonight to down their intra-city rivals, Les Canadiens, 5 to 1 in a National Hockey league game. The heavy Maroons team outskated, outshot and out-maneouvered their lighter opponents.

Football Finals

Wakeforest, 0; Presbyterian, 0.

Milligan college, 9; King college, 0.

Murray, (Ky.) Teachers college, 14; Lambuth (Tenn.), 6.

College Editor Fired

Because Thornell Barnes, Grinnell, Ia., college newspaper editor, charged in editorials that the faculty had erected iron fences around the girls' dormitory fire escapes "to keep the girls in," he contends he has lost his job as editor. Faculty members say the fences were built to keep "peeping toms" out.

BOOTH HAS SHORT WORKOUT WITH VARSITY

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 19.—(AP)—With all of the regulars in uniform, save Albie Booth, the Yale varsity worked in earnest today in preparation for the Harvard game Saturday at Cambridge. The line had practice in fundamentals, the backs worked on some new plays, and then dummy scrimmage was held against Crimson plays.

Booth appeared on the field for a few minutes, and, in street clothes, went through several formations. Then he was packed off to the infirmary to spend another night in an effort to rid himself of the charley horse that kept the flashy backfield star out of the Princeton game.

He had a noticeable limp today.

Trainer George Connors, however, said that Albie would play Saturday, but he refused to hazard a guess as to the length of his service.

The Princeton underhand forward pass behind the line of scrimmage that was efficacious against the Elis was tried out today by the Yale backs as one of their new plays. In the dummy scrimmage, the scrub team, wearing Crimson jerseys, employed Harvard plays while the varsity worked out a defense to break them up.

McLennan, whose performance Saturday was one of the high lights of the encounter with Roper's Tigers, was at quarterback for a part of the practice, later giving way to Bob Wilson. The rest of the backfield was made up of Snead and Miller, halfbacks, and Dunn, fullback. On the line were Hickok and Barres, ends; Marting and Vincent, tackles; Hare and Greene, guards, and Palmer, center.

Sand Sold To Baltimore

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 19.—(AP)—John Henry (Heinie) Sand, shortstop for the Rochester Red Wings, who helped this past season in the setting of a new world's record for double plays at 225, has been sold outright to the Baltimore team of the International league, it was announced tonight by Warren C. Giles, Rochester's president.

Paddy Harmon Resigns

CHICAGO, Nov. 19—(AP)—P. T. (Paddy) Harmon, who planned and saw the achievement of his dream of the Chicago stadium, tonight resigned as president of the corporation operating the $7,000,000 sports arena. Harmon presented his resignation after a long conference with the board of directors of the corporation.

Dundee Kayoes Suggs

CHICAGO, Nov. 19—(AP)—Mike Dundee of Rock Island, knocked out Chick Suggs, New Bedford, Mass., Negro featherweight, in the second round of a 10-round main bout at Paradise arena tonight. Dundee knocked he easterner down nine counts in the first and second rounds, before finally bringing him down to stay. Dundee weighed 130 3-4 and Suggs 130 1-2.

Bruins Win Opener

BOSTON, Nov. 19—(AP)—The Boston Bruins, playing in mid-season form, opened their home season here tonight by coming from behind and nosing out the New York Rangers by a 3 to 2 score. This victory enabled the world's champions to keep their current slate clear and save them a firmer grip on the top position in the American division of the National Hockey league.

SHARP EARTHQUAKE SHOCK FELT AT NASHVILLE, TENN.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 19.—(AP)—A sharp earth shock was reported felt in the west section of Nashville at 8:35 tonight. Resident said the tremor lasted a few seconds and jarred windows of homes and caused considerable apprehension. No damage was reported.

Another shock, less severe, was felt in other parts of the city at 8:55 p. m.

NAVY DEPARTMENT SELLS U. S. S. SYLPH FOR $3,112

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19—(AP)—The navy department today accepted the bid of Frank P. Clair, Sheepshead Bay, Brooklyn, N. Y., to purchase the U. S. S. Sylph, formerly the yacht of the secretary of the navy.

Clair bid $3,112 for the vessel. His bid did not specify to what purpose he expected to put it. Two lower bids were received.

21 STUDENTS EXPELLED FROM UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS

URBANA, Ill., Nov. 19.—(AP)—Twenty-one University of Illinois students were expelled today at a meeting of the university council of administration and Gamma Eta Gamma, legal fraternity, involved in last week's campus liquor scandal, was ordered to show cause why it should not be disbanded.

15,000 FRENCH-CANADIANS WAITING TO REGISTER

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 20.—(AP) — More than a half year after the passage of the new American immigration legislation there are still 15,000 French-Canadians in Boston and other centers awaiting their turns to register, United States Commissioner E. H. B. Landis said today.

POETRY

My Books.

Ah! Well I love these books of mine.
That stand so trimly on their shelves.
With here and there a broken line
(Fat "quartos" jostling modest "twelves),
A curious company, I own;
The poorest ranking with their betters;
In brief—a thing almost unknown—
A Pure Democracy of Letters.

A motley gathering are they—
Some fairly worth their weight in gold
Some just too good to throw away,
Some scarcely worth the place they sold.
Yet well I love them, one and all—
These friends so meek and unobtrusive,
Who never fail to come at call,
Nor (if I scold them) turn abusive.

If I have favorites here and there,
And, like a monarch, pick and choose,
I never meet an angry stare
That this I take and that refuse;
No discords rise my soul to vex
Among these peaceful book relations,
Nor envious strife of age or sex
To mar my quiet lucubrations.

And they have still another merit,
Which otherwise one vainly seeks:
Whate'er may be an author's spirit,
He never unbidden speaks;
And should he prove a fool or clown,
Unworth the precious time you're spending,
How quickly you can "put him down," or "shut him up" without offending.

Here—pleasing sight!—the touchy brood
Of critics from dissension cease;
And—stranger still—no more at feud,
Polemics smile and keep the peace.
See! side by side, all free from strife
(Save what the heavy page may smother)
The gentle "Christians" who in life
For conscience' sake had burned each other.

I call them friends, these quiet books,
And well the title they may claim,
Who always give me cheerful looks—
(What living friend has done the same?)
And, for companionship how few,
As these, my cronies ever present,
Of all the friends I ever knew
Have been so useful and so pleasant?

Borrowing Books.

I used to have a lot of books,
I've not so many now.
It's easy to dispose of them,
My friends have shown me how.

You'll see that in my library
Of shelf-room there's no lack,
For when I lend a friend a book,
He seldom brings it back.

And so have vanished, one by one,
Some volumes that I prized,
And I should never get them back
Even if I advertised.

But I no longer buy new books
To fill up every shelf,
I've learned the way to do and not
I borrow books myself!

HUMOR OF THE DAY

She—What time is it?

He—I don't know—I've been playing the stock market and lost my ticker.—Brooklyn Eagle.

"I hear Skimpole was hurt. How did it happen?"

"Well, you see that ditch over there?"

"Yes."

"Well, he didn't."—Pathfinder.

Hortense—And they have the secret of wedded bliss?

Marjorie—They certainly have—they believe each other's lies.—New Bedford Standard.

Little Eva—Do you eat old clothes?

Lady Caller—No; what ever put such an idea into your head?

Little Eva—Mamma says it just makes her sick to hear you all the time chewing the rag.—Exchange.

"What are you doing that for, mother?" asked little Norman as he saw his mother sterilizing the dishes that came from the sick room.

"Because, dear, poor daddy has germs and the germs get on the dishes. I boil the dishes and that kills the germs."

Norman turned this over in his mind for a minute or two and then inquired, "Mother, why don't you boil daddy?"—Exchange.

"That's a very pretty little girl," said a traveler in the South to a woman in one of the small farm districts. "What's her name?"

"We christened her Pizzilum Civ, out of the Bible, sir."

"Pizzilum Civ!" echoed the traveler. "What a peculiar name! Whereabout in the Bible did you find that? I don't remember any such name in Scripture."

The woman entered the cabin and returned with a Bible. After turning a few pages she handed it to the stranger, pointing to a heading. Sure enough! There it was—Psalm CIV.—Boston Transcript.

TWO BIG BONDS ORDERED IN PROBATE COURT ESTATES

Judge Edward M. Burke, in the probate court Tuesday afternoon, disposed of the following business:

Estate William Halsey Burdick. Petition received signed by Frederick N. Burdick and Nellie Dickie Tirrell asking that the estate of the testator, who died a resident of Westerly Oct. 21st, be admitted to probate. Petition was granted and will was read in which the testator's wife, Adella M. Burdick, who predeceased him, was named as executrix. Will was proved and of the witnesses, Flora A. York Frazier, and Samuel H. Davis, the former appeared in court to testify. With no objection the Washington Trust Co., Thomas Perry, trust officer, in court, was appointed administrator. Bond, $50,000. Thomas P. Nichols was named appraiser.

Estate Henry Clinton Lanphear. Petition received from legatees, Frederick O. Lanphear and J. Perry Clary, named by testator as administrators of estate, with waivers of notice, that estate be admitted to probate. Of the witnesses, Louise C. Coy, Fanny I. Hall and Fremont Nye, the first named appeared in court to testify. Will of testator who died a resident of Westerly, Oct. 27, 1929, was admitted to probate and F. O. Lanphear and J. Perry Clark were confirmed as executors with a joint and several bond of $60,000, without surety. Edward B. Coy was named appraiser.

Estate Charles F. Prior. Petition received from widow, Maud F. Prior, that deceased died a resident of Westerly, Oct. 14th, intestate and that she be appointed administratrix. Without objection she was so named and bond made $300 with William H. Travis, surety. She was also granted leave to have set off to herself a half-interest in property on Beach street. Mae A. Travis was named appraiser.

Estate Mary Read Harris, of New York. Petition of Louis E. Harris, executor of the will, granted for the filing in the office of the probate clerk an exemplified copy of the foreign will.

Estate Henry F. Stimpson, Jr., minor. Inventory, received, allowed and ordered recorded.

Estate Frank DiPerri. Petition of guardian, Peter DiPerri, received and continued to Dec. 3 for the selling of an undivided one-half interest in a 1-10 part of real estate.

Estate Thomas McKenzie. Inventory of Industrial Trust company, administrator, received, allowed and ordered recorded.

FUNERALS

Whiting Metcalf

At 72 Broad street, Providence, Monday at noon, sorrowing relatives and friends, former business, social and religious associates, attended funeral services for Whiting Metcalf, former resident and manufacturer of Carolina, R. I. Mr. Metcalf died Saturday at his home, 12 Lillian avenue, Providence, where he had resided for several years.

The Christian Science burial service was conducted by Reader Mrs. Howert of Providence, who read selections from the Bible, "Life and Health," and Book of Poems, by Mary Baker Eddy. Following the Providence services the body was taken to Carolina for burial in White Brook cemetery.

David E. Burdick

Funeral services were held at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon for David E. Burdick, 76, well known farmer of the Chase Hill section of the town of Hopkinton, who died Saturday. Services were conducted by Rev. Clayton A. Burdick, D. D., pastor of Pawcatuck Seventh-day Baptist church, Westerly, and were largely attended at 46 Granite street. There were beautiful floral tributes. Burial was in the First Hopkinton cemetery, Ashaway. The bearers were Ira Porter, Joseph E. Ennis, William G. Holberton and John B. Woodmansee.

NOTICED EARTHQUAKE TREMORS MONDAY AFTERNOON

Residents of Westerly who noticed the quake were checking up their experiences Tuesday. At about 3:40 Monday afternoon, Deputy Sheriff William H. Casey was in his office on the second floor of the Barrows block on the Pawcatuck river bridge. Hearing a rumbling and observing the vibration in the office he went to the window to see what large motor truck was crossing the bridge which had caused the building to be jarred, but no truck was in sight.

Miss Jessie M. Barber, in the Morgan Inc. Insurance office on the second floor of the Tragle block, was especially careful to observe the time of day when the building was shaken, with the idea that if an earthquake should be reported she might check the time. Her assistant, Miss Mary Wilcox, also felt the jolt but explained the jarr at the time as due to the starting of the oil heater in the building as she had just telephoned for more heat in the office.

Dr. Lawrence H. Hepworth in his office on the second floor of the Washington Trust Co. building had callers from the offices on the floors above, the occupants narrating how they had observed the vibration of the electrical fixtures.

Antonio Gencarell, barber in his shop on Canal street, refused to become alarmed when he felt the tremors. He explained that just before he left his home in Italy to come to this country when an earthquake was being experienced he had run out of a building into the open to prevent being struck by articles knocked from the shelves by the earth tremors.

GRAND JURY RETURNS FIVE TRUE BILLS TUESDAY

Tuesday, the second day of the November term of Washington county superior court, Associate Justice Charles A. Walsh, on the bench, the grand jury made known its findings of five true bills and two secret indictments. The jury was impaneled Monday morning and returned at 11 o'clock Tuesday to report.

George J. Marinous, commorant of Charlestown, was indicted on a charge of breaking and entering and larceny at a boat house of Alfred Wilkinson at the King Tom farm in Charlestown Sept. 24. Marinous pleaded guilty to the charge and was sentenced to one year in the state jail. The case was appealed from the third district court.

Nelson Smith was indicted on a charge of breaking and entering a vessel owned by Fred Belmore at the dock in Wickford, Oct. 26th. Smith pleaded guilty but Attorney Fisher stated that the defendant had been before the court and had been sentenced to a year on another similar charge and there are two other cases pending in the court.

Attorney Fisher asked that the present case be continued for sentence and that Smith be sentenced on a previous case. This request the court granted.

This (Wednesday) morning at West Kingston will be heard two cases of larceny of an automobile.

Rowland Hazard and Norman Weeden, colored, of South Kingstown, pleaded not guilty to an indictment charging them with driving off an automobile belonging to Ormar Fortin Nov. 10. The bail of Hazard was fixed at $5000 and that of Weeden at $1000.

The jury returned a true bill against Raymond Peters on a charge of driving off an automobile in Wakefield. Peters is out on bail and he will be brought into plea to the indictment later.

Matthew W. Clarke of North Kingstown, was foreman of the grand jurors. The grand jurors who served from Westerly were: Carl V. Brucker, Gilbert Hicks, William E. Owens, Ethan Pendleton and Charles S. Taylor. Frank C. Burdick was the only grand juror from Hopkinton; Herbert S. Sherman from Richmond; Leon P. Franklin of Exeter and Elisha H. Browning from Narragansett. The jurors from South Kingstown were: Thomas W. Brown, Henry J. Cassidy, Reuben W. Clarke, John A. Phillips and Frank A. Stefano, Jr. From North Kingstown: Matthew W. Clarke, William A. Emery, Arthur E. Osborne and Arthur H. Salley.

Filomena M. Selvedie, of Westerly, was granted a divorce from Guiseppe Selvedio, formerly of Westerly, now of Acri, Italy, on the ground of wilful desertion. Petitioner was given an allowance of $10 a week and the custody of three minor children. They were married in Geneseo, N. Y., Nov. 12, 1901. Petitioner said they had lived here for about 16 years, but her husband left her over seven years ago and went to Acri, Italy.

Petty jurors are under summons to report at Kingston this (Wednesday) morning for two weeks' service. Consideration of the attorney-general's docket will be continued.

Judge William A. Wilcox and Clerk Albert G. Martin were at Stonington town court room Tuesday morning. All unfinished cases were continued. Prosecutor Henry P. Hammacher, of Mystic, was also present. The only business was collection of fines and costs in a continued case.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Ward Alber and daughter Betty, were visitors the first of the week with George E. B. James and family at Jamesford, Beaver River.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac G. Smith have returned from a visit with Providence friends.

You have a Doctor's Word for this Laxative

IN 1875, an earnest young man began to practice medicine. As a family doctor, he treated many cases of constipation. He soon saw the harm in common purges and began to seek something better. Out of his experience was born a famous prescription now in wide use.

This prescription was written thousands of times. It proved an ideal laxative for old and young. Children like its pleasant taste. Older people like it because it doesn't gripe or cause discomfort. It is a mixture of fresh herbs and other pure ingredients; thoroughly effective for the most robust of men. Stimulates the normal muscular action of the bowels. So its use will not become a habit. As people saw how marvelously the most sluggish bowels are started and bad breath, headaches, biliousness, feverishness, or no energy, poor appetite, etc., are relieved by Dr. Caldwell's prescription, it became necessary to put it up ready for use.

Today, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, as it is called, is the world's most popular laxative. All drug stores have the generous bottles. The product never varies from Dr. Caldwell's original formula. So you can take it with confidence or give it to the youngest child.

Like the False Report of Mark Twain's Death—"It is Somewhat Exaggerated."★

You may rest assured that J. A.'s are made by the Clean Modern Method—And equally important, J. A. Quality is of the Highest Order!

★There is no doubt of the superiority of the modern method of making cigars as against the "old fashioned way." Otherwise we would not have adopted this method over two years ago.

However, inasmuch as over 85% of the leading national brands of cigars are being made this same way, there is nothing NEW about it. Important as are modern methods of cleanliness—equally important is the quality of the tobacco. J. PROVING COAL QUALITY

While it is still true that the proof of the coal is in the burning, modern science makes it possible to determine the quality before use.

One may now take any kind of coal and find out in advance of burning it, how much of that coal is effective heat-making elements.

Old Company's Lehigh Anthracite, thus analyzed, is proved to have so high a percentage of heat-producing elements, that it gives more heat per dollar than any other domestic fuel.

Be sure to order Old Company's Lehigh Anthracite by its full brand name.

CANTERBURY GREEN

DEATH OF JOHN D. CLARK PROMINENT IN SPRINGFIELD

Andrew Clarke and Clinton Frink motored to Springfield Tuesday to attend the funeral of Mr. Clarke's brother, John D. Clark, who died Sunday, Nov. 10, from pneumonia. He was a native of Canterbury, the youngest of the six children of Thomas G. and Cressa Judson Clark and spent his early life here. He was educated at Dean Academy, Franklin, Mass., and at Yale college, choosing law as his profession. He located at Springfield, where he married and has since made his home. His wife and four daughters, two of whom are married and a son, survive him.

Mr. Clarke's death is the fourth to occur within a year of men who in their youth attended school on the Green, sons of well known Canterbury families. The others were Asher P. Palmer, who died last winter in Florida; George T. Sanger of Washington, Conn., who died last spring and Dr. William W. Adams, who died recently at Moosup.

FUNERAL.

Edward Wiggins.

The funeral of Edward Wiggins was held at his home Sunday afternoon at two o'clock, the services being conducted by Rev. Harry Small. A hymn was sung by Mr. Goff and Mrs. Sager. The bearers were Levi Clark, Clinton Frink, James Davis and Andrew Clark. Burial was in Evergreen cemetery, Central Village. Relatives and friends were present from Willimantic. Mrs. George Green, a former resident here, son-in-law and daughter and son Ford Green and his wife motored from Hope Valley, R. I., to attend the funeral. Mrs. Wiggins plans to go to Willimantic for an indefinite stay with Mr. Wiggins' relatives there, a sister-in-law and a sister, Mrs. Russ.

When the conference of churches to which Canterbury belongs met at the church at Ekonk on Wednesday, those attending from here were the pastor and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Hale Bennett, Mrs. S. B. Hadley and Miss Lucy Baldwin.

Miss Louise Howe of Norwich, was a week end guest at the home of James Lathrop.

Miss Lula Bennett, who has been at H. B. Brown's for a few days, visited Sunday at George Smith's.

Mrs. Milo Appley, who has been ill at her home the past few weeks, has improved and now is able to be out.

Nelson Lyon is confined to his bed ill with a severe cold.

A pleasant Ladies' Aid society meeting was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Henry Larkham. Plans were discussed for a sale. It was voted to make and donate a quilt for the King Mountain school, No. C., each member contributing blocks made at home that it may be the sooner completed.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Sager.

Twelve tables of whist were played at the Hall last Friday evening at the fortnightly gathering. Refreshments were served by the committee. Those winning prizes were Mrs. Edson, Mrs. James Davis, and Miss Wallingworth, Plainfield, Darwin Tracey, William Collins of Plainfield and Samuel Thompkins of Windham.

LISBON

Rev. W. J. Reynolds preached an inspiring sermon Sunday morning, the second in a series on Immortality. Fred N. Robinson was appointed delegate to the installation of Rev. Dr. Theodore M. Shipherd at Park church, Norwich, Friday next.

The Ladies Aid society is to meet at the Community hall (Wednesday) afternoon.

Mrs. G. A. Kennedy was called to Boston Thursday by the death of her sister, Mrs. Arthur Schiller, the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marley and one of fourteen children only four of whom are living. She leaves besides her husband a son and two daughters.

The Community club gave a very interesting program Wednesday evening under direction of Misses Gladys and Helen Thoma and announced by Miss Elsie Heinrich. There were several selections by the Lisbon orchestra, piano duets by Misses Mildred and Charlotte, Pilling and a one-act play entitled The Cookoo's Nest. There was a report of the committee appointed at the last meeting to investigate the matter of a town library and after some discussion it was referred back to the committee. The club voted to have a Christmas tree and program for its December meeting. George Helmboldt, Richard Krauss and Albert Bradlow were appointed to procure a tree and arrange the program. Anna Seidel, Mrs. Harry Hull, Freda Hermann and Harold Mell, a decoration committee and for refreshments, Mrs. Burr Smith, Gustave Greenwood, Morris and Philip Silverleib, Mrs. Scott Roode, Mr. and Mrs. George Kennedy. In charge of gifts, Gustavs Kaempffe.

The election of officers for Lisbon grange Friday evening resulted as follows: Master, Frank A. Mell; overseer, Harry L. Hull; lecturer, Clara Helmboldt; steward, George Bradlaw; assistant steward, Harold Mell; chaplain, Rev. W. J. Reynolds; treasurer, G. Curtiss Hull; secretary, Albert Rist; gate-keeper, Newell Rist; Ceres, Martha Mell; Pomona, Lena Seidel; Flora, Augusta Thoma; lady assistant, Ella Church; executive committee for three years, Alwin Kaempffe.

William Kendall, of Norwich town showed a very fine set of views of places visited on his motor trips to the Pacific coast. Refreshments were gingerbread topped with whipped cream, and coffee.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Pride Has a Fall.

By Thornton W. Burgess.

There's little cause for pride at all;
'Tis always riding for a fall.
—Old Mother Nature.

As Flip the Terrier raced back to Farmer Brown's yard in search of Bowser the Hound, he was fairly boiling over with pride. And such an excited small dog as he was! He saw Bowser standing on the doorstep and he knew by the look on Bowser's face that Bowser had heard him barking and was wondering what it was all about.

"I've killed him!" barked Flip excitedly, as he came up to where Bowser was standing.

"Who have you killed?" asked Bowser.

"The biggest rat you ever laid your eyes on," replied Flip. "Yes, sir, I don't believe you ever in your life have seen so big a rat as the one I have just killed."

Bowser began to look interested. At the same time there was doubt in Bowser's eyes. However, Flip didn't notice this. "Why didn't you bring him up here?" asked Bowser.

"He was so big I couldn't. I tried to, but he was too heavy for me," replied Flip.

"Where did you kill this big rat?" inquired Bowser.

"Down back of the henhouse," replied Flip. "Come on down and see him."

Bowser yawned. "I've seen too many rats to want to go down there just to see another one," said he.

"But you've never seen one like this," protested Flip. "You have never seen such a big one and he's rather queer looking too. When you see him you'll wonder how I could have killed him. Do come down and look at him, Bowser."

Now, Bowser is good natured. To tell the truth he was full of curiosity. He was just teasing Flip by pretending that he didn't want to see that rat. "All right," said Bowser, "you lead the way and I'll come and look at it."

So Flip frisked along ahead and Bowser trotted along behind. When they were halfway to the henhouse, Flip could wait no longer. He raced ahead to where he had left Unc' Billy Possum. He knew exactly where he had left him. When he got there, there was no Unc' Billy Possum. Flip couldn't believe it. He began to run around in circles and criss-cross this way and that, the way a dog will when he is looking for something. Bowser came up.

"Well," said Bowser, "where is that rat?"

Such a funny look as there was on the face of Flip when he looked up at Bowser. "Some one has carried him off," said he. "I left him right here."

"No one could have carried him off," said Bowser. "It is only a couple of minutes since you told me about him, and I don't believe anybody has been down here."

"Well, I tell you, I left him right here!" said Flip. "He was dead, so he couldn't have walked off himself. Somebody must have taken him off. I wish I knew who it was. I—I—I'd bite him!" Flip was becoming very much excited again.

"Did you kill him here? This is a funny place for a rat to be," said Bowser.

"No," replied Flip, "I killed him way around on the other side of the henhouse and dragged him over here."

Meanwhile Bowser had been nosing about and he found the scent of Unc' Billy Possum. He sat down and began to grin. Flip looked at him. He didn't understand that grin, but Flip's pride had had an awful fall, and that grin told him that Bowser knew something that he didn't know.

WOMAN SICK THREE YEARS

Helped By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Little Rock, Ark.—"I was sick for three years after my last baby came. I could hardly walk and could not eat nor sleep as I should because I was so nervous. I took seven bottles of the Vegetable Compound and used that number of bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash and I am feeling just fine. I have a large family and do the work for all. Your Compound made me a well woman, and I have a happy home now. I always try to keep a bottle in the house and I tell everyone about it." Mrs. H. A. Adams, R. F. PLASTERER KNOWN AS BOOK AUTHORITY

CHICAGO—(AP)—Tom Conolly is just a common plasterer by day, puttering around the Auditorium theatre, patching up here and there.

But at night the gnarled old Englishman is Thomas Conolly, fellow of the Royal Geographical society of London, a leading authority on playbills, first editions and letters.

Just as he goes browsing through the dark recesses of the huge theatre, old home of the opera here, so Thomas Conolly, the fellow, browses through old book stores searching for items to add to his famous collection.

As he patches a bit of bric-a-brac, Tom tells of letters recently acquired on which the seal of Charles II is intact, or of letters delivered to Lincoln by pony express, with notes in Lincoln's hand still legible on the envelopes. Or he may tell of the "Heart" edition of the Bible which came in the last mail.

But Tom declines to discuss his collection in terms of dollars and cents, and refuses to confirm or deny a report that a wealthy Chicago collector offered a sizeable fortune for it.

He goes on working when he might retire comfortably on the proceeds of the sale of his collection. To him this would be unimaginable desecration.

MANY DEFAULTED BILLS IN AUTO ACCIDENTS BRING LOSS TO HOSPITALS

The total cost of hospital care for highway accident cases in New Jersey was somewhere between $600,000 and $650,000 last year, and the financial loss to the hospitals amounted to between $250,000 and $300,000, writes Dr. Emile Frankel, director of research of the New Jersey department of institutions and agencies in the United States Daily. The cost of hospital care for highway accident cases in the whole of the United States amounted to between $15,000,000 and $16,000,000 last year and the losses to the hospitals were between $6,000,000 and $7,000,000.

Unpaid hospital bills in highway accident cases, in most cases, are a definite drain on the financial resources of the hospital. Hospital deficits arising out of the care of highway accident cases eventually must be borne by the local community. In essence, accident patients who do not pay for the hospital care received are charity patients and the hospitals are penalized to the extent to which these patients are not paying for their care.

A question that needs to be given serious consideration is: To what extent should the local community bear the financial burden arising out of the care of highway accidents that happen to occur in the hospital's locality?

What are the prospects for relief to the hospitals from the financial burdens imposed by the non-payment of bills rendered to highway accident cases? Some hope for a reduction in the number of hospital cases may be held out through safety education campaigns, through the adoption of adequate safety regulations and through the installation of effective safety devices.

On Increase

The figures on the number of motor vehicle accidents are not encouraging, however, since the number of such accidents apparently is increasing everywhere. Moreover, the owners of motor vehicles are constantly increasing in number. The ease with which motor vehicles may be acquired nowadays even by those of comparatively moderate means signifies not only that an ever greater number will be driving automobiles, but that the number which might be classed as financially irresponsible, from the standpoint of compensation in highway accident cases, will be increasingly augmented.

As the adjustment of industrial accident cases at first was a purely individual matter, later to come under complete state regulations in most states of the union, so the adjustment of highway accident cases is beginning to receive legal cognizance in a number of states by the inclusion of limited or partial compulsory automobile liability insurance features in their motor vehicle laws.

Massachusetts is the only state having general compulsory automobile liability insurance. Its law provides that, before a car is registered its owner must hold either a motor vehicle liability policy or bond protecting him to the amount of $5,000 for the injury of one individual and $10,000 for the injury of more than one individual in a single accident, or that he must deposit with the department of public works cash or satisfactory security to the amount of $5,000.

No Compulsion to Pay

The fact that a state may have an automobile accident liability insurance law in itself offers no guarantee to the general hospitals that they will be compensated automatically for services rendered in highway accident cases. The existing law contains no mandatory features that the hospital must be reimbursed for the cost of hospital care in automobile accident cases.

It is significant to note, however, that when a person who is responsible for the accident is insured, the hospital is much more likely to be reimbursed for the care given to hospital patients resulting from the accident.

Recently a number of states passed so-called "safety responsibility" laws, framed with the view of curbing reckless drivers, compelling them to bear the cost of their recklessness and suspension of the licenses of those who fail to meet the damages against them. The New Jersey act "concerning financial responsibility for damages caused by the operation of motor vehicles," passed at the last session of the legislature, took effect Nov. 15.

The criticism leveled against these "safety responsibility" laws is that some of its most stringent features do not become operative until after a man has proved his disregard for public safety by criminal operation of his automobile, and that they offer no absolute guarantee of compensation for the victim of an accident.

Would Give Hospital Lien Rights

Several states have attempted to meet the situation rising out of the care of highway accident cases by giving the hospital the right of lien. An inquiry was directed to more than 50 administrators of general hospitals in New Jersey asking them to describe their experience with highway accident cases and to give their recommendations for dealing with the hospital problems arising out of the care of highway accident cases. The answers received to this inquiry may be summed up as follows:

1. The majority of the hospitals expressed themselves as having to give an undue amount of free service for highway and other non-industrial accident cases not properly belonging to the hospital district.

2. All of the hospitals say it is exceedingly difficult if not entirely impossible to collect a large percentage of the bills for highway accident cases. The insurance companies usually pay the injured person who, in turn, leaves the hospital without paying his bill.

3. The majority of hospitals feel that the person responsible for the accident should assume the hospital bill, and that, if he does not, some governmental authority should pay. Surprisingly few hospitals place any responsibility on the patient who is receiving treatment. The town or county in which the accident occurs, the town or county of the residence of the injured, and the state for non-residents of the county and of the state are suggested as agencies to assume the financial responsibility for highway accident cases.

4. Compulsory automobile insurance is recommended by nearly every hospital, with the liability insurance to be strictly under state control and each license to carry with it a liability policy. An organization is suggested similar to the workmen's compensation bureau for the adjudication of claims and of the division of available funds to claimants, including the injured person, the hospital, the doctor or any others who have served to rehabilitate him.

Believe it or not, egg production in the Storrs egg-laying contest continues to pile up. At the end of the second week the hens have already laid more eggs than the average for the entire month of November less than ten years ago. The production for the second week amounted to 4,258 eggs, or a yield of nearly 61 per cent. This is nearly 700 eggs better than for the corresponding week a year ago.

This almost remarkable increase is due at least in part, if indeed not largely, to the breeders who have schooled themselves first of all to breed better birds, to make better selections out of a well-bred flock, and then to train their proteges to get going as soon as they toe the mark and keep going until the race is over.

Rhode Island Reds just about backed all other breeds off the map. At any rate, they inscribed their names at the top of the honor roll. Harold G. Colt of West Hartford headed the list with a pen of Reds that laid 65 eggs. Two Massachusetts pens of the same breed tied for second place with 62 eggs each. These are F. S. Chapin of Longmeadow and W. Otis Day of Westford. At this point the Leghorns looked in a little when George Lowry's pen from West Willington tied Homer R. Rowell's pen of Rhode Island Reds from Groveland, Mass., for third place with 62 eggs each. R. Walter Bishop's pen of Barred Rocks from Guilford finished fourth for the week with a tally of 60 eggs.

These leaders will either step on the gas or else find themselves parked by the roadside. The prediction is based on the fact that a Connecticut pen of Leghorns laid 58 eggs last week. A pen of Barred Rocks from Rhode Island, a pen of Wyandottes from Connecticut, a pen of Leghorns from Connecticut, and another from New Jersey, a pen of Reds from Massachusetts, and also one from New Hampshire, making a total of six different pens of four different breeds, all tied with 57 eggs each. All told, the start is more exciting than ever.

Barred Rocks—R. Walter Bishop, Guilford, Conn., 115; David Dearlerly, Fayette City, Pa., 100; Westfield Poultry Farm, Westfield, Mass., 108.

Rhode Island Reds—Harold G. Colt, West Hartford, Conn., 135; Homer R. Rowell, Groveland, Mass., 119; F. S. Chapin, Longmeadow, Mass., 116; Donald I. Goodenough, Torrington, Conn., 112; W. Otis Day, Westford, Mass., 111.

EMPLOYED BOYS FORM BROTHERHOOD AT Y. M. C. A.

An Employed Boys' Brotherhood has been organized at the Y. M. C. A. by a group of about 20 boys, who have elected the following officers: President, Harry Dierman; vice president, Anthony Serafin; secretary, Cecil Wetherbee; treasurer, Merton Tubbs.

Any employed boy in Norwich can join this group if he desires, as the only requirements are that he be a full-time employed boy and that he be interested in improving himself for future employment.

The programs will consist of educational trips, talks classes, personal interviews, and self-analysis questionnaires that will help each member locate some of his abilities and interests.

This will be an opportunity for the employed boys of Norwich to invest an hour of their leisure time each week improving themselves for future leadership. Everybody must be prepared to lead when opportunity presents itself. We cannot wait until opportunity knocks, and then start to prepare—it may then be too late.

Next Thursday evening the speaker will be George E. Goss of New Haven. Mr. Goss will tell some interesting facts concerning the boyhood of Europe. At one time during the war he was in charge of all physical work among the prisoners in the British Isles. The meeting will be called to order by President Harry Dierman promptly at 6.15 o'clock. All employed boys from 15 years of age up will be welcome.

Operation for Ruptured Bladder

Anthony Babiz, 38, of Plainfield, victim of a hit-and-run driver, was operated upon Monday at the Backus hospital for a ruptured bladder. He was brought to the hospital Sunday night after he had been struck in the road at Plainfield.

New Episcopal Head

The Right Rev. Charles Palmerston Anderson, above, bishop of Chicago, has been elected presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal church of the United States by the house of bishops of that church in session at Washington. He will fill the unexpired term of the late Bishop John G. Murray, of Atlantic City.

why smokers graduate to CAMELS—

The phrase "I've Graduated to Camels" originated with a Camel smoker. It expresses the experience of millions who through Camels have learned to know real smoking pleasure.

As taste in smoking develops, it naturally leads toward better quality. New smokers may not be critical but when they once experience the true mildness and surpassing fragrance of the Camel blend, they realize that here is a real superiority. It is for smokers of such discernment that Camels are made . . . for them the choicest tobaccos are selected . . . and this quality is maintained for the millions who know genuine smoking pleasure.

when they learn the difference they flock to Camels

STOCK MARKET CALMLY ABSORBED EARLY SELLING AND WAS STEADY AT THE CLOSE

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—(AP)—The convalescent stock market made definite progress along the road to normalcy today. The mild sinking spell which appeared in the last hour of trading, last Friday, was successfully thrown off early in the day's trading, and the market rallied throughout the remainder of the session.

The fact that the selling was calmly absorbed, without bringing on a new fever of liquidation, helped along the gradual return of speculative confidence and brought sufficient selling into the market to prompt the cautious shorts to cover. Leading shares closed about 2 to 10 points higher, with a few specialties making wider gains.

The calm reception accorded the news of the failure of a small stock exchange house attested the stability of the market. Commission houses were rather cautious in their advices to customers, few looking for anything more than a trading market for several weeks, but recommendations for the purchase of prime dividend payers were numerous.

Credit remained in superabundance. Call money renewed at 5 per cent and was quoted at that figure at the loan post all day. Large offerings went begging, however, and were offered as low as 3 1-2 per cent in the outside market. Bankers' acceptance rates were reduced another 1-8 of one per cent, the 10th such reduction since Oct. 23, making the asking rate for 90-90 day bills 3 7-8 per cent, the lowest since May, of 1928, when the rediscount rate was 4 per cent.

Bank statements, however, indicate that the huge liquidation of stock market loans has strengthened the New York banks more than it has banks elsewhere, and until the situation is equalized, other Federal Reserve banks may not follow the New York bank in reducing its rate to 4 1-2 per cent. That the collapse of the market has sent many persons to the banks for loans against their investment securities was again evident in the Federal Reserve's condition statement for member banks in leading cities, which showed in the week ended Nov. 13 a reduction of loans against securities of only $377,000,000, as compared to a drop of $710,000,000 in brokers' loans that week. These banks were still loaning a total of $3,369,000,000 against security collateral, which is $1,422,000,000 greater than a year ago.

The first of President Hoover's conferences held with a view to increasing business activity brought assurances from leading railway executives that improvement expansion plans will be pushed, with resultant stimulation of steel and other basic industries, and a tendency to maintain employment at high levels. Freight car loadings as announced for the week ended Nov. 9 showed another seasonal decline, but disclosed a negligible decrease from the like week of last year, and a sharp gain above the same week of 1927.

The volume of trading on the stock market continued to contract. During the first half hour, only 534,100 shares were traded, as against 749,200 in that time yesterday. Trading picked up, however, with the upturn in prices, and total sales were 2,718,010 shares, close to yesterday's turnover of 2,746,770.

Such shares as American Can, Air Reduction, American Water Works, and General Electric, closed 8 to 9 1-2 points higher. U. S. Steel, International Harvester, Atchison, Johns Manville, J. I. Case, A. M. Byers, American & Foreign Power, National Biscuit, and Standard Gas & Electric gained about 6 points each. Such shares as General Motors, International Telephone, New York Central, New Haven, Bethlehem Steel, Montgomery Ward, Radio, Simmons and Stone & Webster closed about 2 to 5 points higher. Columbian Carbon sold up 14 points in a small turnover. Allied Chemical was a soft spot, dropping 11 points, but reducing its loss to 3 before the close. United Electrical Coal dropped nearly 5 points to 12, a new low, in response to the passing of the dividend. It had sold as high this year as 81 1-2.

Foreign exchanges were firmer. Further losses of gold by the Bank of England were believed to have caused postponement of plans to reduce its discount rate. Sterling cables rallied 1-4 of a cent to $4.87 9-16, and the Canadian dollar reduced its discount by nearly 1-5 of a cent.

Commodities were generally firm, although several refiners reduced the price of refined sugar by about 1-10 of a cent. Wheat futures sold up about 4 cents on reports of crop damage in Argentine, and good export sales. Corn gained 1 1-2 cents. Cotton sold up more than $1 a bale.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Heavy buying of the public utility issues featured a brisk rally in today's curb market. Some heaviness developed at the opening but early offerings of the leaders were readily absorbed, and the market moved steadily upward to the close. Final quotations generally were around the day's high levels although a sprinkling of issues closed with net declines.

Easier credit conditions, the beginning of President Hoover's conferences to stimulate business and favorable trade and earnings reports provided the background for the day's advance. Wall street also found encouragement in the quiet orderly character of the day's trading and the absence of any frightened liquidation as a result of recent brokerage failures.

Electric Bond & Share advanced from an opening price of 63 7-8 to 73 1-2, a net gain of 9 3-8 points. American Gas & Electric jumped 11 1-2 points and Middle West Utilities (old stock) 13 1-2 points on a small turnover. Allied Power & Light and American & Foreign Power each advanced about 5 points, while gains of 1 to 3 points were quite common in the other public utility issues.

Cosden Oil dropped 14 7-8 points to 69 1-8 on one sale and rallied 4 points from that level on the next. Humble, Lion Oil, and Standard Oil of Kansas advanced 1 to 2 points, with the other issues showing only narrow irregular changes.

In the investment trust group, Insull Utility Investment and Third National Investors stood out with gains of 4 3-4 and 4 3-8, respectively. Aviation shares were quiet although gains predominated.

Aluminum Co. of America jumped 18 1-2 points on a few sales. Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea, Lazarus Co., Colgate, Palmolive and Ford of Canada A were conspicuous strong spots in the industrial group. Royal Typewriter dropped 5 points to a new low for the year at 50. U. S. Finishing, Universal Insurance, American Salamandra and Celluloid Corp. also recorded substantial net losses.

BOND MARKET.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—(AP)—The bond market today asumed an appearance normal for a period of cheap money and prices scored a general advance. It was apparent that the shifting of large funds from fixed income securities to stocks was virtually over, and the list seemed to be reestablished on the upward move, interrupted by recent temporary conditions, which accompanies easier credit.

Most of the demand was for domestic corporation loans of high investment character, especially rails. With the exception of the Liberty 2 1-2s and fourth 4 1-4s, the United States government obligations lagged, although the latter Liberty bond, the first 4 1-4 and the treasury 3 3-8 touched new 1929 highs. The entire government group is within a small fraction of its peak for the year.

Gains of a point or more were interspersed throughout the general group, embracing such issues as Rock Island 4 1-2s, Columbia Gas & Electric 5s, Chesapeake & Ohio general 4 1-2s, Great Northern 5 1-2s, New York Central 4s and 5s New Haven 4s, Northern Pacific 6s, Chile Copper 5s, Pennsylvania sold 5s, St. Louis & San Francisco 4 1-2s and 4s. Southern Railway general 4s and Standard Oil of New York 4 1-2s. Scores of others made advances averaging about half a point.

Dealers report a substantial increase in buying orders from private investors for bonds of the highest grade. Two or three months ago virtually the only customers of the market were insurance companies, foundations and similar holders of large funds, but the increased inquiry from individuals which appeared with the early fall unsettlement of stock prices has carried through the recent decline in bond quotations and is now reported to be a substantial factor in the daily trading.

One of the features since the break in equity values has been the diminished dealings in convertibles. While stocks were soaring and mortgage loans prices slumping, share privilege obligations constituted the bulk of each day's trading, but this tendency has received a distinct check. Today, for example, seven convertibles that formerly showed as much as 40 per cent. of the market's volume in a single session, accounted for only $2,200,000 of the total $16,788,000.

Stock feature obligations found higher ground with the rise in share prices, American Telephone 4 1-2s gained 4 3-4, Alleghany 5s of 1949 and International Telephone 4 1-2s rose 2 each, Atchison 4 1-2s advanced 1 3-4 and American International 5 1-2s gained 1, but thetrading volume in each was only a fraction of the summer activity.

Foreign bonds were also on an upward move and large advances developed in some of the more volatile issues. Bolivan 7s rose 10 points and Rhine-Westphlia 6s soared 12 1-2. Leading European government loans were firm.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Sensationally severe crop damage reports from Argentina sent the wheat market soaring nearly five cents a bushel here today, with most of the rise maintained. Rendered worse by moist hot weather prevailing, the area of black rust damage in Argentina was reported widening rapidly, and some sections were said to show virtual complete failure of the wheat crop. Influenced also by stock market rallies, purchasing of Chicago wheat future deliveries broadened out to an unusual extent at times, eastern speculative interests taking the lead.

Despite heavy selling to realize profits on the price bulges, wheat closed, in some cases, at the day's top figures. The finish as a whole was unsettled, 3 3-4 to 4 1-3c net higher. Corn closed 1 1-4 to 1 1-3c up, oats 1 3-8 to 1 3-4 advance, and provisions varying from 5 cents decline to an equal gain.

Unexpected relative firmness of the Liverpool wheat market today, together with indications of more or less sustained trans-Atlantic demand for wheat from North America, combined with the disturbing crop news from Argentina, gave the wheat market here a decided upward trend from the very beginning. Moreover, various leaders in the Chicago grain trade were expressing themselves freely to the effect that long looked for advances of wheat values, especially, were coming to a focus, and that with the amount of wheat on ocean passage reduced now to only two weeks' normal needs, Europe is at the stage where continued import purchases are imperative. Under such circumstances, reactions in price were stubbornly resisted, and the export basis for domestic wheat at the Gulf of Mexico grew firmer.

One estimate of the Argentine exportable surplus of wheat showed a cut today of 25,000,000 bushels, a greater reduction than any heretofore m

NO PHARMACIST KEPT ON DUTY, S. W. DOWNEY, NEW LONDON, BREAKS LAW

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 19—Stephen W. Downey, son of Mrs. Stephen J. Downey, owner of Downey's pharmacy, 731 Bank street, was arrested today by State Police Officer John Smith, Groton barracks, charged with violation of the state pharmacy law. His mother qualified as surety on her son's bond of $50 for his appearance in court tomorrow. The specific violation of the pharmacy statute claimed is the failure of Downey, who is manager of the store to keep a registered pharmacist on duty at all hours when the store is open for business. Complaint had been made to the state pharmacy board recently that the drug store was frequently without a licensed clerk in attendance and when Downey, who is not a licensed druggist was found alone in the store this morning he was arrested.

A defective oil heater in the plant of the Sullivan Printing company, Masonic street, caused a slight fire this morning. The flooring started to smoke and believing that it would burst into flame a hand extinguisher from the Nameaug Engine company, opposite the printery, was obtained and the floor deluged with the chemical. Repairs are being made so as to prevent further danger.

Mrs. Meyer Freeman and infant daughter of 81 Bayonet street, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

PATROLMAN DUFFY'S BODY TO HAVE POLICE ESCORT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 19—The body of John J. Duffy, New York patrolman fatally wounded early Saturday morning during a running gun fight with Peter DeLaney, notorious New York robber, will arrive in New London tomorrow afternoon, following funeral services in New York. The body will be accompanied by Captain Redden of the 16th Precinct and 30 uniformed officers. At the union station the body will be met by about 40 members of the New London department who with the New York police officers, will act as an escort of the body to St. Mary's cemetery. There will be no service at the grave other than the committal prayer.

Sam Amarant, of New Haven; Miss Rosalind Salvagna, 230 Montauk avenue, Mrs. Orion Beals and infant son, 95 Hempstead street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

OBITUARY

Frank S. Edmonds

Frank S. Edmonds, 76, formerly of Norwich, died last night at Old Fellows' home, Groton, where he had been a resident for several years. Mr. Edmonds was a member of Shetucket lodge, I. O. O. F., Norwich.

Andrew F. Smith

Andrew F. Smith, 60, died last night at his residence at Thames View, Waterford, having been ill about three years. He is survived by his wife, five daughters, Mrs. Leonard Sawyer, Poquonoc Bridge; Mrs. Frederick Woodstock, New London and Mrs. Thomas Turner, Mrs. Cora Keeney and Miss Minnie Smith, Thames View and by a son, Andrew W. Smith, Mr. Smith was a carpenter by occupation.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the suspension of the drivers' licenses of Bartholomew Walsh, 4 Union street; Austin Hackett, 100 Glenwood avenue and William J. Doyle, submarine base.

An automobile owned by Attorney Morris Lubchansky, of Bellevue place, was stolen last night from its parking place, but later was recovered when the user of the car caused it to be parked in another section of the city.

An automobile struck and so maimed a dog, owner unknown, on Bank street, this morning that Patrolman George McCaskey shot the animal to end its suffering.

The only cases tried in the police court today were for intoxication. There were two and both men were given suspensions of judgment. Another like case awaits presentation tomorrow for an old offender went to police headquarters this forenoon and for no good reason. Because of his condition, the man was locked up.

Condition Unchanged

There was no perceptible change at Lawrence-Memorial hospital today in the condition of Miss Louise Phyllis Gannon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Gannon, 19 Mott avenue, who sustained a fractured skull, lacerated scalp, and face, fractured upper and lower left jaw, crushed left shoulder and numerous abrasions, besides the loss of her front teeth. The automobile in which she was riding, with Lieut. Norman Habel, Lieut. John Waterman and Miss Alice White, daughter of Michael White, 2 Union court, overturned on the Boston Post road, Station 7, Waterford, last Sunday night, collided with a machine driven by Arthur Martin of Waterford. Habel is being held on his own recognizance on a charge of driving while under the influence of liquor, pending the outcome of Miss Gannon's injuries.

No Means to Send For Sailors

John Ritch and Asal Norris, members of the U. S. Coast Guard and stationed here, who were arrested as deserters at Norwalk Saturday night, will not be returned to the coast guard section base, state pier. Today Executive Officer Rosenthal informed the police that he had no means for sending a provost guard to Norwalk to take charge of the sailors. Ritch and Norris were released from custody.

WEDDING

Alexander-Fish

Francis T. Alexander, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Alexander, 209 Howard street and Miss Dorothy E. Fish, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fish, 816 Bank street, were married yesterday at the rectory of St. Joseph's church by Rev. William C. Fitzsimons. Thomas E. McCary was best man and Miss Ruth Steffel attended the bride. Mr. Alexander is employed as shipping clerk by the Edward Bloom company. Mr. and Mrs. Alexander are on a wedding trip and upon their return will reside at 11 Addison street.

Darnell-Kessler

John A. Darnell, Jr., of Lewisburgh, Tenn., and Miss Nellie L. Kessler, 50 Addison street, were married at the rectory of St. Mary's Star of the Sea church at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon by Rev. Raymond J. O'Callaghan. Harold E. Hawthorne was best man and Miss Viola C. Dywer was bridesmaid. Upon the conclusion of their wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Darbell will reside at 395 Pequot avenue. Mr. Darnell is employed by the Westinghouse Electric company, of Albany.

Swinburne-Wood

Lieut. Edwin R. Swinburne, U. S. N., and Miss Gladys M. Wood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Wood, U. S. N., residing at the Great Lakes training station, near Chicago, were married Oct. 26 in New London.

Parking Signs Stationary

Because of the numerous removals of parking signs from one point to another on sidewalks and on highways where one way traffic is designated or where traffic is liable to congestion, the city's highway department is to cause the standards holding the signs to be made secure to the sidewalk so that their removal to points to suit the convenience of the autoists in parking cannot be continued. Employes of the city started today making the signs stationary.

Mrs. Mary Benjamin, 26 Hill street, was injured last night when struck by an automobile driven by John J. Holly, 24 Broad street, Groton. Mrs. Benjamin's injuries, which are not serious, are confined to her hip and she is receiving treatment at Lawrence-Memorial hospital. Mrs. Benjamin and a woman acquaintance were on Huntington street, and at the corner of Federal street, the women attempted to cross the street. Mrs. Benjamin was struck by the Holly auto mudguard and knocked down. She was taken to the office of a physician and then to the hospital.

Stanley Prokesina, a stranger, was arrested this afternoon by Detective Sergeant Nelson Smith charged with vagrancy. He was locked up and will be in court tomorrow. When arrested the only things found in possession of Prokesina were four packages of cigarettes.

Mrs. C. H. Sedell, 180 Pequot avenue, complained to the police this afternoon that she had been subjected to much annoyance within a few days because of students at the Harbor school, standing her automobile and home, causing damage to both.

Niagara Engine company will have its annual Thanksgiving feast on the evening of the 27th. That means a most enjoyable event for the members and guests for the Niagaras always have guests. The company has its own orchestra of string and brass pieces. Niagara is proud of its history.

City Needs Industries

There is general approval of the opinion expressed by President Lubchansky of the local chamber of commerce at the meeting of the city council Monday evening that all that can be done should be attempted to secure the location of industries in New London. There is need of them for the employment of labor is essential here now more than ever before. The location of New London for railroad and steamer facilities is so attractive that it would not be necessary to call attention to it for manufacturing purposes if the proper effort was made to secure manufacturing.

There is said to be a demand for apartments of small size in New London which has not been met and there is a disposition to provide what is needed. Three room apartments are difficult to find with modern conveniences and whoever supplies these in a suitable neighborhood will find tenants ready for them.

MAIN ST. ALARM WIRES TO BE PUT IN CONDUITS

Members of the fire department were not generally aware that the Gamewell system was defective till the announcement was made in the city council Monday that an expenditure of some $5,000 was needed to make the system what it was supposed to be. The system has been in use nearly three decades so it is not surprising that it should need some expenditures for perfecting it. A portion of the alarm wires are to be put in conduits on Main street.

MRS. RICHARD ROSS KILLED WHEN AUTO OVERTURNS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 19—Mrs. Catherine Ross, 40, wife of Richard Ross, residents at the rooming house, 176 Bank street, was instantly killed today when the automobile in which she was riding with her husband and Mrs. Addie Clark, of Orange, collided with another machine and overturned when between Norwalk and Darien. Ross escaped injury, but Mrs. Clark was slightly injured. Mr. and Mrs. Ross are strangers in New London. The autoists were enroute to New York and while traveling at a fast rate of speed an auto driven by Miss Esther Berger, of New Preston, emerged from a side road, with the result that Ross' auto struck it and overturned, pinning the two women beneath their car. Ross was held in bail of $2,500 by the Norwalk police on a technical charge of manslaughter.

No Finding in Rehn Case

City Manager William A. Holt did not announce today his finding in the case of charges of neglect of duty made against Patrolman Walter Rehn. Rehn was allowed to return to duty until such time as a finding is announced. It is understood that City Manager Holt will endeavor to persuade Rehn to request retirement. The officer has done continuous duty as a patrolman since Oct. 1901.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Roth Quartet.

The Roth quartet which appears in New London Tuesday evening, November 26, as the second attraction in the series of concerts offered by Connecticut college, is a great ensemble of virtuosi. Brought to this country in September 1924 by Mrs. Elizabeth Sprague Coolidge for an appearance at her Pittsfield anniversary festival, their unexcelled musicianship and exquisite playing brought them fame throughout America after this one engagement. The demand for their services was so great that they played seventeen engagements during a stay of three weeks in the country, and many bookings for appearances during the present season were made. Connecticut college had engaged them for this concert before they sailed away. The engagement was made because of the remarkable reviews concerning their playing as printed in the New York and Boston papers, and more especially because of the unstinted recommendation given us by Dr. Daniel Gregory Mason, of Columbia university, Dr. David Stanley Smith, dean of the department of music at Yale. Their New London concert will be given in Bulkeley auditorium which has a limited seating capacity and the beauty and excellence of their performances fully warrants a capacity audience.

President Blunt to Speak.

The Woman's Guild of the United church is cordially inviting all women of this community to hear President Katherine Blunt of Connecticut college who is to speak at the Community house on Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

ROTARIANS HOLD MEETING IN HISTORIC TAVERN

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 19—The old Coach tavern, known since the Revolutionary war as the General Palmer inn, at Warrenville, town of Ashford, was the scene tonight of an unique meeting of the Willimantic Rotary club in which surprises as to the meeting place, program and menu were the features. The Rotarians, under guidance of Attorney Harry B. Gaucher as marshal, left the Nathan Hale hotel at 6:15 o'clock, going to the inn in a motor caravan.

Upon arrival they filed into the old mess hall used by General Palmer, his aides and officers in 1775 to the beats of the drums and fife of the Spirit of '76. The old mess hall, with huge fireplace blazing, and lighted with antique candles, presented a most beautiful atmosphere. A delicious supper was served by John T. Meikle and assistants. The menu was brought up with pumpkin pie and coffee.

The meeting was convened by President Louis E. Arnold, who turned the gavel over to Secretary Gerard E. Loiselle, who had charge of the arrangements. The guests included Charles A. Mayo, Kenneth N. Hillhouse, Joseph M. Berard, T. Harry Barrett, Dixon VanZandt, John D. Roy, Raymond P. Fuller of Hampton, Gaylord S. Mathewson, Walter Stemmons of Storrs and Attorney William A. King.

The singing was under the leadership of Ralph H. Gibson. Justice George E. Hinman reported that the annual Ladies' night would be held on Monday evening, Dec. 9. President Arnold announced that District Governor Vernon H. Hodges of New Haven would conduct his annual visit to the club at the noon meeting next Tuesday. After favors had been distributed, adjournment was taken, while the members took part in a short procession to Warrenville village, led by the drummers and fife. Later, Mr. Barrett, of the E. C. Atkins and Co., who was introduced by Nelson A. Daniels, favored with selections on the musical saw. Capt. James B. Daniels, favored with selections on the musical saw. Capt. James B. Fullerton then read a poem appropriate to the occasion, entitled Mother Shipton's Prophecy, which was first published in 1448 and re-published in 1641. The main speaker of the evening was then called upon by Chairman Loiselle. He was Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, charter member and past president of the New London Rotary club, who was heard in an excellent talk on Rotary Fellowship. During his talk, Rev. Mr. Danforth gave a brief history of the inn, stating that the main part had been erected in 1691 and an addition put on in 1775. The hall, in which the members were gathered, and which is today in its original state, was erected in 1775, for use as a soldiers mess hall. The entire building, of about 20 rooms, is replete with valuable antiques and woodwork.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Haggert, present owners of the building, who had donated its use to the club. Thanks was also extended to various organizations assisting in the meeting. As a final number, Mr. Barrett played The End of a Perfect Day on the musical saw, the meeting then adjourning in the usual manner. Members and guests attended to the number of 50.

Palace Theatre.

Before the talkies came into being, the usual western picture was composed mainly of horses, pistol shots, sombreros and a lot of dust—mostly dust. There was very little plot beyond that afforded by the sight of one big gang of men chasing pell mell across the prairies after another big gang. Pistols were fired frequently. You could tell that because you saw the smoke—and once in a while another bad man bit the dust, and before the film was over, you were sure to see the muscular hero sheepishly take a sun-burned western lassie into his brawny arms and kiss her as though he were just learning how.

But that is all changed now with the advent of the talking pictures as you will shortly see when you come to the Palace to view "The Great Divide" starring Dorothy Mackaill, Ian Keith, Lucien Littlefield and others including Myrna Loy and George Fawcett. True enough there are many of the elements in this picture that made the old westerns thrilling, but the whole technique has been changed completely. For the first time we see a true eastern atmosphere merging with the dust of the prairie lands. The cocktail shaker and the modern dance step has walked into the same strip of film with the six-gun and the pinto pony. And the result is startling. Just figure what can happen when two extremes like that meet—when the outdoor man of the west meets the thin-lipped aristocratic daughter of luxury from the east—what a drama is played out under the flashing of western stars, with the mighty panorama of hills, valleys and canyons as a setting.

There is romance of the old order in "The Great Divide," romance that will bring tears and smiles, but it is interwoven with the stuff that makes great drama—the eternal conflict of human wills and emotions, the fight between one faction and its opposite, the subtle differences between different races of men. You see it all here, played out vividly and powerfully under the mighty majesty of towering western mountain peaks.

Palace Theatre.

In keeping with the spirit of the Thanksgiving season, the Palace theatre, in gratitude for the splendid support and patronage it has received since it began under Warner Brothers management, is going to give away free turkeys and other big surprises at the coming Thursday night's performance, and on Wednesday night of next week.

These gifts are to go to patrons of the Palace because the playhouse, after a successful season, appreciates the support of the public. When the theatre, newly remodeled, was opened several months ago, the management, headed by Mr. R. B. Hamilton, promised the public something new and fine in the way of entertainment. The theatre folks have labored hard and sincerely to live up to that promise. That they have succeeded they take for granted, considering the wholehearted response given by the people of Norwich to the shows presented there.

Thursday night and the following Wednesday evenings will be gala occasions at the Palace. They will be truly "barnyard nights" in every sense of the word. If you have not yet bought your Thanksgiving turkey, or have been fortunate before, come and see what you can do for yourself at the Palace. Perhaps, if you don't get a turkey, you might get one of these little cackling pigs, which are so delicious when roasted whole with an apple in their mouth. At any rate come along and see the fun and join Mr. Hamilton and the rest of the Palace staff in making Barnyard night a successful party. The Palace feels that it owes this to the people.

Edward Ferber, 35, of Hartford, was turned over at New Haven to the police of Albany, N. Y., where he is wanted for passing worthless checks.

Bread Theatre

Two leading ladies support Richard Barthelmess in his latest First National-Vitaphone 100 per cent talking picture, "Drag," which closes tonight at the Bread theatre.

One, Lila Lee, is a brunette; the other, Alice Day, is a blonde.

The blonde has the best of it at the start, for she marries the hero; but they do not live happily ever after. Too many "in-laws" is the cause. The bride puts her family first in all things, which leads to a great big opportunity of which the brunette takes advantage, and she comes in first at the finish.

Both are nice, well-meaning girls, and if it hadn't been for the blonde's family complex everything would probably have been smooth and happy in the domestic life of David Carroll—as Dick Barthelmess is called in "Drag."

The picture includes a very elaborate musical show staged on the most lavish Broadway scale. It is called "The Love Prince," and the haunting and seductive central melody is "My Song of the Nile."

Broadway Theatre.

Rupert Hughes in his marvelous Red Book story, "She Goes to War," immortalized the American woman for her part in the greatest conflict of all time, touching on a theme that no other author had even dared to suggest—the sacrifice of American womanhood on the altars of Mars, the War-God. United Artists made the film version which opens at the Broadway today. Joan Bront, as played by Eleanor Boardman, in the most sympathetic role of her career, is a typical society girl, pampered and used to the little luxuries, guaranteed by wealth, but she was nevertheless a woman, and found her "Place in the Sun," after a series of heart-breaking adventures, culminating in the awakening of her great love, born in the grim and darkness of the trenches. Terrific scenes of action in the great war, filmed under the direction of that great veteran Gen. Charles P. Summerall, are reproduced with zerat fidelity. The Fox movietone news, with Hughie O'Connell, the demon reporter in "The Interview," and Frances Shelley and Her Four Eton Boys, with other short subjects complete the bill. Gold Star mothers, World war nurses, Yeowomen and field clerks (F) and members of the women's motor reserve corps, are the guests of the management at all performances of "She Goes to War." Saturday brings to the Broadway screen, Owen Wister's famous novel of the old west, "The Virginian," an outdoor classic of enthralling interest, with a big cast including Gary Cooper, Walter Huston, Richard Arlen and Mary Brian. Filmed entirely in God's outdoors, "The Virginian" marks a new epoch in the making of talking pictures.

TRAMPS WILL STUDY IN EARL'S MANSION

CULLOMPTION, Eng. —(AP)— An earl's mansion in the heart of the Devon countryside soon will become a school for tramps.

The Devon Vagrancy committee has collected a fund to purchase the site to rescue the homeless and unemployed of the country from their precarious existence.

The course of study will include such country arts as basket making, hand weaving, market gardening, and wood carving. The schooling will consist of three or four months course.

The estate of the late earl of Egremont offered the mansion at a very low figure. The money was subscribed by Devon communities.

CONQUEROR'S DESCENDANTS PLAN MEMORIAL TABLET

NEW YORK —(AP)— American descendants of William the Conqueror, and those who trace their lineage to his knights and squires, have been asked to aid in placing a commemorative tablet at his birthplace next summer.

Inscribed on the tablet will be the names of the conqueror's companions in arms. It will be mounted in the castle of Falaise.

Members of the committee assert that thousands of descendants of William and his followers now live in the United States.

TAFTVILLE

At a meeting of the members of Peter Gallan post, No. 104, American Legion, held Monday evening at the Post rooms, the following officers were elected for 1930: Commander, Napoleon Benoit, Jr.; first vice commander, Louise Caisse; second vice commander, Ernest Colburn; adjutant, Edward J. Kelly; finance officer, Napoleon J. Pepin; historian, Thomas Perkins Sears; chaplain, Andrew J. Frohmader; sergeant-at-arms, Donat B. Fournier; executive committee: Pierre Fournier (three years), Thomas Labbee (three years) and Stanislas Benac (one year). It was voted to hold a public installation at the post rooms December 2nd, and invite Joseph Bellefleur of Norwich, district commander, to act as installing officer. A report of the carnival committee was made by Commander Pepin and showed very gratifying results.

A great many of the members signified their intentions of going to the district meeting that will be held in the Buckingham Memorial in Norwich, Thursday, November 21st. The post voted to contribute $5 to the Taftville chapter, American Red Cross.

A membership drive will be started this week and two teams have been chosen. The losing team is to furnish a banquet for the entire post membership, after the closing date, which has been set for December 15th. Commander Benoit, who was chosen for captain of Team No. 1, selected the following to be members of his team: Edward Kelly, Arthur X. Bessette, Andrew Frohmader, Thomas Perkins Sears and George Herrmann. Captain "Connie" Pepin has as his team, the following, Theodore J. Belval, Thomas Labbee, Stanislas Benac, Robert Pilling and Ernest Colburn.

When the members of the home department of the Taftville Congregational church school hold their regular meeting next Friday evening at the church vestry, the business and study period is to be followed by an hour of sewing for the William W. Backus hospital. The members of the committee which has charge of the evening are Mrs. Terence M. Buckley, Mrs. James Emerson, Mrs. James Graham, Mrs. Walter S. Grant, and Mrs. Thomas Grimshaw.

Mrs. Arthur X. Bessette who has been a patient at the William W. Backus hospital for treatment for an injury which she sustained when struck by an automobile some time ago, has been discharged and has returned to her home on Norwich avenue.

Rev. Henri F. Chagnon, assistant pastor of All Hallows church at Moosup, and formerly assistant at Sacred Heart church here, was a visitor in town Tuesday.

HELP KIDNEYS BY DRINKING MORE WATER

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys and Help Neutralize Irritating Acids

Kidney and bladder irritations often result from acidity, says a noted authority. The kidneys help filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it may remain to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread; the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is often one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Begin drinking lots of good water, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast. Continue this for two or three days. This will help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs, which then act normal again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by acid irritation. Jad Salts causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which may quickly relieve your bladder irritation.

CLARA BARTON TENT RECEPTION FOR D. OF V. DEPARTMENT OFFICERS

Clara Barton tent, No. 1, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil war, gave a reception to Connecticut department officers Tuesday afternoon at the Buckingham Memorial and in the evening the tent was given official inspection by Mrs. Minnie Tyrroll of Hartford, department inspector.

Present for the reception which was held at 5:30 were James Haggerty of Willimantic, G. A. R. department commander; and the following department officers of the Daughters of Veterans; Mrs. Minnie Mathieu, Willimantic, president; Mrs. Minnie Tyrroll, Hartford, inspector; Miss Alice Slater, Hartford, senior vice president; Mrs. Helena M. T. Church, this city, patriotic instructor; Mrs. D. Louisa Atterbury, this city, treasurer; Mrs. Marion Withey, Middletown, and Mrs. Jennie Newbury, this city, council members; Mrs. Florence Williams, Willimantic, guide; Mrs. Annie Turner, this city, guard.

At the conclusion of the reception a banquet was served, with the tables prettily decorated in the department colors and covers laid for 85 to enjoy the following menu:

Fruit Cup

Roast Turkey	Dressing
Mashed Potatoes	Mashed Turnips
Cranberry Sauce	Celery
Squash Pie	Cheese Coffee

At the regular meeting of the tent which was the meeting for inspection under the presidency of Miss Florence Hoffman, routine business was carried out under the eye of the department inspector and was followed by the initiation of three candidates with the full ritual floor work.

The initiatory work had an unusual element of interest in that the candidates were three sisters of the president of the tent.

The department inspector, Mrs. Tyrroll, gave Clara Barton tent an excellent rating as she spoke of the work that she had seen done, commending them highly for the accuracy and faithfulness with which the ritual had been carried out and for the manner in which the business session was conducted. In brief responses the visiting officers expressed their pleasure at attending the meeting and the session closed in regular form with the salute to the flag and the Star Spangled Banner.

The banquet was under the direction of the supper committee, Mrs. D. Louisa Atterbury, chairman; Mrs. Elizabeth Bogue, Mrs. Annie Turner, Mrs. Lena O'Brien and Mrs. Alice Brinkman.

SEVEN AUTOMOBILE DRIVERS LISTED FOR HEARING

Seven automobile drivers, including two charged with driving while under the influence of liquor, are to be given hearings next Monday morning in the county court house at New London before an inspector of the motor vehicle department.

Theodore Fitzgerald of 145 Blyden-burg avenue, New London, hearing in regard to theft of an automobile.

James McTough of 58 Prest street, New London, hearing in regard to complaint of overloading.

JURY VERDICT FOR $350 IN AUTOMOBILE SUIT

A verdict for the plaintiff of $350 was returned by the jury of the superior court at New London Tuesday in the $5,000 suit brought by Catherine Palencar of Old Mystic against Frank White of North Stonington and Andrew Palencar, father of the plaintiff. The verdict is only against White as the suit was dismissed against Palencar, because the plaintiff is his daughter, and a minor could not legally sustain a suit against her father. The plaintiff sued for damages as a result of an automobile accident June 17, 1927, in which Miss Palencar received injuries.

Judge Earnest C. Simpson charged the jury when court opened in the morning and the jurors were out about an hour before returning with their verdict. Attorney G. Curtis Morgan appeared for the plaintiff and Attorney Benjamin H. Hewitt represented the defendant White.

Early in the afternoon the jury was impaneled and trial started in the case of Robert Tuthill against Julia Chalfant. The remainder of the jury members were excused and no further trials were anticipated for the day.

Four jury cases are scheduled for trial in the superior court today (Wednesday), included the civil case of Sol Ockooneff against Tax Collector Hibbard N. Alexander for damages alleged to have arisen from the fracas at the municipal building several weeks ago, when Ockooneff was ejected from the tax collector's lobby.

The other cases scheduled are Hess vs. Hannan, Beaudette vs. Connecticut Co., Sheldon et al. vs. Holdridge, exr., appeal from probate.

BUILDING FIVE PIGGERY AT WOMEN'S STATE FARM

A piggery, 26x107 feet, is now being erected at the state farm for women which is situated in the town of East Lyme. The walls of the building are of hollow tile from foundation plates. The roof is of old Dutch colonial style with fireproof shingles. Plates are supported by 18 columns. The building has windows situated in the roof so the pigs will get direct sun all day.

The main building is divided into 20 pens, these to be used for breeding purposes. Concrete floors are used over the entire building with built-in concrete troughs for feeding. The feed and litter are carried out by automatic carriers. In the north end of the building there will be a 10 by 20 foot boiler room for heating the building, and a feed room 16 by 20 feet.

It is the most sanitary and up-to-date building used for this purpose in the state. All pens are partitioned off with galvanized railing, there being no wood used in the construction.

Situated 25 feet north of this building, ground has been staked out for an up-to-date slaughter house, to be equipped with up-to-date refrigerating plant, which when completed will add much to the working facilities of the farm.

STOCK MARKET LOSSES TO CUT TAX RETURNS

While it is true that Connecticut individuals and corporations paid $40,269,009 in income taxes for the 1928 federal fiscal year, the returns on the present year may amount to far more than this sum or—and this is considered more probable—far less. This was the statement issued by Col. Robert O. Eaton, collector of internal revenue for the district of Connecticut, in commenting on a recent newspaper story estimating the amount residents of this state would save as a result of the one per cent decrease in the tax rate proposed by Secretary Mellon.

It was estimated in the newspaper story that Connecticut residents would save $8,750,000 as a result of the promised tax cut, based on returns in the state last March. But during the hectic weeks recently experienced on the stock market, with thousands of persons losing large sums which will naturally be deducted from income tax returns, returns will perhaps be much less next March, Collector Eaton asserted.

SAYS TAXPAYERS ABUSE THEIR EXTENSION PRIVILEGE

Robert O. Eaton, collector of internal revenue for the district of Connecticut, announces that he is in receipt of a letter from the commissioner of internal revenue, dated Oct. 9, 1929, relative to instructing collectors of the various districts in granting extensions of time for filing income tax returns, for the tax year of 1929 due on or before March 15, 1930.

It has come to the attention of the bureau that in numerous instances taxpayers, evidently relying upon the privilege of securing an extension of time, have failed to make every reasonable effort to file their returns on or before the regular due date, for example, in many cases taxpayers or attorneys on their behalf have habitually requested extensions of time for filing returns year after year, so that in these cases the filing of delayed returns has been the rule rather than the exception.

The bureau believes that in these as well as in many other cases the delay in filing the returns was occasioned primarily by an undue exercise of the privilege afforded taxpayers to secure extensions of time rather than by meritorious causes. In short, the privilege so given to taxpayers has been subjected to abuse, and is the cause of extra work and additional expense to the government.

It is, therefore, essential to the proper administration of the internal revenue laws that returns be filed on or before the regular due date whenever possible, as extensions of time were intended to be granted only in cases which by reason of circumstances the taxpayer could not file a timely return through the exercise of ordinary diligence.

Collectors are now instructed to grant extensions of time only upon the showing of a good and sufficient cause for the delay. The collector further stated that applications for extensions of time in any case must be filed before the due date of the return, and that the absence of a member of a corporation or partnership was not a sufficient reason for granting an extension of time to that partnership or corporation.

VERSAILLES MAN PAYS FOR MOTOR LAW VIOLATIONS

At the city court session Tuesday morning, James Scavitt, of Versailles, was fined $15 and costs for failure to have a registration certificate with him for the machine he was driving and $15 for not having a driver's license.

Scavitt recently came to Norwich from New York. He was arrested Monday by State Police Officer Arthur Whitmarsh on North Main street. At the time, he was driving a Nash automobile on registration numbers issued for a Buick. He had a New York state driver's license but no Connecticut license. Scavitt claimed he bought the machine for junk and did not feel he was violating the law by transferring number plates from the Buick to the Nash while driving the latter machine to his home in Versailles.

CONVENTION REPORT TO LEBANON WOMEN VOTERS

The Lebanon League of Women Voters held its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Edward J. Graham Monday afternoon.

The delegates to the state convention of the league this month in Hartford gave their reports which with reports of the officers and standing committee chairman and other business made a full program. Tea was served by the hostess.

DIDN'T LEAVE TOWN; NOW IS IN JAIL

Within a few hours after he was released in the city court Monday morning on his promise to leave town, not to return within two years time, John Foley, of Biddeford, Maine, was arrested on a charge of intoxication. In court Tuesday morning he was sent to jail for ten days for intoxication and also given 30 days additional for his failure to leave town. Foley is a periodic visitor to Norwich and generally gets into trouble for intoxication on his each visit.

SOCIAL WORKERS' CONFERENCE HELD AT WILLIMANTIC

The November meeting of the Social Workers' council of New London and Windham counties was held at a Willimantic tea room Tuesday at 1 o'clock. Miss Elizabeth Anderson, the president, presided. A report of the October meeting which was held in this city at the Wauregan hotel was read by Miss Grace Thomas, recording secretary. The report of the treasurer, Miss Esther Hill, showed a substantial balance and was accepted, as was that of Miss Thomas. Mrs. Neilles Brent, family supervisor of Connecticut Humane society, was the speaker and gave a most interesting talk on the Connecticut Humane society from its organization in 1880, to the present time. The work of its three branches was explained — examples being cited which made the talk very helpful. Mrs. Brent was given a rising vote of thanks.

About 30 members were present, representing both counties. It was voted not to hold any meeting in December, so the next meeting will take place during January, at New London.

In attendance from Norwich were Frederick H. Wyant of the State Humane society, Miss Julia C. Corcoran, of the United Workers, Miss Anna McGrory, of the Diocesan bureau, Mrs. Nancy Kromer, Miss Irma Hutzler, Miss Esther Hill and Miss Julia A. Rodman.

BUILDING LOAN SERIES PASSES 1,000 SHARE MARK

At the shareholders meeting of the Norwich Building and Loan association, held Tuesday evening in the chamber of commerce rooms in the Thayer building, it was reported that 1,028 shares had been subscribed in the 29th series which opened last July, thus passing the goal of 1,000 shares which had been set by the committee having charge of the series.

The treasurer's report for October showed disbursements of over $29,000.

At the directors' meeting, following that of the shareholders, it was voted to open a new series of shares, the 30th in January, and President E. O. Rodier was empowered to appoint a committee of five to arrange for the opening of the series.

To fill vacancies upon the board, caused by the resignations of Archibald Mitchell and John J. O'Rourke, David A. Tongren and Louis J. Fontaine were elected directors.

Reports were made and routine business transacted.

Suffered Hip Injuries

Frido Urbanatti, of 322 Asylum street, suffered hip bruises and lacerations Saturday night when he was hit by an automobile driven by Gerard Tangway, of Baltic. Urbanatti was crossing Main street after leaving the Breed theatre when the machine hit him. He was attended by Dr. Louis T. Cassidy.

PUTTING IN MACADAM ON HAMILTON AVENUE

Street Commissioner Herbert B. Wightman has employes of the street department at work on Hamilton avenue putting in a stretch of macadam which was authorized by the appropriation of $5,000 at the annual city meeting.

The vote at the meeting directed that the work should be begun at the southeast corner of the cemetery on Hamilton avenue and be carried towards the city as far as it could be done for the amount provided. According to the street commissioner, this will put in about 300 feet of a 20-foot road.

CHELSEA BANK MAKES IMPROVEMENTS AT CORNER

Completion of an improvement at the Chelsea Savings bank corner at Cliff and Main streets, was accomplished Tuesday when the cement was put in to fill in the space in the roadway where the corner has been cut back and rounded off.

Due to the breaking down of the old curb, the bank has put in new granite curb stones and at the same time has given to the city for street purposes about 5 feet and 7 inches from the sidewalk. Some change has been made in the slope of the sidewalk approaching the bank steps and the lowest step on the Main street side has been taken out.

TEN CANDIDATES INITIATED AT MERCIER ASSEMBLY

A class of ten candidates were initiated at a meeting of Mercier assembly, No. 13, C. L. of C. held Tuesday evening in the assembly hall on Broadway with the president, Miss Loretta Gadie, in the chair. Those in charge of the initiation ceremonies were the Misses Irene Gallivan, Catherine Halliban, Catherine Finnegan, Elizabeth Sullivan, Anna Carroll, Mary Wagner and Eleanor Ludwig. The meeting voted to again contribute to the Christmas fund for the ex-service men at Uncas-on-Thames and the Norwich State hospital. Miss Marie Deamond is chairman of the committee in charge of this charitable work.

It was announced that a gymnasium class is to be started in the assembly hall early in December, which is to be conducted under the direction of Miss Mary O'Neil. All members were asked to attend a card party to be held soon under the auspices of the alumnae of Baltic academy.

Still More Millions TREAT COLDS DIRECT

EACH year more and more people give up the old, indirect way of treating colds by "dosing" and turn to Vicks VaporRub.

Just rubbed on, Vicks medicated vapors are inhaled direct to the air-passages, and, at the same time, it acts direct through the skin like a plaster.

This better way of treating colds originated with Vicks a generation ago. Today, the whole trend of medical practice is away from needless "dosing," and there are "Over 26 Million Jars Used Yearly."

Now 26 Million jars used yearly

SENATE VOTES TO ADJOURN EXTRA SESSION FRIDAY P. M.

Fourteen Republicans Joined With the Democrats in Overriding Opposition of the "Young Guard" Republicans—House Leaders Are Prepared to Accept the Adjournment Without a Tariff Bill—Senator Smoot Has Announced That He Will Call For Tariff Legislation in the Regular Session as Soon as Disposition is Made of the Vare Case.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20—(AP)—Overriding opposition of the "young guard" republicans, the tariff-tired senate voted today to adjourn the special session Friday night for a week's respite before the regular congressional meeting in December.

A hitherto defiant house, whose leaders have been lending encouragement to the senate "young guard" in blocking the adjournment, was prepared tonight to accept on tomorrow the adjournment without a tariff bill.

Convinced that the tariff measure had to go into the regular session of congress whether the senate met next week or not, the exasperated senate leaders quickly smothered opposition when the self-styled "Hoover regulars" renewed their anti-adjournment stand.

Senator Walsh, of Montana, the actor democratic leader, offered the adjournment resolution with brief comment. Democrats lined up almost solidly for it and Senator Jones, of Washington, acting republican leader supported it along with 13 other republicans of the old guard regulars and some of the western independents.

Leaders of all factions insisted tonight the adjournment did not kill the tariff legislation. Chairman Smoot of the finance committee, who is in charge of the bill for the administration, announced he would call the legislation up in the regular session as soon as disposition is made of the contest against the seating of Senator-Elect Vare, of Pennsylvania.

Leaders of the democratic-western republican independent coalition, whic hhas had the upper hand in the senate tariff contest, likewise gave notice they would insist upon thrashing out the tariff legislation in the regular session. Subdued somewhat by a week of rebuffs the spokesmen of the "young guard" republican regulars announced they were not disheartened and served notice they would "stand together" in their determination to rush the measure through the senate as quickly as possible next session.

However, some of the old guard republicans are not so enthusiastic about the prospects, some already having called the tariff legislation "dead." Senators Reed, of Pennsylvania, and Edge, of New Jersey, both republican regulars of the finance committee, which drafted the senate measure, have left the city.

There was some speculation tonight on the attitude President Hoover will assume toward a continuation of the tariff struggle far into the regular session. Senator Watson of Indiana, the republican leader, at one time suggested sidetracking the bill for a year unless it were completed before January 1.

The western independents-democratic coalition already has rejected the compromise offer of the "young guard," whereby the existing industrial rates would be restored to the bill and it be sent to conference with the house with only the increased agricultural duties.

As the senate overrode the "young guard" today, Senator Vandenberg, of Michigan, one member, said the group was standing by. He said the progress made on the bill since the adjournment resolution was turned down last week was "complete vindication for those who insisted the senate should carry on."

"Prior to Thursday night," he said, "the senate had completed but four schedules. Since Thursday night we have completed five schedules as a result of the new impetus.

"I continue to believe that the welfare of agriculture should dominate this limited tariff revision as defined by President Hoover. I continue to believe, that it would be grievous disservice to the country if any organized raid should attempt to reduce industrial tariffs below 1922 levels. Nothing has happened to foreclose the expectation that a majority of the senate has voted to postpone this culmination."

Night Sessions Abandoned

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20—(AP)—The senate decided late today not to hold a night tariff session tonight and recessed until ten o'clock tomorrow.

Nominations to Hold Over

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20—(AP)—The senate agreed today that all nominations unacted upon at adjournment of the special session on Friday night, should hold over without prejudice until the regular session beginning in December.

SERVICES IN WHITE HOUSE FOR LATE SEC'Y J. W. GOOD

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20. — (AP) — Funeral honors for only the most exalted in public station were extended today to James W. Good, secretary of war, as the capital's last tribute to him who little more than a week ago stood among the nation's leaders in the fullness of his career.

Foremost among those who mourned was President Hoover. He sat with head bowed as services were conducted in the east room of the white house with a dignity which typified the gentle, loyal, and self effacing friendship, as the president himself described it, of the war secretary's attitude toward his fellows.

Upon three occasions, Mr. Hoover stood beside the bier of his cabinet officer, looking long and sadly upon the face of "Jim" Good. Tears stood in the eyes of the chief executive

As the casket finally was wheeled slowly out of the white house for the martial procession to Union station, both Mr. and Mrs. Hoover stood in the palm-filled foyer with heads lowered in sorrow.

The simple services in the white house contrasted with the military splendor of the procession which accompanied the body to the station to be taken to Cedar Rapids, Iowa, for burial Friday.

CRIME CONDITIONS IN WASHINGTON ASSAILED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20. — (AP) — Crime conditions in the capital drew fiery criticism from Senator Blease, democrat, South Carolina, in the senate today, as Representative Edward E. Denison, of Illinois, prepared to resist a charge of possession of liquor and the local police chuckled over the uncovering of a bar in the downtown financial district

Lax enforcement of law and the handling of the grand jury investigation of the death in September of Virginia McPherson, a young nurse, was assailed by Blease. He charged assistants to the district attorney were trying to prove that Robert A. McPherson, Jr., the dead girl's husband, indicted for her murder by a previous grand jury, was not guilty.

Blease said crime ran unchecked in Washington and would continue to do so as long as Major Henry G. Pratt was head of the police department

BABSON AROUSES IRE OF SENATOR BORAH

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20—(AP)—Leaders of the democratic-republican independent coalition in control of the tariff bill in the senate today attacked a statement by Roger Babson, statistician published in the New York World, ascribing "lack of confidence" through the country to the actions of congress.

Senator Borah of Idaho, of the western independents, said in the senate that those opposed to carrying out the republican pledge of the last campaign to equalize agriculture with industry "now speak through the venal voice of Mr. Babson" and call for adjournment of congress.

"We serve notice on Mr. Babson and all of his kind," shouted the Idahoan, "that until we have done our duty we will not cease from our efforts."

GOV. GREEN MENTIONED FOR SECRETARY OF WAR

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20—(AP)—The name of Gov. Fred W. Green, of Michigan, will be presented to President Hoover by Senator Vandenberg, of Michigan, for consideration in the selection of a successor to the late Secretary Good of the war department.

ACCESSORY AFTER FACT OF SLAYING OF A WOODSMAN

SKOWHEGAN, Me., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Sheriff Elton L. Markham, of Somerset county, announced tonight that Andrew Edgar, formerly of Starks, had signed a 23-page confession implicating himself as an accessory after the fact of the slaying, 13 months ago, of Thomas Comeau, a woodsman.

Edgar was alleged to have charged that Frank Reynolds, now in the insane ward of Eastern Maine General hospital, at Bangor, was the principal in the killing, on May 6, 1928, and that he assisted Reynolds in burying the body beneath the roots of a blown down tree in the woods at Starks, where the three men lived, and where it was uncovered on October 20, last, with the aid of a diagram said to have been drawn by Edgar.

ITALY'S FIRST FATALITY IN CIVIC AVIATION

TERRANOVA, Pausania, Sardinia, Nov. 20.—(AP)—The first fatal accident in Italian civil aviation today, in which one man was killed and ten persons injured, was attributed tonight to an optical illusion due to the mirror-like calmness of the water which caused the pilot to over-estimate his height.

The seaplane, bringing eight passengers and four of the crew from Ostia, the port of Rome, struck the water violently here and overturned. Count Henry Piercy was drowned before launches could reach the plane. Under Secretary of War Manaresi suffered slight injuries to his face and Deputy Ferri had his right leg fractured. The engineer of the plane suffered contusions and the radio operator was seriously hurt. Only the mechanic escaped without a scratch.

BIDS FOR CONSTRUCTION OF TWO FIRST CLASS VESSELS

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(AP)— Bids for the construction of two first class vessels of approximately 30,000 gross tons, submitted by three companies, were opened today at the offices of the United States lines.

The bidders were the New York Shipbuilding company, the Bethlehem Shipbuilding corporation and the Newport News Shipbuilding company. The vessels, the construction of which will be contingent upon the receipt of a mail contract from the post office department and a loan from the shipping board construction fund, will be over 700 feet long with accommodations for about 1,300 passengers.

SATTERTHWAITE BELIEVES HIS SON WAS MURDERED

SHORT HILLS, N. J., Nov. 20.—(AP) — After five months investigation, Pennington Satterthwaite, New York architect, said today he still clung to the conviction that his son, a Harvard freshman, was murdered. When Russell Peabody Satterthwaite was found dead from chloroform in his room May 28, authorities reported him a suicide. His father at his home today told of his investigation.

DEATH SENTENCES FOR TEN RICH RUSSIAN PEASANTS

MOSCOW, Nov. 20—(AP)—Death sentences were pronounced today on ten wealthy Russian peasants. Eight were condemned in the Poltava district for the murder of soviet village officials and two peasants in Minsk were condemned for burning down fourteen homes belonging to poor peasants.

U. S. Delegation To London Naval Confab

Sec'y Adams, Ambassadors Dawes, Morrow and Gibson New Appointments to Delegation of Seven.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20. — (AP) — President Hoover today completed the American delegation to the London naval conference by appointing Charles Francis Adams, secretary of the navy, and Ambassadors Charles G. Dawes, Dwight W. Morrow and Hugh S. Gibson

This increases to seven the number of the American delegates, Henry L. Stimson, secretary of state, already having been designated chairman and Senators Reed, of Pennsylvania, and Robinson, of Arkansas, as members.

A state department announcement of the new appointments reiterated that Admiral William V. Pratt, commander-in-chief of the United States fleet, and Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones, retired, would be the chief naval advisers to the delegation. This disposed of various published reports that Admiral Jones would decline the president's appointment.

In his capacity as secretary of the navy, Mr. Adams would be expected to head the technical committee of the delegation, a place which Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., as assistant naval secretary, held during the Washington arms conference in 1921. Admiral Pratt was a member of that committee and is the only one of the present American commission that was.

In naming seven members to the delegation, the president is believed to have assured representation in the conference sessions for the United Stats equal to that of the British empire.

REVOLUTION ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATED IN MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 20—(AP)—Sports and temperance held the stage today in the opening of a week of celebration of the 19th anniversary of the Mexican revolution. President Emilio Portes Gil, his cabinet and the diplomatic corps during the morning reviewed athletic and military drills and parades in the new $500,000 Workers' and Military stadia at Valbuena.

The provisional president during his nearly a year in office has stressed particularly the need of healthful recreation and reduction in alcoholic consumption to improve the Mexican people. Today was a national holiday and devoted to these two purposes.

In downtown Mexico City thousands of children paraded with signs decrying the harmful effects of alcoholic liquors and calling on adults to abandon drink. The parade halted in front of the National theater where the children repeated an anti-alcoholic oath devised by the president himself.

STRIKING TRAIN MEN RETURN TO THEIR JOB

PEORIA, Ills., Nov. 20.—(AP)— Most of the 500 employes of the Toledo, Peoria and Western railroad who walked out on strike a week ago have returned to their jobs, George P. McNear, president of the railroad, said in a statement issued today.

New employes have been engaged to replace the trainmen, conductors and firemen who have not returned, Mr. McNear said, adding that he had received no word from the strikers or their organizations.

Mr. McNear said the railroad was planning to form an employes association, which would include insurance, savings and pensions.

The strike was called because of dissatisfaction of workmen on the manner in which the railroad handled individual complaints of employes.

STATE WILL OPEN TODAY IN M'MANUS MURDER CASE

NEW WYORK, Nov. 20—(AP)—The tedious business of selecting a jury completed, the trial of George A. McManus for the murder of Gambler Arnold Rothstein, which is expected to lift the lid on New York's underworld, will get under way tomorrow.

The twelfth juror was selected late this afternoon and tomorrow morning at 10:30 the state will begin the outline of its case, with the expectation that it will attempt to prove that November 4, a year ago, McManus enticed Rothstein to the Park Central hotel and there shot him when he refused to pay a gambling debt of legendary proportions.

Called as witnesses in the case are men known as heavy plungers at the race tracks and gambling tables from Portland, Maine, to Miami, Fla., and New York city to San Francisco's hills.

BABE RUTH FINED $11 AND COSTS FOR SPEEDING

WESTBROOK, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Babe Ruth was fined $11 and costs tonight on a charge of speeding. He was arrested by Officer Babcock of the state police, who chased the home run king about 30 miles before he placed him under arrest.

Babcock said Ruth was doing 60 through Branford when he first spotted him. The officer took a short cut by way of Grove Beach, and came out on the Boston Post road again where he caught Ruth.

STOCK MARKET STRONG; IS CONTINUING NORMAL

NEW YORK, Nov. 20—(AP)—Stock prices continued along the upward path today in response to a further easing of credit conditions and the organized efforts being made to minimize the effect of the recent decline in securities on general business. Net gains in active shares ranged all the way from a few cents to $21.50 a share, and were fairly well maintained despite a wave of profit-taking in the last half hour of trading. Business continued in normal proportions.

NATIONAL WOOL MARKETING ASSOCIATION FORMED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20—(AP)—A central sales agency to be known as the National Wool Marketing association, with a capital stock of $1,000,000, has been organized by the Wool and Mohair Co-operative associations of the United States under the guidance and with the approval of the federal farm board.

Flier Killed When Plane Fell On Roof

Companion, With Parachute, Landed Safely on Roof Across the Streets—Tail Spin Accident in New York.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Loser in a fight with a balky motor above the towering roofs of Manhattan, Charles I. Reid, 34, a concert manager and lecturer, was killed today in an airplane crash atop a 12-story Y. M. C. A. building on 64th street, just west of Central park.

While Reid desperately struggled to bring the wildly careening ship out of a tail spin over the western edge of Central park, his passenger, Robert Baille, a lion trainer, crawled out on the wing, pulled the rip cord of his parachute, and let it carry him off.

He landed with only a few scratches on a rooftop in 64th street, across the way from that on which Reid crashed in the airplane.

Baille did not know how high up he was when he let the parachute pull him off the airplane, but one witness said the plane was not more than 500 feet above the roofs when the parachute dragged Baille off. Another said the parachute's opening and Baille's landing on the roof were "almost simultaneous."

Baille had been lecturing on lion training, and Reid was his manager. Reid completed a course in flying at Roosevelt field a few months ago and obtained his private pilot's license. Baille never had flown a ship, although he was an enlisted man in the aviation service at Bolling field, Washington, during the war, had been up several times and had made two parachute jumps.

Today they went out to Roosevelt field, chartered a small biplane and started out for a pleasure jaunt.

They climbed up, Baille said, to an altitude of about 7,000 feet and headed for New York. Over Queens, the motor began to sputter and miss. They were losing altitude.

Baille, gazing fearfully down, saw a big square of green—Central park. They had lost about 5,000 feet, their altitude having dropped to about 2,000. He said he turned around, caught the eye of Reid, who was in the rear cockpit, and pointed down.

Reid circled around, and then the ship began to plunge, and roll, and fall. Those who saw it from the ground said it went into a tail spin.

Through seconds that must have seemed like centuries, Baille waited. Then he crawled out on the crazily swaying wing, clung for a second longer, and pulled the rip cord on his parachute.

The whirling, tumbling airplane, with Reid aboard, descended faster. It was already down—a mass of torn and twisted wreckage, rammed into a corner of the pyramided roof of the new Y. M. C. A. building—when Baille landed on the opposite roof. The crash was heard many blocks away.

Reid was buried underneath the wreckage, dead. Almost every bone in his body was crushed, a police surgeon said.

Reid was married and the father of two little girls, Titania, 8, and Victoria, 3 years old.

RECOMMENDS COOPERATIVE MARKETING ASSOCIATIONS

MORRISTOWN, N. J., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Organization of cooperative marketing associations by farmers of the northeastern states was advised tonight by Representative Franklin W. Fort, chairman of the house agricultural committee, in a speech before the Morris county board of agriculture.

Warned that if steps were not taken immediately, aggressive and intelligently managed organizations throughout the mid-west and west will take from the eastern farmers even their next-door markets.

16 INDICTMENTS FOR LIQUOR LAW VIOLATIONS

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 20—(AP)—Sixteen Somerset county men including John A. Berkey, president judge, John A. Berkey, presiding judge of Somerset county courts, were indicted by a United States district court grand jury here today on charges of conspiracy to violate the national prohibition laws. The indictment was returned after four months of investigation by federal agents and four days of inquiry by the grand jury.

PRESIDENT OF MEX. MAKES TOTAL ABSTINENCE WAGER

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 20—(AP)—El Universal Grafico today says that President Emilio Portes Gil, long known as a strong advocate of temperance, has made a total abstinence wager.

Three months ago he and General Pedro J. Almada agreed to forfeit to the other $100 if first to take a drink and $50 if first to smoke a cigarette. Neither has yet drawn a check.

BOYS COMMITTED CRIMES AGAINST TROLLEY CARS

NEW HAVEN Nov. 20.—(AP)— Sixteen boys, all about 16 years of age, must appear in the West Haven town court tomorrow to answer for a long list of crimes, committed against trolley cars on the Second avenue line.

A round-up was made yesterday after weeks of suffering on the part of the motorman who was bombarded by ripe fruit, had his trolley ropes slashed and switches plugged.

BUSINESS WORLD LEADERS WILL MEET HOOVER TODAY

Henry Ford Leads the List of 22 Who Will Assemble in the White House—They Will Hold a Discussion With President Hoover and Secretaries Mellon and Lamont—Object is to Prevent the Situation in the Stock Market From Affecting the Course of Industry and Commerce.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.— (AP) — Men who guide the destinies of the greatest business organizations of the country will meet with President Hoover tomorrow in the third of the conferences to prevent the situation in the stock market from affecting the course of industry and commerce.

Henry Ford, one of the wealthiest men in the world, heads the list of 22 who have accepted invitations to be present at 10 a. m., in the white house cabinet room, where they will hold a round table discussion with the chief executive and Secretaries Mellon and Lamont.

The names of most of the others are equally as well known to America, including Julius Rosenwald, of Chicago, chairman of the board of Sears Roebuck & Co.; Owen D. Young, chairman of the board of the General Electric Co.; Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of General Motors; Pierre DuPont, chairman of the board of the E. I. DuPont De Nemours & Co.; E. G. Grace, president of the Bethlehem Steel Corp.; Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the finance committee of the United States Steel Corp., and Walter Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co.

Others now en route to Washington are Henry M. Robinson, Los Angeles banker representing the California Development board; Walter Teagle, president of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey; Clarence M. Woolley, of Chicago, American Radiator Co.; Matthew S. Sloan, president New York Edison Co.; E. J. Kulas, president Otis Steel Co.; Samuel W. Reyburn, New York, president Lord & Taylor; Jesse I. Staud, president R. H. Macy & Co.; George Laughlin, Pittsburgh steel manufacturer; A. W. Robertson, Pittsburgh, Westinghouse Electric Co.; Redfield Proctor, Boston, president New England council; Ernest T. Trigg, Philadelphia, chairman industrial relations committee, and Philip H. Gadsden, president Philadelphia chamber of commerce.

Julius Barnes, chairman of the board, and William Butterworth, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, will sit in on this conference, as they did on the first two Tuesday which brought to Washington executives of the leading eastern railroads and members of the advisory council of the Federal Reserve board.

After this meeting with men whose organizations employ millions of persons, Mr. Hoover will confer with representatives of organized labor to receive their suggestions for steps that should be taken and their reports as to how they best can fit their own efforts into the pattern of an accelerated business world.

Attending will be Secretary Davis, of the labor department; William Greene, president of the American Federation of Labor, and a dozen other representatives of the organized workers of the United States.

Along with these announcements by the white house came others that the farm conference put down for Friday morning had been postponed until Monday and that representatives of the leading public utilities of the country would meet with Mr. Hoover that day at 2:30 p. m. The conference of construction men will take place Friday afternoon as originally planned.

CHARGED WITH FRAUD AND ABANDONING HER CHILDREN

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 20.—(AP)— Mrs. Roger William Perry will have a hearing in the West Haven town court November 23, on charges of passing a fraudulent check and abandoning her children at the Colonial inn.

Mrs. Perry and her two children where guests at the hotel for several weeks last summer. She is alleged to have settled her bill with a worthless check, and to have departed leaving the children there. They were placed in the New Haven community center where they have been since then.

The woman was located in Bethlehem, Pa., where she was undergoing treatment in a hospital.

CANTON AGAIN MENACED BY "IRONSIDERS" TROOPS

SHANGHAI, Nov. 20—(AP)—Canton dispatches tonight reported that Kwangsi rebels, coupled with General Chang Fak-Wei's rebel "Ironsiders" troops, who are in northern Kwangtung province, again are menacing Canton.

The Cantonese government, in order to prevent a possible rebel advance down the west river from Kwrangsi, announced that effective tomorrow the river would be blockaded and closed to commercial traffic. The blockade will extend from Canton to Wuchow Kwangsi.

As a result of this move, the American consul general in Canton warned American shipping not to attempt to use the West river.

SINCLAIR LIBERATED FROM PENITENTIARY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.— (AP) — Harry F. Sinclair today served the last of his six months sentence for the shadowing of jurors in the Fall-Sinclair mistrial growing out of the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve scandal.

Midnight was the hour at which the wealthy oil operator and turfman became a free man, after confinement since May 6, which included also a sentence of three months for refusal to answer questions of a senate committee investigating the Teapot Dome transaction. The sentences ran concurrently and Sinclair was allowed 30 days off for good behavior.

WOULD HAVE DOHENY TRIED ON BRIBERY INDICTMENT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(AP)—The government took steps today seeking another conviction in the notorious naval oil reserve lease cases, requesting through special prosecutors, Owen J. Roberts and Atlee Pomerene, that Edward L. Doheny be brought to trial Jan. 13 on his bribery indictment.

Inability of opposing counsel to agree on the date of trial for the California oil magnate caused the prosecutors to ask the District of Columbia supreme court to make a formal decision on the time.

WORLD COURT ADVOCATED BY HENRY P. FLETCHER

HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Henry P. Fletcher, who recently resigned as ambassador to Italy after a long career in the diplomatic service, told the Pennsylvania council of republican women tonight that a permanent world court is distinctly an American idea and ideal and said "we should no longer hesitate to take this step toward world peace," in entering the world tribunal.

ROBERT ALDRICH ARRESTED FOR CONTEMPT OF COURT

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 20—(AP)—Robert Aldrich, president of Flyers, Inc., Albany aviation concern, was arrested late today on a warrant charging contempt of court, obtained by authorities of Newport, Rhode Island.

The arrest came after his failure to appear at the trial at Newport of two men on Aldrich's complaint that they were members of a "wire tapping" gang which fleeced him of $40,000 several months ago.

INCOME TAX NOW $101,441,533 GREATER THAN LAST YEAR

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20—(AP)—Increased incomes all down the line, attributed by the internal revenue bureau to business prosperity, boosted its tax collections for the first four months of the 1930 fiscal year by $101,441,533 over those for the same period of last year.

The total for the four month period was $875,608,874.

Income tax receipts totaled $640,024,358 and accounted for $90,664,755 of the increase and miscellaneous taxes for the remainder. The four months ended last October 31.

Corporation taxes showed a gain of $8,783,249, reaching a total of $333,970,063 while individual and partnership taxes amounted to $301,945,295 an increase of $81,936,536.

Collections under the prohibition law amounted to $481,952, an increase of $2,577,898, and tobacco taxes accrued $162,672,070 which was $11,555,295 more than a year ago. Stamp taxes returned $33,643,992 to the treasury, an increase of $11,436,410.

SHOT WOMAN DEAD; THEN FATALLY SHOT HIMSELF

THOMPKINSVILLE, Ky., Nov. 20—(AP)—After summoning her by messenger to the home of his brother-in-law, Edmonds Crabtree, 36, son of a physician, today shot and killed Mrs. Ottie Bray, 32, wife of a Miller, at Gamaliel, near here, and then fatally shot himself. He died late today.

The shooting took place at the home of David Clark. Officers were told that Mrs. Clark ran out and motioned Mrs. Bray away as she entered the yard but that Crabtree pushed past her and shot Mrs. Bray several times. He then turned his pistol on himself.

Crabtree had visited the Bray home last evening and was known as a friend of both Mr. and Mrs. Bray. He leaves a widow and several children and Mrs. Bray two children.

FALLING IN LOVE IS WORSE THAN INDIGESTION

CHICAGO, Nov. 20—(AP)—Falling in love is worse than having indigestion for a tubercular person, Dr. W. F. Peterson of the University of Illinois College of Medicine said in a radio talk over station WLS this afternoon.

"Worry is one real cause of fatigue," Dr. Peterson said. "Half the battle in tuberculosis centers about the nervous apparatus. Give it a chance. Don't fret, don't be peevish, don't be too sensitive and whatever you do, don't fall in love. That is worse than indigestion. Emotions upset the body more completely than most other things."

BAND OF CRIMINALS IN ITALY BROKEN UP

MILAN, Italy, Nov. 20—(AP)—The Polastro gang, said to be the most dangerous band of criminals in modern Italy with the exception of the Mafia of Sicily, was believed to have been broken up this evening when the Court of Assizes condemned two leaders to life imprisonment with five years to be spent in solitary confinement.

Seven gangsters were sentenced to from three to eight years of imprisonment and four were released on parole. The gang was accused of many large thefts and with killing four policemen at various times. Sante Polastro, a leader, was captured in France and brought here for trial after a two year extradition fight.

FISHERMEN RESCUED BY COAST GUARDSMEN

VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass., Nov. 20—(AP)—The coast guard patrol boat CG-172, A. B. Hopper, boatswain, tonight brought in Captain Samuel P. Cunha and two members of the crew, Raymond and Joseph Authier, of the oil burning fisherman, Naomi Bruce, which burned to the water's edge off Skiff Island today.

The Naomi Bruce, a 60-footer, owned by Captain Cunha here caught fire on her way to the fishing grounds when her engine backfired and set the engine room ablaze. Cunha and the Authiers took to the dory which was picked up by the Catherine, another fishing boat, and were later transferred to the CG-172.

BLIND RABBI DELIVERS ADDRESS TO LOCAL PEOPLE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 20.—The Jewish people of the city and vicinity gathered in numbers at the Bank street synaggogue tonight to welcome Rabbi Michael Aaronsohn, past national chaplain of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War. The welcome meeting was held under the auspices of the Congregation Sons of Israel with Benjamin Eisenberg as chairman. Rabbi Aaronsohn, who was blinded in the Argonne forest, addressed the meeting. He is devoting his life to the establishment of schools for the Jewish youth. Rabbi H. Hofstadter, formerly of New York city, now Hebrew teacher in this city, outlined the program for the school.

There are now 11 A. C. Tyler camp members, Veterans of the Spanish-American War, holding honorary membership in Gold Star post, No. 1724, Veterans of Foreign Wars. The Spanish war comrades who have been installed are: Captain Frank P. Fenton, John F. Sullivan, Robert O. Snow, Frederick M. Flagg, Michael J. English, Francis J. Teevan, Thomas Mara, Jeremiah J. Sullivan, Jeremiah A. McCarthy, Michael P. Cronin and John B. Gingras.

Miss Elizabeth Munger, superintendent of the State Farm for Women, told of the work of that institution in a talk before the Woman's club at the regular meeting held in the Model school auditorium Tuesday afternoon. The president, Mrs. F. E. Noble, presided and the minutes were read by Mrs. D. E. Abel, in the absence of the secretary. The speaker was introduced by Miss Elizabeth F. Anderson, secretary of the Welfare bureau. Miss Munger described the farm as one of 840 acres, located in Mansfield. The girls and women assist in harvesting the crops and caring for about 60 head of cattle, 600 fowls, 70 pigs and 50 sheep. There are at present 165 women at the farm and 70 infants. That an overcrowded condition exists is indicated by the fact that the normal capacity of the farm is 140 inmates and 50 infants. The care of the inmates is by a staff of 40, including a resident physician, four registered nurses, several practical nurses, teachers, matrons and parole officers.

Upon arrival at the institution an inmate is quarantined for two weeks while undergoing a thorough medical examination, also psychological and psychiatric. Dental work and treatment for diseases is often required. Aside from farm work, the girls are taught cooking, sewing and laundry work. There is an arrangement whereby girls with proper credits can earn money from this work. The money is placed in a bank until they are released.

Adam Golub of Card's Mills, town of Columbia, was fined $50 and costs for manufacturing liquor and having liquor in his possession with intent to sell, at a session of the Columbia town court Tuesday. Golub pleaded guilty to the charges and his wife, Mrs. Mary Golub, pleaded guilty to a charge of resisting an officer in the performance of his duty. The woman was fined $5 and costs. The fines and costs, totalling $133.15, were paid. Deputy Sheriff Harvey S. Collins testified that he raided the Golub home Monday night and secured a still, four barrels of mash and two quarts of liquor. Mrs. Golub threw a container of home brew at the officer while the raid was in progress. Mrs. Fannie Dixon Welch, justice of the peace, presided at court.

OBITUARIES

Thomas Mack

Thomas Mack, a former resident of Quarry street, died in St. Joseph's hospital Tuesday night from infirmities resulting from old age. His sole survivors are several nieces and nephews residing in Springfield, Mass.

Robert Paquette

DANIELSON

OLD TIME FIDDLER FOUND DEAD AT HIS HOME

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 20. — Coroner Arthur G. Bill was called to Phoenixville this morning to view the body of William O. Smith, 67, famed as one of the Henry Ford group of old-time fiddlers in New England.

Mr. Smith lived alone in the basement of a house at Phoenixville. Last night, shortly before 11 o'clock, occupants of the upper part of the house noticed Mr. Smith's door ajar, and upon entering found that he was dead. He had been seen about at 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, apparently as well as usual. It was determined that death was caused by a shock.

As a young man Mr. Smith was a resident of this town, at East Killingly, where his brother, Fanton, is still resident. He also leaves nephews and nieces resident in Putnam.

Coroner Bill has Mr. Smith's violin for safe-keeping. It is believed that the instrument is of considerable value. In any event, it is the one on which Mr. Smith played for so many years and with which he built his widespread reputation as a fiddler of the old-time school.

George Fogarty, 17, was before Judge W. Fenner Woodward in the town court today to answer to a charge of illegally parking an automobile and, as a minor, to operating a motor vehicle without proof of financial responsibility. He was fined $1.00 and costs. Fogarty was ordered into court by State Officer James Carmody after a check-up of an accident in which a car owned by Henry Maheu, of Attawaugan, that Fogarty was driving, was in a collision with another car driven by George Stuckle of Amityville, N. Y. The Fogarty car was parked on the wrong side of the highway between East Killingly and Elmville as the Stuckle car came along. Fogarty pulled out in front of the car coming toward him with the resulting jam and some minor damage to the machines.

This morning the funeral of Mrs. Celia M. Levell, wife of John Levell, was held from their home near Attawaugan and with services at St. Mary's church in Putnam at 9 o'clock, Rev. Joseph Casey being celebrant of the high mass of requiem. Burial was in Grove street cemetery. Rev. U. O. Bellerose conducting the committal service. The bearers were Robert Chadwick, Cyrus Lewis, Philip Lewis, David Rust, Ralph Andrews and James Maher; L. E. Kennedy had charge of the arrangements.

Danielson is particularly interested in the induction of Dr. Robert Maynard Hutchins as president of the University of Chicago, for his ancestors were residents here and relatives of this youthful and distinguished scholar still live in Danielson. Dr. Hutchins, the fifth president of the University of Chicago, is but 30 years of age and the youngest president of a major university in the United States. His father, William James Hutchins, is president of Berea college, in eastern Kentucky. The ceremonies incident to the induction of Dr. Hutchins are described as rich in the pageantry of cap and gown. Numbers of college presidents were in attendance. President Hutchins is now head of a university with $80,000,000 in assets, with an endowment of $51,000,000, and an annual budget in excess of $6,000,000. There are 750 in the faculty and the student body numbers 14,500. Dr. Hutchins is a graduate of Yale university and was filling the position of dean there when elected to the presidency of the University of Chicago.

Following a custom in vogue for many years inmates of public institutions in this vicinity are to be served bountiful Thanksgiving dinners on Thursday of next week. Dinners such as these will be served on the holiday to the prisoners at the county jail in Brooklyn and to the inmates at Killingly's town farm.

County Agent Raymond E. Wing has given notice of a meeting of the Young Farmers' club to be held at Grange hall in Brooklyn next Monday evening at 8 o'clock. This is to be a farm management meeting. A series of such meetings are planned for the winter season. General topics will be the size of the farm business, diversification of the farm business, efficiency of labor, and other interesting topics relative to farm management. Members are invited to bring interested parties to Monday evening's meeting, which will be addressed by a farm management specialist from the Connecticut Agricultural college at Storrs.

There were morning and afternoon sessions of the town court today for the disposition of five cases. In addition to the cases elsewhere mentioned, Walter Cole, of Plainfield, was brought into court by County Game Warden Thomas G. Daniels, of Plainfield for trapping on land owned in Killingly by Betsey Wilcox of the town of Plainfield without having written permission to do so. Cole was fined $5 and costs, a total of $16.83. This was the second case of this nature to be disposed of in the local court during the present week.

Edward Hall and Aldo Pascucci, both of Meriden came to court this afternoon to answer to charges of reckless driving. The young men were riding motorcycles at high speed when apprehended by State Officer Elton Nolan. They were found guilty and a fine of $10 and costs imposed upon each, $9 of the fine being remitted in both instances. They had little money with them and declared they were en route from Springfield, where they have been working, to a Massachusetts city, looking for jobs. Their machines carried Massachusetts registrations and they had operators' licenses from that state.

Assistant Postmaster Earle F. Winslow and son Norman, were at Providence last evening to hear the concert by the Boston Symphony orchestra.

Mrs. Laurance Mouat, New Britain, for state historian, will address the members of Sarah Williams Danielson chapter, D. A. R., when they meet Thursday afternoon at the Congregational Parish house.

It was pointed out today in connection with the tragic death of Money Mason of Putnam at Attawaugan crossing Tuesday afternoon that though lines of freight cars were standing on the siding on both sides of the crossing, obscuring a good view of the main line tracks, that this crossing is protected by modern devices to signal the approach of all trains and that the signals were in working order.

Collection of personal taxes in this and nearby towns is proceeding slowly, though in Killingly a considerable number of the more than 3500 people have met the obligation.

As guests of the town school committee the approximately two score teachers in the various schools of Killingly enjoyed a pleasant evening at a reception at the high school buildings this evening. A dinner served in the school cafeteria was a feature.

At a session of the town court this afternoon, Ralph Leo, of Thompson, charged with having operated a motor vehicle while he was intoxicated, was acquitted after a review of the case before Judge W. Fenner Woodward. Leo was represented by Attorney Harry E. Back and Attorney Archibald Macdonald of Putnam.

CENTRAL VILLAGE

COUNTY CONG. MINISTERS MEET WITH LOCAL CHURCH

The annual meeting of the Windham County Union of Congregational Ministers was held in the local church Tuesday, the president, Rev. William C. Prentiss, of Plainfield, presiding. The devotions were led by Rev. Harding W. Gaylord, of Danielson, with L. Edwin Hill, county Y. M. C. A. secretary, at the organ. Other ministers present were: Rev. Everett S. Lyon, pastor of the Federated church, Thompson; Rev. George B. Hawkes, Abington; Rev. George A. Barker, Pomfret; Rev. James T. English, Putnam; Rev. William Swainson, Dayville; Rev. Henry Coolidge, South Killingly; Rev. William Williams, Wauregan; Rev. C. C. Rowlinson, Brooklyn; Rev. William L. Muttart, Hampton; Rev. Paul Sanger, Chaplin; Rev. Edward Smiley, Windham Center; Rev. H. E. Small, Canterbury, and Rev. George H. Reese, pastor of the local church. Rev. Mr. Lyons read a paper on "Spirited Values of Christmas," and Rev. Mr. Smiley gave a review of "Methods of Private Religious Living." Both made a favorable impression and stimulated lively discussion. The afternoon session was given over mostly to business. After the reading of the minutes by Secretary George B. Hawkes, which were approved as read, the treasurer's report was read and accepted. The following officers were elected to serve for one year: President, Rev. Paul Sanger; secretary and treasurer, Rev. George Hawkes; chairman of program committee, Rev. Harding Gaylord. The program committee was instructed to co-operate with the committee appointed by the Willimantic Union of Ministers and the Eastern Windham Clergy fellowship in planning a program and arranging for place of meeting for the annual Lenten retreat to be held in March. At noon a lunch of roast pork, apple sauce, sweet potatoes, escalloped corn, cole slaw, relishes, rolls, squash pie, coffee and fruit, was served. The committee in charge included Mrs. Edward I. Cutler, president of the Ladies' Aid society; Mrs. Mary A. Tillinghast, Miss Mary E. Loudenslager, Miss Faith Loudenslager, Miss Mary Ladd, Mrs. L. Howard Cross, Mrs. Joseph Jodoin and Mrs. George N. Reese.

Edwin St. John, of Canterbury Plains, was here Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rider, of Danielson, have been visitors with Mr. Rider's nephew, Walter Rider, also at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Adelbert Rice.

Celebrated Birthday

Saturday evening, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Blake, at Palmer court, a party was given in celebration of the 83rd birthday of Mrs. Blake's mother, Mrs. Mary Pinckney, of Wauregan. Games and music were enjoyed. Sandwiches, cake, ice cream and coffee were served. Mrs. Pinckney had a large birthday cake and many gifts. Relatives and friends were present from Wauregan, Norwich, and this village.

Auction Club at Plainfield

The Tuesday Afternoon Auction Bridge club was entertained at Lafayette Inn, Plainfield, Tuesday, Mrs. Hattie Barber being hostess. One guest was present. Mrs. Earl Bragg, of Brooklyn; Mrs. Lowell Salisbury, of Moosup; Mrs. Arnold B. Mathewson, Miss Lucy Broadhead, Mrs. Charles Bragg, Mrs. George Loring, Mrs. Stuart Ellsworth, Mrs. Alfred Hill, Mrs. Edward Cutler, Mrs. Fred Brewster and Mrs. L. Howard Cross were members who attended. A delicious roast lamb supper was served after the game. The first prize, a pair of silk stockings, was won by Mrs. Salisbury; the second, a pie server, by Mrs. L. Howard Cross, and the consolation, a tatting-trimmed handkerchief, went to Mrs. George Loring. The next meeting will be in Brooklyn, at the home of Mrs. Earl Bragg.

Mrs. Lena Durkee returned Sunday from the Hartford hospital and is staying with Mr and Mrs. Walter Brown. Mrs. Alfree is caring for her.

Mrs. May Weeks of Eastford has been staying with O. P. Durkee.

Shot Accidentally.

Robert Cushman, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Cushman, is in St. Joseph's hospital, Willimantic, in a serious condition from a bullet wound. He was walking in the woods Saturday afternoon with an older brother and another boy when a gun which one of the boys carried caught in the bushes and was accidentally discharged. The bullet entered the stomach and made seven holes through the intestines, lodging in the back.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Calhoun of Hartford, visited relatives here Sunday and Mrs. Lawton and Merelyn Calhoun returned with them to Hartford.

Carl Cushman and John Howlett, with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Busse, took a trip to the salt water near New London Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harlow Eastman of Hartford and Mrs. Frank Eastman of South Windham have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Barlow.

Rev. E. B. Verney gave an inspiring sermon at the Baptist church Sunday morning and preached at Ashford Town in the evening.

Advance warnings of severe cold, frost and floods result in an annual saving of $33,000,000, says Dr. F. Marvin, chief of the United States weather bureau.

PUTNAM

PALMER BURGLAR MAY BE CONNECTED WITH BREAKS HERE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Nov. 20—The arrest of Nicholas P. Marola, 32, of Springfield, in Palmer, following an attempt to burglarize the clothing store of Gamewell and Butts in that city leads local police to believe he may be the one who burglarized St. Mary's rectory here. Captain of Police William J Jarvis said this afternoon that he is to communicate with Palmer police regarding the Putnam burglary and if he deems it necessary he will go there to question the youth. Palmer police have found that Marola has a lengthy criminal record extending over a period of five years and has served time in Sing Sing prison. He is known to Massachusetts police as a professional burglar.

"Modern and Future Methods in Education," was the subject of an interesting talk by Eugene H. Ellis, principal of Woodstock academy, given today at the weekly meeting and uncheon of the Putnam Rotary club held at the Putnam inn. Proper equipment is necessary to furnish the correct environment for pupils, Mr. Ellis said, and this is especially true in athletic circles. Mr. Ellis spoke in favor of the granting of scholarships by colleges to students possessing athletic ability, asserting that he could not understand why certain groups, prominent in educational circles objected to the plan insofar as the student attending college through his outstanding athletic ability is able to maintain a satisfactory academic record. Mr. Ellis stated that his theory is, "Scholarships for good students; scholarships for good athletes."

The November session of the town school committee was held Tuesday evening in the offices of Torrey and Geissler on Main street. Only routine business was transacted. Only one matter of interest came before the board, that being a request from C. Dwight Sharpe of 57 School street, that his donation of a musical instrument to the high school for use in the school band be entered on the records of the committee.

The Challenger airplane, piloted by Andrew Bleau of Hartford, which crashed into a wooded area in the vicinity of the River road yesterday morning during a trial flight was partially dismantled today and parts that were damaged sent to Providence to be repaired. Both wings were removed, in order to have the torn fuselage repaired. The remainder of the ship will be stored in a barn near Mantup field until the arrival of new equipment.

Pierre Chabot of Providence street will appear before Justice George R. Torrey of Central Village Friday as defendant in a damage suit, in which Jeremie LaFrance of Central Village is plaintiff. The case grew out of an automobile accident occurring in Attawaugan on May 16, involving both principals in the civil action. Attorney Irving H. Miron of this city has been retained as counsel for Chabot.

The body of Mooney Mason, killed yesterday at the Attawaugan crossing was returned to his home in this city today. Mason whose real name is Messier, was well known in Putnam, where he had been engaged in the retailing of wood and lumber. Reports filed with railroad offices this morning indicated that the standard warning lights, which protect the Attawaugan crossing functioned perfectly at the time of the fatal collision. Employes of the maintainence department made usual tests of the signals in the morning and a secondary test was made by Assistant Superintendent William E. Sault of the New Haven division a few minutes following the accident.

Friends, relatives and fraternal associates gathered at the R. E. Ill home on Mechanics street at eleven o'clock this morning for the funeral of Mrs. Hulda (Wirz) Ill, wife of Rudolph E. Ill, former superintendent of the Waterman Worsted company, who died Sunday evening following a cerebral hemorrhage. The service was according to the ritual of the order of Eastern Star and was conducted by the members of the Jessamine chapter of this city of which Mrs. Ill was a member. Rev. James F. English, pastor of the Congregational church assisted. Numerous floral tributes were present. The body of Mrs Ill was taken to Rockville, her former home, where burial took place in the Grove Hill cemetery. A committal service was held in the cemetery chapel there.

Unless some satisfactory arrangement is agreed upon shortly, in regards to furnishing transportation for athletes who live in Pomfret, Eastford and other communities outside the city, Putnam high school will stand a chance of losing some of its best champions. The out of town athletes at the present are forced to provide their own means of transportation to their homes if they remain after school house in order to take part in daily practice workouts. The town school committee of Pomfret in a letter to officials of the local high school asert that they have been empowered to defray one-half of the additional expense that would be entailed, providing the athletic association of the school will pay for the other half. Action is to be taken on the matter at a meeting of the association in the near future.

Dr. Minor C. Baldwin, an internationally known organist and music master, appeared last evening at the Congregational church in a specially arranged programme that delighted a capacity audience, many of whom came from distant places to hear his recital. Dr. Baldwin was introduced by Kenneth C. Sharpe, organist at the church. Of the number of selections played, were two of his own compositions "Reverie" and "Evening," scores which occupy prominent positions in the music world.

It is anticipated that about 300 Putnam boys will witness the Brown-New Hampshire football game, to be played Saturday in Providence. The opportunity of witnessing the college grid classic has been made possible through a courtesy extended to the Windham county Y. M. C. A. by the Brown university athletic council.

James J. Charron of Main street has completed the work of enumerating the students of the town who are between 4 and 14 years of age. Mr. Charron has tendered his report to M. H. Geissler, clerk of the school board who is to make the tabulation. Mr. Geissler said today that several days will be required before a figure of the number of children between the given ages can be obtained. The state reimburses the town $2.25 for each child for educational purposes.

Alderman Edmund Dubois, who has been ill for nearly two months, is still confined to his bed at his home on Walnut street. His condition has improved somewhat during the past week.

ROCKVILLE, R. I.

Elmer E. Kenyon, Mr. and Mrs. Byron L. Kenyon and Mrs. Ida Mylod, figured in an automobile accident on Saturday in Wakefield when both cars were overturned in a collision with a truck belonging to the South County Public Service company. The occupants of the car were all shaken and somewhat bruised and lamed, but it is hoped now that none of the injuries will prove serious.

Parkhurst-Charnley.

Thursday evening, Nov. 14, at the home of the bride's father, George F. Charnley, his oldest daughter, Miss Elsie P. Charnley was united in marriage with George E. Parkhurst. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Willard D. Burdick of Rockville.

Mr. and Mrs. John Eldred of Wakefield were recent callers at J. F. Palmer's.

Mrs. Annie B. Kenyon visited her sister, Miss Ella F. Barber at Woody Hill, Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Bowen Andrews called on John Tanner at Escoheag, Saturday.

District Deputy's Visit

District Deputy Morris B. Payne of New London made an official visit to Mt. Vernon lodge No. 75, A. F. and A. M. at a stated communication held in the lodge rooms Tuesday evening. A large company of the craft was present who with the visiting official joined in complimenting the work of the evening, which was in the Fellow Craft degree. The deputy expressed especial admiration of the feat of memory by Worshipful Harold R. Field. Without error or hesitation Bro. Field gave the second and third lectures of the E. A. degree, which in measure would equal two columns of The Bulletin.

At the Franco-American society's whist, Wednesday evening there were 20 tables, this being the first in the series. The prize winners were Yvonne Sylvestre and Adelard Bryant, Rena Bachand and Louis Beaulieu, Blanche Couture and Raoul Moreau. The committee included Mrs. Joseph Dumont, Mrs. Albina Brisson and Charles Maynard.

Have your eyes examined by Dr. C. A. Spear, optometrist, hours 7 to 9, every Friday evening, Anthony Bldg.—adv.

In Lisbon, there are 1200 broilers at Wild Acres farm, River road, owned by Fred L. Kanahan. They are purely some corn shooters, and should be ready for the iron or the plank early in 1930. The Wild Acres yards are off the main road, with coons all facing toward the south, conditions being ideal for the business Mr. Kanahan is putting over.

The Red Cross roll call is not a drive for contributions, but for membership fees of one dollar. Contributions do not help the quota assigned any chapter, which is the goal to be reached, if possible, in this campaign. Contributions of any sum cannot be used for memberships. Half of the membership fee is kept in the local treasury, and half sent to headquarters in Washington for relief in any disaster. Every person paying the membership fee should be given a receipt. Red Cross button and also a window flag for the house. Every membership card should be returned to the local roll call chairman by the canvassers. An incorrect statement is, that one dollar membership answers for a whole family, or husband and wife. The membership fee of one dollar counts for one person, only. There are many families in this local chapter in which there have been from two to ten members.

FUNERAL

Mrs. Lois Anna Lewis

The funeral of Mrs. Lois Anna Lewis, widow of Horace H. Olin was held at her home on East Main street, Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. F. E. Scates conducted the services during which he read a poem, Sunset of Life, composed by Mrs. Olin's daughter, for her mother. He spoke of Mrs. Olin's life in her family which leaves such memories to comfort her children. Burial was in the family lot in Jewett City cemetery. The bearers were William Noves and Willis Hill, of Norwich, W. P. Lewis, Plainfield and W. H. Payne of Jewett City. The flowers were in great profusion for Mrs. Olin and her family are much respected and beloved by a wide circle of friends. Relatives and friends were present from Pawtucket and Greenwood, R. I., Thompson, Waterbury, Naugatuck, Willimantic, Montville, Central Village, Plainfield, Norwich, Lebanon, Pachaug and Jewett City. Funeral Director E. E. Gilbert was in charge of the arrangements.

A whist was held in Pachaug grange hall Tuesday evening under the auspices of the grange. The prizes went to Mrs. Edna Simeneau, Helen Weaver, Mrs. Jane Lester and the consolation to Mrs. Lena Chesbro. Men's first to George Frink, second to Chester Geer, third to Robert Bitgood and consolation to Herbert Salisbury. Refreshments were served.

At the regular meeting of Ruthie Rebecca lodge two candidates were initiated. After the business session a covered dish supper was served.

REGISTERING THE AUTOS

There are less than six weeks to the first of the year. If you are going to keep your car in commission throughout the winter it is getting time to think about getting your application in for a new registration. Some have already done so in order to retain the numbers which they have had for years and which, to their friends, they are identified by, but there is a very much larger number who haven't given the matter a thought.

There is still need for the establishment of branch offices of the motor vehicle department in every city of the state for the convenience of the auto owners of this commonwealth, so that all would have the opportunity to look after this detail in the same manner that is now permitted to a few favored cities. There is no excuse for making auto owners go to these branch offices, sometimes located far from the centers of population in the district which they are supposed to serve, and there stand in line for hours because of the congestion, when a more general distribution of such offices would end the discrimination and unfairness.

After a long time the department has seen fit to abandon the practice of demanding that those who mail their applications to the main office at Hartford must go before a notary public and swear to their statements. This should operate to encourage a greater use of the mail in securing registrations. It permits those in all parts of the state to forward their applications and checks and receive their licenses and markers for the coming year without standing in line in the cold or storms and it should result in a much larger business being done in the central office.

How it works out will depend upon how early the applications are gotten in and the number that is employed to take care of them. There is, and there probably always will be, that large 11th-hour rush which comes from procrastination. Whether this can be satisfactorily taken care of at the central office so that all can use their cars the first day of the year is open to proof. It doubtless can be if the applications are made early enough. That if is a big one which it is believed would be greatly decreased if every city in the state had its branch office to encourage early registration.

SAFER FLYING

Aviation has undergone great development and there is still great opportunity for it to progress. It was not many years ago that those who put their faith in their ability to fly were laughed at, but you hear nothing of the kind today. Flying has long been an accomplished fact.

But while it has been successfully demonstrated that flying is possible, and much of it is done every day, there is still an opportunity for greater safety and the quest for that must continue. Progress is being made in that direction so that it does not pay to declare that the various ideas that are advanced will amount to nothing. It is far better to give those which appear to have merit a test and use them as a stepping stone to something better. That was the course of the early fliers and it will be the path by which safety in flying will be attained.

In this connection attention cannot fail to be given to the safety contest for aircraft. There is an unusual type of aircraft that is put forward by Juan de la Cierva, a machine which he claims "can fly both fast and slowly with equal safety, and that is as safe at 50 feet above the earth as at 5,000."

If it can be demonstrated that enthusiasm has not run away with his statements here is something desirable. It is claimed that it will land slowly and safely, the forward flight being stopped, but it is sustained by the motion of the revolving wings, and that it flies as smoothly and maneuvers more easily than the ordinary plane.

The proof of the pudding lies in the eating. The doubting Thomases will want their demonstration and they are certainly entitled to it. It would be folly, however, to condemn a machine without it. The inventor has made an excellent impression wherever his machine has been exhibited and what gives greater assurance in behalf of safety deserves the heartiest encouragement. If he hasn't solved all the problems that have been encountered in endeavoring to get greater safety it will mean much if he has worked out ideas which will lead to that goal.

BOSTON'S VOTING CONTEST

It was over two weeks ago that Boston had a city election in which the result was sufficiently definite to leave no doubt as to the winners. The victory was in no way so close that it could be thought there was any chance of an upset due to errors or trickery, and yet there were claims in regard to irregularities and in order to clear up any doubt about it Boston has been engaged in a recount that is not yet ended.

There have been no revelations to support the claims. Those who backed the recount have long since thrown up their hands, but it has been started and it is going to be completed.

The chief disclosure that has been made is that errors were made in the counting, votes that should have been given to one candidate were credited to the other and gains in one precinct have been offset by losses in another. It is a disclosure that is common wherever ballots are used and human counters are engaged in trying to ascertain as quickly as possible the result of the balloting.

Boston is going to find out, this week or next, how the electors of that city voted on the fifth of November, and probably that the successful candidate for mayor actually received a larger number of votes than he was credited with that night, and his chief opponent less, contrary to the expectations when the recount was sought.

But that is not peculiar to the last election; it is liable to happen at any election. It is one of those situations which serves to demonstrate the value of the voting machine which gives an accurate count just as soon as the voting is over, which actually counts the vote as it is cast, not as some counters think it ought to be counted or think it should be thrown out, which permits of complete secrecy and which overcomes the need for a prolonged recount.

It would even send home the importance of such a facility more emphatically if a contest by ballots should be so close that a recount would cause a reversal of the declared results, but the point stands out clearly whatever the outcome, that the mechanical device for voting eliminates that great element of uncertainty as well as reducing the expense.

THE HOOVER CONFERENCES

Indications point quite clearly to the fact that President Hoover will get desired results from the conferences which he has called in Washington this week.

He has gone at the problem in a practical way. He has called in the leaders, the captains of industry, the guiding forces in big undertakings and organizations and he is setting before them the facts, which he knows and which they may know, and is asking for their cooperation in guarding against the development of unwarranted conditions.

It is probably unnecessary to tell these leaders that conditions are fundamentally sound. They understand the situation but it means much to have the nation's leader set before them the fact that there is a responsibility resting upon them to do a most valuable preventive work. It is all well enough to think and say what might be done, but the important thing is to see that it is done. This is what the president is aiming at through his conferences.

It has been demonstrated that the government is determined to do its part through the reduction of federal taxes. It has been further indicated that the treasury department is to see an extension of its building programme and it is possible for the railroads, the manufacturers and others to see that building activities are not interrupted for baseless reasons. It is a time for an honest appraisal of conditions rather than the creation of needless conditions because extensive speculation has broken down the stock market.

Handicaps which have stood in the way of construction have been relieved or removed and it is through constructiona long various lines that there can be a stimulation at this time to private enterprise. The encouragement which he has received from the railroad presidents and others with whom he has been in conference indicates clearly the hearty endorsement of his idea and the willingness to cooperate.

BIG SUBMARINES

Submarines continue to be launched by the leading nations. The latest is that by France, an underwater boat with a tonnage of 2,253, which from size and equipment should take its place at the head of the procession. It is supposed to be the last word in such construction and gives further support to the belief that there is no limit to the size of such craft unless there is an international limitation.

France is probably the strongest advocate of submarines. It was the country that stood in the way of including submarines in the Washington agreement and it has indicated its opposition to any plan of elimination whenever it has been advocated. France regards this type of vessel as necessary for its defense. It gives weighty consideration to the fact that it is much less expensive than the battleship and many of the subs might be obtained for the same outlay that would go with a battleship.

Because France takes this view, Italy is sure to require subs for its navy and Japan is partial to them.

From the stand which is taken by these nations it seems improbable that any such thing as the banning of submarines at the present time can be accomplished. Probably it will not be attempted, but there is an opportunity, and a good one, for the placing of restrictions on the size of submarines and possibly the number. Such a step would mean a gradual approach to something better and give the countries which cling to them a chance to see what advantage lies in restriction, or possible abandonment, of this type of war craft. There can be no doubt but what the existing naval pact and the good results obtained from it have made easier the arranging of the coming conference.

A CLEAR CONSCIENCE

Dorothy Ann sat at a table exclusively apart from the others in an equally exclusive little restaurant in the loop. She was alone, though opposite her were all the signs of a second person's luncheon. Dorothy Ann sat nibbling sugar wafers and tasting of little dabs of pink ice cream which she daintily held at the tip end of her spoon. She sat watching the door through which Dick Harkness had disappeared a few minutes before. While she was eating the ice cream and nibbling the wafers she was thinking.

She thought of her mother in Florida, recuperating after her operation. Mother had given her some explicit instructions before her departure. She had worried so about Dorothy Ann's father.

"Now don't forget your daddy," she had begged of her daughter. "Remember, this is the first time we have ever been separated and he is going to miss me terribly. Promise me, honey, that you'll try to be a pal to him." And Dorothy Ann had promised. She was thinking, too, of her father.

"Daddy must miss mother a lot," she was sighing. "He seems to be so discontented. He wants to go out every night. If it's not to the opera, it's to a dance, and if not to a dance, to the theatre. The worst of it is he can't seem to go without me. He doesn't dance, either, just sits and watches the rest of us. As for the theatre, I have to wake him up between the acts so the people around us will know that he's still conscious.

"I suppose home reminds him of mother and he's trying to escape that lonesome feeling. I promised mother I would be a pal to him. But I do wish Dick and I could have one evening all to ourselves!"

As Dorothy Ann sat nibbling wafers and watching the door expectantly, Dick reappeared. He was bubbling over with good news.

"It's all right Dorothy Ann!" She gazed at him questioningly.

"What's all right?" she demanded.

"Why, I just called up your dad," he confessed much as a child boasts of a misdemeanor. Dorothy Ann gasped in dismay.

"Called up dad? What for?"

"To let him know you couldn't get home until late." And then, as though fearing an interruption, as he noted the frown puckering Dorothy Ann's forehead, he hurried on "I called him up at the office. I told him that you had just met an old friend (and you have), that you would be unavoidably detained (and you will), that you couldn't make a train home until about midnight, but that your friend would see you home safely (and he will, you bet!) Your dad said, 'Who is this old friend? Is it Dick Harkness?' And I said, 'Man, you're a genius!' So he said, 'All right!' and hung up the receiver."

But Dorothy Ann's conscience failed to respond wholeheartedly although her heart was giving little leaps of pleasure.

"Poor dad!" she exclaimed. "you shouldn't have done it. He's just pining away, he's so lonesome for mother! But as long as you've done the mischief, I suppose we'll have to let the matter stand as it is. What shall we do tonight?"

"I think," Dick announced, "that we'll take in a show. In a movie you can always find a place to park, without a light!"

Dorothy Ann's father ate his supper downtown and then hurried home. He first went to his room and removed his shoes. His toes wriggled delightedly. He found his soft felt slippers and put one foot at a time into their warm softness. "Ah!" He reached for his bathrobe and felt the sensuous comfort of its folds.

He sought his favorite magazine, his favorite lamp, his favorite chair—and then he pulled from the pocket of his robe, his old black pipe and his tobacco bag. He lighted his pipe and sank down into the comfortable depths of his chair, stretching out languorously as he did so.

"A whole evening!" he sighed, "to myself! And the beauty of it is, I can enjoy it with a clear conscience. Goodness knows, I've been doing my best to be a pal to Dorothy Ann!"—Exchange.

Why Teeth Decay.

By G. J. Warnshius, M. D.
Milwaukee.
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

According to competent observers ninety per cent. of children show evidence of dental decay. A sound set of teeth in an adult is becoming more and more a rarity. The fact that this condition is increasingly prevalent in an age when tooth brushes are a part of everyone's daily life and magazines derive no small part of their income from tooth paste advertisements is convincing evidence that some other element than direction infection is responsible.

Many observations in practical experience indicate that the state of nutrition has much to do with the ability of the teeth to resist decay. Often we have seen, for example, children whose teeth were of poor quality and brittle before puberty show a decided improvement in this respect with the change in their physical characteristics as they mature. This is often noticeable in the fact that decay becomes arrested regardless of treatment, even in teeth which have developed cavities.

On the other hand, teeth will frequently continue to crumble and fillings become loose in individuals where the underlying nutritional disturbance has not been corrected.

The old saying, "For every child a tooth" is an example of the loss of lime in the teeth, under conditions such as pregnancy when heavy demands are made on the lime resources of the body. The same thing holds true in many ailments of a wasting nature.

Granted that the state of general nutrition has an important influence on the condition of the teeth, what is the essential requirement in nutrition to preserve the teeth?

The discovery in recent years of the role played by vitamines, has changed the older conceptions of diet. The vitamin D found in certain oils, particularly cod liver oil, has been shown to be absolutely essential to the fixation of calcium in the bones and its retention in the body.

The modern raising and manufacture of food stuffs, unfortunately has resulted in placing practically all of the country's population on a dietary in which these elements are largely lacking except for a few months during the year. This is because the animal or plant from which the food is derived must have been subjected to the action of the shorter ultra-violet rays of the sun if the foods are to have any vitamin activity. Intensive barn lot feeding of cows, raising of foods under glass, harvesting them unripened, all these are practices to which we can attribute the ravages of dental decay and the complications resulting from dental abscesses and pyorrhea.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20—In his suggestion for free seas for food ships in war time, President Hoover has put up a trail balloon certain to promote an informal international talkfest.

As presented by the president, however, it can only be a newspaper and magazine exchange of views. He was careful to label it not a governmental proposition. There is no call for any British statesman to answer unless he feels so inclined.

This method of launching an idea is rather new. As a matter of procedure alone, the results are going to be interesting. Presidents and secretaries of state usually are so very chary of giving out ideas and suggestions, until there has been a deal of preliminary sounding out in a diplomatic way, that the new Hoover precedent conceivably can start something of great importance.

Mr. Hughes' Idea.

Back when the reparations row was at its height in Europe and the United States, not being a claimant of reparations, was standing strictly aloof from the political discussions among the allies, Secretary Hughes became seized of an idea.

It was that a committee of international financial experts, including Americans as private business, not government, representatives, undertake to find a solution.

So Mr. Hughes made a speech at New Haven one day about other matters and included an off-hand suggestion about the reparations tangle. At least, it sounded sort of off-handed. But was it?

Decidedly not for Mr. Hughes had been doing all sorts of private conferring with Washington diplomats in advance. The ground into which he dropped the seed that blossomed into the Dawes committee of bankers had been thoroughly plowed, fertilized and worked over. Mr. Hughes had good reason to know what the outcome would be.

It so happened that The Associated Press got at least an edge of the story up before Mr. Hughes was quite ready to shoot.

Bankers on both sides of the Atlantic seemed to know what was coming. And Mr. Hughes was filled with wrath and denials over premature publication. As AP man at the state department, the Bystander bore the brunt of his indignation.

Supposing.

Now, is it to be supposed that President Hoover put forward his food ship exemption idea without any preliminary diplomatic inquiry as to its practicability?

Or might it be that during Hoover-Macdonald conferences, seated on a log at the Virginia fishing camp, or during the Hoover talks with Ambassador Dawes in Washington just before Armistice day, some flicker of foreknowledge as to what the results might be was available?

There are other matters in Mr. Hoover's first Armistice day speech, however, which must fall like balm on the ears of army and navy folks these days.

"I have no faith in reduction of armaments by example alone," the president said.

Or again:

"I am for adequate preparedness as a guarantee that no foreign soldier ever shall step upon the soil of our country."

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Bowser Finds Flip's Lost Prize.

By Thornton W. Burgess.

Be not too sure until you know
That thus is thus and so is so.
—Unc' Billy Possum.

"What are you grinning at?" demanded Flip sharply.

Bowser the Hound grinned more broadly than ever. "So you think," said he, "that some one has carried away that rat."

"I don't think anything about it," retorted Flip sharply, "I know. I killed him and left him here, and now he's gone. That ought to be proof enough for anybody."

Bowser grinned again. "You follow me," said he.

"Where are you going?" demanded Flip.

"Never mind where I'm going; you follow me," replied Bowser, and started off with that wonderful nose of his to the ground. His tail was wagging and he kept sniffing and sniffing. Flip put his nose to the ground and sniffed also. He smelled the same scent that he had smelled when he sniffed at that big rat he had killed; but he got it only faintly and it didn't mean anything to him. Flip doesn't have such a wonderful nose as Bowser the Hound. Straight over toward the old stone wall Bowser led the way, with Flip right at his heels. Bowser climbed over the old stone wall and went straight over to the nearest apple tree. Then he began to sniff at the trunk of the apple tree. "I thought as much," said he, and looked up. "There's your big rat 'way up there," said Bowser. "Look up there at that crotch in the tree."

"What are you grinning at?" demanded Flip sharply.

Of course, Flip looked up. Then he rubbed his eyes and looked again. There in the crotch of that tree sat Unc' Billy Possum, grinning down at him. Flip became excited. "That's another one of those big rats!" he barked. "There must have been two of them."

"No," said Bowser, grinning more broadly than before. "It is the same one."

"No such thing!" barked Flip. "I tell you I killed the other one! I killed him and dragged him clear around the henhouse. This must be his mate."

"And I tell you," replied Bowser, "that it is the same one. By the way, that fellow isn't a rat at all."

"If he isn't a rat, what is he?" demanded Flip.

"That is Unc' Billy Possum," replied Bowser. "And Unc' Billy has just been fooling you. It was Unc' Billy you caught and this is Unc' Billy up here in the tree. You didn't kill him at all. I doubt if you even hurt him."

"But I tell you he was dead!" barked Flip. "I guess I ought to know!"

"And I tell you, he wasn't dead!" retorted Bowser. "Unc' Billy was only pretending to be dead. He fooled me that same way once when I was much younger. Unc' Billy would feel insulted if he knew that you call him a rat. He isn't even related to the rats. He saw he couldn't escape from you in any other way, so he played dead. And then you went off and left him. He is a clever fellow, is Unc' Billy Possum. He has fooled many people that way so you needn't feel bad about it. He is full of tricks, is Unc' Billy Possum. And this trick of pretending to be dead is the best one he has. He even fooled Farmer Brown's Boy with it once."

Flip looked up at Unc' Billy and Unc' Billy drew back his lips in a most provoking kind of grin. It was more than Flip could stand. He once more began to bark.

Needless Pain!

Nowadays, people take Bayer Aspirin for many little aches and pains, and as often as they encounter any pain.

Why not? It is a proven anodyne for pain. It works!

And Bayer Aspirin tablets are utterly harmless. You have the medical profession's word for that; they do not depress the heart.

So, don't let a cold "run its course." Don't wait for a headache to "wear off." Or regard neuralgia, neuritis, or even rheumatism as something you must endure. Only a physician can cope with the cause of such pain, but you can always turn to Bayer Aspirin for relief.

Bayer Aspirin is always available, and it always helps. Familiarize yourself with its many uses, and avoid a lot of needless suffering.

GIRLS' FRIENDLY SOCIETY GAVE CLEVER PLAY

The play, "The Rainbow Kimona," was presented with great success by members of the Girls' Friendly society of Christ Episcopal church, Rev. Thomas Richey, rector, at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening in the church social rooms before a good sized gathering. The various parts were finely portrayed by the cast, who received unstinted applause from a pleased audience. The setting in the study room of Miss Penelope Wright's collegiate school for young girls at Clairmont-on-the-Hudson, was effectively arranged with pictures, banners and vari-hued crepe paper.

The cast comprised: Nellie Van-Tassel, the president of the Rainbow Kimona society, Miss May Vallin; Ruth Ashton, vice president, Mrs. Josephine Goodrow; Alice Marion, the treasurer, Miss Frances McIntosh; Isabel Supro, the secretary, Mrs. Arthur Berberick; Beatrice Courtney, the class poet, Mrs. Alfred Berberick; Olive Mercer, president of the basketball team, Mrs. Otto Berberick; Winifred Turner, student, Mrs. Charles Kenneth; Edith Jones, the new senior, Miss Mary Southouse; Rose Jackson, Miss Penelope's little colored girl, Miss Enid Senser.

The arrangements for the affair were in charge of Mrs. James Southouse, who was assisted by Mrs. Fred Leffingwell. Candy was sold by Mrs. Lawrence Hamilton and Mrs. Thomas Richey.

The society is indebted to Porteous and Mitchell Co. for the feather dusters and brooms used in the play.

OBITUARY
William Ince

William Ince, 87, long a resident of this city, died Tuesday morning at his home, No. 29 Winchester street, after a long illness. He suffered a stroke three and a half years ago and had been in failing health since.

Mr. Ince was a native of Manchester, England, and was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Ince. In 1862 he was united in marriage with Sarah Spencer and shortly after their marriage they came to this country. Mr. Ince was an expert metal heater and for ten years was employed at the Mitchell rolling mills in Thamesville.

Then he took up farming and Mr. and Mrs. Ince removed from Thamesville to Taftville, where he conducted a farm for years. Their farm home was turned in 1910 and they then moved to the city, having since made their home here. Mr. Ince was a member of the Holiness Mission and was highly respected by his numerous friends and acquaintances for his sterling traits of character. He was a loving husband and was always greatly interested in his home. During his long illness he was a patient sufferer and was given constant care by his wife who survives him.

Walter Anuskewicz

Following a short illness, Walter Anuszewicz, 55, died Wednesday morning about 12:20 o'clock at his home, No. 16 Mountain avenue. He was born in Poland and for the last 28 years had made his home in this country. He was married in Poland and is survived by his wife, two sons, Stanley and Peter Anuszewicz, and three daughters, Misses Gladys, Josephine and Stella Anuszewicz, all of this city. There are also a sister, Mrs. Constance Dombrowski of this city and a brother in Detroit, Mich. Mr. Anuszewicz was a member of St. Joseph's parish and had many friends in this city.

SNOW BUNTINGS SEEN WITH HORNED LARK FLOCK

A number of Norwich bird students who went to Preston Plains Wednesday to get a glimpse of the flock of perhaps a hundred horned larks were astonished to identify snow buntings among them. The buntings, or snowflakes, are northern birds which have been pleased to tarry here unexpectedly on their southern migration.

The horned larks have been for some time in the potato field near the Shedd farm. Visitors from New London and other points have motored up to inspect the larks and there has been keen interest in their visit to this point suburban to Norwich.

Arrest On Liquor Charge.

Nicholas Panagiotis, Greek, of North Thames street, was arrested late Wednesday afternoon on a charge of violation of the liquor law. The arrest was made by Officers Lamphere and Henry Fenton. The accused will be presented in the city court this (Thursday) morning.

GRACE CHURCH SALE AND SUPPER PROVE A SUCCESS

The Christmas sale and chicken pie supper at the parish house of Grace Episcopal church, Yantic, drew a large patronage Wednesday. The rooms were attractive in decorations of green and scarlet, with sprigs of pine, Christmas bells and red candles. Mrs. William H. Palmer was chairman of the sale, having the assistance of Mrs. Albert Lewis and Mrs. E. May Lynes. Mrs. Herbert M. Booth was cashier. Mrs. Grace H. Manning assisted at the table where useful and fancy articles were sold.

The twenty or more members of the Girls' Friendly society sold delicious home-made candy in dainty boxes, this table being in charge of Miss Estella Kilroy, aided by Mrs. Leslie Harkness.

Mrs. C. E. Carpenter had general supervision of the dining room and tables, Mrs. Edward Smith having charge of the supper of chicken pie, mashed potato, carrots and peas, celery, jellies, rolls, a variety of pies, tea and coffee. The waitresses were Misses Florence Congdon, Inez and Lila Smith and Anita Armstrong.

Mrs. Robert H. Parkes, wife of the rector of Grace church, rendered valuable aid in the different department during the sale and supper.

BRAND WINS SECOND LEG IN SHOOT FOR RIFLE

At the weekly shoot of the Norwich Rifle club conducted Wednesday evening at the armory on McKinley avenue, Allyn M. Brand was high man with 299 points, with ten men competing. The man winning three matches, this being the third, will obtain possession of the prize, a .22-calibre Springfield rifle. Mr. Brand has won two legs and A. L. Stebbins one.

In the first match Stebbins and Carl Brend were tied for high score, requiring a shoot-off, which was taken by the former. There was also a tie in the second shoot, Brand and Pierce making the same score. In the shoot-off Pierce was defeated.

The scores made Wednesday night were as follows, with handicaps:

Name	OH.	Kn.	Sl.	Pr.	Ttl.
A. M. Brand	81	45	48	97	299
N. C. Pierce	74	44	46	89	296

The handicaps are as follows: Brand 30, Pierce 43, Stebbins 28, Holms 40, Lucia 30, White 50, Racicot 85, Kudlik 80, Brend 75, and French 75.

There will be an outdoor shoot at the Jewett City range the coming Sunday if enough members can be present.

MADE SHOOTING THREATS AGAINST FIRST SELECTMAN

Because it is claimed he threatened to shoot First Selectman William S. Murray and Julian Wojtkowski, undertaker, the police arrested Michael Morris, 42, of 58 Mt. Pleasant street about 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon on a breach of the peace charge.

Morris appeared at the undertaker's place at 40 Boswell avenue Wednesday afternoon and told Wojtkowski he meant to shoot him and the first selectman. After Morris left the place Wojtkowski telephoned to police headquarters and Motor Patrolman Clifford Crary found Morris near the Sospen avenue park and took him to police headquarters. When searched the man was found to have a toy pistol in his pocket.

It is understood that Morris had recently been released from the Norwich State hospital and that he bought a revolver Tuesday at a Norwich hardware store. He claimed that he had found the toy pistol which he had and denied having bought a revolver.

14-QUART PEACH BASKET IS NOW AN OUTLAW
(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Nov. 20—Despite the fact that the 14 quart peach basket has been an illegal container since November 1, there appears to be some doubt among the dealers and farmers of Connecticut as to the meaning of the law, according to Dr. E. A. Perregaux, marketing specialist at the Connecticut Agricultural college. The ruling made by the bureau of agricultural economics affecting the legality of the 14-quart basket definitely states that the use of this container is now contrary to law.

In view of the fact that one of the eastern states has made a ruling that the basket can still be used by marking the weight of the contents on the package, it is interesting to note the opinion of the bureau on the question, Dr. Perregaux commented. According to a release from the bureau, the standard container act of 1928 is a weights and measures law and is effective in intrastate as well as interstate commerce. It supercedes any state law in conflict with it. Any illegal containers made, sold, offered for sale or shipped are liable to seizure and condemnation. Non-standard hampers and baskets, among which are the 10-quart, 14-quart, and 7-8 bushel sizes, may not be used for fruits or vegetables since the law went into effect on November 1.

SPEAKS TO ROTARIANS ON VETERAN RELIEF

Niels I. Poulsen of Ansonia, state vice-commander, American Legion, was the speaker at the weekly meeting of the Norwich Rotary club on Wednesday noon. Mr. Poulsen, who has been connected with the United States Veterans' bureau and the American Red Cross and other kindred organizations, told the Rotarians what the American Legion is endeavoring to do for the veterans of the World war. He dealt at length with the hospitalization needs and the employment of veterans. He spoke in part as follows:

The American Legion for the last ten years has been the greatest insurance policy in the country. Its organization gave the American veteran of the last war an outlet for his activities as well as a means of expression of his opinions. By its size and cohesion it has come to be looked upon as the mouthpiece by which these ideas may be expressed and the country at large has learned to respect its utterances just as the ex-service man has learned that only through the proper channels may these utterances be promulgated in order to gain attention and respect.

Certainly, though, the Legion's real role has not been that of a megaphone—if only for the work that it has done in the rehabilitation of the disabled it has justified its existence. All the laws now on the books of the country were put there by the Legion or under its head. The very organization which administers these laws—the Veterans' bureau—was conceived by the Legion and formed because of its recommendations. Thanks to the Legion's rehabilitation service thousands of men are now receiving compensation who would otherwise be dead or charges upon their communities. This work is not finished. There are today over 5,500 men afflicted with mental ailments because of their service who are entitled to government hospitalization under the law but are not getting it because there are not enough beds for them. The Legion is going to demand at the next session of congress that these hospital beds be supplied before these men, who are now in all sorts of places from insane asylums to jails, become incurable or die.

The child welfare program of the Legion is another of its activities that deserves comment. The administration of the $5,000,000 endowment which was given by the public in 1925 has not only resulted in benefits to the orphans of the men who were in service but also to all the children of the country, through the increased interest in the welfare of the child generally by the Legion and the Legion auxiliary and the welfare legislation that has already resulted or is under way.

The community service program, by which every one of the 10,500 posts tries to improve its own community, has resulted in a tremendous amount of activity and accomplishment and has again resulted in turning the ex-service man's interest to using his power and organized strength for good instead of profit.

The discipline learned when in uniform has not been forgotten by the formation of emergency units every post stands ready to serve when needed and is organized to act and to act quickly when called upon.

Last, but by no means least, the Legion has been and will always be intensely patriotic and nationalistic. It has and will be the rallying point for the combatting of all subversive movements and any other agencies which seek to undermine and overthrow our form of government. The men and women of the Legion fought for this country 11 years ago and will continue to do so as long as they last. The Legion is of the opinion that no apologies are necessary for the United States and that to be a good citizen is the highest accomplishment of any man.

President Frank R. Murdy presided at the business session of the club and William G. Park and Joseph C. Worth were the song leaders. There was a brief report by President Murdy on the attendance of the club during the past month. Dr. Hugh B. Campbell, in charge of the program for the month of November, announced that the boys' work committee would have charge of the meeting next week.

The meeting closed with the singing of The Star Spangled Banner.

ACADEMY HAS SLIGHTLY BETTER SEASON RECORD THAN HAS BULKELEY TEAM

The Academy will have the best season's record going into its annual gridiron clash with Bulkeley Saturday at Mercer field, New London. Although neither record is impressive, the Academy has a good shade over their Orange and Black rivals.

The Wildcats have won two games, lost five and tied one while the Whalers have yet to win a game, have lost five and tied three, two of them scoreless affairs.

The points against, as might be expected, heavily outweighs the points for on the records of both elevens, with the Academy having the better of each side of figures by a slight margin. The Wildcats have scored 44 points in their eight games against 84 for the opposition while Bulkeley's warriors, also in eight tilts, have made 25 points against 72.

The tie with New Britain, 12 to 12, is the high light of the Academy season, although the two victories over Chapman Tech and Stonington have given the Wildcats a fighting chance for a second place tie in the conference standing. In the game against New Britain, played here in mid-October, the Red and Whitesters were an inspired crew, battling a much heavier and more experienced eleven to a standstill.

Bulkeley's most impressive showing was made last Saturday against its city rival, Chapman Tech, when the Tigers held the favored Conwaymen to a no-score draw. In fact, many who have seen that game have ventured the opinion that Bulkeley was as good as anything seen around here this season. If they can play another game like that this coming week end, it will mean trouble for Norwich.

Both Bulkeley and the Academy have failed to score in four games while Bulkeley has held its opponents without a score in two games and the Academy has done it once. Each team has played a schedule of about equal proportions.

The records follow:

N. F. A.

N. F. A. 14, Chapman Tech 2.
N. F. A. 0, Bulkeley (Hartford) 13

CHURCH LEAGUE OPENS SEASON ON DEC. 2ND

A gala night will be in store for Norwich basketball fans when the Norwich Church league opens on Monday, Dec. 2 at 8 p. m. when the Gamma team, last year's champions, will fight it out with the Central Baptist church for the first game of the 1929-'30 season. The second game will feature a reorganized Trinity Methodist team, with "Newt" Conkin as coach, which will attempt to take a fall out of Baltic, last year's runner up.

At a meeting of the league's council Tuesday night at the Y, it was announced that each team must hand in a list of not more than 12 players to the physical director before Thursday, Nov. 28, and that all players must have a Y membership, with full privileges, before the first night of play or be barred from playing.

Church attendance rules are the same as last year, namely, some form of church attendance for 3 out of four Sundays in a month. List of eligible players, signed by some church official, are to be handed in before each game.

The following teams are contestants in the league:

Gamma Club of the Greek church,
Brother's of Joseph,
Trinity Methodist,
Central Baptist,
Baltic Methodist,
Phi Delta Nu of the United Congregational church,
Jewett City.

The Jewett City team is a new entry in the league, and with a good array of material, intend to make it hot for the others and put a good bid in for league championship.

The Goal club of the Norwich Town Congregational church is the possibility for the eighth team in the league.

YALE HOLDS TWO-HOUR SECRET PRACTICE SESSION

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 20—(AP)—Secrecy surrounded the two hour practice held today by the Yale varsity football team.

Albie Booth was in uniform, and took part in a forward passing drill and tried a few dropkicks, but that was the extent of his participation in the preparation for the Harvard game Saturday. The limp, occasioned by a severe "charley horse," was less pronounced.

Head Coach Mal Stevens said he was "uncertain" if Booth, who has had little work since he was injured in the Maryland game, would play against the Crimson. The flashy 144 pound quarterback has not been through even a signal practice in a week's time.

Chick McLennan was at quarter again today and seems to be Stevens' choice for the post in the final game. Bob Hall has not been used in two days, and Bob Wilson the other regular quarterback, was on the second team today.

While the linesmen were engaged in live tackling, the backs and ends went through a long forward passing drill. Later the first two teams lined up against the scrubs who tried Harvard forward and lateral passes with little or no success, it was said.

Taking the offensive, the varsity scored a touchdown on the scrubs in a supervised scrimmage. Signal practice topped off the day's work.

The first team lined up exactly as it did yesterday with Snead, Miller and Dunn in the backfield with McLennan.

MISSISSIPPI COLLEGE WINS FROM UNIV. OF MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 20—(AP)—Mississippi college defeated the University of Mexico today in the second game of intercollegiate football ever played in Mexico. The score was 28 to 6. The game was a part of the dedication ceremony of the Workers Athletic field at Valbuena. The Mexican team lost its first game to Louisiana college, 59 to 0, on October 5.

Mississippi college smashed over three touchdowns in the first quarter for a 21 to 0 lead. Mexico found itself after this period and held the American team scoreless until late in the final period when Mississippi managed to put over a fourth score.

The final touchdown was followed by a desperate advance by the Mexican players which nearly carried them to their first touchdown in the history of Mexican football before the game ended. When the final whistle blew, Mexico had the ball on the Mississippi college ten yard line after a long march.

FUCHS AWARDED $3,000 IN $139,000 LAW SUIT

NEW YORK, Nov. 20—(AP)—Madison Square Garden lost out today in the first of three suits now in the courts involving the leading characters in Jack Dempsey's famous last stand as heavyweight champion.

Richard Fuchs, secretary to John Ringling, circus man, won an award of $3,000 from a jury in state supreme court in his suit to recover $139,000 alleged due him as commission for arranging Dempsey's battle with Gene Tunney in the Sesquicentennial stadium at Philadelphia in 1926.

In congratulating the jury on its award, Justice John Ford declared he relieved the late Tex Rickard, who commissioned Fuchs to arrange the preliminary details of the fight, would consider $3,000 a fair compensation for Fuchs if he were alive today. Justice Ford denied a motion to set aside the verdict as inadequate.

Two other actions now are pending in New York courts relating to that match and both name Gene Tunney the defendant. One was brought by Max "Boo Hoo" Hoff, Philadelphia promoter, for breach of contract signed just before the match in which Tunney is alleged to have guaranteed Hoff a percentage of his earnings if victorious over Dempsey. An action also has been brought against Tunney by Tim Mara, a New York sportsman, who claims a portion of the retired champion's earnings for services rendered in gaining Gene a bout with Dempsey.

HARVARD HAS NO TROUBLE SOLVING YALE ATTACK

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 20—(AP)—The Yale running attack, at least that part of it mastered by the Harvard scrubs, failed to trouble the Crimson varsity team here today when it resumed football practice.

The regulars, forced to refrain from all contact work, displayed a power that would have smeared many of the Yale plays put on by the scrub eleven, which was under the direction of Jimmy Knox, who has scouted the Blue in all of its major games for many years.

After the scrubs exhausted their supply of Eli tricks, the Harvard sophomore class eleven went into action and displayed several more. The favorite ground-gainers of Albie Booth, sensational Yale ball-carrier, were easily followed and checked by the varsity players. After ending this dummy scrimmaging, Head Coach Arnold Horween sent his players through a long punting and passing drill. The backs were groomed on both ends of the overhead plays.

John Trainor, guard, was the only regular idle. He has not fully recovered from the shaking up he received in the Holy Cross game but Dr. Tommy Richards, team physician, has promised to have him ready for tomorrow's workout.

Charlie Richards, who has developed with a rush during the past few weeks, played in Trainor's position. It is likely that he will be the first Harvard line replacement to get into the Yale game. The rest of the lineup was as usual: O'Connell, Harding and Douglas, ends; Barrett and W. Tickenor, tackles; Richards and Talbot, guards; B. Tickenor, center; Wood, quarterback; Putnam and Mays, halfbacks and Harper, fullback.

CLARK AND CREHAN MAY BE OUT OF NAVY GAME

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 20—(AP)—Doubts that either Len Clark, regular halfback, or Paul Crehan, varsity guard, would be able to play against the Navy at Philadelphia on Nov. 30 were expressed by Coach Jackson Cannell today when his Dartmouth football team resumed practice.

Clark has been out of action since the Harvard game last month and Crehan has not played since the Yale encounter of three weeks ago. Both were able to report to Trainer Harry Hillman for treatment but Cannell ordered them to stay away from the practice field until tomorrow.

Though examinations detained several of the green regulars, Cannell hopped to the task of polishing up his passing attack, which faltered against Cornell, for the clash with the Middies. The Indians ran through all of their overhead plays before the coaching staff started work on several innovations. With Bill Morton in a class-room and Tommy Longnecker unable to attempt strenuous work because of a knee injury, the passing duties developed upon Shep Wolff and Bill McCall, who tossed to Booma and Yudicky, the Green ends.

BULKELEY AND ACADEMY TO HAVE ONLY LIGHT WORK

The Academy and Bulkeley are now about ready for their annual gridiron conflict Saturday and will use the next two days in a polishing-up effort. Stiff work was the order of the day at both camps Wednesday.

Friday will be given over to light signal drills while today's sessions are not expected to include anything as strenuous as a scrimmage.

Bulkeley is reported to be perfecting its scoring plays and is attempting to correct the mistakes shown in last Saturday's game with Chapman Tech when the Tigers passed up chances to score. Bulkeley's defense has only allowed one team to score as high as three touchdowns and most of the games were lost by one touchdown.

Bulkeley will have all the confidence in the world Saturday, being prepared to throw everything into the fray to get its first gridiron victory in four years over the Wildcats. And because the Whalers haven't won this year will make the victory all the sweeter.

Bulkeley's star fullback, Walt Collins, who weighs around 150 pounds, was out of practice the early part of the week with an injured toe but will play Saturday.

The Academy squad is in good shape and Coach Whitney will without doubt have all his regulars in condition to start.

DEMPSEY MENTIONED AS HEAD OF CHICAGO STADIUM

CHICAGO, Nov. 20—(AP)—With the ousting of Paddy Harmon as president of the $2,000,000 Chicago Stadium corporation, which he organized after a long struggle, interest today was focused on his successor and the future policies of the business-sports venture.

Of the rumored candidates for the post, two stood out as strong possibilities, Major Frederick McLaughlin, of Chicago, owner of the Black Hawks professional hockey team, and James Norris, until recently a New Yorker, but now a Chicago broker.

The election is scheduled for Friday.

Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight boxing champion, who now is promoting boxing shows for the Chicago coliseum, is mentioned as one of possibilities, but is fairly certain he would be offered only the post as matchmaker, if anything. John Ringling, the circus magnate, is mentioned as another possibility. Dempsey said today he had not been approached but that he was willing to "listen to any good offers."

He who imbibes too freely from the flowing bowl, whether he be man or beast or fowl, comes to no good end.

This was most poignantly demonstrated last week on a farm not far distant from this beautiful but arid city of ours.

It seems that the people who operate the farm raise a few turkeys for Thanksgiving and also believe that a "wee drap" is an aid to digestion.

When the huckleberry season was on, the good housewife made some huckleberry wine, which was put away in anticipation of the Thanksgiving day feast.

Thanksgiving being near at hand, the housewife decided that it was time to see if all was well with the wine and if Nature had done her duty as a brewer.

The wine was tapped, but alas and alack, it was sour. Soured wine is as unpalatable as vinegar and the good wife, sadly disappointed, poured the wine into a pan and set it out in the yard.

One of the turkeys, a rather gay old bird, perhaps, saw the wine and sampled it. Finding it much to his liking he had another, and, as everyone knows, one good drink always leads to more.

With the passing of an hour or so Mr Turkey was pie-eyed drunk. In fact he was so tight he didn't have a leg under him. So like all who get in this condition he passed completely out of the picture.

The good housewife, later coming out to give the turkeys the evening meal, found him prostrate on the ground and dead to the world. She looked him over carefully and decided that he had breathe his last.

And being of a thrifty nature she decided that it would be a good thing to save the feathers for sofa pillows. Not knowing of what the turkey had apparently died from she rejected the idea of serving him to the family.

She took him in the house and in a few minutes the turkey was entirely devoid of any clothing whatsoever. She then took him out and tossed him in the ashheap back of the barn for friend husband to bury in the morning.

The next morning the good housewife went out to feed the turkeys. As she called the flock she stopped, rubbed her eyes and called to her husband. Standing in the middle of the flock eagerly waiting for his morning meal was the turkey she had plucked the night before.

He was as nude as the day he broke through the egg. Not a feather did he have to protect him from the crisp morning air, and the other turkeys viewed him with raised eyebrows.

After recovering from her shock and realizing that the apparition was not due to indigestion or anything she had drank she gathered the nude and shivering turkey to her arms and took him inside.

Naturally of a tender nature the housewife got busy with her nimble needle and thread and soon Mr. Turkey was clothed in a nice warm suit of flannel which he will wear until that time when he will be garbed again in Nature's raiment.

RANGERS WIN FROM SUB BASE IN ROLLER HOCKEY GAME

The Rangers won a fast and rough game of hockey from the Sailors last evening at the Olympic rink, the final score being 6 to 3. Clean playing was seen in the first part of the game, but the Rangers seemed to persist in making the game rough. And rough it was. It wound up looking like an indoor football game on roller skates.

But the crowd enjoyed the game in spite of the rough playing and lack of team work.

The line-up:

Rangers	Sub Base
C. Wilson, lr	lr, Middleton
P. Yeits, 2r	2r, H. B. Welch
W. Povey, c	c, F. B. Hill
J. Lee, hb	hb, G. C. Adams
Lebonovitz, goalie	goalie, W. Travis

Martin J. Farrell, referee.

Goals: Rangers—Yeits 3, Wilson 1, Lee 1, Povey 1. Sub Base—Hill 2, Middleton 1.

BOSTON COLLEGE DEVOTES TIME TO RUNNING ATTACK

BOSTON, Nov. 20—(AP)—The Boston college football squad devoted all of this afternoon's practice on its running attack for Saturday's clash with the neighboring Boston university eleven. Joe McKenney, the Eagles' coach, devoted much of his time to his substitutes, who will probably have a major part in the warm-up for the objective game with Holy Cross here on Nov. 30.

Vidis Elected Captain

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 20—(AP)—Martin Vidis, sensational Worcester academy football star and leading prep school football player in the east, was this noon named captain of the Red and Black eleven for next year. Vidis comes from Youngstown, Ohio. William Reed, of Shrewsbury, Mass., was named manager of next year's eleven.

PLAINFIELD HAS EASY TIME TAKING OVER THE FAST NEW YORK PROS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PLAINFIELD, Nov. 20.—The Plainfield Pros had little trouble in trouncing the New York Professionals, 47 to 22, here tonight in a game that was pretty much one-sided after the first half. During the first half the game was close, the visitors always being within striking distance of the lead. At the end of the half Plainfield was leading, 19 to 14.

At the opening of the second half the Plainfield team went to the fore and gradually increased their lead until there was absolutely no danger of being overtaken. Whitey Bernot, playing a stellar guard position, almost single-handedly caused defeat of the New Yorkers, scoring 21 of Plainfield's 47 points. Roy Disginger was the next high scorer with 8 points. Plainfield used two sets of forwards, Brusso and Kasper, the regulars, and Williams and Smith, the reserves.

Y. M. C. A. FIVE OPENS SEASON SATURDAY NIGHT

The Y. M. C. A. basketball team will open its 1929-1930 season on Saturday night at the local Y. M. C. A. court when they play the Altex five of New London. The New London team is made up of former Chapman Tech basketball players of the past few years. The roster includes such stars as Trude, Hewitt, Montgomery, Mortensen and Parnum, all well known in Norwich.

FOOTBALL STAR MADE MEMBER OF BARBERS' UNION

WABASH, Ind., Nov. 20.—(AP)—George Ross, whose two touchdowns against Northwestern Saturday gave 300 members of the Indiana university "No-Shave" club the right to shave, has become an honorary member of a barbers' union.

The union at Wabash, Ross' home town, last night voted him honorary membership, which does not, however, carry privileges of free barbering.

MANY EASTERN TEAMS IDLE ON SATURDAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(AP)—The east is divided into two football camps this week so far as the daily practice sessions are concerned. Teams which have games scheduled for next Saturday are getting in their hardest work while those which do not play until Thanksgiving day are going more slowly and easily.

Yale and Harvard are leaders of the hard work brigade and each got in a long session yesterday. Yale kept the drill secret, but the information was given out that Albie Booth was in uniform and took part in a forward passing drill and tried a few drop kicks. His limp was less pronounced than yesterday. Chick McLennan again was at quarterback as the Elis went through offensive and defensive passing drills and a supervised scrimmage which brought a touchdown against the scrubs.

Harvard's regulars refrained from contact work but they had no trouble in diagnosing Yale plays as put on by the scrubs and sophomore class eleven. John Trainor, guard, who was shaken up in the Holy Cross game, is due to return to practice tomorrow.

Lafayette and Lehigh, rivals of almost as long standing as Yale and Harvard, each staged long, hard drills. Defensive scrimmages were in order on both fields.

Coach Ross of West Virginia Wesleyan made his final choice of a new backfield to start against Navy. McCurdy and Hagedorn at the halves and Hartman at quarterback will replace regulars who have played more than three years. The midshipmen worked against Dartmouth formations preparing for a game two weeks away.

New York University, expecting a victory over Rutgers, called out its regulars for the first time this week to go through a dummy drill. Their opponents showed signs of more strength than they have displayed this season by ramming four touchdown through the second team in 15 minutes. Frank Cavanaugh of Fordham tried to work up a little more scoring punch as the Rams prepared for their final game against Bucknell. Temple put on a long scrimmage in preparation for an intersectional clash with Drake.

Colgate's team had a formation drill and dummy scrimmage getting ready for the Thanksgiving day clash with Brown. The Bruin regulars played only touch football as the second team scrimmaged with the freshmen. Brown plays New Hampshire Saturday. Columbia also had long but light workout in preparation for meeting Syracuse.

Dartmouth, with han open date ahead before meeting Navy, held its first practice of the week. Cornell, defeated by Dartmouth Saturday, began hard work for the Pennsylvania game with a long drill which ended in a brief scrimmage.

GODFREY SUSPENDED BY PENNSYLVANIA COMMISSION

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 20—(AP)—Acting in co-operation with the Massachusetts commission, the Pennsylvania state athletic commission today suspended George Godfrey, Negro heavyweight of Leiperville, Pa., and Jimmy Byrne, Boston heavy, pending further investigation of their recent bout in Boston which was stopped by the referee and declared "no contest."

Ockfords vs. Worcester Sunday.

The New London Ockfords will have the Worcester All-Stars for their opponents Sunday afternoon at Mercer field, New London. The league game that was scheduled for Sunday has been called off. The Bay Staters will bring a heavy team that will outweigh the Firemen on the line.

EATING WHILE STANDING APPEALS TO FRENCHMEN

PARIS (AP)—French people are learning to eat standing up.

They turned down the armchair lunchroom and cafeteria long ago and nobody has been able to make self-served meals pay in the gourmet's capital.

But the snack bars where a glass of port, sandwiches, a hot dish or so, pastry and desserts are served are increasing in number and clientele.

One of the big food shop and catering establishments has established a hot table and cold counters in its Madeleine establishment. Begun as an experiment, it threatens to crowd out the rest of the restaurants to crowd out the rest of the shop and has been expanded to several times its starting size.

HELD IN CONNECTION WITH SLAYING OF BROTHERS

TEXARKANA, Ark., Nov. 20.—(AP)—John Rayburn, of Fouke, Ark., near here, was arrested tonight and held in connection with the deaths of Arthur Matson, 22, and his brother, Lee, 13, whose bodies were found in an abandoned well last Monday. Rayburn, three years ago, was acquitted of a statutory charge in connection with an alleged assault on the mother of the two slain youths.

Sheriff Fleet Magee said Rayburn was the "king" of an alleged liquor manufacturing gang operating near Artex, Ark., 14 miles southeast of here.

ON TRIAL FOR COMPLICITY IN "LIQUOR RING" ACTIVITIES

NEW YORK, Nov. 20—(AP)—Eight defendants were put on trial in federal court today for alleged complicity in the activities of a "liquor ring" said to have extended from Long Island to the South Carolina coast, and covering a period of three years.

When the indictment was returned it was stated that the "Long Island ring," as the group was termed by investigators, had imported and smuggled many hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of wines and liquors into the United States, from Jamaica and elsewhere.

FIVE DEGREES BELOW ZERO AT LEWISTOWN, MONT.

LEWISTON, Mont., Nov. 20—(AP)—It was five degrees below zero here today as an unexpected cold wave swept through the north central portion of Montana. With the snow of a previous storm gone, the frigid weather was considered very unfavorable for the winter wheat crop. A stiff wind blew tonight, accompanied by a light snowfall.

WESTERLY

VISITORS TO MALDEN FORGOT AUTO LICENSE

A party of four young men, returning to their home in Astoria, Long Island, N. Y., were detained by Rhode Island state troopers of the Hope Valley barracks Tuesday night, as suspicious persons. Three of the party were brought to Westerly and locked up at the police station while the fourth memoer attempted to get in touch with Brooklyn, N. Y., by telegram.

The story told by the young men was that they had read in the newspapers of the marvelous cures being effected at the Malden, Mass., shrine and one of their number, threatened with consumption had induced the others to make the trip. They reported that they had jumped the head of the waiting line or they would have been there yet. As it was there were some 500 ahead of them in the long line. They declared that they had witnessed no cures while they were there but had seen many sick and ailing persons there. Their return homeward was uneventful until a slight accident caused them to be stopped by state police on the Noose Neck Hill road. As they had started to make the Massachusetts pilgrimage in an auto belonging to one of the party which had broken down, a second car was secured, it being the property of one of the detained young men. In their haste to leave, they neglected to take with them the necessary car license and this had caused their being held, to await the developments of the police check-up or to hear from relatives.

Workmen's Car Afire

Two workmen, late in starting for their daily toil were speeding up Main street at a rapid rate about 7 a. m. Wednesday when the rear end of their Ford car caught fire and blazed up, leaving a trail of black smoke. So desirous were the men to be at work on time they did not observe the blaze in the auto until nearly at the head of Main street. At this time discovery made, the men hastily threw out their lunch boxes and barely before the car had been brought to a standstill leaped out and endeavored unsuccessfully to smother the blaze with their caps. When this proved impracticable they rushed into a nearby restaurant, secured pails of water, and the blaze was put out in time to enable them to continue to their daily labors in the auto. At the junction of Main and Union streets, Police Officer Paul McCarthy observed the trail of smoke and flame and was about to blow his whistle to attract the attention of the auto occupants when he reasoned that they were fast nearing more help than should the car be brought to a stop at a place where they would be unable to obtain aid and water.

COLCHESTER

STATE COPS GETS LOUIS RUSSO, OF THEFT RING, IN NEWARK

(Special to The Bulletin)

COLCHESTER, Nov. 20.—One more of the ring of thieves responsible for the theft June 15 of a new Dodge sport coupe from the Chapman garage, a 1926 Hudson brougham from the London garage and 1000 dresses and 3000 yards of piece goods from the Cohen Bros. factory, has been caught in Newark, N. J., by State Policeman William Elmer Mackenzie, of the Groton barracks, formerly of Norwich. Officer Mackenzie has been making an investigation of the case during the past few months and has now captured Louis Russo, alias "Yenkie" or "Inkey," 31, a grinder by occupation and a native and resident of Newark. He has a past record as dope peddler and thief. It is understood that as soon as extradition proceedings are completed, Russo will be brought to Colchester for a hearing before Justice of the Peace Charles F. Brown.

Joseph Marinello, of 305 Orange street, Newark, N. J., is serving a sentence of one to four years in the state prison at Wethersfield and Angelo Sica, of Newark, is serving 18 months at the Cheshire reformatory as the result of the part they took in the theft of the two automobiles and dress goods.

The Hudson car and part of the large number of dresses were found in Marinello's possession, when he was captured by Policeman Anderson on the outskirts of Darien, a few hours after the theft. Up to the present time, no trace has been reported of the whereabouts of Mr. Chapman's new Dodge car.

MYSTIC

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH TO NOTE 70TH ANNIVERSARY

Sunday, November 24, Mystic Bridge Congregational church will celebrate the 70th anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone. According to the History of Stonington, written by Richard Anson Wheeler, and published in 1900, the local church was organized January 30, 1852, by 37 seceding members from the First Congregational church of Stonington, with 5 persons from other churches, under the approval of a committee of the Consociation of Congregational Ministers and Churches of New London county. During the first year, several ministers occupied the pulpit. Rev. D. R. Austin was the first minister called, but he declined. Rev. Walter R. Long accepted the call and was duly installed, September 15 1853. He stayed for ten years. He was followed by Rev. Charles H. Boyd, who was with the church from May 1859 to May 1865. Rev. Algernon Goodenough came next in June 1866 and remained until February 1867. Rev. William Cliff was installed March 1869 and remained until November 1873. Rev. Charles H. Oliphant from June 18, to August 1884. Rev. Herbert S. Brown from June 1886 to August 1890. Rev. Austin H. Burr was pastor from October 1890 until failing health compelled him to resign. He died in December 1891. Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, now of New London, succeeded Rev. Mr. Burr and was installed in October 1892. In 1900, Rev. Clair F. Luther was the settled pastor. Then came Rev. Daniel R. Putnam, from November 1902 to November 1907. Rev. A. F. Earnshaw April 1908 to December 1908. Rev. Frank L. Rhoad remained from July 1910 to September 1919. Rev. George L. Farnham, now of Washington, D. C., was the next pastor, remaining from December 1921 to October 1924. Rev. Frederick G. Chutter from June 1925 to June 1929. The present pastor, Rev. William G. Fagan, came in September 1929. The cornerstone of the church was laid November 24, 1859.

"Paul Jr. is a changed boy," says HARTFORD mother

DON'T neglect a child's constipation. It is the cause of so many ailments; biliousness, headaches, feverishness, sallow, broken-out skin; a general run-down condition.

The first signs of sluggish bowels are usually bad breath or coated tongue. Then it's time for good old California Fig Syrup. Children need no urging to take it. They love its flavor. And it works every time. It cleanses the little system of all souring waste. It gives tone and strength to lazy bowels and stomach, so they continue to act naturally. A child's digestion and assimilation improve when it is used. Meals are eaten with zest instead of indifference.

Mothers all around you know its quick benefits. Mrs. Louise Bennett, 41 Colonial St., Hartford, says: "My little son, Paul, is a changed boy since I have been giving him California Fig Syrup. He was losing weight; now he's gaining. He had no appetite or energy; now he's always hungry, full of life."

JUST A SAMPLE OF WHAT'S COMING! This picture was snapped during a real snow storm and it gives you a good idea of the weather that's due soon. No wonder the weather man has issued a warning . . . better get that radiator filled up with some Denatured Alcohol and play safe. Denatured Alcohol is the only anti-freeze that both automobile and radiator manufacturers universally approve. It has been in successful use for more than 20 years

O. K. SAY GARAGE MEN! Here's how the Alco-Tester works. Just squeeze the bulb and it tells you if there's enough Denatured Alcohol in your radiator. Have it done if there's a doubt in your mind. Any garage man will gladly do it.

No special overhauling or service charges! Just SURE protection with Denatured Alcohol

THE weather man's warning you, car owners! Colder weather's on the way, he says . . . and you know what a freeze-up does to a motor.

You're going to guard against it, of course . . . but how? Here's the simplest way . . . the surest . . . the safest . . . and by far the cheapest!

Just take two minutes between now and the time you put your car away. Drive to the nearest garage or filling station that displays the orange and green sign. Tell the man you want Denatured Alcohol. Watch him consult a chart, put in the exact amount your car needs, and test the solution for you . . .

Then . . . 96 seconds after you drive in . . . away you go . . . fully protected.

No special overhauling is necessary when you rely on this trustworthy anti-freeze! It can't seep through tiny holes or hose connections. It won't rot hose, clog radiators, or corrode metal parts.

Besides, Denatured Alcohol is by far the most economical anti-freeze. Even in the severest climate, you usually won't spend more than one-half as much for a whole season's supply as you would for one filling of substitutes.

Denatured Alcohol is backed by more than 20 years of successful and satisfactory use. It is approved by all car manufacturers and universally endorsed by all makers of automobile radiators.

Yes, winter's coming! Protect your car . . . but with safety for that costly motor! Rely on Denatured Alcohol, the dependable anti-freeze.

Look for the orange and green sign.

The Industrial Alcohol Institute, Inc., Graybar Building, New York City.

SIX INDISPUTABLE FACTS

You've heard a lot about anti-freezes. Here are the real facts in the case . . . the indisputable reasons why more motorists use Denatured Alcohol than all other anti-freezes combined.

1 An entire season's supply of Denatured Alcohol usually costs less than half as much as one filling of some preparations.

2 Denatured Alcohol is harmless to radiators, engines and electrical systems. It will not corrode metal parts or attack rubber hose and does not cause leaks.

3 No special service is required to make your car ready for winter. Just put Denatured Alcohol in your radiator as it is 4 Every car manufacturer approves Denatured Alcohol, and the firm that made your radiator is also emphatic in its endorsement.

5 If your protective solution is lost through accident or carelessness, the cost of replacement with Denatured Alcohol is usually one-sixth that of replacement with some preparations.

6 You can get Denatured Alcohol anywhere, anytime. Service when you need it, wherever you are.

EMPIRE BUILDER'S SON TO WRITE HILL'S LIFE

ST. PAUL (AP)—Bringing to light traits of his father, James J. Hill, the "empire builder," is the task set for himself by his Louis W. Hill.

Louis Hill has retired from the management of the Great Northern railroad, built by his father, and after research, will write a biography of the pioneer railroad builder.

For the first time since the Great Northern was built it is without a Hill in an important executive position. Louis began 36 years ago while his father's still was the guiding hand. His retirement was from the chairmanship of the board of directors.

At nineteen, an age when most students are hardly half way through their undergraduate course, Gertrude Stein, Springfield, has been admitted to the graduate school at Ohio State university. Miss Stein is also an organist and a vocal soloist.

Fails for Millions

Wilbur B. Foshay, above, financial wizard of Minneapolis, Minn., head of a company worth an estimated $30,000,000, has filed voluntary petition in bankruptcy. The collapse of Foshay's company effects subsidiaries in 30 states, Alaska, Canada and Central America.

How Daily Dose of Kruschen Makes You Lose Unhealthy Fat

Yet Gives You Splendid Health and Added Energy

It sounds easy, doesn't it?—well, it is the easiest, the safest and surest way to lose fat you could possibly desire!

KRUSCHEN SALTS—a perfect combination of the six mineral salts your body must have every day to function properly—purify your blood of harmful acids, and the kidneys and bowels to throw off waste material (the continual formation of which is probably the cause of your fat). They are carried by your blood stream to give stimulus, life and new activity to every nerve, gland and body organ.

In this modern age of living, it's impossible to get these salts from the fancy food you eat—but don't worry just as long as you have KRUSCHEN SALTS.

Why the world awards first place to STUDEBAKER EIGHTS

Eleven world records for speed and endurance—and more American stock car records than all other makes combined—are held by Studebaker Eights.

This year's Penrose Trophy Race to the summit of Pikes Peak was won in record time by a Studebaker President Eight—over a tortuous twisting roadway involving 154 breath-taking curves.

The greatest record in the history of transportation established over a year ago by Studebaker's President Eight that traveled 30,000 miles in 26,326 consecutive minutes—still stands unchallenged. And this time-tried championship stamina is built into every Studebaker Eight—President, Commander or Dictator.

Studebaker is the world's largest builder of Eights because Studebaker Eights are brilliant and thrifty beyond anything motordom has known. Drive one of the new Studebaker Eights before committing yourself to any new car—Six or Eight. Profit from Studebaker's championship successes and from the 77 years of manufacturing integrity that stand firmly behind the Studebaker name.

Studebaker Eights cost no more to buy or to operate

EMPIRE BUILDER'S SON TO WRITE HILL'S LIFE

ST. PAUL (AP)—Bringing to light traits of his father, James J. Hill, the "empire builder," is the task set for himself by his Louis W. Hill.

Louis Hill has retired from the management of the Great Northern railroad, built by his father, and after research, will write a biography of the pioneer railroad builder.

For the first time since the Great Northern was built it is without a Hill in an important executive position. Louis began 36 years ago while his father's still was the guiding hand. His retirement was from the chairmanship of the board of directors.

At nineteen, an age when most students are hardly half way through their undergraduate course, Gertrude Stein, Springfield, has been admitted to the graduate school at Ohio State university. Miss Stein is also an organist and a vocal soloist.

Fails for Millions

Wilbur B. Foshay, above, financial wizard of Minneapolis, Minn., head of a company worth an estimated $20,000,000, has filed voluntary petition in bankruptcy. The collapse of Foshay's company effects subsidiaries in 30 states, Alaska, Canada and Central America.

How Daily Dose of Kruschen Makes You Lose Unhealthy Fat

Yet Gives You Splendid Health and Added Energy

It sounds easy, doesn't it?—well, it is the easiest, the safest and surest way to lose fat you could possibly desire!

KRUSCHEN SALTS—a perfect combination of the six mineral salts your body must have every day to function properly—purify your blood of harmful acids, and the kidneys and bowels to throw off waste material (the continual formation of which is probably the cause of your fat). They are carried by your blood stream to give stimulus, life and new activity to every nerve, gland and body organ.

In this modern age of living, it's impossible to get these salts from the fancy food you eat—but don't worry just as long as you have KRUSCHEN SALTS.

Take a half teaspoon of Kruschen Salts in a glass of water every morning and little by little that ugly fat goes—slowly, yes — but surely and you feel so wonderfully healthy, ambitious and energetic—more so than ever before in your life!

Get an 85c bottle of KRUSCHEN SALTS at Lee and Osgood's or any drugstore (lasts 2 months). If even this first bottle doesn't convince you this is the best, surest and most pleasant way to lose fat—if your health isn't marvelously improved—your money gladly returned!

Why the world awards first place to STUDEBAKER EIGHTS

Eleven world records for speed and endurance—and more American stock car records than all other makes combined — are held by Studebaker Eights.

This year's Penrose Trophy Race to the summit of Pikes Peak was won in record time by a Studebaker President Eight—over a tortuous twisting roadway involving 154 breath-taking curves.

The greatest record in the history of transportation established over a year ago by Studebaker's President Eight that traveled 30,000 miles in 26,326 consecutive minutes—still stands unchallenged. And this time-tried championship stamina is built into every Studebaker Eight — President, Commander or Dictator.

Studebaker is the world's largest builder of Eights because Studebaker Eights are brilliant and thrifty beyond anything motordom has known. Drive one of the new Studebaker Eights before committing yourself to any new car—Six or Eight. Profit from Studebaker's championship successes and from the 77 years of manufacturing integrity that stand firmly behind the Studebaker name.

Studebaker Eights cost no more to buy or to operate

INTENTIONAL SECOND EXPOSURE

STOCK PRICES OF ALL GROUPS ROSE TO NEW HIGH LEVELS IN NEW RECOVERY

NEW YORK, Nov. 20—(AP)—The revived bull party returned to the helm of the stock market with something like old time assurance today, and all groups of stock scored substantial advances, reaching new high levels for the recovery.

The session was orderly, but was enlivened by sharp advances in a few leading shares. National Biscuit jumped 21 1-3 points in response to a proposal of a 2 1-2-for-1 splitup, and General Electric shot up 15 points. Investment rails were in particular demand, several rising 2 to more than 8 points. Gains throughout the list, however, were predominently moderate, mostly running from 1 to 4 points.

Some profit taking came into the market in the last half hour, and several gains were reduced by a couple of points or so, but trading showed a reassuring contraction on the decline. Transactions displayed market accelerations from yesterday's pace in the early hours of the session, and the ticker fell about 20 minutes in arrears, but what with the late let up, sales totaled but 2,829,040 shares, exceeding yesterday's turnover by only 111,950 shares.

The action of the directors of National Biscuit in proposing a split up was particularly stimulating. This is the first major capital readjustment plan launched since the collapse of the market. The tendency has been to cancel such plans owing to the recent uncertainties in the financial outlook. The National Biscuit plan revived rumors of split ups by General Electric, and several other corporations, including some of the rails, since Chesapeak and Ohio has taken the initiative in that roup. With the drastic contraction of stock values, split ups have received some sharp criticism; but brokers point out that the demand is greatest for stocks selling between 30 and 100, and that split ups must be accepted as a valuable aid to distribution.

The magnitude of the contraction in stock prices was graphically presented by the stock exchange's monthly tabulation of the value of all listed stocks, which showed a drop during October of $18,120,000,000, carrying the total as of Nov. 1, to $71,752,000,000, compared to a high record of $89,663,000,000 reported for Sept. 1. The average price of listed shares declined during October from $53.06 per share to $64.62. This tabulation probably reflects more than half of the decline which reached a bottom last week.

Credit continued to cheapen. Call money renewed at 5 per cent, and dropped to 4 1-2 per cent, the lowest since Aug. 16, 1928. Even at that official rate, funds went begging and were offered in the outside market as low as 3 1-2. Time money quotations were dropped to 5-5 1-2 per cent. The Boston Federal Reserve bank followed the New York bank in reducing its rediscount rate from 5 to 4 1-2 per cent, but directors of the Philadelphia and St. Louis banks, who also met today, announced no change in their 5 per cent rates.

The weekly steel trade reviews indicated another slight decline in steel mill operations, with U. S. Steel now at 73 per cent of rated capacity, but Iron Age stated that the manner in which business has withstood the shock of the convulsions of the stock market had done much to restore confidence, that consumption had shown no general curtailment, and in some lines had gained.

U. S. Steel rose to 169 3-8, a new top for the current upturn, but closed at 168, up 1 1-2, net. Such shares as Radio, Standard of New Jersey, American Can, American Telephone, closed about 2 points higher. Among the wider gains, Air Reduction, American Tobacco issues, Atchison, Chesapeake and Ohio, Eastman Kodak, Standard Gas, and Norfolk and Western gained 6 to 9 points. General Electric's 15 point advance was reduced to 12 1-2 points at the close. Jersey Central, a slightly traded issue, jumped 20 points, and American Express appeared on the tap for the first time in several days at 250, 45 points above the last transaction. A sprinkling of shares closed lower. General Motors was off 1-2 a point, and St. Louis Southwestern lost about 3.

Commodity markets were inclined to sag. Wheat futures closed nearly 3 cents a bushel lower on bearish Argentine crop estimates, and bearish weather reports. Corn futures lost as much as a cent. Cotton was bid up rapidly, then reacted and closed practically unchanged.

Foreign exchanges were generally steady to firm, although sterling cables sagged 1-8 cent to $4.87 7-16. The Canadian dollar rallied more than 1-2 cent to $8 3-4 cents, and the Japanese yen reached a new high for the year at 48.85 cents on announcement of arrangement of a credit in New York in connection with restoration of the gold standard.

BOND MARKET.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.— (AP) —The bond market moved briskly upward today, stimulated by cheaper money and the prospect that the current quotations of 5 to 5 1-2 per cent. for time loans would go even lower, since dealers stated that the day's rates were only nominal. Call loans fell to 4 1-2 per cent., the lowest in more than a year.

The Associated Press combined average rose nearly half a point and at 94.05 was more than three-fourths of a point above the ow established a week ago when bonds reached the bottom of the temporary depression that accompanied the weakness of stocks.

First grade rails led the rise. The confident tone underlying the whole list brought out large buying orders in the carriers, with resultant gains of 1 to 2 points in such loans as Atchison general 4s, Baltimore & Ohio gold 4s, Rock Island 4 1-2s, Chesapeake & Ohio 4 1-2s, Lehigh Valley general 4s, Missouri, Kansas & Texas prior lien 4s, New York Central 4s, Nickel Plate 5 1-2s, and Southern Railways 5s.

Leaders in the utility group were likewise in good demand, and American Telephone 5 1-2s and debenture 5s, Columbia Gas & Electric 5s, as well as the New York Telephone listings, improved on large turnovers.

Industrial mortgages attracted keen attention, but showed an unward trend. Shubert Theatre 6s eased to about their low on the announcement that the dividend on the common stock had been passed.

Liberty fourth 4 1-2s and treasury 3 3-8s, 1940-43, touched new highs, but activity in the United States governments diminished, although the securities remained firm at about their year's peaks.

Foreign bonds traded in a rather narrow market, with prices averaging higher. Brazilian and Columbian obligations continued their recovery from recent lows. Italian 7s slipped to a new 1929 mink. at 91 1-8, but quickly recovered for half point net gain. German Republic 7s advanced a point.

The movement of the convertibles was upward on the rise in stock prices. Gains in the more active debentures ran from 1 to 6 points, but the volume in this group was again relatively light. Public Service of New Jersey 4 1-2s soared 19 1-2 points to 102 on small transactions.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

CHICAGO, Nov. 20.— (AP) —Corn rather than wheat appeared to inspire the greater confidence as a purchase today among the rank and file of grain traders. In particular, the December delivery of corn attracted attention, total stocks of the contract grade of corn in public elevators here having been reduced almost to zero, and reports being current that little or no corn was moving to Chicago from either Illinois or Iowa. Under such circumstances and with widespread notice being taken that the wheat market after a rise of 13 cents a bushel of late appeared over bought, spread trading between wheat and corn became an outstanding feature today, sending wheat sharply downward whereas corn displayed relative strength.

Closing quotations on wheat were shaky, 2 3-8c to 3 1-8c per bushel lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed exactly the same as 24 hours previous to 1c off; oats 1-8 to 1c down, and provisions varying from 2c decline to 12c advance.

Interest of grain traders began early to focus much more on corn than has recently been the rule. It was pointed out that although the seasonal period for increased receipts of corn was at hand, terminal stocks in Chicago and elsewhere were decidedly smaller than last year and that with an excellent shipping demand contingently present the available supply was about 200,000,000 bushels less than a year ago. Moreover, such new corn as may arrive soon in Chicago will apparently not be available for delivery on December contracts to any great extent, elevators here being so full of other grain that the corn cannot be taken in and dried.

Uneasiness of traders who were short of corn to fill December contracts here lifted the corn market at one stage today to substantially above yesterday's finish for the December delivery and for March delivery as well, notwithstanding that the wheat market was showing unusual weakness. At no time today were wheat values here as high as yesterday. Black rust news from Argentina continued unabated, but Liverpool and Buenos Aires wheat quotations were weak, and better weather for the Argentine harvest was reported, with free offerings of Argentina wheat abroad.

Above all, trans-Atlantic demand for wheat from North America appeared to have come to virtually a standstill for at least the time being. The net result was heavy selling of wheat future deliveries here, and simultaneous purchases of corn. Oats sympathized with wheat weakness.

Provisions were affected by an advance in hog values and averaged slightly higher.

NEW YORK PATROLMAN, SHOT ON DUTY, BURIED WITH HONORS AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 20— Patrolman John J. Duffy, New York police department was fatally wounded on a street in that city Saturday morning during a running gun-fight with Peter DeLacey, Boston Negro, detected in the act of attempting to force an entrance to a store. The officer died from his wound Sunday in Mt. Sinai hospital. His funeral was held in New York this forenoon. The body was forwarded to New London on the train that arrived here at 2:30, and was accompanied by mourners and 50 members of the New York police department, in uniform, and in command of Captain Redding, of the 28th Precinct. Upon the arrival at the Union station, the body and police escort was met by 40 members of the New London department, in charge of Sergeants John Courtney and Patrick Murphy, and by four motorcycle officers of the state police department, in charge of Sergeant George Webber. The cortege moved through the streets the bluecoats preceding the funeral car and the six bearers walking three on either side of the car, to St. Mary's cemetery. There the committal service was conducted by Rev. William C. Fitzsimons, pastor of St. Joseph's church.

BOUGHT "POUND OF PORK"— SOLTZ HANDED OUT BOTTLE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 20—The police this evening arrested Max Soltz, Main street merchant charged with violation of the liquor law. A sale by means of a spotter was obtained and the police are in possession of the bottle of liquor purchased which will be used as evidence of the illegal sale. With the stool pigeon to testify, prosecuted Soltz pleads not guilty, the police are confident that a conviction will be established when Soltz is in court tomorrow. The police recently obtained information that Soltz, who conducts a meat market in the store, 56 Main street, was peddling liquor to selected customers from the business house. This afternoon the services of the spotter were enlisted and as the evidence-seeker was well acquainted with Soltz's method of selling the liquor, no difficulty was experienced in obtaining the bottle of alcoholic strength. The Negro was given a $2 bill, went to the store and the officers observed him as he entered. The proprietor approached Soltz, requested a pound of pork and tendered the $2 bill in payment. The "pound of pork" was the proper language to use by customers seeking liquor and the pint of moonch was immediately handed the purchaser. The latter left the store and delivered the pint to Detective Sergeant Nelson Smith, who with two other officers was in waiting. Later Judge Daniel M. Cronin issued a search warrant and Sergeant Smith, Detectives Sergeant John Cavanaugh and Patrolman Dennis went to the market where a systematic search was made, but no liquor whatever was found. Soltz was arrested and at police headquarters he furnished a surety on the bond of $1,000 and was released.

An automobile driven by Abe Kaiz, 235 Howard street, struck and killed a dog on Williams street, near the city line this afternoon. The owner of the dog was not learned.

Felix A. Lyle, 27, residing at 573 Main street and employed as a presser at the Shalett Cleaning & Dyeing company, was arrested late today on a warrant charging him with non-support of his wife and eight months old daughter, Constance. The arrest was made by Detective Sergeant Nelson Smith. He was released on bail and will be in police court tomorrow.

Visit Fort by Airplane

Major General Preston Brown, commandant of the First Corps area, made an official visit to Fort Wright, Fishers Island, yesterday. Accompanied by Captain J. C. Crockett, the trip to the island fort was made by airplane. The troops were inspected, after which Maj. Gen. Brown and Capt. Crockett entered the airplane and went to Newport, R. I., where inspection was made of the guard of honor of the 20th infantry, which was at drill there.

Rehn Reports Box Defective

The police signal box, corner of Colt and Washington streets, is out of order. The defective mechanism was reported at police headquarters this morning by Patrolman Walter Rehn, who was given a hearing before City Manager William A. Holt last Monday on a charge of neglect of duty in not making his customary report over the same signal box at 4:30 o'clock last Friday morning.

The following New London women have assisted with the preparation of the 1929 Christmas seal sale: Mrs. H. W. Wellington, Mrs. Ward T. Alling, Miss Susan Gardner, Miss Helen Whiton, Miss Louise Johnson, Mrs. Edward Prentis, Jr., Miss Greta Bent, Miss Alice Sheridan, Mrs. W. D. Cronin, Mrs. I. C. Bishop, Miss Katherine Crary, Mrs. Buffington, Mrs. H. H. Walker, Mrs. C. H. Hull, Mrs. Ludwig Mann, Mrs. A. B. Calkins, Mrs. Clark Edgar, Miss Marion Chappell, Mrs. Wilson Brown, Mrs. C. H. Belden, Mrs. S. M. Prentis.

Charles E. White's Property Burned

The fire that destroyed a residence on East road, Groton, Monday, it is believed, was the work of an incendiary and the state police of Groton barracks, are making an investigation. The building was one of two on the Burnett farm owned by Charles E. White, treasurer of the Savings Bank of New London. The buildings were recently purchased by Mr. White and the one destroyed was unoccupied. About 2 o'clock Monday morning occupants of the house that is tenanted awoke and at the time the other house was a mass of flames, the fire having gained such headway that it was useless to summon help and the structure burned to the ground.

No appointment of an assistant to Tax Collector Carlos W. Allyn, of Groton, for which an appropriation of $1,200 was recently voted at a town meeting as the salary of the assistant, has been made, but it is understood the selection of the assistant will be made within a few days. Mrs. Marian Niven, West Mystic, has been temporarily assisting the tax collector.

An elm that has been in front of the fire headquarters of Nameaug Engine company, Masonic street, many years is being removed. Today men were engaged cutting off the limbs and tomorrow the trunk will be cut and taken away.

Word was received in New London today of the death at New Haven of the grandmother of Police Sergeant William T. Babcock at New Haven. Mrs. Babcock went to New Haven this afternoon. Sergeant Babcock and Captain Charles A. Pinney are in New York for the purpose of obtaining data in connection with police schools.

Mr. and Mrs. James P. Sullivan have returned from New York.

Judge of Probate Victor Prince was in Hartford today.

FUNERAL

Mrs. John Chipman

The funeral of Mrs. Mary W. Chipman, widow of John Chipman, of 122 Baker avenue, Groton, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at Groton Heights Baptist church and was attended by a large gathering of mourners. The services were conducted by Rev. George R. Atha, pastor of the church. The bearers were John Ebbets, Frederick Rudd, Albert Cone and Morgan Blake. Burial was in Ledyard cemetery, Groton.

OBITUARY

John S. Crawford

John S. Crawford, 54, died last night at his home, 282 Williams street, having been ill about two years. He is survived by his wife, four brothers, James Crawford, Woonsocket, R. I., and William, Thomas and Andrew Crawford, of this city and by three sisters, Mrs. John E. St. John, Mrs. Mary Elliott and Miss Sarah Crawford, of this city. Mr. Crawford was born in Montville, the son of William and Honora Crawford, but had resided in New London the greater part of his life. For many years Mr. Crawford was employed in the postal railway service and by the American Railway Express company. He was later employed for several years as superintendent of Groton borough water department and latterly was in the insurance business.

Rev. Martin Olsen

Rev. Martin Olsen, 79, died late yesterday at his home, 303 Williams street, after a long illness. Rev. Mr. Olsen is survived by his wife and several children. He was formerly pastor of the Norwegian church and was born in Norway.

Resided With Mother

Mrs. Katherine Ross, 40, wife of Richard Ross, who was instantly killed at Norwalk yesterday when the automobile in which she was riding and which was driven by her husband collided with another car, was the daughter of Mrs. Mary Watt, 176 Bank street, where Mrs. Ross was making her home. Mr. and Mrs. Ross recently moved to New London from New York. Mr. Ross is employed by the New Haven railroad.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the cancellation of the driver's license of Rosario Renardo, 36 Grand street. Renardo having been convicted in the police court recently on a charge of improper use of markers. He was fined $75 and costs, but $50 of the fine was ordered remitted. Commissioner Stoecked also ordered the suspension of the drivers' licenses of Joseph V. Morgan, 143 Blydenburg avenue; Louis Gaetano, 11 Pequot avenue; Antie L. Phillips, 34 Twelfth street and Donald A. Marquis, United States ship Camden, state pier.

DRUG STORE MANAGER IGNORED LAW, FINED $50

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 20—Stephen W. Downey, manager of Downey's pharmacy, 735 Bank street, was in the police court today charged with violation of the state pharmacy law. He pleaded guilty and was fined $20 and costs. Downey was arrested yesterday by State Police Officer John Smith, complaint having been made that the drug store was being conducted contrary to the provisions of the state statute, that a licensed pharmacist shall be in attendance while the store is open for business. The complaint, which was received by the state board of pharmacists, was given to the state police for attention. It was complained that the drug store was frequently in charge of an employe, not licensed to compound prescriptions.

Taken Suddenly Ill

Charles A. Gore, a member of the crew of the Coast Guard destroyer McCall, approached Traffic Officer Louis Pine, on duty at the corner of State and Bank streets this afternoon, and said he was ill and suffering much pain. The officer accompanied Gore to the office of a physician, but in the absence of the latter, Gore was taken to Lawrence-Memorial hospital.

The police of Utica, N. Y., today requested the New London police to make a search for Mrs. B. M. Crouse, who is missing from her home, 1415 Genevese street, Utica. A reward of $500 has been offered for information that will result in the woman's return home. She was described as being 54; about five feet three inches in height, brown hair and brown eyes and weighs about 112 pounds. Mrs. Crouse, who has been in ill health a long time, disappeared from her home Thursday last.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre.

At the farewell ball to the boys who were going "over there," Joan Morant, an exquisite society debutante suddenly became intensely patriotic and determined to go over too—all on account of the alluring and jaunty swing of an army nurse's cape—but when she found that it had taken three years of intensive hospital training to get "that costume," her patriotism suffered a severe shock. Canteen work was her next best bet, and we find her in France "rarin to go" and once more she suffered a shock. Far from being a charming hostess, she found that a mop and bucket were to be her pals and hard, dirty work her portion.

Nothing daunted by the horrors all about her, she donned the uniform of a disabled doughboy and under cover of darkness, penetrated to the front lines, braving barrage, machine guns, liquid fire and the terrific onslaught of the Heinie "tanks" all to be at the side of her small town sweetheart—and only to find him "behind the lines"—stupified with wine—a deserter. How she solved her great problem, with every ideal shattered one by one in grim succession, forms the theme of Rupert Hughes' great story "She Goes to War," now in thrilling sound, music and dialogue at the Broadway theatre. Gold Star mothers, World war nurses, women's motor reserve members, and woman army and navy clerks are admitted to any performance as the guests of the management. Their lapel button is their ticket. Included on the program is the Fox movietone news, Hughie O'Connell, the demon-reporter in "The Interview," and Frances Shelley, diminutive vaudeville star with her Four Eton Boys in a classy singing and musical skit.

Breed Theatre

Readers of Hazel Livingston's mighty serial "Stolen Love" and motion picture fans in general will have their first and only opportunity of seeing the film today at the Breed theatre.

Marceline Day, Rex Lease and Owen Moore head a capable cast that does excellent work under the skilful direction of Lynn Shores.

The story of the serial is followed closely in the motion picture version and all the thrills are retained. Helen Lynch and Blanche Frederici are superb in their roles while Betty Blythe brings her well known charms to the screen in the role of a modiste who has a heart as well as a remarkable business ability.

Tom Tyler in "Tyrant of Red Gulch," his latest western thriller is the added feature on today's program.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

When the burly west clashes with the more cultured east there is sure to be fireworks, particularly if the representative of the east is a high-strung, sensitive girl. That is what happens in "The Great Divide," the first of the great western talking pictures, and a First National production which is now playing at the Palace theatre, and will be continued there through Friday evening, with Dorothy Mackaill starred.

Seldom has the gigantic west been so completely captured in film. The audience gets a breath-taking panorama of mighty mountains sweeping up to snow capped heights while miles below their bases simmer in the desert sun. In and around these tremendous freaks of nature little men and women play out their own titanic drama. It is a setting worthy of the gods, and the play itself is superb enough to deserve such a setting.

Love, battle and excitement shoot through this great mountain and prairie drama like stars in a midsummer sky. When Ruth, the child of Stephen Ghent's dead gold-mining partner, comes west on a luxurious limited train, the action starts. From the cocktail drinking, bantering atmosphere of the east she steps into the rough, crude, whole-hearted west and before she is through she has to shed the light veneer of civilization and become a tiger women on her own hook.

Starting Saturday at the Palace is one of the timeliest features of the year, "The Forward Pass," a magnificent football story starring Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. and Loretta Young. It has thrills equal to those of a Yale-Harvard or Notre Dame-Southern California game. In fact the university of Southern California team was used in the filming of the play. Come and see real football, and a great love and action story besides.

Connecticut College Concert.

Sale of tickets for the Roth quartet which Connecticut college is bringing to New London for the second concert of the current series will begin tomorrow morning at Starr Brothers. The quartet arrived from Euope a little ove a month ago to make an extended tour of the country. After their concert in New York October 15, The Times said "The group of players, who at the recent festival in the library of congress, at Washington, (Oct. 8, 1929) repeated the profound impression they made last year again gave proof of the extraordinary qualities, technical and interpretative, which have characterized their previous appearances. The four musicians once more revealed themselves, as virtuosos in their respective fields, though all avoided any tendency to individual display of their powers, to the glory of a perfect ensemble and the music they interpreted.

In each of these works the players revealed in turn an insight and imagination that would seem to mark them as specialists in the several schools represented on their list. The large audience applauded the players with the enthusiasm usually bestowed only upon a favorite virtuoso, and gave evidence of the high esteem in which the organization is held by lovers of the best in chamber music."

Lecture Samuel Huntington School.

Dr. R. L. Morrow, of Wesleyan university will lecture on "Some Problems in American Diplomacy," Friday night at 8.00 o'clock at the Samuel Huntington school.

The services of Dr. Morrow have been procured through the efforts of the Business and Professional Women's club of Norwich, in answer to the present wide-spread interest in international diplomatic relations, and world disarmament.

Dr. Morrow is eminently qualified to handle the subject as a result of his extensive study and his numerous connections with movements in this country for the crystalization of world thought.

The round table on Latin America at the Connecticut conference on international relations in 1927 was led by Dr. Morrow, and he acted as secretary at a similar conference on the league of nations at the Williamstown institute of policies in 1923.

His articles on history and international relations have been published in such journals as the Hispanic-American Historical Review and the New England Quarterly.

Dr. Morrow for the past three years has headed the department of history and government at Wesleyan university, previous to which time he studied and taught at Harvard.

The lecture Friday night will be chiefly concerned with American relations toward the league, the world court, the peace pact and the coming disarmament conference. See adv.

SOMERS

The Somers choral society met with Mr and Mrs. S. D. Percival Monday evening.

The Ladies' Aid society served a community supper at Piedmont hall, Thursday evening. The hostesses were Mrs. Charles Billings, Mrs. Henry Prior, Mrs. Frederick Finley and Mrs. H. Leslie Lovett. About one hundred and eighty persons were served. Following the supper an entertainment was presented by a group of women from the Somersville Congregational church.

Twenty members of the Young Peoples' society attended the annual conference of the Enfield C. E. union last Friday and brought home the picture of Dr. Francis E. Clark, founder of the C. E. which is given to the society having the largest percentage of its membership present.

The Young Peoples' society is to pack a barrel this week to send to the suffering in connection with the textile strikers in North Carolina.

Mrs. Ralph E. Thayer, chairman of the Red Cross committee has appointed the following solicitors, who will call on local people soon: Mrs. A. L. Mead, Mrs. Ernest S. Fuller, Mrs. Joseph Leroux, Miss Vera Holmes, Mrs. Fred C. Davis, Misses Verna and Vina Converse, and Miss Barbara Kibbe.

Mrs. Ernest S. Fuller is to entertain the Somers Woman's club at her home this (Thursday) afternoon. Assistant hostesses are Mrs. John Hunt, Mrs. Edwin Thomas Jones and Miss Emily Kelly. Mrs. William G. Dwight of Holyoke, is to be the speaker.

Chester W. Pomeroy, who was seriously ill last week, was thought to be slightly improved the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Ellis' young son Roderick broke his collar bone last week.

Eben Jones of Harrington Park, N. J., is spending a few weeks with his son and daughter-in-law, Rev. and Mrs. Edwin Thomas Jones.

Miss Catherine D. Pomeroy spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Gardiner of Springfield.

Miss Isabelle Bugbee who is teaching in a private school in New Hampshire, spent the week end at home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond S. Bugbee.

Mrs. Francis W. H. Bill has enumerated local school children and finds there are 571 between the ages of 4 and 16 years. Seven local pupils are attending Rockville high school and 57 the Enfield high school.

GREENEVILLE

The meeting of St. Mary's Girls' club was held Monday evening at St. Mary's Memorial hall. A large part of the time was spent in glee club rehearsal under the direction of Mrs. Michael J. Farrell. The glee club is to make its initial appearance at St. Mary's harvest festival. The remainder of the evening was spent in a short gymnastic exercise and in a rehearsal of the dancing class, under the direction of Miss Mary E. O'Neil.

The Girls' Friendly society of St. Andrew's Episcopal church held the monthly social in the guild room of the church with a large attendance, taxing the seating capacity. William Banfield, well known sleight-of-hand performer, entertained, receiving much applause. The second number of the program was a Spanish dance given by Miss Marjorie Hill who gave a very fine exhibition. Solos were rendered by George Hollingsworth in pleasing voice, Mrs. Frank Lathrop, pianist, was accompanist. The successful affair was under the direction of Mrs. Edward R. Risley who was assisted by the Misses Mae Adams, Elsie Risley, Betty McNearney and Mildred Woolley. Dancing was enjoyed after the entertainment. The candy booth was in charge of Mrs. Edward Riding and Mrs. Schofield.

Tuesday evening Miss Eleanor Kelly of Fourteenth street entertained the members of the O. M. M. Sewing circle at her home. The first period of the evening was taken up with sewing of fancy articles, after which a social hour was enjoyed. Piano and vocal selections were rendered. Refreshments of assorted sandwiches, cakes, cookies, fruits, candies, ice cream, wafers and hot chocolate were served by the hostess. The dining room was prettily decorated with the season's colors of orange and black. Among those present were Rose Valentine, Josephine Fauckener, Mary Caulfield, Cornelier Valentine, Germaine La Forge, Marion Constanti, Mary Barry and Eleanor Kelly.

Mrs. Joseph Eccles of Prospect street and Mrs. A. Geanco of Fifth street spent Wednesday at New London.

Collecting Thanksgiving Barrels

The boys in Greeneville have started the annual collection of barrels which are being stored away for the annual barrel burning Thanksgiving night.

Pansies On Nov. 20

In the yard of Edward Reardon on Fourth street are pansies of various colors in bloom. A small bouquet was picked by a neighbor Tuesday. This is a rare thing to pick pansies the latter part of November.

ARREST AFTER COLLISION AT NORWICH TOWN

Samuel M. Sanford, 35, of West Mystic, was arrested here shortly before noon Wednesday by State Policeman Johnson of the Groton barracks on the charge of failure to grant right of way after an accident at Norwich Town near the Williams garage.

The machine driven by Sanford, who was driving out of a private driveway, was in collision with a coupe driven by Arthur Sylvia of 248 Main street.

Varicose Veins

Can Now Be Safely Reduced In Your Home

Why is it people are always so repulsed by unsightly Varicose Veins? Maybe it's because a physical defect is always offending and you'll have to admit there's nothing more distressing than to see a beautiful woman with shapely legs disfigured with thick, bulging veins and bunches!

But it's her own fault because the swift and effective way in which Moone's Emerald Oil has been stopping the pain of Varicose Veins and reducing the ugliest and most swollen veins to normal again—right in your own home, without the slightest inconvenience—is nothing short of magical.

Get a 2 ounce bottle of Emerald Oil this very day at your drugstore—you'll soon be able to wear the thinnest stockings, fashionable short skirts, a chic bathing suit without having everyone criticize your ugly veined legs!

A lady from Ogden writes: "I had Varicose Veins so bad I couldn't even walk in comfort. The doctor said I had to be operated on but I read about Emerald Oil and tried it and in 3 days time it fixed me up—one bottle did the work."

TELEPHONE INCREASE IN TEN MONTHS INDICATES GOOD BUSINESS ACTIVITY

A net increase of 1,476 telephones during the first ten months of the year pushed the total past the 33,000 mark in the New London district of the Southern New England Telephone Co., according to official figures obtained Wednesday, and this large net gain for this section of the state indicates a favorable business condition in the opinion of the telephone people.

A significant fact in connection with the telephone development in this district, which includes the New London, Norwich, Willimantic, Danielson, Putnam and other smaller exchanges, is that the net increase is nearly 300 greater for the ten months than was estimated by the engineers of the telephone company at the beginning of the year and is convincing proof of the fact that commercial and industrial activity throughout this area has been even greater than was expected at the beginning of the year.

The gain in New London was, of course, the largest for a single exchange, totaling 359 for the ten months. There are now close to 10,000 telephones in the New London exchange area.

The development in some of the other exchanges and the total telephones in use in each follow:

	Increase 10 mos.	Total in Use
Norwich	231	6,818
Willimantic	176	4,383
Danielson	102	1,584

There are 318,000 telephones in service in the Southern New England system at the present time, the net increase throughout the state for the ten months having totaled 17,900, about 2,200 above the company's estimate at the beginning of the year, showing that business generally has been moving forward in all sections of the state, for telephone development is recognized generally as a good barometer of business conditions.

CONVENTION REPORT GIVEN TO K. D. CITY UNION

There was an attendance of 45 at the fall meeting of the City Union of King's Daughters and Sons held Wednesday evening at 7:45 o'clock in the church school rooms of the United Congregational church with Charitable circle entertaining. The president, Mrs. John Kukla, was in charge of the session, at which the eight circles connected with the union, Charitable, Euphemian, Comfort, Everready, Grace, Loyal, Home chapter and Bright Jewels, were represented.

Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, pastor of the church, opened the meeting with scripture reading from the 55th chapter of Isaiah followed by prayer. A pleasing solo, Come Unto Me, was rendered by Miss Nellie Howie and the circle hymn, Precious Jewels, was given by members of the Bright Jewels circle, recently formed and comprising girls of Greeneville Congregational church. A splendid report on the recent state convention of King's Daughters at Hartford was rendered by Mrs. Kukla.

Following the business session, a social time was enjoyed and punch with cake was served by members of the entertaining circle.

The late Mrs. George E. Zimmerman, leader of Loyal circle, was among those for whom a memorial service was held at the King's Daughters' state convention.

STOPS BROADCAST OF UNLICENSED INSURANCE CO.

Acting under a law passed by the last session of the Connecticut legislature, the Connecticut insurance department has ordered Station WDRC of New Haven to stop broadcasting information about the accident policy of a company not authorized to do business in Connecticut.

The law was passed as a means of checking the writing of unauthorized or bootleg insurance in Connecticut. Any agency, whether radio station or newspaper, which aids an unlicensed insurance company to obtain business in this state by broadcasting or publishing its appeal for business, can be prosecuted under this act.

Under an old law, it is unlawful for an agent to place insurance with an unauthorized insurance company.

Joseph H. Maurice, supervisor of licenses in the Connecticut insurance department, who is a constant radio listener, heard the appeal for business by the National Protective association, while at his radio on Armistice day. The next day he checked up to see if the company was licensed to operate in Connecticut and found that it was not. The radio station was then informed that it was violating the law in aiding the company to obtain business in this state and the station manager agreed to drop the company from its program forthwith.

WOODSTOCK MAN WILL DESCRIBE GREEK MARKETS

Business men in Hartford and vicinity will have the opportunity to learn how American products gained pre-eminence in the markets of Greece when Gardner Richardson, commercial attache for the department of commerce in Athens, comes to Hartford on Monday, November 25, to address a luncheon gathering at the Hotel Bond held under the auspices of the Hartford cooperative office of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic commerce. A native of Woodstock, Connecticut, and a graduate of Yale in 1905, Mr. Richardson is now in this country on a conference itinerary and will consult with business men in Hartford, Waterbury, and New Haven concerning export possibilities before taking up his new assignment at Vienna.

Probably the greatest factor that has contributed to this favorable attitude toward America and American products, Mr. Richardson states, is the large number of Greek emigrants who, having spent many years in this country, upon their return to Greece with their savings bring American ideas and demands for American goods. The constant flow of emigrant money from America, and the relief work done by American organizations for Greek refugees are also favorable influences.

In general, he says, there is a good market in Greece for American products, and the probability is that this market will grow in importance. There are no restrictions nor handicaps to American trade, and the large public works under construction at the present time will create a demand for equipment that the United States is in a favorable position to supply.

FOUND MAN LIVING WITH MINOR GIRL

John Pina, 27, employed here on a construction job, was arrested while he was at work Wednesday afternoon by Officer Clifford Crary on a warrant charging a serious offense against a girl between 15 and 16 years old. It is claimed he brought the girl here about the first of November from the neighborhood of Wareham, Mass., and they have been living together in a house off Palmer street, where they started housekeeping.

The man was held at police headquarters for appearance in court and the girl was detained as a witness to await the arrival of friends from Massachusetts. It is understood that she wants to marry Pina.

Seeks Divorce For Desertion

Alex Spoulau, of East Lyme, has brought suit in the superior court for divorce from Mollie Rothstein Spoulau whom he married on May 9, 1909, and who deserted him in 1916. Where she is now, he claims, he does not know.

COURT AND JURY HEAR TRIAL OF $15,000 SUIT

The $15,000 suit brought by Mrs. Helen McIntosh against Battista Bottinelli, both of New London, was begun in trial there Wednesday morning in superior court before Judge Earnest C. Simpson and a jury.

The suit arises out of an accident near the corner of Main and Church streets Jan. 17, 1927, when it is alleged Mrs. McIntosh was struck down by a truck owned by Bottinelli and operated by Antonio De Angelo, of New London.

The plaintiff had rested her case at 12:40 o'clock in the afternoon. Her witnesses were Kenneth H. Holmes, Duncan C. Dart, Dr. Hugh F. Lena, Helen McIntosh and James D. Robinson.

The defense evidence was presented before the court and jury in the afternoon. The jury which is hearing the case consists of the following:

New London—Walter D. Beckwith, Cecil P. Caulkins, Reginald M. Rowland.

Groton—Philip J. Blackert, Walter E. Burdick, Percy H. Morgan.

Stonington—Joseph Leahy.

Montville—Frank J. Martin.

Ledyard—Herbert G. Crouch.

Waterford—Vine W. Starr, George A. Keeney.

East Lyme—Asahel R. DeWolf.

FINED FOR LEAVING AUTO BY ROADSIDE

Fred La Chance, 22, of Occum, was fined $1 and costs in the city court Wednesday morning after he entered a plea of guilty to a charge of abandoning a motor vehicle on a public highway. He was arrested earlier in the week by State Police Officer Johnson.

About two weeks ago, according to the police, La Chance's Ford coupe was left by the side of the Occum road. Two days later the state police were notified by residents in the vicinity and the machine was towed away.

La Chance stated that he has been working in Webster for several weeks and that he allowed his brother to use the machine. He was under the impression that his brother had left the machine at the Occum garage.

SETTLEMENT FOR $250 IN SUIT FOR $10,000

Settlement by a stipulation for $250 without costs, was made in the superior court at New London Tuesday after partial trial of the suit of Robert Tuthill, of Groton, against Julia S. Chalfait, of 235 West Second street, New York city. The suit was brought for $10,000 damages and was on trial before Judge Earnest C. Simpson and a jury.

The suit arose out of an accident on July 15, 1928 when according to the plaintiff, he was crossing Poquonoc road, Groton just as the defendant was operating an auto in a westerly direction. The complaint alleges that the defendant saw the plaintiff crossing the road. Tuthill alleges he sustained personal injuries when struck by the Chalfait car.

WORCESTER WOMAN WILL BE TRIED FOR THEFT

At the city court session Wednesday morning, Elizabeth Klein, 22, of Worcester, Mass., was bound over to the superior court on a theft charge. In default of $1,000 bonds the young woman went to jail to await trial. She is accused of stealing a diamond ring, value $1,000, from Mrs. Calvin Lentz, in September, while she was visiting in this city. She was arrested Sunday in Worcester and brought back to Norwich the same day.

The woman pawned the ring for $25 in a Boston pawnshop and County Detective William Lewis recovered the ring from the pawnshop Tuesday.

IN JAIL FOR FAILING TO KEEP THEIR PROMISE

William Morrissy of Worcester and Henry Bergin of Danielson were sent to jail for ten days by Judge Arthur F. Libby in the city court Wednesday morning. They were presented in court Monday on intoxication charges and were allowed their freedom on their promise to get out of town. They failed to make good their promises to leave town and were picked up again by the police.

Montville Assessor Resigns

Ambrose Sullivan has resigned his place on the board of assessors in the town of Montville as the duties of first selectman require his whole attention. William Tinker has been appointed to fill the vacancy. He is well fitted for the office.

Tuesday Night Club Met

The Tuesday Night club met at the home of Mrs. Andrew Wesoski. The prizes were taken by Mrs. Anthony Markey and Mrs. Joseph Fitzgerald, the scorers being Miss Irene Shea and Miss Mary E. McGill. Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Frank Brooks and Mrs. Edward McCaffrey.

Sufficient Daily Elimination is necessary to good health. TAKE Beecham's Pills. THE NATION'S LAXATIVE

TAFTVILLE

The members of the Young Ladies' class in home nursing and hygiene, which is instructed by Miss Louise Sigrist, R. N., met Tuesday evening in the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah building.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dona have returned from their wedding trip and are making their residence with Mrs. Dona's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bernal of Occum.

In the list of those qualifying for airplane pilot's licenses appears the name of Edwin Pollard of Boston, Mass. He is a son of William Pollard of South Second avenue.

With a large attendance, the regular weekly meeting of the members of St. Veronica's society was held Wednesday evening at the society's rooms on Providence street.

Michael Adams is confined to his home on the Occum road by illness.

The next meeting of the Thimble club is to be with Mrs. Walter W. Kellner of Providence street.

A great many people attended the carnival at St. Theresa's hall, Tuesday evening. Booths were well patronized and articles were quickly disposed of. The entertainment of the evening was a play in the French language given by the members of the French speaking branch of the Children of Mary Sodality. On Saturday evening, a play in English was given by the members of the English speaking branch of the society. The carnival is being given by both branches of the sodality, and the proceeds are to be used to extinguish the parish debt.

Mrs. Richard B. Snow, the president, presided at the monthly meeting of the members of the Ladies' Benevolent society held Wednesday afternoon at the Taftville Congregational church vestry. After the business session there was a social hour, cake and coffee being served by a special committee. The society is to take an active part at the annual church fair, which is now being planned. Neil Poulsen of Ansonia was the speaker of the afternoon.

Two groups of the Dramatic club met Tuesday evening for business and rehearsal. One group met at Ponemah hall, the other in the Taftville Congregational church vestry.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold G. Faatz and family who have been at the Ponemah house are moving to a house on North B street.

Ralph H. Marsh of Norwich Town was a caller in the village Wednesday.

NORWICH TOWN

FORMER NEIGHBORS SORROW FOR MRS. B. J. ROBBINS

In attendance from Norwich Town, at the funeral Tuesday noon of Mrs. Mellissa Dean Robbins, widow of Burton J. Robbins, held at the home of her father Edward M. Dean, Old Lyme, were the following relatives and friends: Mr. and Mrs. David M. Dean, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Kinney, Mrs. Elizabeth R. Kinney, Mr. and Mrs. William E. House and Mrs. William Kinney. The service was conducted by Rev. W. D. Hoag, pastor of Old Lyme Congregational church, which Mrs. Robbins attended. Rev. Mr. Hoag also conducted the committal service at the grave in the family plot in Yantic cemetery, where a number of Norwich Town friends assembled, in sorrow for a beloved friend, for ten years a resident of Norwich Town before her marriage with Mr. Robbins, also formerly of Norwich Town. Among the beautiful floral remembrances was a large emblem from Sedgwick Corps, No. 16, of Norwich, also a large spray from a group of neighbors on Town street, where Mrs. Robbins frequently visited among relatives, prior to the death of her husband, February 11th, 1927, and since that time. After their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Robbins located about 15 years ago in Providence where their only surviving child, Burton J. Robbins Jr., now 10 years of age, was born. Mrs. Robbins, since the death of her husband, with her little son, has made her home with her father, Edward M. Dean of Old Lyme, who with two brothers and two sisters survives her. She was the granddaughter of a Civil war veteran. At the funeral Tuesday four from Norwich Town acted as bearers, her two brothers-in-law, David M. Dean and Allen Kinney, also William E. House and Charles Burk. Mrs. Robbins' death as the result of a paralytic shock has brought sorrow to a large circle of relatives and friends. Much sympathy has been expressed for the little son, bereft of both parents. The boy is to make his home with Mr. and Mrs. David M. Dean. The former is an uncle of his mother; while Mrs. Dean and Mrs. Allen Kinney are sisters of his father.

Mr. and Mrs. David M. Dean had at supper Tuesday Edward Dean and Mr. and Mrs. Allen Dean and family of Old Lyme; Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Dean and family, Colchester; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Keeney and daughter Gladys, of East Hartford, and Burton J. Robbins Jr.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Lamb returned home Tuesday afternoon from a few days' visit in Mystic with Dr. Lamb's relatives Mrs. H. E. Brainard and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Jull Gremley. While there, the entire party motored through Rhode Island one afternoon, stopping at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Briggs of West Kingston, a cousin of Mrs. Lamb, whom she had not met in nearly 23 years. While there they learned of the death Saturday of Mrs. Herbert Smith, Mrs. Briggs' sister-in-law, residing in Wakefield. When leaving Mystic Tuesday morning, Dr. and Mrs. Lamb motored over to Westerly and attended the November dinner in Mechanics hall, of Shore Line club No. 6, of the Social Corner. Passing through Stonington a stop was made at the home of Frank R. Tracy and his sister, Mrs. Luella Tracy Gager, the latter a former neighbor of Mrs. Lamb for many years. At the dinner in Westerly, by request of the hostess, Dr. Lamb led in the singing of the Doxology, which was preceded by bowed heads for one minute of silent prayer, in memory of Mrs. Louisa R. Olin of Willimantic, a member of S. C. club No. 1, whose pen name was Lavender.

SCOUTS HEAR CHIEF EXECUTIVE AT NEW LONDON RALLY

The Boy Scouts of Troop 2, connected with the Methodist Episcopal church were guests of Scout Executive Frederick E. Burdick of the New London council Tuesday afternoon at a big rally held in the Lyceum theatre, New London. The theatre was filled with Boy Scouts and special guests. The principal speaker was Dr. James E. West, chief scout executive of the United States. Music was furnished by the Coast Guard band. There was a roll call of the 35 troops in the New London council by Scout Commissioner Ernest Nibbs. After each troop had responded Commissioner Nibbs called on Troop 2 of Norwich to stand, there were fifteen scouts and their scoutmaster Rev. George Warren Potter. Mr. Nibbs explained that the Norwich scouts were special guests and he commended them on their fine showing. As they stood at attention the New London scouts led by Commissioner Nibbs burst into hearty applause. A large framed photo of Chief West was presented each of the New London troops and Commissioner Nibbs promised to send a similar picture to the Norwich scouts. Chief West gave a most helpful and inspiring address on the subject, "Four Wheel Brakes" in which he applied the teachings and work of the scout movement as the four wheel brakes in boyhood, namely, physical, education, vocational guidance and character or religion. Five New London scouts were presented the Eagle Scout badge by Chief West. Scoutmaster Potter was a guest at the dinner given Chief West in the evening at the Mohican hotel. Several times during the evening Rev. Mr. Potter who was in an officer's uniform was mistaken for Chief West whom he somewhat resembles. The Norwich scouts who attended were Senior Patrol Leader Donald Olsen, Patrol Leaders Wallace Wagner and Clayton Rose, Scribe Edward Eccleston, Earl Robinson, Edward Gallagher, Frederick Ross, Albert Eyberse, Donald Waterman, John Laskowski, Leon Ladd, Roland Page, Bugler Edward Jordan and Wolf Cub Richard Snow. Transportation was furnished by William Burdick and Mrs. Rutherford H. Snow, father and sister of Executive Burdick respectively.

OCCUM ROAD COLLISION BRINGS FINE IN COURT

John Hynes, 29, of Baltic, was fined $10 and costs in the city court Wednesday morning on a charge of failure to grant the right of way. His machine struck a horse and wagon owned and driven by G. L. Bromley of Lisbon on the Occum road Tuesday night. Hynes was arrested by Constables Filligar and Sullivan on a charge of reckless driving, but the charge was changed Wednesday morning to failure to grant the right of way. Mr. Bromley received slight cuts and bruises about the head and the horse was quite badly injured. Mr. Hynes claimed there was no light on the wagon, which Mr. Bromley disputed.

CITY COURT HAS CROWDED HOUSE FOR LIQUOR CASES; ALL CONTINUED

Trials of the cases of the score of men and women arrested Tuesday night on liquor law violation charges by the local police, were continued until next Monday morning when they were called Wednesday morning in the city court. The continuances were granted on request of Prosecuting Attorney Charles W. Cassidy, who stated that the state was not ready to present its evidence against the accused.

Seven of the accused went to jail to await trial as they were unable to secure bonds, in each case set at $1,000. Thirteen are out on bonds and one, Stanislaus Tenscar of No. 14 North Thames street, was allowed his freedom Wednesday morning.

Several hundred spectators crowded into the city court room and corridor to view the proceedings, but were disappointed when the cases were continued. Every seat in the court room was taken, the aisles were crowded and men and women were seated on the window sills and filled the hallway.

The evidence on which the raid warrants were issued was collected by five out-of-town stool pigeons working under County Detective William Lewis on orders of State's Attorney Arthur M. Brown. It is understood that there is evidence of actual sale in each of the cases slated for trial. The "stools" have been at work in Norwich since Nov. 1, it is understood.

Those who were unable to provide bail for themselves or induce any of their freinds to advance the needed security to keep them out of jail were Viola Neville, 28 High street; Monica Joubrey, colored, 15 West Main street; Arba Simons, colored, 5 Forest street; James Bush, 150 West Main street; George Lee, colored, 5 Forest street; Abraham Scott, colored, 42 High street; Agnes Hall, colored, 12 North High street.

Suit Brought On Note

Suit to collect a note for $200, dated Aug. 6, 1929, has been brought in the common pleas court by Charles H. Fitch, of Lisbon, against Alex Sorenski, of Sprague. The suit is returnable in December and a farm near Baltic has been attached.

MAINTENANCE OF WAGES AT PRESENT LEVELS ASSURED

Industrial and Labor Leaders Promise That There Will Be No Wage Conflicts in the Present Emergency—Construction Work, Both Public and Private, is to Be Expanded to Provide to Lessen Unemployment—Hoover Has Brought Capital and Labor Into Accord to Stabilize Business of the Country—Henry Ford is to Increase Wages of His Employes.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21. — (AP) — Maintenance of wages at present levels was strongly recommended to the country today by industrial and labor leaders who conferred separately with President Hoover.

A white house statement issued tonight said the purpose of the recommendations was to give assurance that conflicts should not occur to affect the continuity of work in the present situation and that stability of employment would be maintained.

The industrialists meeting with the chief executive to help promote continued business progress pledged themselves individually not to start any movement for wage reduction. They were invited here as representatives of the steel, motor, public utilities and mercantile trades and their concerns employ in the aggregate several millions of persons in all sections of the country.

Henry Ford was one of those present and upon leaving the white house he announced a general increase, the amount of which is yet to be determined, in the wages of all of the employes of the Ford Motor company with its branches and agencies throughout the United States.

In so doing he gave it as his opinion that one way to insure attainment of the object the president seeks was to increase the purchasing power of the American people by putting more money into the homes of the country.

His announcement was made after the industrial group had sat with the president and other government officials for slightly more than three hours and only half an hour before the representatives of the American Federation of Labor and the four railway brotherhoods gathered in the cabinet room for a conference which lasted even a longer time.

A white house statement said tonight that the president had been authorized by both the business leaders and the representatives of the American Federation of Labor and the railway brotherhoods to make this announcement.

The industrialists gave individual assurances that they would not initiate any movement for a wage reduction. This step was taken, it was explained, not only because of the humanitarian side of the question, but also for maintaining the consuming power of the country.

The representatives of labor, the statement added, agreed that no movements for wage increases beyond those already underway would be started at this time and that every cooperation would be given to aid in the president's program looking to continued business progress.

Present at the labor conference were Secretary Davis and William Green, president and half a dozen other officials of the American federation and the heads of the four brotherhoods. The president outlined to them the general purposes for which he has invited representative groups to Washington and laid before them the results of the forenoon meeting with business and industrial leaders.

Besides Henry Ford these leaders included Julius Rosenwald, of Chicago, chairman of the board of Sears, Roebuck and company; Owen D. Young, chairman of the board of the General Electric company; Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of General Motors; Pierre Dupont, chairman of the board of the E. I. Dupont De Nemours & company; E. G. Grace, president of the Bethlehem Steel corporation; Homer L. Ferguson president of the Newport News Shipbuilding & Dry Dock company, and a number of others.

Beyond the recommendation as to wages, they agreed that a definite organization should be established under a committee representing the different industries and sections of the business community which would undertake to follow up the president's program in the different industries.

A white house statement said there was an unanimous opinion that there was no reason why business should not be carried on as usual and that construction work should be expanded in every prudent direction both public and private so as to cover any slack in unemployment.

Some of the individual industrial leaders at the conference expressed their confidence in the outlook for general business, among those describing it as good being Owen D. Young Julius Rosenwald, Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the finance committee of the United States Steel corporation; Clarence Woolley, president of the American Radiator company, and Redfield Proctor, president of the New England council.

FORD TO INCREASE WAGES OF EMPLOYES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21—(AP)—Henry Ford wrote his own prescription today for improving business conditions by announcing an immediate general increase in the wages of his many thousands of employes over the country.

Visiting Washington at the invitation of President Hoover, he sat in on a three-hours conference of industrial leaders at the white house and then issued a previously prepared statement of what he thought ought to be done to counteract the stock market fall.

Then rushing uptown for a hasty lunch, he returned to the white house for a brief talk with the president and as he was getting into his light overcoat before starting back home he smilingly made his wage increase announcement to a couple of inquiring white house reporters.

"We are going to increase the basic wage scale of our employes," the automobile manufacturer blandly announced.

"When?" he was asked.

"Immediately."

"How much?"

"Oh, it will be general."

"Will it be as much as ten per cent."

"We know the amount but it has to be worked out in detail, but we are increasing wages. That's plain enough, isn't it?"

STEPS TO PREVENT PLANE ACCIDENTS IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Police Commissioner Grover A. Whalen today announced plans designed to reduce the likelihood of future airplane accidents similar to the one yesterday in which a ship fell on the roof of a mid-town building, killing Charles Reid, a private pilot.

First, he said, he will confer shortly with representatives of the department of commerce in an effort to increase the minimum altitude at which a plane may fly over the city from 2,000 feet to 7,000 or 10,000. This, he said, would enable a ship with motor trouble to glide to a landing beyond the congested districts of the city.

Within a week or so, he will have ready a program of aviation legislation which would incorporate an ordinance to prohibit private pilots from flying over the city at all.

The commission explained that flying conditions over the city, due to peculiar air currents caused by the high buildings, are extremely hazardous and might confuse even experienced pilots within the present legal limits.

CHANGES DESIGNED TO MAKE WASHINGTON DRY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—(AP)— The first shake-up designed to diminish the inflow of liquor which senators have charged appeases the alcoholic appetite of Washington occurred today—John F. J. Herbert being transferred as prohibition administrator at Baltimore for this district to the Nineteenth district with headquarters at Helena, Montana.

Announcing the shift, Assistant Secretary Lowman also revealed that John J. Quinn had been suspended as deputy administrator at Baltimore pending hearing of charges. The treasury official, who has charge of making the nation arid under the Volstead act, declined to discuss either move; but it was learned the actions were based on the belief that Washington was entirely too wet.

$4,000 DAMAGES AWARDED PRESS PHOTOGRAPHER

MIDDLETOWN, Nov. 21.—(AP)—A jury in superior court today awarded $4,000 damages to Harry A. Scheer, Providence, R. I., newspaper photographer, in his suit against Dionigi Arrigoni, hotel keeper of Middletown.

Scheer sued for $25,000. He was injured in a fall down an elevator shaft last Christmas eve while staying in Arrigoni's hotel.

CONVICTION IN THE N. Y. "POULTRY TRUST" CASE

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Forty-five days after they went on trial in federal court on charges of restraining trade in connection with the operations of the New York "poultry trust," 63 individual defendants and three organizations were convicted today. Two men, Joe Goldman and Emanuel Herbert, were acquitted.

The jury had been out more than 27 hours, perusing the testimony which filled four large volumes. Federal Judge Knox, before whom the trial was held, announced that sentences would be passed on Dec. 3. Meanwhile the defendants were released on bail.

The maximum penalty for violation of the Sherman anti-trust act is a year in prison or $5,000 fine or both.

The organizations found guilty were the Greater New York Live Poultry Chamber of Commerce, local 167 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers of America, and the official Orthodox Poultry Slaughterers of America, Inc. All of the individual defendants are residents of New York.

When the trial began on Oct. 7, there were 90 defendants under indictment. Three pleaded guilty, verdicts of acquittal were ordered for 15 others and four were severed leaving 68 to face the jury.

ROBERT ALDRICH HAS BEEN RELEASED UNDER $7,500 BAIL

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 21.—(AP)— Robert Aldrich, young president of Flyers, Inc., here, for whom extradition papers were signed in Providence today by Governor Norman S. Case, was released under $7,500 bail later in the day to await an extradition hearing before Governor Roosevelt which may be held tomorrow.

An indictment, issued Oct. 23, by a Newport, R. I., grand jury, charging Aldrich with obstructing justice by failing to appear as a witness against two men he accused of fleecing him of $40,000 in the "Boothden" wire tapping swindle.

IRISH LASS USED STOOL TO FLOOR BURGLAR

PORT ARTHUR, Tex., Nov. 21.—(AP) —Marguerite Riley, 16, is Irish. In fact, in early childhood she earned the sobriquet of "The Fighting Colleen."

A robber who entered a home here where the girl was taking care of two children for a woman friend approached the girl brandishing a revolver. In a jiffy, however, the gun dropped to the floor. So did the robber.

While Marguerite scurried to a neighbor's house for help the intruder regained consciousness and escaped. A broken stool which the colleen had hurled at his head was all the evidence left.

FINAL FUNERAL SERVICES FOR SEC'Y. J. W. GOOD TODAY

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Former neighbors, friends and business associates of the late James W. Good, secretary of war in President Hoover's cabinet, today gathered at the railroad station to pay final honors to the man who began a life of public service as a young attorney, here.

Tomorrow morning they will attend a simple funeral in the First Presbyterian church where he worshiped with his family when in Cedar Rapids. Then he will be buried with military rites in a cemetery a few miles from his birthplace on an Iowa farm.

MAY SELL AIRPLANES ON PART PAYMENT PLAN

CHICAGO, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Arthur Greene, president of the Merchants & Manufacturers Securities Co., said today his company had concluded the time was at hand when airplanes could be sold on the part payment plan. Developments in this direction, he said, would follow along the same lines as had characterized the motor industry.

The Merchants and Manufacturers first step in this direction has been to make a contract with the Great Lakes Aircraft Corp. for financing of installment sales of planes.

LIPTON TO SEND YACHT FOR RACES OFF NEWPORT

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP) — Sir Thomas Lipton, perennial challenger for the America's cup with his long line of shamrocks, will send Shamrock V to the starting line off Newport next September in command of a professional skipper, Captain L. Hord, master of the late Sir Mortimer Singer's 24-metre sloop Astra. His announcement was made here today by William A. W. Stewart and George E. Cormack, New York Yacht club delegates to the recent meeting of the International Yacht Racing union in London.

SOVIET CONSUL FIRED REVOLVER AT STUDENTS

LOOW, Poland, Nov. 21.—(AP)—The soviet consul here today fired a revolver into a crowd of students who smashed the windows of the consulate with stones as a protest against persecutions of Ukrainian nationalists by the soviet government.

Nobody was wounded by the shots and the police deemed that they were fired because of high excitement and with no intention of committing harm. No action was taken. The demonstrators, however, were dispersed by the officers.

TUNNEY AND WIFE TO SAIL FOR HOME TODAY

NAPLES, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Gene Tunney, former heavyweight champion, and his wife, the former Polly Lauder, of Greenwich, Conn., denied themselves to interviewers on the eve of their return to the United States. They will sail on the steamer Vulcania which leaves Naples tomorrow

The Tunneys have been in Europe ever since their marriage in this country on Oct. 3, 1928.

WIDESPREAD ANTI-SOVIET ORGANIZATION DISCOVERED

KHARKOV, Ukraine, Russia, Nov. 21.—(AP)—The Kharkov state political police announced tonight the discovery of a widespread anti-soviet organization headed by S. Efremov, a member of the Ukrainian Academy of Sciences, and Chekovsky, who was premier of the independent Ukrainian government proclaimed by General Simon Petlura in 1920.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Nov. 21.—(AP)—A report received tonight from steamer Georgia said she was proceeding to St. John's with several of her crew injured. The message asked for a pilot and doctors. Neither the nature of the injuries nor the cause was mentioned.

SNOW AND RAIN IN SECTIONS OF ARKANSAS

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 21.—(AP)— Winter today brought snow, rain and freezing temperatures to most sections of Arkansas.

Snow fell here practically all day and part of the night. The white mantle was several weeks ahead of schedule The thermometer hovered around the freezing mark throughout the day.

GOV. TRUMBULL SPOKE TO NEW ENGLAND COUNCIL

BOSTON, Nov. 21—(AP)—In an address before the New England council here today, Governor John H. Trumbull of Connecticut, spoke particularly of aviation and in this connection referred to his son-in-law, John Coolidge.

"He is not yet a pilot," Governor Trumbull said, "but I hope he soon will be."

Blast In Washington Killed Five Persons

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21 — explosion in the basement ten cent store during the rush hour killed five persons, injured at least four others and sent 40 less seriously hurt to hospitals.

The blast rocked the store and tore away the front wall to send bricks and huge concrete blocks from the sidewalk hurtling upon passers-by.

So great was the disorder left by the concrete and wreckage showered about the front of the building that it was two hours before firemen could clear it away with motor derricks to find the source of the explosion. In a basement under the sidewalk they found a shattered hot water boiler to which they attributed the blast. They reported that the top of the steel tank was located across the street.

Five hours after the explosion, the list of dead had grown to five. These are: Mrs. Elizabeth Dawson, Charles Jacobson, Miss Catherine Cullinane, her grand niece, Mary Ann Cockerell, two years old, and the child's mother, Mrs. Anna May Cockerell.

Four others, seriously hurt, were: Charles Decker, 5, bruises, shock and possible internal injuries; Mrs. Ida Decker, skull fracture and internal injuries; Warren Thayer, fractured spine and neck broken, and an unidentified woman suffering internal injuries.

LOTTERY INDICTMENTS BY FED. GRAND JURY

BOSTON, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Two indictments naming separate groups on charges of conspiracy in interstate transportation of lottery tickets were returned by the federal grand jury today.

It is alleged in one indictment that Thomas Day, of Newton; James E. O'Shay, of Middleton; John H. O'Shea, of Lynn; Henry Dandrieson, of Gloucester; Clarence Spiller, of Portland, Me.; Joseph King, of Hartford, Conn., and Bob Joyner, of West Hartford, Conn., entered into a conspiracy to transport tickets from Massachusetts into New Hampshire and Maine in connection with the so-called Leader lottery. Another indictment names as defendants Robert Leventhal, Frank Butterworth and George Norton, all of New Haven, Conn., and Louis Itkowitz, of New London, Conn. The charge is in relation to the Lucky Play or Lucky Diamond lottery. It is alleged that the conspiracy to transport and advertise tickets began in New Haven, Conn., in 1928.

CLAIMS HUSBAND'S DEATH DUE TO INSURANCE PLOT

CHICAGO, Nov. 21.—(AP)—William O'Brien died tonight at the Holy Cross hospital from wounds inflicted upon him at his apartment last night in what police were told by his widow was an insurance plot which embraced also the slaying of Mrs. Samuel H. Dorr, wife of Mrs. O'Brien's sweetheart.

Mrs. O'Brien and Dorr were arrested immediately after the shooting and both attempted to shoulder the blame. A number of conflicting statements were made by the pair, but police gave most credence to a confession by Mrs. O'Brien that she and Dorr planned to kill their respective mates and flee with funds from a $5,000 policy. Dorr, an insurance salesman, recently sold the victim.

GIFT OF $35,000 FOR THE NAT'L ILLITERACY CRUSADE

NEW YORK, Nov. 21—(AP)—The National illiteracy crusade, after a meeting in the office of its president, Dr. John W. Finley, today announced receipt of a gift of $35,000 from the Julius Rosenwald fund.

The announcement said the money was to be used in the crusade's campaign for wiping out illiteracy in the United States, particularly in the south

Prof. W. Carson Ryan, of Swarthmore college, and Dr. A. E. Winship, of Boston, were among those present at the meeting.

ILLNESS IS SAPPING THE VITALITY OF CLEMENCEAU

PARIS, Nov. 21—(AP)—The Tiger of France tonight was fighting another battle for life with characteristic courage and unshaken mind.

Although Dr. Degennes and Dr. Lagory reported that Clemenceau's condition was improved after their consultation this evening, they appeared to consider the present crisis the most serious the wartime premier has yet encountered. The 88-year-old statesman has repelled successive attacks on his heart and dicestive system during the past few months, but the effort has sapped his vitality.

SUB-ZERO TEMPERATURES IN MID-WESTERN STATES

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 21—(AP)—Winter unloosened its first general offensive in the west today with a frigid blast that sprinkled snow as far south as Texas and sent temperatures about zero from the northern Rocky Mountain region to the Great Lakes.

Blizzard conditions were reported in Montana and light snowfall was general in other sections, extending down through Kansas, Oklahoma and northern Texas where near freezing weather prevailed.

MOONEY CASE REFERRED TO THE PARDONING BOARD

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Nov. 21—(AP)— As a step toward determining the truth in the pardon appeal of Thomas J. Mooney, convicted of the 1916 preparedness day bombing in San Francisco, Governor C. C. Young announced today he was referring the case to the advisory pardon board for investigation and recommendation. In his appeal Mooney asserts his innocence.

DECREASE IN LOANS TO BROKERS AND DEALERS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21— (AP) — Loans to brokers and dealers held by New York federal reserve member banks for the week ending November 20, were announced by the federal reserve board today as $3,587,000,000, a decrease of $386,000,000 as compared with the preceding week.

Favor Tilson For Secretary Of War

Republican Leaders Consider Congressman Well Qualified For the Position.

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21—Selection of Representative Tilson for secretary of war is advocated by a number of republican leaders here. No one questions Tilson's splendid qualifications for that position and it is well known he stands close to the president, both personally and as in sympathy with the president's political policies. At the same time it is recognized that Tilson is a very valuable asset to Hoover and to the party in his position of republican leader of the house.

"The cabinet would gain strength and the house lose strength if Tilson were made secretary of war" sums up the opinion here. In the meantime Tilson declines to comment on the matter. It is rumored he is tremendously interested in his work as leader and that is as far as any one ventures to state at this moment. Whether he refers it to a cabinet office and in which position Hoover prefers to see him must remain a doubt till an appointment is made. One thing is sure, Hoover and Tilson each have implicit confidence in the other and the mention of Tilson as a successor to Good is not without reasonable foundation.

$100,000 SUIT AGAINST SEN. WATSON DISMISSED

HAMMOND, Ind., Nov. 21.—(AP)—For a few hours today, U. S. Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana, was defendant in a $100,000 damage suit charging libel filed in federal court by Ralph B. Bradford, Lake county political leader. The suit three hours later was dismissed on grounds the federal court had no jurisdiction.

The libel action was a sequel to the federal grand jury investigation of corruption in Lake county in which Bradford took part as a principal government witness.

He was purported to have told the grand jury that Senator Watson and Federal Judge Thomas Slick, before whom the libel suit was filed, held a conference in Chicago to talk about preventing the grand jury inquiry.

WAS OFFERED BRIBE WHEN HE STOPPED LIQUOR TRUCK

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP)—A Nassau county police sergeant told a jury in federal court today that Rudolph Wylk, alleged head of the "Long Island liquor ring," had offered him a "large sum of money" as a bribe when he stopped one of the ring's liquor-laden trucks near Hempstead, N. Y.

The police sergeant, Walter Brown, was testifying at the trial of Wylk and seven other alleged members of the ring. The other defendants are Captain Michael Gillom, Karl Lounberg, Fred Rohrer, Otto Dierks, Ernest Withead, Peter Blohm and Bernard Molitor. The government charges that the operations of the ring extended from Long Island to the South Carolina coast and covered a period of three years.

GUNMAN IN LONDON GETS WHIPPING SENTENCE

LONDON, Nov. 21.—(AP)—A self-styled "New York gunman" was reduced to meekness in Old Bailey today when he was sentenced to 15 strokes from the cat-o'-nine-tails and 18 months of hard labor for robbery with a pistol. The crime netted him $100.

The prisoner gave his name as Jacobus Van Dyn. He said he had emigrated from South Africa to the United States where he learned up-to-date footpad methods. Sentence was passed by Sir Henry Dickens, son of the novelist.

"Thank you, sir," said Van Dyn to the judge as he was led away to the whipping post.

FOUR BRITISH DESTROYERS ANSWER DISTRESS CALLS

LONDON, Nov. 21—(AP)—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Malta tonight said that four British destroyers had left the base in response to calls from a British steamer, the Baron Elcho, which reported trouble with a mutinous crew.

The dispatch said the mutineers had assaulted the wireless operator. It was believed that they did this in an attempt to prevent him from giving the ship's position to the naval station. It was also reported that the steamer was carrying cocaine as a part of its cargo.

No confirmation of this has come from other sources.

STOCK MARKET COLLAPSE DEBATED IN THE SENATE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21—(AP)—An irate senate turned back to the financial world today the blame for the recent collapse of the stock market as republicans and democrats bitterly assailed critics of congress.

Senator Glass, of Virginia, a former democratic secretary of the treasury and one of the founders of the federal reserve system, said that Charles E. Mitchell, chairman of the board of the National City Bank of New York city, was "more responsible than all others together for the excesses that have resulted in this disaster."

INDICTMENT OF FORMER JUDGE MANCUSO QUASHED

NEW YORK, Nov. 21—(AP)—Supreme Court Justice Tompkins today quashed the indictment against former Judge Francis X Mancuso and six other directors of the defunct City Trust company, who were charged with participation in the bank's fraudulent insolvency.

Justice Tompkins, who sent the decision from his home in White Plains after deliberating on the case for nearly a week, held that the section of the penal code under which the indictment was returned was unconstitutional.

TIDAL WAVE CAUSE OF 36 DEATHS IN NEWFOUNDLAND

Several Little Fishing Villages Along the Southern Side of the Peninsular Were Destroyed—Property Damage of Unestimated Proportions Resulted—Some Reports Said the Wave Reached a Height of Forty Feet—Wave, Caused by Earthquake, Swept Along the Coast For a Distance of Thirty Miles.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Nov. 21—(AP)—A gigantic tidal wave caused by the earthquake of last Monday, hit the isolated section of the south coast of the Burin peninsula, Newfoundland, and took a toll of 36 lives and caused property damage of unestimated proportions.

First news of the disaster which destroyed several little fishing villages along the remote southern side of the peninsula three days ago reached here today by government wireless from steamers which put into the inlet at Burin. Land communication with the section had been severed since Monday when a storm, preceding the quake and tidal wave, swept across the island.

Burin, the most important of the little coast towns, and having a population of 1,200, reported nine drowned when the huge wall of water struck, carrying 16 buildings into the sea, most of those killed were women and children.

Some reports said that the wave, crowded into the narrow inlet by high rocky cliffs, reached a height of 40 feet in Burin and swept away all property along the water front.

The dead at Lamaline, a village of 426 persons, and Lord's Cove, with 295 inhabitants, numbered 18.

Port-Aux-Boas, with 296 population, reported seven killed when buildings were demolished by the wall of water. Mrs. Thomas Judge and her three children were lost when their house was swept away and Mrs. S. Bennett, her brother and Mrs. William Allen were the other victims.

A report from Kelly's Cove, said Mrs. V. Kelly and her daughter were lost when their home was destroyed.

The extent of the damage is unknown, but numerous fisheries dot the peninsula coast and it was believed the property loss was great. St. Lawrence was reported hit but the damage or loss of life there was not learned.

Sticking finger-like to the southwest from the mainland of Newfoundland, the Burin peninsula, is fringed with high precipitous cliffs. Burin inlet, along which most of the deaths were reported, is a narrow entrance through 300-foot cliffs that front the Atlantic ocean.

Burin is only 350 miles from where seismologists estimate the submarine disturbance was centered in the Gulf of St. Lawrence. From the early reports, the tidal wave kicked up by the quake, originating under the sea, struck along the coast for a distance of 30 miles.

The steamer Dalay, a government boat, is giving assistance to the stricken communities. Among the other vessels along the coast is the Portia, which wirelessed first news of the disaster.

The quake which caused the tidal wave was felt all along the northeastern American coast Monday. Buildings shook throughout New England cities and in sections of Nova Scotia chimneys fell and windows were broken, no serious damage was reported on land from the disturbance however.

The tidal wave temporarily paralyzed the winter fishery, upon which the people of Burin depend for the necessities of life. Fishing stands, boats and dwellings went down with the tide, advices tonight said, and it was believed that the means of livelihood for residents of a 30-mile stretch of coast had been reduced to ruins.

Telegraph lines to Burin have been down since Sunday, when northwest winds of gale proportions kept the fishermen ashore.

Because of the crippled communications it was believed here that it may be several days before the exact extent of the property damage is known.

The government steamer Meigle tonight was carrying medical assistance to the stricken peninsula, doctors, nurses and provisions were hastily put aboard the ship shortly after first word of the disaster reached the department of justice today.

QUAKE FELT ON LINER OFF COAST OF NOVA SCOTIA

NEW YORK, Nov. 21—(AP)—Captain W. L. James, master of the Furness liner Nerissa, said on his arrival today from Halifax, N. S., that when his ship steamed into the harbor in Halifax, N. S., at 12:30 Tuesday morning the tide was the highest he ever remembered seeing. He would not say, though, that the condition was brought about by a tidal wave.

The Nerissa, en route to Halifax from St. John's, N. F., experienced two minutes of severe earthquake shocks Monday afternoon 13 miles off the Nova Scotia coast. Captain James said, and it was not until they reached Halifax that he knew what had occurred.

He was in his cabin, he said, and his first impression was that the ship had gone full speed astern to avoid a collision. He rushed to the bridge.

The ship was examined and the holds tested, but nothing was wrong. The sea was calm, Captain James said, and the only explanation he could see until he reached Halifax was that there had been a land swell and the ship's propeller had been racing.

When the Nerissa reached Halifax the cable repair ships Cyrus Field and Lord Kelvin were preparing to set forth to repair the breaks in the cables out of Halifax to Europe.

The Nerissa encountered a gale en route to New York which delayed her arrival 12 hours.

TESTIMONY FOR STATE IN M'MANUS MURDER TRIAL

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP)— The parade of the big-time gamblers, to whom the loss of $50,000 in a stud poker game is nothing to get excited about, began today in the trial of George McManus for the murder of Arnold Rothstein.

They described a 22-hour session of stud poker at the home of Jimmy Meehan one Saturday night and Sunday in September, 1928, in which, they said, Rothstein lost $200,000.

In their account of this party, the state had announced it hoped to find a motive that would have driven McManus, race track bookie, to shoot the overlord of the New York gambling world in a room at the Park Central hotel the night of November 4, 1928.

The state, outlining its case to the jury earlier in the day, said it had a witness who would place McManus in that room 10 minutes before another witness heard a "bang" and saw Rothstein stagger out into the corridor, clutching his abdomen. The state also had evidence, it said, that two bottles of whiskey had been consumed in that room that afternoon by McManus and others.

Jimmy Meehan, host at the poker party; Martin "Red" Bowe, who testified that his participation cost him $5,700, and little, swarthy Sam Salmonson, better known as Sam Boston, one of the "Boston Brothers," who take their nickname from the town whence they came, testified this afternoon.

Their composite story revealed that Rothstein lost $200,000, but that he gave "I. O. U.'s" having in the meantime scooped up and pocketed all the cash that was his whenever he happened to win a pot, indicating that, although he was badly "in the hole" on paper, he must actually have had considerable cash when the party finally broke up.

McManus, the defendant, they said was the loser—to the tune of $50,000 which he paid mostly in cash, right on the spot.

The first witness of the day was Dr. Charles Norris, chief city medical examiner who performed the autopsy on Rothstein's body.

He said the course of the bullet which took the gambler's life was downward, indicating he had been shot while sitting or by a much taller man. Rothstein was 5 feet 7 inches in height. McManus is about 6 feet one or two inches tall.

COURT FREES ORGANIZER OF TEXTILE WORKERS

MARION, N. C., Nov. 21.—(AP)— Granting a defense motion for nonsuit, Judge S. V. Cowpoer today freed Alfred Hoffman, organizer for the United Textile Workers of America, and four Marion men of charges of insurrection and rebellion brought against them as the result of textile strike disorders.

The motion was lodged late yesterday, the 11th day of their trial, when the state rested its case after presenting numerous witnesses to connect the defendants with the disorders. Judge Cowpoer held the story of the various disturbances, as told by the state, did not warrant the charge, a felony.

GRAND JURY REFUSED TO INDICT M'PHERSON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—(AP)—The McPherson case which has excited Washington since mid-September, was closed officially today by the refusal of a grand jury to indict again the athlete-husband of the young nurse found strangled with the cord of her pajamas.

Robert A. McPherson, Jr., was jailed on a murder indictment by the previous grand jury, Sept. 30. He returned to his parents a free man shortly after today's exoneration.

A coroner's jury had first decided Virginia McPherson, a nurse, aged 21, committed suicide. The verdict was overthrown by the first grand jury, after the most sensational uproar ever directed against police administration in the capital.

ANY PERSON WHO BUYS A DRINK IS A FELON

PEORIA, Ill., Nov. 21.—(AP) — Any person who buys a drink of liquor or knows of a friend, neighbor or relative who possesses liquor for beverage purposes is— unless he reports his knowledge to the United States government — a felon, Federal Judge Louis FitzHenry held today in an opinion upholding the constitutionality of the Jones law.

The opinion, delivered in a liquor case here, which did not involve a buyer, pointed out that an act passed by congress in 1790 makes a felon of any person who knows of a felony and does not report it to the proper authorities, while the Jones law makes a felon of any person selling, transporting or possessing liquor.

EUROPE'S CRACK TRAIN HELD UP BY BANDITS

LONDON, Nov. 21.—(AP)—A dispatch to the Exchange telegraph from Sofia, Bulgaria, said the Orient Express, Europe's crack train between Constantinople and Paris, was held up near Caribos this afternoon by brigands who killed two passengers and wounded several others.

The train was plundered.

The Bulgarian government has closed the frontier in order to effect the capture of the bandits.

Advices from Belgrade stated that the locomotive of the express had arrived at Tzaribrod, near the Serbian frontier.

AN ESCAPED PRISONER SURRENDERED TO GOVERNOR

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 21.—(AP)—J. Urban Knapp, an escaped prisoner from Ohio penitentiary, who couldn't make peace with his conscience, surrendered today—to no less personthan Governor Myers Y. Cooper of Ohio.

Knapp was sentenced to the state prison for burglary in January, 1924, became a trusty and walked out a few months later. Since then he has held responsible positions in Cincinnati and Detroit, he told the governor, but his conscience wouldn't let him alone so he decided to square things with the state.

Knapp went from the state house to the prison unescorted.

FINED FOR DRIVING WHILE INTOXICATED

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 21—Fred Bolduk, 32, of North Windham was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Miss Theresa Daubernock of the Chaplin town court this afternoon on a charge of driving while under the influence of liquor. He pleaded nolo contendre and was fined $100 and costs, which he paid. A ten-day jail sentence was also imposed, but suspended. On the night of Thursday, November 14, Bolduk was found by his family on his doorstep in a badly dazed condition. There was a cut on the back of his head and this he explained was inflicted when he was struck a blow by an axe handle wielded by a hitch-hiker whom he had befriended. Bolduk's car had left the highway on the Chaplin-North Windham road, and crashed into rocks. Bolduk said that after securing a supply of gasoline at Sherman's Corners he had given a stranger a ride upon returning homeward. He was suddenly struck on the head, he said, and managed with difficulty to make his way from the wrecked car to his home. One of two axe handles that had been in the rear of the car was smeared with blood. An intensive investigation conducted by State Policeman Henry Heinold of the Stafford Springs barracks, assisted by Officer Terrill Cousens, resulted in the arraignment of the man on the driving drunk charge. It was hinted tonight that the investigation is not concluded. The case was prosecuted by Grand Juror Frank W. Landon.

Dr. Alan Works, new president of the Connecticut Agricultural college was the speaker at the monthly meeting of the Brotherhood of the Congregational church held in the church house this evening with a good attendance. A supper was served at 6:30 o'clock by a committee of the Ladies' Aid society with Mrs. C. Winfield Noyes as chairman. The meeting was presided over by Attorney John Hamilton Kirk, president.

EXPLAINED TARIFF BUSINESS TO WOMEN VOTERS

(Special to The Bulletin)

COLCHESTER, Nov. 21 — There was a large attendance at the meeting of the New London County League of Women Voters held in Day hall. The morning session opened at 11:30 o'clock. The local chairman, Mrs. Joseph Agsanovitch, gave a welcoming address and presented the president of the county league, Miss Edna L. Tyler, of New London, who gave an interesting report on the progress of the league. She went on to say that there are 52 leagues in the state and out of all the towns in New London county there are only five that have not formed local leagues.

Each of the over 40 representatives of leagues from towns throughout the county then submitted reports on the progress of their respective leagues.

At 1 o'clock the entire group adjourned to the remodeled old town hall where lunch was served under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid society of the Congregational church. The tables were attractively decorated with yellow chrysanthemums.

The afternoon program commenced at 2 o'clock, Miss Tyler presiding. She gave a vivid portrayal of the activities of the league as a whole and suggested methods by which funds could be raised by the individual leagues for the furtherance of their educational programs. Mrs. C. C. Cutler of Myetis addressed the meeting on the tariff question, stating that the tariff bill is composed of 434 pages of printed matter including 12,000 items. She urged those present to study the question which is an important factor influencing the prosperity of the nation. She also discussed the evils of lobbying in congress and incidentally mentioned the fact that there are 4 1-2 pages of lobbyists' names in the Washington, D. C. telephone directory. She read newspaper clippings containing arguments for and against a high tariff. There are twenty-two billion dollars invested abroad and these investors want low tariff so that they can market their goods here for their own profit. She quoted from a New York newspaper that the United States is creating ill-will abroad by insisting on a high tariff and because we are so prosperous we should have a free-tariff and give the foreign countries a chance to pay their war debts.

Mrs. Cutler's speech was heartily applauded and gave many of those present a new and deeper conception of the workings of the tariff law.

Misses Silvia Jaffe, Rose Strisk and Sarah Cutler, also Samuel Berman, Louis Berman and Max Cohen, were business visitors in Hartford Tuesday.

In New York Auto Accident

Isidore Saban and Samuel Schadich have just returned from a visit to New York city. About 5:40 o'clock Monday morning they were involved in an automobile accident near the 59th street bridge in New York, when a Mack truck owned by the Eastern Milk & Cream Co., smashed into Schadich's Oldsmobile car. Although no one was injured, the Colchester machine was considerably damaged.

Mrs. Lucy A. Dawley, Mrs. Ina Griswold and Miss Edna V. Strong visited Miss Strong's sister, Miss Evelyn R. Strong, at Lawrence Memorial hospital, New London, Wednesday.

NORWICH-GROTON GRANGERS PROVIDED PROGRAM

There was an unusually large attendance at the meeting of Colchester grange, No. 73, P. of H., in Grange hall, Wednesday evening Worthy Master W. B. Gerhardt presiding. Following the business meeting a neighbors' night program was furnished by members of Norwich and Groton granges, including the presentation of a humorous play, and piano and vocal selections by the Groton grangers and recitations and readings by the visitors from Norwich grange. At the close of the meeting, the members of Colchester grange served a lunch of salad, rolls, cake and coffee. Among those present who addressed the gathering were Assistant Steward of the State Grange C. M. Adams, of Groton, Worthy Master Marquard, of Groton grange, and Mrs. Ida Richardson, secretary of Norwich grange. Visitors were present from Norwich, Groton, Hebron, Columbia, Plainville, Preston, Lebanon and East Haddam granges.

Mr. and Mrs. Timothy E. Nutter, of Whitinsville, Mass., visited Wednesday at the home of Miss Louise Damm.

Mrs. Ruth M. Stedman and Miss Florence I. Dawley were business callers in Norwich Thursday.

Mrs. Eva Freedman is making a short visit with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Murray Cohen, in Bridgeport.

Roy Sanford, of Rockville and East Hampton, called on friends here Thursday.

Mrs. Frank Starry, of Lee avenue, Norwich Town, called on friends here Thursday.

Mrs. Elizabeth Forbes, of McKinley avenue, Norwich, is visiting Mrs. Jennie S. Plumb at the old Staples homestead on the Hartford road.

GIRL SCOUT TROOP TO BE ORGANIZED

There is to be a meeting at Odd Fellows hall Saturday afternoon at 2:30 for the purpose of organizing a Girl Scout troop in Stafford Springs. All girls of 10 and upwards are eligible to become Girl Scouts.

LUTHERAN PASTOR GOING TO LONG ISLAND CHURCH

Rev. John J. Mital, pastor of the Evangelical Lutheran Trinity church, has resigned and will go to St. James, Long Island, where he will be pastor of St. James' Lutheran church. He will also have charge of the Lutheran mission at Port Jefferson, Long Island. Rev. Mr. Mital came to Stafford Springs in November, 1927, and has been an earnest worker for his flock. While here he served as pastor of a church at Hatfield, Mass., also looked after the spiritual welfare of the people of the Lutheran faith in Hebron. He has done much to increase the membership of his church and it has nearly doubled since he came here. Factional difficulties which existed upon his arrival have been adjusted and his parishioners as well as many who are not of his fold regret to hear that he is to leave town.

The funeral of Delmano Valentino, 46, who died at Johnson Memorial hospital Tuesday, was held from his home on Prospect street Thursday morning with burial in Stafford Springs cemetery. Mr. Valentino was born in Italy Jan. 13, 1883, and came to this country 24 years ago. He resided in New London for seven years and in 1912 came to Stafford Springs, where he was employed in local woolen factories up to the time of his recent illness. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Marie Valentino, and two sons, Libero and Alexander Valentino, of Stafford Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. William Tierney, of Charlestown, Mass., were recent visitors with Staffordville relatives.

Mrs. Nellie Tyler has returned to her home in East Greenwich, after visiting Mr. and Mrs. John Rishton.

Henry Carlier, of Stafford Hollow, left recently for Troy, N. Y., where he has secured employment.

Mr. and Mrs. George Davis have returned after spending several weeks with relatives in Vermont.

Mr. and Mrs. Hannibal Alden are visiting relatives in Virginia.

Dr. and Mrs. W. B. Bean have returned, after spending a few days with their daughter in Natick, Mass.

Aldo Scussell, who has been employed in Danbury, has been spending several days with his parents.

The public schools of the town of Stafford will close Wednesday, Nov. 27, at noon for the Thanksgiving holidays, until Monday, Dec. 2.

Burt T. Eaton, who has been confined to the house by illness for several days, is able to be out.

Caught Hand in Wringer

Mrs. Joseph Vitalini got her hand caught in the wringer while using an electric washing machine several days ago and was painfully injured. She was taken to the Johnson hospital, where it was necessary to take 18 stitches. She is making a good recovery at her home on Westford avenue.

Edward Hueen, of Boston, has been spending a few days at his old home on Gold street.

Neil M. Witt, principal of Stafford high school, was a recent visitor at the home of his parents in Belchertown, Mass.

Misses Mary and Bella Russell are guests of Mrs. J. A. Mix.

Mr. and Mrs. William Webber and son, Roger, have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. John Burke, in Rockville.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kisselstein are occupying their new home on the Monson road.

Public-Spirited Citizens

Residents of West Stafford have repaired the driveway leading from the state highway to the West Stafford schoolhouse. This driveway has been in bad condition for some time and the action on the part of the residents of that section of the town which was purely voluntary and without cost to the town is very much appreciated.

The committee for a military whist to be held at St. Edward's hall consists of Miss Louise Roche, chairman; Misses Margaret Foley, Catherine Kearns, Mildred Labroche, Katherine Ostrowski and Mary Harold, and Mrs. Mary Clapprood.

LIBERTY HILL

It is estimated that, weather permitting, the Johnathan Trumbull Memorial highway will be surfaced in four or five days; the shoulders are fully three quarters completed and some fencing has been done.

Sunday morning, Rev. J. H. Knott and John Clarke were appointed delegates to the installation of Dr. Shipherd at the Park church, Norwich on Friday.

An inch and a half of rain fell Sunday and Monday.

There is a great variance of water in wells this dry season. Some have no water and others have from 15 inches to 6 feet or more.

Rev. J. H. Knott preached Sunday morning from the text For what is your life; it is even a vapor that appeareth for a little time and then vanisheth away. A part of the 14th verse of the fourth chapter of James. No meeting was held in the evening on account of the storm.

Mrs. Lincoln Kennedy, who has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Stiles, the past two weeks, returned to her home in Monson, Mass., Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hoxie and three children of East Greenwich, R. I., were guests of Mr. Hoxie's nephew, Earl Hoxie on the recent holiday.

The union Thanksgiving service of the Lebanon churches is to be held in Goshen Congregational church Sunday evening, Nov. 24th.

The sewing circle met at the home of Miss Mary E and Nancy R. Fuller's Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Sarah M. Clarke has returned home, after a visit with her daughter, Mrs. C. H. Abell of New Britain.

VECTOR SLIDE-RULE SIMPLIFIES FIGURING

COLUMBIA, Mo.—(AP)—The electrical engineer's calculations have been simplified by a log-log vector slide-rule invented by Prof. M. P. Weinbach of the University of Missouri.

His device, which includes features of ordinary slide-rules and adds the opportunity to figure vector quantities, makes it possible rapidly to ascertain the activity of electric current in time and distance.

Although the rule is designed for general use, it is particularly adapted for the electrical engineer, with logarithmic and hyperbolic scales permitting easy conversion of vector quantities from one mathematical form to another.

Sixteen separate operations by ordinary calculation, coupled with references to books of functions which aid orthodox slide-rule operations, can be done with three movements in as many seconds on Professor Weinbach's rule.

DANIELSON

THIRTEEN CLUB HOLDS ANNUAL HUNT AND FEAST

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 21—Twenty-one years ago thirteen men, who either lived or gathered at East Killingly from time to time, defied a time honored superstition that 13 is an unlucky number. To defy it in a robust way they formed the Thirteen club, which each year in November has an annual hunt and supper at East Killingly. It so happens that after one more than a score of years all of the thirteen original members are living and are not a bit more superstitious than in the past. They have just had their annual get-together, a successful hunt, for rabbits, and a fine dinner at the Mason homestead. Several well known and wealthy Providence men are members of the club, while others live in this town.

There were three cases, all developing from violations of the motor vehicle laws, before Judge W. Fenner Woodward in the town court today. Willfared Chartier of Griswold was fined $1 and actual costs, a total of $5.40, for operating a truck not equipped with a reflector. He claimed that the truck did have a reflector, but that it had fallen off. On the same sort of a charge Ralph Saracin of Webster was in court. He claimed he did not know that Connecticut law requires that trucks be equipped with reflectors. He was also fined $1 and actual costs, a total of $5.40. Adrian Bernier, a minor, charged with operating a car with a license and without proof of financial responsibility, was fined $1.60 on each count and costs, a total of $7.50.

A marriage here this afternoon by Judge W. Fenner Woodward, acting as a justice of the peace, was that of Miss Florence M. Blanche and Thomas Schnelle, both of Providence.

Troubles continue to pursue Philip F. Burnham, former insurance agent, who was resident near Attawaugan when he became involved in difficulties for operating a motor car while intoxicated. Upon release from Brooklyn jail today after serving six months, a sentence imposed upon him in the Putnam city court, he was re-arrested immediately and brought to the office of Prosecuting Attorney Arthur G. Bill.

Just prior to being arrested in this town, a little more than six months ago on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated Burnham had been arrested in Putnam on a similar charge. During a continuance of the Putnam case, Burnham was arrested here on an identical charge. Putnam claimed the privilege of dealing with him first and this was acceded to, Burnham getting six months as a second offender.

John B. Gosselin, 83, for years a resident of Danielson, died last night at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Alfred Brouchu, in Plainfield. Mr. Gosselin was a native of St. Thomas, P. Q., and was born August 28, 1846. His wife died last New Year's day. He leaves in addition to Mrs. Brouchu another daughter, Mrs. Joseph Forest, of Danielson and four sons, Julius of Packer, George of Meriden, Delphise of New Bedford and Roger of Danielson.

Mrs. Susie G. Williams, Brooklyn, secretary of Quinebaug Pomona grange has given notice that a meeting of the organization is to be held with Plainfield grange on Saturday, Dec. 7. Reports of officers will be made at the morning session, opening at 11 o'clock. At noon dinner will be served by Plainfield grange. The outstanding feature of the lecturer's program at the afternoon session, opening at 1:30, will be a talk by Louis G. Tolles, overseer of the Connecticut State grange. There will be instrumental music by members of Plainfield grange, a reading by Otis Remington of Ekonk grange, a talk on Near East Relief by Fred Midgely and a reading by George Ingalls of Brooklyn grange.

Though there have been snow flurries prior to this during the current fall season, the first fall sufficient to blanket the countryside in a robe of white started during the early hours of this morning. It proved to be a mild little storm and petered out toward the noon hour. Bright sunshine during the afternoon cleared away much of the snow.

Mrs. Ransom Liner of North Main street reports satisfactory success in soliciting here in the interest of Mt. Calvary Baptist church of Norwich, of which she is a member, and is very grateful.

The numbers of local people, together with many others in various towns hereabouts who were and are stockholders in the L. A. W. corporation are interested in the status of its successor, the Superior Credit company, of Worcester. It is said to be without general officers at this time, excepting E. J. Walker, assistant treasurer. Everett J. Sturgis, Stamford, elected president last April, when there was a change of control, and Rollo S. Bassett, elected treasurer at the same time, now declare they no longer hold these offices. The Superior Credit corporation recently asked for a receiver for the Bankers Capital corporation, when it was unable to collect $130,000 the Bankers had taken from the Superior Credit company's treasury to place in the call market.

The recent drive for Red Cross members here shows, with the returns still incomplete, the following results obtained by various workers: Mrs. Evans, $5; Veronica Fournier, $10; Mrs. F. W. Worch, $18.20; Mrs. B. Bard, $16.50; Miss Misiazek, $11.50; A. A. Bonneville, $10; Mrs. H. A. Myers, $9.50; A. I. Reed, $10; Laura E. Jacobs, $21; C. Rousquet, $6; A. W. Gaylord, $20; K. Tinsley, $6; Mabel Leavens, $3; Mrs. C. H. Keach, $20; Mrs. F. Crosby, $10; H. F. Brooks, $7; Alice Warren, $20; Harry E. Maroon, $23; A. P. Woodward, $24; Mrs. W. A. Tanner, $15; Mrs. George E. Keech, $9; Frank Bonnett (P. and A.) Ballouville, $5; W. Waldron (P. and A.) Ballouville, $20; M. Eastman (P. and A.) Attawaugan, $7.09; L. Phelen (P. and A.) Attawaugan, $7; Mr. Thomas (P. and A.) Attawaugan, $7.55; Mrs. Jennie Alexander (P. and A.) Danielson plant No. 3, $174.20; Exilda Marshall (Quinebaug Co.) $106; Mrs. Hallowell, $13.50; Mrs. E. C. Hopkins, $5; Bernice Cogswell, $16; M. W. Barnett, $26; Mrs. W. Pluze, $16.75; Mrs. D. F. Dabis, $24; Harold Fields, $5; Herbert Chase, $45; Carrie Fellows, $12.10; Mrs. A. Vassler, $11; Miss Carrie Oates, $18; Susan W. Young, $34; A. E. Hall, $24; Barbara Chadbourne, $25.35; L. P. Ashworth, $7.50; S. P. Marland, $17; Deborah R. Atwood, $16; Nadine E. Ralph, $32.25; Mrs. H. A. Roberts, $17; Mrs. E. M. M. Marlor, $9; Mrs. O. C. Street, $17; Ruth Fiske, $10; Mrs. Clara Turner, $54; D. Atwood, $5; M. W. Hargraves, $18; miscellaneous, $10; school, $8.43; total, $1183.62.

The nominating committee of the Danielson chamber of commerce will meet the coming week to prepare a list of proposed officers for the organization for 1930.

Ashley P. Mills of the West Side who died the past week end was a relative and boyhood playmate of the famous Justice Isaac Mills of New York. Both were natives of the town of Thompson.

Members of the Snake Meadow club, their wives and guests enjoyed an evening of whist at the club house this evening. A lunch was served.

Numbers of invited guests enjoyed a home dance at Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Burgess' house on Reynolds street last evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Pierre LeMartin of New Bedford are visiting with friends in Danielson for a few days.

Before Monday, when the new no-parking regulation becomes effective on the westerly side of Main street between Main and Academy streets, signs warning the public of the arrangement will be placed in that zone.

Sunday evening the celebrated organist, Dr. Minor C. Baldwin, of international fame, is to give a concert at the Methodist Episcopal church under the auspices of the Danielson Federation of Churches. The concert is free and the public is invited.

A plane circling over Danielson in the darkness at 6:20 tonight aroused the curiosity of many here, as night flyers over this territory are rare indeed. At dusk the same or another plane was right over Danielson at about 4:45.

CENTRAL VILLAGE

Mrs. Earl Bragg, of Brooklyn, will be the soloist at the Sunday morning service at the church.

Mr. Benoit has returned to Arctic, R. I. He opened a second-hand store in the Bedard building a few weeks ago but was not successful so has returned to his Rhode Island home.

Foster Burgess, of Norwich, has been calling on friends here, where he formerly lived.

A canvass for funds for the Y. M. C. A. is being made here by Thomas Seaton and Thomas Hope, of Moosup.

Master Louis Woisard, of Danielson, has been visiting his grandparents, County Commissioner and Mrs. Urgele Lafrance.

Mrs. William Thompson has been ill for several days and unable to attend to her duties at the news store.

Relatives were in Jewett City Wednesday to attend the funeral of Mrs. Lois Lewis Olin.

A court case will be tried here today (Friday). Pierre Chabot, of Putnam is the defendant and Jeremie Lafrance, of this village, is the plaintiff.

Mrs. Cora Day has been spending a few days out of town. Miss Arlene Potvin has been assisting at the tearoom during her absence.

Mrs. Joseph Faucher has been at Backus hospital to visit her little son who has not recovered from severe burns sufficiently to return home.

Mrs. Sophia Hoover, of New Jersey, who has been visiting relatives, has returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Blake have been entertaining Mrs. Blake's sister from Wauregan.

NEW 'RHEOLOGY' GROUP TO STUDY FLOW LAWS

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A new member will be added to America's group of scientific societies.

The Society of Rheology formed "to study the laws of flow," will have its organization meeting December 19-20 at the bureau of standards.

The scope of the work is indicated in the motto of the society taken from a Greek saying that "everything flows." The membership will include leading chemists, physicists, and others interested in the eventual determination of standards of flow for a wide variety of substances.

Of primary interest to the society will be studies of the laws of flow in paints, ceramics, greases, and oils and certain "mushy" substances.

LARGE BRAIN COLLECTION AIDS STUDY OF NEUROLOGY

COLUMBIA, Mo.—(AP)—Dr. H. H. Charlton of the University of Missouri may have more brains than anyone else in the country.

He has collected 75 samples of that section of the anatomy. They are to comprise a slide museum for use in collection with research in comparative neurology. Dr. Charlton's collection is patterned after that of the Central Dutch Institute for Brain Research in Amsterdam.

About a dozen are of man and lower animals, while most of them have been taken from primitive birds, reptiles, amphibia and fish.

PUTNAM

ALDERMAN DUBOIS DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Nov. 21.—Death came to Edmund Dubois, democratic alderman from Ward Two, Wednesday evening, after waging a losing battle with death for more than a month. The cause of the city democratic chieftain's death was attributed to a paralytic shock, suffered a few days before the opening of his unsuccessful campaign for election to a place on the board of selectmen last fall. For the past several days Alderman Dubois had been unable to take nourishment of any kind, causing his condition to become more grave with the passing of every hour. The end came a few minutes before 8:30 o'clock last night.

Edmund Dubois was born in Waterbury, Feb. 5, 1872, the son of John B. and Phelomene (Nolan) Dubois. His family removed to this city during his youth and he attended schools here. Upon the completion of his schooling Mr. Dubois became a meat cutter and worked for a time for the firm of H. S. Morse & Son. Nineteen years ago he entered the office of the Putnam Auto Station, a garage owned by his son, Henry Dubois of School street, taking charge of the office, a position which he held until his illness a month ago.

Mr. Dubois has always been affiliated with the democratic party and has been a leader of the party here for a number of years. His civic interests caused him to be appointed to the common council six years ago to fulfill the unexpired term of Eugene Dumas of Ward Two, who resigned. His ability as a city official was recognized in the elections of 1925 and 1927, when the democrats of the ward returned him to office without opposition. In this capacity he served on the highway and finance committees and with the development of the water problem he was selected by Mayor Charles A. Richard for a berth on the special water committee of the council.

In October, Mr. Dubois was drafted by the democrats to accept the nomination for the board of the selectmen. His nomination was warmly received by republican and democratic voters and a close race and democratic victory were looked for by his friends. A few days after the party caucus Alderman Dubois was stricken with a paralytic stroke and was forced to give up his anticipated campaign. On election day he polled an unusually large vote for a democrat.

Mr. Dubois was an ardent lover of outdoor activities and was a member of the local Fish and Game club. He was a home-loving man and the father of 10 children, five of whom survive. They are Henry J., Joseph P., Isadore, Leo and Louis. Mr. Dubois was married on June 19, 1893, to Miss Vitaline Paquette, who survives him. In the death of Alderman Dubois, Putnam loses a valuable citizen.

Within a few weeks, three Putnam banks will release Christmas club funds which will reach an aggregate figure of more than $100,000, it was said today. This year's Christmas savings soon to be placed in circulation are greater by several thousand dollars than amount paid by banks a year ago. The accounts are now being prepared for distribution, which will take place at an early date in December.

Mrs. Ralph Pech is visiting with friends in New Haven this week.

The gridiron squad of Putnam high school will be the guests of the Holy Cross college athletic council at Fitton field, Worcester, Saturday afternoon, when the Crusaders clash with Marquette.

A rising temperature Wednesday evening, following a cold wave of Tuesday, brought the season's first blanket of snow this morning. Residents of northern Windham county awoke this morning, surprised to find the ground covered with a two-inch snowfall. The flakes were wet and soggy and dropped out of a low sky fast enough to throw traffic into low gear. The continued rise of the mercury caused the season's initial appearance of snow to turn streets and sidewalks into churned furrows of slush for a few hours before noon. At this hour a warm September-like sun penetrated the clouded skies and made short work of the task of returning the countrysides to an autumn appearance.

State officers from Danielson barracks, assisted by local police, were called upon this morning to investigate the mysterious appearance of a 44-gallon container of milk and two bags of grain from the Larned farm on Pomfret road last evening. The dairy products, it is thought, were taken by passersby who loaded them into an automobile and drove away. The milk is deposited regularly on the outskirts of the farm for the convenience of truckmen who deliver it to Providence markets daily.

Bill Shann, triple threat of the 1928 edition of Coach Noyes' Putnam high school grid eleven, has been cited for his football work this season by the officials of Rutgers Preparatory school at New Brunswick, N. J., where he is a student. Rutgers closed its season last Saturday with a win over Union Hill school of Jersey City and much of the credit goes to Shann. By means of a last-minute rally, Shann scooped a fumbled ball and tore down the field 75 yards for the touchdown and followed up his brilliant play by kicking the ball over for the additional point that gave Rutgers a 14-7 win. Shann, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Shann of Nichols street, was high scorer in the Quinebaug Valley league last year.

Inspired by the reports of miraculous cures taking place at the grave of Rev. Patrick Power, in Holy Cross cemetery in Malden, Mrs. Angelo Deberidinis of Walnut street, who has been suffering from the effects of a major surgical operation, made a pilgrimage to the Malden shrine this week in hopes of receiving divine aid. Mrs. Deberidinis was in company of her son and her daughter. When the Putnam party arrived at the mecca of the afflicted, thousands had assembled at the grave of the humble clergyman. The local pilgrims underwent the ordeal of standing in line awaiting an opportune moment to forge their way to the spot where the remains of the priest repose. Mrs. Deberidinis stated that she witnessed three miracles which included the restoration of power to walk to a crippled boy. Hundreds, she said, knelt at the grave for hours and prayed. Mrs. Deberidinis said that she has not noted any sudden disappearance of her affliction, but nevertheless felt no effects of the long journey to the new shrine. Since the discovery of the shrine, many other Putnam people in hope of obtaining relief and others making the trip to Malden out of curiosity have visited the grave of Father Power.

William Smith of Phoenixville, a relative of Charles Smith of South Main street, died this morning at his home following a prolonged illness. Mr. Smith was 76 years of age and had been a resident of the town of Eastford for a number of years.

Arrangements for the annual Y. M. C. A. trip to Providence to attend the Brown-New Hampshire football game on Saturday were completed today by L. E. Hill, county secretary of the Y. M. C. A. Forty-six cars will make up the Putnam caravan.

Arthur F. Hughes, treasurer of the Putnam Savings bank, has accepted the leadership of the younger boys' Y. M. C. A. group, known as the "Friendly Indians." A group meeting was held this week at the Congregational church at which plans for the winter activities were formulated. Rev. James F. English, pastor of the church, and L. Edwin Hill, county "Y" secretary, were guests of the evening. A membership drive is now on and a committee consisting of Arthur Watson, Stuart Franklin and Lawrence Duffey, is in charge of the soliciting.

The Grange hall, in South Woodstock will be the scene of a winter gathering of young farmers of northern Windham county, next Tuesday, Nov. 26, at 8 o'clock. This meeting is held in connection with the Young Farmers' club of the Windham County Farmers' association. County Agent Raymond E. Wing of Putnam is cooperating in the programme of arrangements. Mr. Putnam of Storrs will discuss the summer field trip, for the benefit of those who were unable to make the trip. In his talk he will endeavor to bring out some of the more important points of farm management, found at the different farms visited on last season's trip. County Agent Wing urges the attendance of every young Woodstock farmer at this meeting and at the series of winter sessions which will follow.

DAYVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Whaley, Mrs. Martha E. Manning, Miss Gertrude Manning and Mrs. Bessie Beckwith, all of Norwich were visitors Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. C. Leslie Schlough.

Local residents learned with regret of the death of Money Messier, Tuesday afternoon, when the truck which he was driving was struck at the Attawaugan crossing by a light engine proceeding south. Mr. Messier was instantly killed. The deceased was a resident of Ballou village, Putnam, and is survived by his wife and several children.

The earthquake was definitely felt locally.

Bessie Weeks spent Tuesday night with Bell, Dragon, at Danielson.

Mrs. Clarence Weeks and daughter Myrtice, motored to Providence Sunday.

Hazel Weeks has been ill for several days.

Hopkins Mills attracts several local people on Saturday nights.

Henry Russell, Sr., has returned from New York.

Mrs. John Kilgariff is recovering from illness.

Rev. William Swainson was in Central Village Tuesday, attending the quarterly meeting of Windham union of Congregational ministers.

A Thanksgiving service will be held at the Congregational church Sunday morning.

Emil Lehner spent the week end in Wales, Mass.

James Cochran and family spent Sunday with local friends.

PLAINFIELD

ST. PAUL'S EPISCOPAL CH. HARVEST HOME FESTIVAL

Plans for St. Paul's harvest home festival to be held in St. Paul's Episcopal church next Sunday night (Nov. 24), at 6:30, include special music by the choir and the singing of festival hymns. The chancel and parts of the nave will be decorated with offerings of fruit, vegetables and flowers. The rector, Rev. George L. Browne announces that the Thanksgiving day service will be held on that day, with holy communion, at 8 o'clock Thanksgiving morning. The annual corporate communion for men and boys, followed by breakfast served by members of St. Paul's branch, G. F. S., in the parish hall, will open the Advent season. This service will be held at 8 o'clock, Sunday, December 1.

MOONLIGHT EFFECTS MADE FOR CLEVELAND BUILDING

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Something now in outdoor illumination, called "moonlight," is used in lighting the exterior of the Museum of Fine Arts here.

The idea is to produce on the face of the building the dimness of real moonlight. This is done by softening the lights and using beams of different intensity so that angles which in real moonlight would appear dimmer than the face of the building, receive less artifical light.

The result is to give depth to the form of the building. The lighting was designed by J. W. Gosling of the General Electric company.

LONG LIFE FOR MOTORS WITH NITRURATED STEEL

PARIS—(AP)—Nitrurated steel called the "mystery metal" a short time ago, is available now for motor cylinders.

The maker of one of the finest French cars started using the new steel a year ago in car and aviation motors and in reports to the Academy of Sciences affirmed oil consumption was reduced to a fifth or tenth of normal and wear became negligible.

The real appeal of the steel-lined motor is that no running in is said to be necessary and it remains a tight, high-compression engine.

THE THAMES RIVER CHANNEL

It is good news to be told that the dredging job in the Thames river, which will give a deeper and wider channel from Allyn's Point to this city, will be completed. It is a job that should have been finished by this time and it is baffling to the man in the street to understand how the contractor who took the job was allowed to leave it in its incompleted state.

There remains but a little over a mile to be dredged, but that leaves the situation not much different than it was before dredging was started. Certainly if the deeper draught vessels could not use the river before they cannot do so now except up to the point where the dredging was stopped and that does not permit them to reach this city.

This is a project for which Norwich has worked for a long time and it is gratifying to note, according to his letter to the chamber of commerce, that Senator Bingham has been able to get assurances that the end has not been reached and that the job will be carried through to completion, though the withdrawal of the contractor will mean a delay of several months.

It is against the restricted use of the river by vessels of deeper draught that Norwich has centered its efforts. It is mindful of the advantages which water transportation afford and it is desirous of getting full use of the waterway and overcoming the necessity of unloading vessels some miles down the river and transporting goods by smaller vessels. Had the dredging continued it would have been possible before now to have observed the completion of the job and to have begun to get the full benefit of the improved channel. This would eliminate any possibility of vessels striking during low tides. Already an important reaction to the deepened channel has been noted in the plans made to take advantage of it at the planing mill at Fort Point after a large outlay and an increased water traffic to this city is certainly to be expected.

THE ADJOURNED SESSION

The decision of the United States senate to adjourn brings to an end the distressing effort that was being made to bring about a revision of the tariff. It was a decision that was joined in by a number of the insurgents and by the democrats, with the young guard republicans even getting some support from the insurgents in trying to prevent adjournment.

There can be no doubt that the senate had plenty of time in which to have accomplished its work had it gone about it in the right sort of spirit. Whether it could have finished the bill before the regular session is open to doubt, especially if no better progress could be expected than had been made in the past. The adjournment will give the senators a chance to overcome their weariness, but they are certainly no wearier than the country is over the way the senate has conducted itself.

Adjournment gives the senate the chance to collect its mileage, which would not have been possible if the special session had run into the regular, and it means that the tariff will continue to be a bone of contention in the session opening in December and if similar tactics are employed it can be used for the purpose of holding up all kinds of legislation, to the country's greater disgust.

The special session has been concluded after many months with only 50 per cent of its programme completed. There has been action taken for farm relief but there has been no revision of the tariff for the benefit of agriculture or industry. These were advocated by the president in his campaign. The country expected action and gave the president a sufficient majority in each house to secure it, but action was blocked by the coalition between the insurgent republicans and the democrats, the former being ready to sacrifice everything for their pet hobbies and nothing else, while the latter were ready to do anything that would block the administration.

The question now arises as to whether the regular session is going to be any better than the half-successful special session. The senate makeup will be practically the same and the country is interested in knowing whether it is going to act in the same way.

FLYING OVER CITIES

On many occasions there has been demonstrated the need of restricting aviators to certain heights when flying over cities or other places where many persons are assembled. Connecticut is one of the states which long since recognized the need of such legislation and it has been necessary to prosecute those who have violated the provisions in such a manner as to endanger life.

It is, therefore, not surprising that the police commissioner of New York city declares that he will take up immediately the task of placing greater restrictions on those flying over that city, possibly with a view to preventing it entirely.

This step was not considered until there had been an actual demonstration of its need. The flier who hired a machine and took a friend aloft over the big city proved the need of it by crashing on one of the buildings, while the friend saved his life by jumping with a parachute. The wonder is, of course, that many lives were not taken when the machine landed.

In this particular instance, if reports are true, the flier was at a height of about 3,000 feet when something went wrong with his engine and his machine went into a tail spin. That height might be considered sufficient to bring a disabled machine to the ground by coasting if it should be under proper control, but the aviator was not able to get that control and gave up his life in the attempt. It was particularly fortunate that he did not fall at a point where others would have been crushed. Whether it would have made any difference had he been a few thousand feet higher is a question.

Low flying over cities has its perils and they are too often illustrated in much the same manner as at New York. Those in a helpless position underneath have a right to claim protection against the reckless fliers and against those machines which develop trouble unexpectedly, even though the aviator is careful and experienced. It is in recognition of this that the police commissioner of New York has been stirred to action and that is by no means the only city where similar protective measures are needed. One case of that kind is enough to call attention to the importance of protective measures.

PUBLIC SEASIDE PARKS

In another report which the Connecticut Forest and Park association has made concerning the season at Hammonasset beach, the state's seaside park, it is made increasingly convincing that it is a popular place. It is the mecca of campers, bathers and picknickers and apparently making a stronger appeal each year.

This shows that it is visited mostly by the people of Connecticut and the inference is that it meets their requirements in the way of seashore attractions. With more than 613,000 persons there this summer and over 137,000 bathers, it is certainly accomplishing the purpose of the state. Certainly if the people did not like it they would not go there.

More than half of the towns of the state were represented by campers who remained no longer than two nights. Just why there were none there from the 60 other towns there is no way of telling. We may infer that it was a matter of distance, and that prompts the question as to why it isn't possible to develop equally successful seaside parks at other points along the long state shore which would be nearer the residents in other parts of the state.

Such a plan would serve to reduce any tendency to congestion at Hammonasset beach and from the experience in the development of that state park it is apparent that the attendance at several shore parks would be far larger than at the one.

This is by no means a new thought. It has been urged frequently and efforts have been made to obtain legislation to accomplish it. If there was delay to await the outcome of the experiment at Hammonasset there can be no question but that has been eminently successful, and it is no secret that the public is finding it more and more difficult to reach the many Connecticut beaches which are becoming more and more exclusive.

NETWORK OF POWER LINES

Time and again there is questioned the desirability or the need of having a number of power lines linked up together. Likewise there are those communities which cling to the idea that they are well safeguarded against emergencies and want nothing to do with any outside interest.

It isn't known that any situation of that kind prevails in the cities of Seattle and Tacoma, but those cities are dependent upon hydro-electric power supplies for their electricity and they face the serious depletion of that power because of the drought in that part of the country. They are confronted with an emergency condition which can easily be appreciated and the solution that has been sought is that the government permit the plane carrier Lexington to tie up to the wharf at Tacoma and furnish electrical energy through a hookup with the Tacoma system that could by the establishment of lines be also transmitted to Seattle. In this manner both cities could be served and the serious handicap that would come through a failure of the hydro-electric plants would be overcome.

Whatever is the outcome of the request that has been made to the navy department, which is giving consideration to the possibilities of the idea, it can be appreciated how valuable a network of power lines in that state and along the Pacific coast would be to any and all communities which are threatened with lack of electrical energy through some emergency. It not only permits of the transmission of cheap power over long distances, and from communities which have it in abundance to those which do not, but it makes it available when unforeseen conditions develop. Many a city and many an industrial establishment can appreciate the importance of being able to throw on an auxiliary service in case of trouble.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The man on the corner says: Did you have visions of being snowbound?

Another hard part is that Santa Claus probably got caught in the stock market crash.

With Chicago facing a deficit of $17,000,000 it is in line for a vote of sympathy from Woonsocket.

It remains to see how much that international bank will amount to unless it goes in for branch banking.

Of course you cannot expect that Santa Claus will know exactly what you want unless you begin hinting pretty soon.

If that quake had occurred about the first of March it might have been regarded by some as the breaking up of winter. Perhaps some will back the idea that it means the breaking of the drought.

KEEPING UP WITH KITTY

"We're moving," announced my wife at dinner.

"Yes?" I answered, nonchalantly calling her bluff.

"Yes!" like a ginger snap. "And you can just be prepared to spend Saturday and Sunday flat hunting with me, Jeremiah Naughton Carruthers."

Kitty means business, all right. She always does when she throws my whole name at me that way.

"But look here," I horned in, "what's wrong with the present hangout?"

"Everything! I told the landlord this morning that we'd get out of here by the end of next week—that you had decided not to put up with this hovel any longer."

"It Hovel? Say, little lady, since when do you—"

"You heard me!" she said emphatically. "Do you think I'm going to wear myself out keeping up this large, old-fashioned apartment? (Just four rooms and only two years old!) Do you think I'm going to put up with our impossible neighbors? (Neighbors? I didn't know we had any!) Do you think I'm going to scramble over baby buggies and velocipedes the rest of my life? And that isn't all."

"No?"

"No. But why mention the million others?"

"Why, indeed? We'd have to renew the lease for another year just to mention them."

"Be funny, old dear, but I won't live in this place any longer, not even if we have to camp out. Just remember that."

"I'll remember, all right," I promised.

We started out on the hunt next morning, armed with the newspaper "for rent" pages copiously checked.

"Do you know what we're looking for?" I asked dubiously. I was sure I didn't.

"Don't worry, old dear. I'll know it when I see it," was the comeback.

Well, I guess we did the course in about eighty that morning. Up smelly elevator shafts that had preserved all the cooking odors since Genesis. Sniffing the corners of the apartment, snooping in closets, peering out of windows for the view, rapping surreptitiously on the walls, opening the icebox and oven door, testing the bathroom shower and generally giving things the once over.

But in each apartment there was something radically wrong—kitchenette too large or too small, no closets or one too many, no view or nothing but, the bedroom or living room too this or too that, the apartment too high or not high enough, the building itself too large or too small, and so, on and on. Yet—the rent wasn't even mentioned! But roof! What's rent to the wife of a bond salesman?

The afternoon course was even worse. And all Saturday evening I heard the post mortems. Then at 10.30 Kitty ordered me to bed so that I could get up bright and early with the birds Sunday, and hunt bird houses! Now generally, I'm as meek as the proverbial lamb, but this funny business was getting pretty close to my gall. So I tuned in with:

"Listen, Kitty, I'll go to bed when the spirit moves me, and get up ditto. After a good rest and a good breakfast, I'll go to the top of every tower in town with you, but not before."

And then I turned the dial to "Weary River" to drown the comeback, which didn't come.

Relations were a bit strained over the coffee Sunday morning, but I knew that as soon as Kitty was shooting up one of those elevator shafts and telling the agents what was wrong with their apartments, she'd be O. K. And I was right. What a day! But when we crawled back to the old hangout that night I'd made up my mind that that would be enough funny business. So I shot into the rough like this:

"We're pitching a tent this week. I'll be an antediluvian antelope before you get me into another flat. What in thunder are you looking for, anyway? A doll's house in heaven?" The wife tried to wither me with a blazing eye. Then, shaking her fist at me, she said:

"All right, Jeremiah Naughton Carruthers! We'll stay right here for another year! I wear myself out trying to find an apartment that would make you happier, more comfortable. (And this is the thanks I get—this—" blubbering.

"There, there, Kitty, don't cry," I said, trying to conceal my hilarity at the verdict that we weren't going to move, after all!—Chicago News.

YOUR HEALTH

Prevention of the Different Diseases of the Kidneys.

By Henry A. R. Kreutzmann, M. D.
San Francisco.
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

There are many diseases of the kidneys and the majority of them are due to an infection in some other part of the body. This infection, reaching the kidneys by way of the blood vessels, attacks in two ways. It either forms abscesses, or causes an acute inflammation of the entire organ. The former condition is known as carbuncle of the kidney or surgical kidney; the latter is known as Bright's disease. The most common causes of kidney trouble are due to exposure to cold or wet or to germs from some other part of the body.

It is therefore of the utmost importance to keep the entire body free from all infections. If there are pus pockets in the tonsils or a person has recurrent attacks of acute tonsillitis, they should be removed. If a tooth has its root bathed in pus it should be extracted. If the gums are infected they should be attended to. Boils on the skin, no matter where they occur, should not be treated lightly. Squeezing them until the matter flows out is very bad, as by this method the wall which nature builds around the boil to prevent it from spreading is broken down and the germs are given a good chance to enter into the blood stream. Early care by a physician of any one having a rash over the entire body may do a great deal to prevent the Bright's disease from being of a severe type by recognizing the condition early and giving the proper treatment immediately.

Women who were perfectly well before may have an attack of Bright's disease while pregnant. It may come on rather suddenly. The only warning is an increase in blood pressure and the presence of albumin in the urine. Every expectant mother should place herself under a physician's care as soon as she knows that pregnancy has occurred, and the blood pressure should be taken and the urine examined regularly and frequently by the doctor. Headaches and chronic discharges from the back of the throat or from the nose, are indicative of infection of the hollow bones of the face or head. This can be proven by an X-ray examination. If it is present, one should go to a competent nose and throat specialist in order to have the infection removed. Chronic constipation or chronic disease of the gall bladder may infect the kidney by the constant irritation due to the germs themselves or the poisons liberated by them. This in time will produce a chronic Bright's disease.

By keeping our bodies fit, avoiding undue exposure to cold or wet, eliminating all sources of infection and letting the family doctor keep an annual check on us, we can do a great deal to prevent many diseases of the kidneys.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21—Who is this small, nervous, white haired man, bent with the weight of his years, who stands before a group of the most distinguished American and foreign officials in Washington?

Over whose bowed shoulder is draped the blazing red sash of the highest honor decoration France has created?

Who is it to whom Ambassador Claudel says on this 11-year-after Armistice day:

"If the dead of the great war could all rise from their tombs, they should say that this red and flaming badge of honor could find no better place than across your breast."

Who is it who answers:

"May this honor be considered a token from the hearts of the French people, who love peace, to the hearts of the people of the United States, who also are lovers of peace."

The Change.

Can this be the same Frank Billings Kellogg who only so short a span ago was being reviled on the senate floor as a saber-rattling bully, a maker of war against weaker nations?

Can it be the same man against whom was leveled, during the tumult over Nicaraguan events, an international fire of liberal attack on his policies, to whom was being attributed aims of ruthless American imperialism?

It's the same man, all right. And he is tasting now perhaps only the first fruits of his fame as joint spokesman with Briand of France of the peace pact about which cluster all that is now moving toward new efforts to slice down armament burdens and make over the international contacts to the business of keeping the peace.

What yet may be in store for the snowy haired Minnesotan in the way of world honors is hard to forecast. His is one of those rare cases where a public man may hear with living ears estimates of his works usually spoken only after his death.

Ambassador Claudel bringing to his task his own touch of literary genius, conferred the decoration with words that sharply pictured the utterly unexpected character of the events that have flowed from this Briand-Kellogg conversations.

When Scoffers Led.

"It is no exaggeration to say that in the winter of 1927 the idea of outlawing war met more scoffers and skeptics than admirers," he said.

And again, speaking of the "fate of a child whom M. Briand introduced into the world," the ambassador said:

"At that time it was a rather frail candidate to existence. Then a good man came who had power and vision and who took under his care the unpromising derelict."

And the Bystander can testify that Kellogg personally was directly responsible for one characteristic of the pact—its simplicity—to which Claudel also gave ungrudging tribute.

"By good words I mean simple words," he said. "A pact to be signed by all nations and to be read by millions of men must be written in large letters. There is no room in such a text for involved periods and coiled reservations."

A year ago Mr. Kellogg could only have put his grand cross of the legion of honor in a state department safe. As a government officer he could not have accepted it.

IN THE DAYS NEWS

Sark's "Lady of the Manor" Goes Shopping

Where is Sark?

Even many Londoners may have asked that question recently when they discovered that the Dame of Sark was mingling among the shoppers of the British capital.

"Sark is one of the islands of the British-owned channel group off the north coast of France," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"It is so small that its area can be hidden under a pinhead on an ordinary desk map of the world. But what Sark lacks in size, it makes up in beauty. It has long been known among its visitors by such flattering names as an 'Island Garden of Eden,' and 'Pearl in a Silver Sea.'

"Tourists can 'lightseo' Sark in New York or London fashion in a few hours but if they are nature lovers, they will have their steamer tickets extended for at least a few days. The steep cliffs of Sark have been chiseled by the waves of the channel into caverns containing arches, tracery work and pillars and tunnels that lure even the timid to negotiate dangerous paths. Reflecting these fantastic displays are clear water pools where one can watch fish glide about, 25 feet below the surface.

"Sark is almost two islands. Greater Sark, the northern and larger portion, is connected with Little Sark by a jagged rock causeway called the coupee, which rises 300 feet above the sea. From the roadway on its narrow summit travelers look eastward toward Jersey and westward toward Guernsey and Herm. Both panoramas have inspired many artists.

"But the sea panoramas can wait until the traveler is aboard a steamer; there are sufficient vistas and panoramas on the small island to occupy many hours of the traveler's time while ashore. Paths wind through acres blanketed with hyacinths and primroses and wild flowers, making the area resemble a florist's garden. Then there are other paths which cross and recross in tree-bowered dells where one suddenly comes upon a quaint stone house hidden behind thick verdure.

"There are no streets littered with refuse for there are no towns on Sark. Neither are there abandoned autos to mar the country-side for automobiles have not yet become permanent fixtures on Sark. If the traveler must ride, he may choose a 'wagonette' or victoria.

"The balmy climate and the quietude and beauty of Sark are attractions to increasing numbers of vacationists and tourists. There now are three hotels—two on Greater Sark and one on Little Sark. The postmaster, who also acts as customs officer, finds both posts increasing in importance.

"Even with its growing contact with the outside world, Sark remains a crimeless island. The twin-called jailhouse that looks for all the world as if its architect had in mind a loaf of bread, is seldom occupied. Sarkites will tell you that the principal job of the jailer is to replace rusted locks with new ones.

"The modern trend on Sark has not minimized the authority of the Dame of Sark. To her all taxes, whether in fish, farm produce, poultry or money, are paid. She approves all improvements on the island and she owns the only church to be found there.

"Sark was inhabited by sea rovers who menaced channel shipping before Queen Elizabeth's reign. The queen turned the island over to Hellier de Cateret who parceled it out among forty families he brought from Guernsey. The island is still divided into forty parts and some of the present holders are descendants of the original forty. The rights granted to the Cateret family have been sold several times and the present Dame of Sark is a descendant of the last purchaser."

NEW BLOOD TEST SHOWS U. S. MEDICINAL ADVANCE

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—(AP)—Reports of the health committee of the League of Nations rate as superior to the famous Wasserman test a blood disease test developed by Dr. R. L. Kahn, youthful director of the laboratories of the University of Michigan hospital.

The report serves to emphasize the rapid advance of the new world scientists in medicine.

A decade or two ago most discoveries came from Europe. Now America has the Park diphtheria immunization, the Dick scarlet fever susceptibility test, the Minot-Murphy liver treatment of pernicious anemia, the vitamin and nutrition work of Mendel, McCollum and Steenbock, and the cooperative study of tuberculosis led by Dr. Charles White of Washington.

Banting of Canada developed the insulin treatment for diabetes.

LOST CONTINENT OF MU TRACED IN OLD STONES

PAPEETE, Tahiti (AP)—Legends of the lost continent of Mu, which oriental tradition says disappeared in fire and flood leaving the islands of the South Pacific, have been revived by finding evidences of a race that peopled these islands before the ancient coming of the Polynesians.

Recent explorations by anthropologists upon mountainous plateaus have shown stone structures of a quite different character than those erected by Polynesians. Remote burial caves have given up skulls not Polynesian.

The fable is that Mu once comprised land filling a vast region of the southern Pacific. It sank, leaving only the tops of volcanic mountains above water.

This Squirrel Really Flies

ATLANTA (AP)—Candler field, Atlanta's airport, has a flying squirrel that is such an aviation enthusiast that he oftens reaches the hangar ahead of the pilot. The squirrel, which travels in the shirt pocket of Dick Merrell, mail pilot, often crawls out of the cockpit toward the front of the plane when Merrell brings his ship down from Richmond.

HIS 30-YEAR STAMP HUNT ENDS WITH $60,000 SALE

CHICAGO (AP)—Fred S. Raff, a bachelor, was a stamp collector when a lad, but he kept at it for 30 years and now he has sold his collection for $60,000.

Raff, who specialized in United States pre-canceled stamps, had about 3,000,000 stamps in his collection, he estimated. They cost him around $10,000 in cash, to say nothing of the time.

He began buying bags of pre-canceled stamps, which later grew to tons. At one time he bought five tons of stamps. It took him several years to assort them in his spare time. The valuable ones he kept, the others he sold to dealers for boys' packets.

Stories That Recall Others

Dieting Day.

This wife had confided to her husband that she was dieting. She accompanied him to a country home for the week end. The Sunday dinner table of Lady Dieting was laden with chicken dressing and various dishes rich in calories. All were delayed on the circuit around the table at the plate of her who would remain that schoolgirl figure. The husband beseeching alarmed, inquired:

"Are you dieting?"

"Yes. I diet on Tuesday," was the complacent reply.

Past or Future?

Whether this story is an indication of worship of past style or anticipation of styles possibly just around the corner, is a matter of opinion. It is the source of much amusement for a group of girls. The other day one of the girls told a women who has never been known to wear a knee length skirt that her petticoat was showing. Her laconic reply was:

"Which one?"

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; It soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Quick Relief From Constipation

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel. Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative safe and pleasant.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache, torpid liver—constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets.

JURY FAILS TO REACH VERDICT IN $15,000 SUIT OVER AUTO ACCIDENT

The jury in the superior court at New London Thursday afternoon was unable to reach a verdict in the suit of Mrs. Helen McIntosh against Battista Bottinelli for $15,000 damages and after the foreman had reported to Judge Earnest C. Simpson that there seemed to be no possibility of agreement upon a verdict, Judge Simpson discharged them. Plaintiff and defendant are both New London residents.

Trial of the case was begun Wednesday afternoon and the case reached the jury just before 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon after the attorneys had made long arguments and Judge Simpson had delivered the charge to the jury.

The case was in their hands about two hours before they reported a disagreement.

The suit was brought on a claim for damages because of an automobile accident at the corner of Main and Church streets on Jan. 17, 1927, when it was alleged that the plaintiff was knocked down while crossing the street by a motor truck owned by Bottinelli and driven at the time by Antonio De Angelo of New London.

Attorney C. Hadlai Hull was counsel for the plaintiff and W. Doherty, Hewes and Phillips for the defendant.

Norwich Case on Trial

After the discharge of the jury in the New London case, a jury was chosen for the trial of the suit of Philogene C. Beaudette of this city against the Connecticut company for $1,500 damages. The plaintiff claims that on Oct. 28, 1928, about 6:40 o'clock at night, while operating a motor bus in Boswell avenue, it was struck by a trolley car and badly damaged.

Testimony was taken from two witnesses before court adjourned for the day to continue the trial next Tuesday.

Brown & James of this city represent the plaintiff and Attorney James W. Carpenter represents the trolley company.

MADE STATE COP TRAVEL FAST; PAYS FINE IN COURT

Woodrow Guile, 16, of No. 120 Palmer street, was fined $10 and costs for reckless driving when his case was called for trial in the city court Thursday morning. He was originally charged with speeding when he was arrested while driving his motorcycle on the Norwich-New London highway near Thamesville last Friday night. State Police Officer Winniger, who made the arrest, chased the youth all the way from New London, and stated that Guile drove his motorcycle at a speed estimated at between 58 and 62 miles an hour. Guile, at the recommendation of Deputy Judge Henry H. Pettis, agreed to stop driving his motorcycle for a year.

MORRIS IS SENT BACK TO THE STATE HOSPITAL

Michael Morris, 42, of this city, who threatened to shoot Undertaker Julian Wojtkowski and selectman William S. Murray, was returned to the Norwich state hospital Thursday morning, when he was presented in the city court. Morris was recently paroled from the institution.

The man voiced threats to shoot Mr. Murray and Mr. Wojtkowski Wednesday afternoon and Motor Officer Clifford Crary arrested him on Boswell avenue, near junction of Franklin street.

He had a blank pistol but no other gun was found on him or at his home. The police were advised that Morris had purchased a .38-calibre revolver from the Eaton-Chase Co. The gun could not be located and Morris denied purchasing a gun or making any threats.

TEN INITIATED IN STORRS DRAMATIC FRATERNITY

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Nov. 21—The annual formal initiation of members into Alpha chapter of Theta Alpha Phi, honorary dramatic fraternity at Connecticut Agricultural college, was conducted tonight at the Community house. Ten students were taken into this fraternity which is the largest national dramatic organization of its kind in the country. The number of students admitted was unusually large this time due to the fact that there was no initiation last year.

The newly initiated members are Marjorie Dearden, '30, of Hartford; Abbie Jean Quick, '32, of Hartford; Rebecca Gager, '30, of Somers; Elizabeth Robinson, '31, of Roxbury; Colby Young, '30, of Middletown; Roy Houghtaling, '31, of Chester; Carl Scheuerman, '30, of Hartford; Bertram Wright, '31, of Andover; George Pinckney, '31, of New Haven; and Leon Humphrey, '31, of Rocky Hill. At the same time Mrs. Howard Seckerson was initiated as an honorary member of the fraternity.

CONTINUANCE TO MONDAY ON LIQUOR ARREST

Trial of the liquor law violation case against Nicholas Panagiotis was continued until next Monday morning when the case was called in the city court Thursday morning. He was arrested late Wednesday afternoon at his place on North Thames street by the local police and is at liberty under bonds of $1,000. It is understood that his arrest was the result of evidence secured by the stool pigeons who have been at work in Norwich since the first of the month and whose activities resulted in the arrest of 21 men and women Tuesday evening.

HELD TWO DEMONSTRATIONS OF PRUNING METHODS

Two pruning demonstrations were held Thursday by the New London County Farm bureau. In the morning there was a demonstration at the orchard of Charles Elias, North Stonington. Because of the inclement weather there were only about half a dozen in attendance. In the afternoon, there was a demonstration at the orchard of W. F. Clark in Lebanon, with an attendance of 18. W. H. Darrow, fruit specialist, conducted the demonstrations.

THAMESVILLE ENGINE HAS SPRUNG AXLE

The engine from the Thamesville fire station which demolished the Plaut-Cadden Co. sidewalk clock on Main street when responding to the alarm for the Providence bakery, Monday night, sustained a sprung wheel which will have to be replaced, and a rear spring hanger was bent, calling for a replacement there.

The men from the Thamesville station will be on duty at the West Main street station until repairs have been made to Engine 6.

WILL BE PREACHER FOR THANKSGIVING SERVICE

Rev. Theodore M. Shipherd of Park Congregational church is to give the sermon for the union Thanksgiving service which is to be held next Thursday evening at Park church. The order of exercises is being arranged by the committee of the Norwich Ministers association.

Eastern Connecticut Health

The following cases of communicable diseases were reported from towns in eastern Connecticut during the week ending Nov. 16, according to the weekly morbidity report issued by the state department of health:

Diphtheria—New London, 1; Norwich, 7; Putnam, 1.

Scarlet fever—New London, 3; Canterbury, 1.

Typhoid fever—Norwich, 1.

Complaint Withdrawn

A summons to appear in the city court here (today) Friday was issued Thursday to Joseph Racicot, 48, of this city, by State Policeman Cousins of Stafford Springs barracks. Racicot was alleged to have failed to return to the state department a set of number plates, as ordered.

Later in the day the state policeman withdrew the complaint.

MERCHANTS WARNED AGAINST CREATING FIRE HAZARD

Merchants who have been in the habit of placing material of an inflammable character in their doorways overnight so that is could be collected in the morning by the street department were given warning by Fire Chief Henry R. Taft Thursday, to discontinue the practice, because this practice constitutes a fire hazard.

A city ordinance of April 1, 1901, applies as follows:

Section 12. When any shavings, straw, or other combustible materials shall be suffered to be, or remain in or near any buildings in said city in such manner as to expose said city to danger from fire, the Fire Marshal, Engineer or any member of the police of said city may order the person or persons occupying the place where such shavings, straw or combustible materials may be to remove the same; and if such person or persons shall neglect or refuse to obey such order, he, she, or they shall forfeit and pay for the use of said city, for every such neglect the sum of five dollars.

The section regarding the execution of orders issued by the fire marshal is as follows:

Section 8. It shall be the duty of every person to fulfill all and every written order of the Fire Marshal issued by him in conformity with any ordinance now existing or which shall hereafter be enacted.

Chief Taft stated also that this same warning regarding the collection of inflammable material in front doorways applied to the rear of stores and yards.

GUEST OF HONOR AT ROLL CALL SERVICE

The Thanksgiving prayer meeting of the Central Baptist church was held Thursday evening with a large attendance and a roll call held with responses from those with names from T to Z in the alphabet. Albert T. Utley was made the guest of honor as the one whoze membership in the church was the longest.

Deacon C. Edward Smith spoke in appreciation of Mr. Utley's connection with the church and in making response Mr. Utley brought to mind the many notable names in the church history whom he had known during the 68 years he had been a member. He joined the Baptist church in Preston City two years before coming to Norwich.

The meeting closed with a social hour during which light refreshments were served in charge of the Men's class.

READ TAVERN SIGN, 1766, IN HARTFORD COLLECTION

Morgan B. Brainard of Hartford collects tavern signs to keep them from being chopped into kindling wood and disappearing altogether.

Oldest of all in his collection is the pine tree sign, dated 1766, and inscribed "Entertainment for Man and Hors." It is older than the famous General Wolfe sign which hung before Gen. Israel Putnam's tavern in Brooklyn and is now preserved in the Connecticut Historical association rooms. It hung before the Read tavern when Lisbon was a part of Norwich, and in this tavern troops were recruited for the French and Indian wars.

FINED FOR DRIVING WHILE UNDER INFLUENCE

When Constable Filliger of Occum tried to get a $5 bill for medical assistance tacked onto the costs against John Hynes, 29, of Baltic, who had been fined $15 in the city court for failure to grant the right of way, it was revealed to the court that a doctor had examined Hynes as to his sobriety when he ran into G. L. Bromley's wagon on the Occum road. But nothing of the liquor charge had appeared when Hynes was before the city court on the charge of reckless driving.

When this came to the knowledge of Judge A. F. Libby he recalled the fine for failure to grant the right of way and put Hynes on trial on the charges of driving under the influence and evading responsibility, on both of which he was found guilty, being fined $200 on the former charge and $100 on the latter.

The constable and a man named Sullivan testified that Hynes was under the influence of liquor, but it was also brought out in the evidence that Sergeant John T. Casey and Dr. A. C. Freeman said he was not under the influence.

Counsel for Hynes apealed the case to the common pleas court.

FORECLOSURE SOUGHT ON LEBANON FARM PROPERTY

Foreclosure of a mortgage on six tracts of farm land in the town of Lebanon is sought in a suit brought in the superior court by William W. Palmer of that town against Gordon T. Chappell and others of Lebanon. Max Kroot of Lebanon and Jake Berkowitz of Columbia are named as party defendants.

The suit is to collect a balance of $1,000 claimed due on a mortgage for $2,700 which was given March 2, 1922 by Jake Berkowitz to H. Nachmanowitz. Four of the farms are on the Kick hill road, one on the Village Hill road and the other on the Hayward mill road, Gordon Chappell now being in possession of the property.

The New York Agricultural society claims a mortgage for $1,800, Kroot a $1,700 mortgage, and Berkowitz a $700 mortgage.

SHEEP RAISERS CLUB WILL ELECT OFFICERS

An illustrated lecture on the raising of sheep by L. V. Tirrell, sheep specialist at Connecticut Agricultural college, Storrs, is to be on the programme for the first meeting of the recently organized county sheep club to be held Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the office of the New London County Farm bureau in the Shannon building. There will also be movies shown dealing with the various phases of sheeing raising practices, offices of the organization will be elected and a programme for the ensuing year will be outlined.

The present members of the club are: Clinton Arzamarski, of North Stonington; William Copeland, of Waterford; Harold Gray, of North Stonington, and Gilbert Hagen and Alfred and George Clark, of Ledyard. Persons desiring to become affiliated with the club may do so by communicating with County Club Agent Randolph Whaples of the farm bureau office.

TWO FINED ON THREE COUNTS IN LEDYARD

Earl Lee and John Cooper, two Mystic men, who were arrested in Ledyard Sunday, were presented recently before Justice of the Peace Walter M. Buckingham at Gales Ferry, were found guilty on three counts as charged and were fined.

The charges against Cooper were driving while his license was under suspension, improper registration, and tampering with another's automobile. His fines and costs amounted to $129.65.

Lee, who has never had a driver's license, was fined on that count, for improper registration and for tampering with another's car. This all amounted to $54.65, which he paid, while Cooper is paying off his bill to the court by instalments.

LEGION FIFTH DISTRICT HAS OFFICERS INSTALLED

A joint meeting for the installation of officers was held Thursday evening at the Buckingham Memorial by the fifth district of the American Legion and the auxiliary.

Matthew Geary of Montville, past district commander, installed the legion officers as follows: District Commander, Joseph Bellefleur, Norwich; adjutant, Charles B. Gilbert, Norwich; treasurer, Wilfred Lamphere, Mystic; chaplain, Andrew Frohmander, Taftville; sergeant at arms, Alexander Eckhart, New London.

The auxiliary officers were installed by Mrs. Lillian Yerrington of Hartford, past state president, as follows: District president, Mrs. Ruth Grant Sears, Taftville; vice president, Mrs. Isabelle Davidson, New London; secretary, Mrs. Grace McNally; treasurer, Mrs. Charlotte Denison, Norwich; sergeant at arms, Miss Madelyn Weimer; historian, Mrs. May Frohmander; chaplain, Mrs. Josephine Tourjee.

Dancing, with refreshments served, followed the business of the meeting.

DEDICATION SERVICE AT FIRST LUTHERAN CHURCH

A special service is to be held Sunday morning at the First Evangelical Lutheran church on Franklin street for the dedication of the new windows and the new equipment of the church. Beautiful new lights have been installed this week, with a specially made large center light, the whole harmonizing with the interior fittings in an admirable manner.

ROBERTSON PAPER CO. BUILDING IN MONTVILLE

The Robertson Paper company in the Palmertown section of the town of Montville is to expend its paper box department and is providing for this expansion of business by erecting a three-story addition to its plant. The building is to be 50x40 feet, of brick and steel construction, with the basement and main floor in concrete. The brick work and roof are practically completed. Additional equipment will be installed in the new building and numerous changes are to be made in the printing deparment.

PINOCHLE PLAY IN COLONIAL CLUB SERIES

YALE WILL START WITH ENTIRELY NEW BACKFIELD ARRANGEMENT

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 21.—(AP)— The very latest utterance of Head Coach Mal Stevens is that Albie Booth, Yale's mystery man, will start the Harvard game as quarterback.

And as strange as this announcement is the supporting backfield is even more bizarre. Ned Austen will play left halfback, "Chick" McLennan, who seemed to be a sure starter as quarter, will be at right half, a position he never filled before, and "Hoot" Ellis will be the fullback.

When Coach Stevens issued his announcement coming as it did after a week of uncertainty whether Booth would even be in shape to play a part of the game, Yale undergraduates were quite prepared for anything that might follow. The newly put together backfield excited no comment

The two-hour practice was secret again today. Booth, it was said, showed great improvement in his physical condition today, and took part in passing, kicking and signal drill. He has been in the infirmary for several days with a severe "charley horse."

During the supervised scrimmage against the scrubs, McLennan ran the varsity from the quarterback position. When it was over Stevens called his men around him and picked out the backfield of Booth, Austen, McLennan and Ellis for the final signal practice and said that it was his selection for the starting lineup. Of the quartet, only McLennan has appeared on the field for the opening kickoff.

Before the Princeton game Stevens announced that Booth, who was hurt in the Maryland game the week previous, would start the contest, and then, in a dramatic statement on the eve of the game said the "little boy blue" was out of the game with injuries. He, however, was in uniform, and at one time had his sweater off ready to try a goal in the closing minutes to play.

Albie was in his playing togs Thursday for the first time this week for practice and it has appeared very doubtful that he would be available for duty against the Crimson.

Today's practice in the Yale bowl was the final workout of the year here for the Bulldogs. Stevens will take his squad of about 38 players to Cambridge at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. In the afternoon they will have a light practice.

The linemen had a long drill on fundamentals today while the backs and ends were trying forward passes. Later a supervised scrimmage was held, with the scrubs employing Harvard plays. Booth took no part in this practice.

Experts here tonight had it figured out that if this new backfield, which has never worked together as a unit, started the game Booth would be used only to run the team and as a threat, with McLennan bearing the burden of ball carrying. Ellis, they pointed out, was an exceptionally fine man as an interferer. As for Austen, he has been Booth's running-mate all year.

ESBETS GOES AGAINST RENE DE VOS TONIGHT

NEW YORK, Nov. 21—(AP)—Harry Esbets, young puncher who carries the memory of the aged fight fan back to the days of Blonde Stanley Ketchell, Billy Papke, and Joe Choynski, faces the first great opportunity of a sensational career in Madison Square garden tomorrow night.

The two-headed youngster, a lethal clouter with his right hand, will meet Rene De Vos, the Belgian fox, in a ten round match that is scheduled to produce the next challenger for Mickey Walker's middleweight crown. The bout is billed for 10 rounds at the class limit of 160 pounds.

Esbets, the most colorful present day reminder of the blonde terrors of the past, has scored 58 knockouts in 60 battles as an amateur and professional. In succession he has belted out Johnny Haystack, Izzy Grove, Nick Tepe and Johnny Burns. He is the son of German parents and his father, Chauncey Ebert, toed the fighting scratch in the old bare-knuckle days.

De Vos, a spy for Belgium during the World war, is a slight favorite at 6 to 5 due to his great experience and ring generalship. Rene lost his last major engagement, a close decision to Ace Hudkins here last winter. He has been a persistent challenger of the titleholder.

HARVARD SQUAD IN PRIME CONDITION FOR YALE

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 21—(AP)—The Harvard varsity football squad was pronounced "in the best condition in many years" by Dr. Tommy Richards, team physician, today, when it ended its last real workout of the season in the Crimson's baseball cage. He said that every one of the 34 varsity players was ready for Saturday's Yale game.

Dick O'Connell, right end, was the only player excused from today's workout. Head Coach Arnold Horween deciding that the day off would do him more good than a hard practice session. All of the other varsity men, however, were driven unsparingly by the Crimson coaches.

Horween worked his backs on all sorts of passes while "Duke" Dunn and Charley Hubbard, fine coaches, gave each of the forwards, what amounted to final instructions. The varsity team was then assembled for a long signal drill and all of the Harvard running attacks was reviewed.

This done, the second varsity and sophomore class teams were hustled into the cage and both elevens ran through Yale plays, with Jimmy Knox, chief of the Harvard scouts, directing them.

The Yale squad which arrives here tomorrow at 2 p. m., will practice in the stadium until 4 o'clock.

HARGRAVE GOES TO YANKS FOR THREE PLAYERS

ST. PAUL, Nov. 21.—(AP)— Eugene (Bubbles) Hargrave, manager of the St. Paul American association baseball club, will go to the New York Yankees next season as a catcher in exchange for Pitcher Wiley Moore, Outelder Ben Paschal and Catcher John Grabowski. The deal was announced today by R. J. Cannery, president of the St. Paul club.

Hargrave came to the Saints a year ago from the Cincinnati club of the National league. He led the association in hitting most of last season but was rated second in the final averages with a mark of .369.

Challenge Accepted

Al Parker has accepted the challenge of Johnnie Carolina's Black Gang for a bowling match at the Taftville alleys on next Tuesday night at 7 p. m. Parker's five, after winning their first match last Tuesday from Mr. Getchell's team by 45 pins, are in good trim for the rest of the Paper Mill teams. The line-ups are: Black Gang—Maddock, Barr, Henshaw, John Carolina, Walter Clark, Mr. Parker. Al Parker's "Never Were"—Heibel, Greenhaugh, Smith, Parker, H. Satorie, Max Zarawiski. A large crowd of rooters is going to attend the game.

ACADEMY-BULKELEY SIDELIGHTS

Saturday's game will be the fourth in which Court Whitney has coached an Academy eleven. In 1925, he lost a tough one, 13 to 12, tied in 1927, 6 to 6, and won in 1928, 18 to 0, so that the record is one win, one loss and one tie. Saturday's game ought to make a balance for one of these three figures.

Although it is being lost sight of in the general excitement, Saturday's game gives the Academy a chance to tie for second place in the conference standing and Bulkeley, by winning, would escape the cellar, provided Chapman Tech doesn't beat Westerly at Westerly today.

This of course, is Bill O'Brien's first game against the Academy as coach of Bulkeley as he took over the reins there in September, after a successful regime at Stonington high.

Another thing; this game will close the eastern Connecticut - western Rhode Island conference season, of which the championship has been clinched by Westerly.

There are only four boys in the Academy's probable starting lineup for tomorrow, who opened the game against the Tigers here last year. They are: Hertz, tackle; Cruickshank, center; Berghinzo, end, and Sherry in the backfield.

The starting lineup for the Wildcats in 1928 was Tombari, le; Hertz, lt; Fox, lg; Cruickshank, c; Mish, rg; Kahn, rt; Berghinzo, re; Brock, qb; LaCroix (C), lhb; Shereshevsky (Sherry), rhb; Marks, fb. Marks scored two of the touchdowns and Tombari one.

The old-time bonfire celebration is gone, as far as N. F. A. seems to be concerned. Academy victories over Bulkeley in late years have gone as just one more win, with no great hurrah about it.

Who will be the hero Saturday? Last year Chet Berghinzo, this year's captain, was the best individual performer for the Academy and Jimmy Watterson, Bulkeley captain and tackle, played the best game for the visitors. In 1927 Jack Marks ran 50 yards for a touchdown and Ellis of Bulkeley recovered a fumble by the Academy for the best individual performances. 1926 saw Jimmy Williams score the lone touchdown of the game as the Academy won, 6 to 0; in 1925, Norm Courbois ran 85 yards for an Academy touchdown to help run up a 12 to 0 lead for the Wildcats at half time, but alas, Bulkeley scored 13 points in the second half and won. Marshall Collins and Gray played best for Bulkeley that day. Wally Rice and George Sheffloe were the Bulkeley stars during 1922, 1923 and 1924 when Bulkeley had things pretty much their own way and Jack Hinrichs was about the only performer of note for the Wildcats in two of these years, '23 and '24.

Frank Barber, Academy fullback, will be watched Saturday by Academy followers for he has been the main bet of the locals all year. Chet Berghinzo, who showed all of his last year's form in the early games of the season but has been bothered with a sore shoulder of late, may recat his 1928 performance. Collins and Halliteras, backfield men and Capt. Barrows, at end, have been playing the star roles for Bulkeley most of the season.

YALE'S SEASON REVIEWED IN ALUMNI WEEKLY

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Yale's football accomplishments this season, with praise for Princeton's effort to win last Saturday and for the "spirit of the 1929 eleven," which enabled Yale to win, are reviewed in the Alumni Weekly, out tomorrow, with analytic reference to the team itself.

The Weekly said in part:

"Yale can play without any particular star and win games; it has learned it has a backfield, without Booth, entirely capable of first class winning football. This was frame of mind that it was desirable for Yale to get, as the newspapers had pretty nearly made Yale men generally think the contrary. Individual brilliancy is all right in its place, but there are eleven men on every team after all and no one man is indispensable if the team's psychology is as it should be. It was on Saturday and that accounted for the score."

New London vs. Jewett City Speedboys

At Ashland park Sunday, Nov. 24 the Jewett City Speedboys will play the Boys club of New London. The New London team brags of a very strong backfield. This was a big factor in the win over the Trojan's A. C. of Norwich by the score of 13-7. The Jewett City Speedboys will put in the same lineup that beat Sterling 22-0.

Tony Marrinello, the former lightweight contender, will hold down left end, Big Boy Skaradowsky will play left guard. Pete Sekula, the iron man from Ashland, will play left tackle Pat Mondor will play center, C. Liberty, former Plainfield high star in 1926, will play right guard, Kid Cobb, will play right tackle. Red Walsh, the man mountain, will play right end. The backfield will be held down by the four horsemen, Quarto, Walsh, Murphy and Sawicki. In reserve will be Zoo Mondor, Denda, Juba, Parkhurst. Joe Gilbert will referee this game.

Rangers Win.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP)—The New York Rangers outfought the Montreal Maroons tonight to score their second 2 to 1 victory of the year over their Stanley cup rivals of two seasons ago. The rough, fast game ended with a crowded penalty box and a free for all fight after the bell.

Two brilliant bits of individual skating and shooting gave the Rangers their margin in the struggle between two perfectly matched teams. Paul Thompson took the puck down in the middle of the first period to beat Walsh for the opening score. Leo Bourgeault, chunky little defense star, tallied the winning goal in the second period, after Babe Siebert and Nels Stewart had combined to tie the count for Montreal.

Pictures Of Yale Games Available

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 21. —(AP)— A Yale announcement tonight was that moving pictures of the four final games in the Yale football schedule will be available to alumni associations, and also for home movies. The sets are out of the full game reels made for the athletic association and used mainly for study of players in action by coaches and the players themselves.

College Soccer

At Storrs: Massachusetts Aggies, 2; Connecticut Aggies, 2 (overtime).

The world's glutton for punishment is the man who goes 'coon hunting and calls it sport.

You women who have husbands who are addicted to this form of entertainment know I'm right even if you don't tell the other side of the domestic battle about it.

Can you imagine a staid business man donning up in a pair of old corduroy trousers, a flannel shirt and boots and going tramping through the woods in pitch darkness?

And if you asked him to go down cellar for a can of preserves in the dark he'd think he was the world's champion martyr. And he'd tell you about it, too.

But when it comes to 'coon hunting he'll tramp mile after mile through dense woods, splash through swamps and stub his way over ledges and call it sport.

He'll come home with his face all scratched up from the brush, and a couple "charley horses" stabbed in each leg and he'll tell you how much he enjoyed it. Do you suppose he'd ever for a minute admit that he would rather have stayed home by the fire? Not he. That's sport.

He'll come home with the seat of his trousers in shreds from where he slid down a ledge in the dark; his shins will be barked and he'll be so doggone tired he just drops in bed like a log. Yet he calls it sport.

I know a party who went 'coon hunting a while ago and got lost and stayed in the woods all night before they found their way out. But ask one of them about it and they'll tell you it was the best time ever.

And if they don't get a 'coon does it discourage them? I'll say it don't, they'll go again as soon as they get the kinks outa their legs and back. That's part of the sport, the kinks and aches.

But if they got those kinks beating carpets, lugging up a bucket of coal and cleaning the car they'd wail about it for a week. They'd use up a coupla bottles of liniment and break out the crutches.

But 'coon hunting is different—it's sport.

COAST GUARD-BASE GAME BIG EVENT

Saturday will bring together two service football teams whose keen rivalry has made their annual game one of the outstanding athletic events in this section of the country, at the Sub Base.

The Coast Guard eleven has lost but two games and is bringing to a close the toughest schedule yet attempted. They dropped the first game to Canisius college at Buffalo, and the Marine game for the President's Cup at Washington D. C. These two games were hard fought for and hotly contested and in only one instance were the Coast Guardsmen blanked. The Naval Training Station, the champs of the Navy, was the only service eleven that scored against the Coast Guard and did not win. Three Army teams, one representing the Army, Arnold college, and the New London Ockfords, all drew zeros with the Coast Guard eleven.

The Coast Guardsmen are favorites in the game with the Navy Control Force. The Navy men were defeated by the Naval Training Station 26-0 and the Coast Guard gridders beat the Training Station 40-6. However, the Naval Control Force centers its attack upon the Coast Guard and, judging from past games, the best the Coast Guard could get was one win in 1927 and a tie in 1928.

Coach Irving Baker, the Coast Guard mentor, and Commander Michael J. Ryan, the Coast Guard athletic officer, would not comment on the probable outcome of the game this Saturday. It is expected that the Coast Guard eleven will defeat the Control Force, but Coast Guardsmen are not doing much talking about it, having in mind past games when the Coast Guard team was over-confident.

ROCKNE HAS INFECTION IN BOTH LEGS NOW

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 21.—(AP)—The leg infection which has kept Knute Rockne, famous Notre Dame football coach, in a wheel chair for eight weeks has spread to both limbs, but his condition is not regarded as alarming, Dr. Robert L. Sensenich, the attending physician, said tonight.

Rockne is suffering from a thrombosis-phlebitis; the plugging of a vein by blood clots.

Because of this development the Ramblers' coach may not see his team in action again this season, for his physician has forbidden Rockne to go to Evanston, where Notre Dame meets Northwestern Saturday, and may withhold permission for Rockne to make the trip to New York a week later to see his team meet the Army eleven. The Army game ends the Irish schedule.

Dr. Sensenich said Coach Rockne's condition was not particularly alarming, but his patient must have absolute rest.

SIX TEAMS OF HARRIERS HAVE CHANCE OF WINNING

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Lawson Robertson, coach of the University of Pennsylvania runners, thinks six teams besides his own have an even chance of winning the eastern intercollegiate cross-country championship in the big annual meet at New York, Monday. They are Penn State, Syracuse, Maine, Michigan State, New York university and Cornell.

Pennsylvania, with a strong team composed mostly of sophomores, is seeking its first victory in 12 years, while Penn State hopes to make it four in a row.

For the individual title Robertson names Paul Rekers, Penn State; Walter Dean, Syracuse; Harry Richardson, Maine; Nat Lerner, New York university; Joe Hagen, Columbia; Sam Levering, Cornell, and Dan Dean, Pennsylvania, as the favorites.

NEW HOCKEY CODE MEETING WITH APPROVAL

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Officials, referees and coaches of the Canadian-American Hockey league met here today to discuss new rules with an idea toward getting a mutual understanding of the code.

The general opinion was that the new code, with its attendant high scoring, was working satisfactorily, the players finding it workable and the public enjoyable. Scoring has increased approximately 50 per cent. Representatives of the five clubs, Boston, Providence, New Haven, Springfield and Philadelphia, were present.

HARD GAME PREDICTED FOR YALE AND HARVARD

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP)—News from the football camps of Harvard and Yale, who meet in Saturday's outstanding game, turned bullish today.

Dr. Tommy Richards, Harvard team physician, declared the whole Crimson squad was "in the best condition in many years" and that every one of the 34 varsity players was ready for the Elis.

Not to be outdone in optimism, Head Coach Mal Stevens, of Yale, announced that Albie Booth, pint-sized sparkplug of the Elis' attack, would start at quarterback. Booth, who did not get into the Princeton game because of a "Charley horse," and had been counted out of the Harvard encounter as well, was passing and kicking the ball in old style today. Stevens further surprised the boys by announcing that Austen would play left halfback, McLennan right half, a position he never filled before, and "Hoot" Ellis fullback.

Both teams had final intensive workouts today. The Yale team will leave for Cambridge tomorrow.

Bucknell, preparing for its important battle with Fordham at the Polo Grounds, worked on a new hidden ball play which it expects to use against the Rams, who have yet to be defeated. Bucknell will be at full strength for the fray and may be a slight favorite to win at game time.

Dummy drills were he rule at both Rutgers and New York university, which meet at the Yankee stadium Saturday.

Head Coach Biff Jones sent his Army team through a long drill on the offensive while the Cadets' rivals of Saturday, Ohio Wesleyan, left for West Point.

West Virginia Wesleyan's squad of 21 entrained for Annapolis and Saturday's encounter with the Navy.

Battles will captain the team in the absence of Captain Miller, who, with three others, was left behind because they are four-year men and ineligible to play against the Navy.

Brown's regulars worked hard on a forward pass offensive and defensive in the expectation that both may be needed against New Hampshire, which has had a fine record this year.

WORRIES PILE UP FOR STADIUM DIRECTORS

CHICAGO, Nov. 21.—(AP)— Worries piled up today for directors of the $7,000,000 Chicago Stadium corporation, as they attempted to find an acceptable president to succeed the ousted Paddy Harmon.

An accountant's report, ordered by the corporation directorate, showed it had lost $112,025 during the first eight months operation.

The Illinois state athletic commission also revealed it had been conducting a long investigation over an alleged shortage to the commission on ticket returns.

Of the two developments, the accountant's report caused the most comment as it was understood the corporation was financially ahead because of the great success of its boxing shows. The report disclosed that $657,787 was taken in for all events at the stadium, including the Walker-Loughran, Von Porat-Rocco, Mandell-Cannoneri, and Shea-Mastro boxing cards but that expenses easily gobbled up that amount and $112,025 additional.

Directors will meet tomorrow to name Harmon's successor. Tonight the name of Sheldon Clark, millionaire oil man and Chicago sportsman, stood out among the speculations as the most likely to take the post.

WESTERLY HIGH PLAYS CHAPMAN TECH TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, Nov. 21— Westerly high, newly crowned champions of the eastern Connecticut-Western Rhode Island Interscholastic conference, will close its home season here Friday afternoon, meeting Chapman Tech of New London, in a game that will also close the conference season for both schools. Westerly has won four straight games in the conference and is desirous of making it a clean sweep.

ACADEMY AND BULKELEY TO HOLD FINAL DRILLS

The Academy and Bulkeley football squads will hold short drills today as their final workouts of the season before the annual classic Saturday at Mercer field, New London. Signal drills will probably be the order of the day at both camps.

The largest crowd in the long list of encounters between these two schools is expected, with some estimates running as high as 6,000 or 7,000. Bulkeley, although on the short end of the odds will enter the fray highly confident of stopping the Wildcats. Little word has come out of the Academy camp this week but Academy fans point to the season's work of the two schools, where the Academy has an edge, and say that nothing but the old New London jinx can stop the local boys.

There is a possibility of the Academy band being ready for the game, in which case it would mean a battle with the Bulkeley band as well. This band, by the way, will appear here today at the Palace theatre as a sort of pre-game celebration and may be a warning to the Academy to watch out on the morrow.

HOWARD EHMKE WILL NOT RETIRE, HE SAYS

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 21.—(AP) — Howard Ehmke, veteran Athletic pitcher and hero of the first world's series game with the Cubs, who had indicated that he might retire from baseball, announced tonight that he had reconsidered and would again be with the world's champions next year.

Ehmke made his announcement after a talk with Manager Connie Mack. He plans to devote considerable time to the coaching of young pitchers, but will be prepared to take a turn in the box whenever called upon.

VERDE WINS 10-ROUND VERDICT OVER MARTIN

HARTFORD, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Phil Verde, of Rochester, N. Y., won a ten round decision over Andy Martin, of Boston, tonight. Verde outpunched Martin to take the verdict. Verde weighed 128 3-4 and Martin, 123. Martin's foul tactics brought several warnings.

In the other bouts Joe Howard, Hartford, 164 1-2, knocked out Chet Salowsky, 164 1-2, of Holyoke in three rounds. Vincent LaBella, Middletown, 126 1-2, won from Lester Oberheim, 128 1-4, Springfield, in the third round, a badly cut eye forcing Oberheim to quit. Micky Roberts, Hartford, 122, knocked out Young Herman, Springfield, 125, in the fifth. Joe Pasquale, New York, 130, was forced to quit in the sixth owing to a badly cut eye. He was boxing Freddie O'Connor, of Boston, who weighed 128 1-2.

SONNENBERG HAS TOUGH TIME BEATING PAT MCGILL

BOSTON, Nov. 21—(AP)—Gus Sonnenberg, heavyweight wrestling champion, was extended to the limit tonight before winning two falls over Pat McGill.

It was one hour and four minutes before the champion won the first fall with a top body hold.

McGill displayed a remarkable defense, administering terrible punishment to Sonnenberg. He threw the champion out of the ring several times and Sonnenberg was badly shaken each time.

Sonnenberg won the second fall in seven minutes on the fourth try at a flying tackle. McGill appeared tired as it came.

In the semi-final Joe Malcewicz, of Utica, N. Y., and Joe De Vito of Providence, R. I., went to a 40 minuts draw.

REYNOLDS RESIGNS AS B. C. GRADUATE MANAGER

BOSTON, Nov. 21—(AP)—The Boston Globe tomorrow will say that Francis A. Reynolds has resigned as graduate manager of athletics at Boston college to avail himself of a business opportunity. The Globe will say that both Reynolds and the college authorities will announce the resignation in a few days.

It has been during Reynolds' years as graduate manager that athletics at Boston college have taken a decided jump. A graduate of the college in 1916, Reynolds became graduate manager in 1919 and since then the football and baseball teams of the college have become nationally known. Last year the football team was undefeated and was one of the claimants of the national football title.

Reynolds served as an army aviation lieutenant during the war.

LaMorte Kayoes Grande

PATERSON, N. J., Nov. 21—(AP)—Willie La Morte of Newark, claimant of the flyweight title, because of his recent victory over Corporal Izzy Schwartz, knocked out Frisco Grande, Philippine Islands, in the seventh round of a fifteen round bout at Paterson armory tonight.

Canadiens Beat Toronto

MONTREAL, Nov. 21—(AP)—Montreal Canadiens scored their first victory of the National Hockey league season tonight, fighting their way to a 2 to 2 victory over Toronto in an overtime game. The winning score was made after seven minutes of play in the extra period.

Albert "Battleship" Leduc, burly Canadien defense man, scored the winning goal, jumping from the penalty box just in time to take a pass from Aurel Joliat and shoot. Nick Wasnie, recruit wingman scored one of the other Canadien goals and assisted Leduc in a second.

Camel has the quality that smokers depend upon

It is all right to experiment but a pity to spend too much time experimenting when you might be enjoying the fragrant pleasure of smoking Camels.

It has been the experience of many smokers, after trying other brands, that Camels give constant and unfailing pleasure. Their mildness, due to choice tobaccos and expert blending, makes it possible to smoke them liberally without any tiring of the taste. This quality, which smokers have learned to depend upon, will be maintained, because Camels are made for those who know and appreciate the real pleasure of smoking.

when they learn the difference they flock to Camels

WESTERLY

COMMITTEE OF INDIANS WORKS FOR RESERVATION

The council o Narragansett Indians composed of Rev. Daniel Seketer of Westerly, James E. Noka of Shannock, John E. Michael of Westerly, John H. Noka, Charlestown and Alpheus Noka of Hope Valley is making plans to go before the state legislature this winter in the interest of their bill to set aside land for the Indian tribe of the state. A list containing the names of 118 members of the tribe who were receiving aid from the state in 1880 has been forwarded to Washington, receipt for which has been received from the assistant commissioner at the United States department of the interior. A similar list has been filed with the state officials in Providence.

Several Pawcatuck fire alarm whistle signals of six blasts were sounded Thursday shortly after 1:30 p. m. when representatives of the Gamewell Fire Alarm Signal service were testing out the fire alarm boxes in Pawcatuck. Considerable trouble has been experienced in sounding Nos. 2 and 3 and for this purpose the tests of the boxes were made. With each first sounding of the whistle the center series of the illumination lights in the apparatus room is turned on and so remains for five minutes. The Gamewell workmen had been engaged in work for the Westerly fire district and had completed the installation of the relocated No. 56 box in Dixon square. This new combination of cable and alarm box is now on an ornamental pedestal in front of the site of the old Rhode Island hotel block and adjoining the Washington Trust Co. building. A coat of brilliant red paint was given the new alarm equipment. The last of the overhead fire alarm wires on Broad street have now been removed and taken down, the new service coming from underground cable conduits of the Westerly Automatic Telephone Co.

TWENTY-ONE SNOW STORMS EXPECTED THIS WINTER

Temporary wooden steps covering the granite steps to Westerly post office at the approach from High street were located a day or two ago having received a new coat of brown paint and were placed just in time to be in readiness for the first snowfall of the season, Thursday morning. Early risers were surprised to find the ground and buildings with a covering of snow. To many this meant the first in a series of twenty-one storms which are to visit Westerly this winter as the first snow storms (when a goose track could be seen) came on the 21st day of the month.

Railroad Quitclaims Land

Tranfers recorded with the Westerly town clerk included: Quitclaim deed Nov. 20, N. Y., N. H. and H. R. R. Co., to Otto Seidner, Inc., a triangular strip of land approximately 158 square feet, 91.10 by 91.03 by 3.47 feet, adjoining property of the grantee and located on the northerly side of freight yard drive.

Nov. 20. Samuel R. Spencer trustee, of Suffield, Conn., and treasurer of the state of Connecticut, release to Otto Seidner, Inc., of the above described parcel of land, to release mortgage.

Nov. 20. William H. Barnes to Howard W. Taylor and wife, Thelma Pierce Taylor, land on south side of the Boston Post road, bounded easterly and southerly by other lands of the grantor and westerly by lands of Edris Datson.

Nov. 21. Carter Realty company, Providence, to Santo Turano, land adjoining lands of the estate of Joseph Turano together with right of way to Pierce street.

LARGE AUDIENCE HEARS ELOQUENT CAPTAIN O'HAY

An audience of between 500 and 600 assembled on Thursday evening in the auditorium of the West Broad street school to hear the lecture of Capt. O'Hay, Soldier of Fortune. The lecture was given under the auspices of the Westerly Lions' club and for the benefit of their fund from which milk is supplied to under-nourished school children of the town.

The three young men from Astoria, Long Island, who were detained Wednesday at the Westerly police station by troopers of the Hope Valley barracks when they were in a slight auto accident, returning from a visit to the Malden, Mass., shrine, were released by reason of lack of evidence.

Clifford W. Campbell and Frank A. Sherman were in Providence Wednesday.

Women of the First Baptist church conducted a successful rummage sale Thursday in the vestry. This week the annual New England turkey supper will be held.

Councilman Joseph Fraser, in company with Police Officer George I. Madison, completed a survey of the town dumps Wednesday. It was found that an unguarded fire had been started on the town dump off the Misquamicut road and a man was detailed to see that it did not spread to do the damage previously done by a forest fire which had its origin at this point. Superintendent of Dumps Arthur C. Main of the Westerly town farm, is now serving as a petit juryman at the November session of Washington county superior court at West Kingston.

Game With Chapman Tech Today

Westerly high school football eleven this (Friday) afternoon is to play Chapman Tech team of New London at Westerly. This is one of the so-called conference games of the eastern Connecticut- western Rhode Island interscholastic football league in which W. H. S. is the undisputed leader, even if every remaining game is lost by the Blue and White wearers.

Going To New London

Many officers and members of Narragansett Commandery, No. 27, K. T. of Westerly are to visit New London this (Friday) evening to attend the annual inspection of Palestine Commandery, No. 6, K. T., in Brainerd Temple. F. Ward DeKlyn of Danbury, the inspecting officer, is well known to Westerly Royal Arch Chapter Masons as a former past grand high priest of the grand chapter, R. A. M., of Connecticut.

Frank Kimball, a member of the chorus of the musical comedy, "Follow Thru", which has been playing in Providence this week, visited Wednesday with his mother in Pawcatuck.

To Equip Drum and Bugle Corps

When Merold W. Merrill post, No. 16, American Legion, met Wednesday evening Commander James I. Rose presided. Reports were received from the special committees that had charge of the Armistice day dance and the annual poppy sale showing that both were successfully carried out. The winter bowling schedule of the Legion post was started Monday evening, Nov. 18, when two teams rolled their first games in the tournament. Commander Rose will appoint a committee to devise ways and means of securing money with which to purchase equipment for the drum and bugle corps.

DeMolay Annual Ball

Westerly chapter, Order of DeMolay for Boys, held its first annual ball Wednesday evening in Dixon street state armory. There was an attendance of nearly 500 and the event was a social success.

Guests were present from Providence, New London, Norwich, Mystic and Stonington. Miles Cobourn, past councillor, was chairman of the committee in charge, his aides being Robert Drysdale, 3rd, Harry Sidebottom and John McFarland.

Opera In Italian

Wednesday evening there was a large attendance at the parochial school of the Immaculate Conception church to enjoy the program given by the Italian Theatrical company of New York. The company was headed by Clemento Giglio and the feature was the presentation of the dramatic opera, "La Capinera del Muline," in which appeared Stella Bruno, Sandrino Giglio, Nino Di Salla, Silvio Minciotti, Mrs. Clemento Giglio and daughter, Madeline, and others. The opera was preceded by a concert of popular songs and the program concluded with the presentation of a comedy by the same cast.

Chrystle McConnell has returned from a trip the past week to Roosevelt Flying field, Long Island, N. Y.

West-bound trains Wednesday morning on the New Haven railroad were operated on the east-bound tracks, while crews were completing the laying of new rails on the No. 1, main line or west-bound tracks.

Union Thanksgiving Service

Wednesday evening of next week a Union Thanksgiving service under the auspices of the Westerly Pastors' association will be held at Grace Methodist Episcopal church. Rev. G. Edgar Tobin, rector of Christ Episcopal church, will deliver the sermon.

Workmen are progressing slowly with the removal of the overhead wiring on Broad street and the connecting of the two newly placed overhead beacon traffic control lights, at the junction of High and Canal streets and Railroad avenue and Canal street.

Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown E. Brown is suffering with an infection of his left foot which confines him to his office.

AIR PILOT AFTER DRINKS STRIKES TRUCK, MAN, CAR

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, Nov. 21—Gottfried R. Lundberg, 25, of East Greenwich, R. I., aviator pilot at the Charlestown, R. I., flying field, is under arrest at the Westerly police station for arraignment in the regular session of third district court Friday morning, under possible charges of drunken driving and leaving the scene of an accident. About 5:30 this afternoon while driving along Franklin street near the Red Brook filling station he collided with a parked truck in which the proprietor, Charles Rathbun, was seated, talking to George Quattromania of 34 Pierce street, who was standing in the street. The car driven by Lundberg proceeding in an erratic course struck Quattromania, knocked him down, broke his nose and injured him about the head. He was taken to the Westerly hospital and an X-ray taken to determine the extent of his injuries. He was still unconscious at a late hour tonight. The driver continued without stopping and when near the garage of Richard Newton east of Dunn's corners on the Boston Post road struck and wrecked the car driven by Mrs. George T. Clark of Shannock, who had with her three children returning them to their home in Pawcatuck. Mrs. Clark received injuries to her left leg. The drunken driver again proceeded without stopping but Mrs. Clack secured the registration number of the car and reported the matter to Constable Philip Gavitt, who resides on the Boston Post road. The constable followed and overtook Lundberg, who tried to escape, but the constable caught and held him. Officer George Madison was called and they took Lundberg to Westerly police station. When examined by Dr. Michael H. Scanlon he was pronounced to be under the influence of liquor. Lundberg said that he had been to a German club in New London, where he had had something to drink.

BRADFORD DRIVER ORDERED TO EXPLAIN FAILURE TO STOP

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, Nov. 21—Blanche Morgan, 10, of Bradford, residing on the Klondike road, was being taken to her home by Ernest Morgan and Henry St. Amande with two other Morgan children returning from school. They stopped at the house and two of the children crossed the street in safety, but Blanche was struck by the automobile driven by Charles F. Peckham of Bradford and knocked down, cut and bruised. She was attended by Dr. David Marr. Peckham continued without stopping, after looking around, but the registration number of the machine was taken and reported to Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown. Officer Robert E. Kessell was detailed to investigate and riding down the Bradford road found Peckham, who said that he was returning to the location of the accident. Kessell ordered him to appear in the third district court Friday morning to answer to a charge of reckless driving.

DEPENDING ON WOOD FOR FUEL

(Written Specially for The Bulletin)

Does anybody burn wood any more, outside of the distinctively "backwoods" districts? Such as this, to which my later days are fortunately assigned?

Most of my immediate neighbors have stoves in which they burn coal. Those who haven't stoves make much talk about their furnaces or their steam boilers or their hot water plants all of which likewise use coal.

A few, including two opposite ends of the social scale, the hopelessly old fogyish and the ultra modern, worship the open fireplace in which anything but wood seems heretically out of place. These, however, are more for show than for daily use in the case of the modernists They are constricted and apologetic reminders of the glory which was in the wide, old-fashioned fireplaces of colony times, whose generous mouths made nothing of taking in cord-wood sticks, fully four feet long, and so big that Goodman Paterfamilias had to summon help from a stalwart son to hoist one over the big andirons. Their modern representatives are curiously tucked-up dimples in the chimney-front inevitably suggesting to us oldsters the furnishing of a doll's house.

There was something hospitable in the very first look of one of the real old-time fireplaces. With its broad white marble hearth-stone, glowing warmly up in the reflected flamelight, its flaring marble or tile sides, its in-curving brick throat and back, its pot-hook strung crane swinging from its inset "pintles", and its elaborately headed andirons holding the big sticks in their capacious arms high enough above the hearth to permit all the draft there was to pass under them to feed the fire—it hardly needed the additional evidence afforded by the conical flip-heater hanging by its side to tell you that you were a desired and welcome guest, for whom no cheer should be stinted, whether of external warmth or internal stimulation.

The so-called fireplace installed occasionally in modern houses is, usually, a miserable compromise between folly, a miserable compromise between fought to have and the economist's craze for conserving space. Whereby it falls short of being anything desirable. It is neither fish, flesh, fowl nor good red herring.

And, horror of horrors, it quite as often burns coal—anthracite or cannel—as hickory or maple wood.

I know three ancient houses, now occupied as summer camps by city folks, wherein the roomy old fireplaces have been opened up and cleaned out, swept, garnished and tidied to suit the queen's taste. They are exhibited as pride-feeding "antiques" and are never, no, never exposed to smudging by even a tentative fire. They are kept spick and span—something to show off but not to use.

Which is about the poorest purpose a real old fireplace can be put to.

Besides, the houses containing them are shut up and abandoned in the winter, when only is a true call for fireplaces. Their occupants prefer the heatless and impersonal heat exuded from steam radiators fed by grimy firemen in sooty subterranean cellars. It is "so much less trouble."

Anyway, as we started off by saying, most of us countrymen up in this neck o' woods use stoves. Truth compels the additional admission that most of our stoves burn coal, despite the thousands and thousands of cords of wood that cover our rocky mountain sides. Only here and there can still be fund an old moss-back like myself who prefers wood as a fuel and has, thus far, been able to have his own way about it.

There's one thing to be said about using wood as a heating agent—it is NOT an act of economy.

I've just got my yearly woodpile down behind the backdoor. It is my own wood, cut from my own forests. In that sense, it costs me nothing. But, as I have passed the age when wood-chopping is possible, I have had to hire it cut, corded and drawn. I shall also have to hire it sawed and split into stove sizes and piled in the woodshed. About all I am physically capable of, henceforth, is the putting the sticks in the stove.

And I find that the wage-cost of my wood, when ready to burn, is going to be fully as great if not somewhat greater than the cost of a similar heat unit given off by coal. If cost and convenience were the only elements entering into the conduct of life I should find it hard to defend my adherence to wood burning as a source of winter warmth.

But my boyhood had its roots in a time when people expected to "take trouble" as much as they expected to take tea. They didn't look on life as a playground for amusement, nor as a rest-house for "Weary Willies," nor as a hospital for nervous psychoses. They took it as a rather rough-handed antagonist whom they had to throw and hog-tie before they could expect any peace. They didn't find pleasure in sitting on a bench and watching some one else kick the ball. Their idea was to get down into the arena and try for a goal themselves. What comfort and what pleasure they had in life they got for themselves and of themselves. Naturally, their pleasures seem what the modernists call "simple." They were, in truth, rather simple people.

But, when they sat down of a snow-capped winter's night before the roaring blaze in the huge old fire-place, in the high-backed settled that kept the drafts off their backs, with the long-handled flip-maker steaming and sputtering from its bed of glowing coals—then they had the satisfaction of knowing that they had earned their relief, and had a right to doze and dream in the comfort they had paid for, if not with money, at least with sweat and toil.

It's proverbially hard to teach an old dog new tricks. It's equally as proverbial that the branch is bent as the twig is inclined.

I stick to wood for both practical and sentimental reasons. It carries me back to the days when as a mere boy, I followed my father into the woods to help in my small way in the cutting of the year's supply. It carries me back to the cosy winter evenings when, before the leaping fires of the open hearth, I cuddled in that father's arms and dozed away into dreamland to the lullaby of the crackling, singing flames. It takes me back to the times when the elders had "rheumatis" but never "arthritis" or "nervous prostration" and when they used to know a storm was approaching by the feel in their bones and not by the indications of a barometer.

There are also practical reasons for preferring wood. It is, for one thing, more manageable than coal. It kindles easier, heats up quicker, can be dampered off more readily when too hot, and, when a whiff of its smoke gets out into the room, smells much sweeter than coal gas.

The one objection which is most often heard to its use is that a wood fire won't "keep" as well as one of coal. In many makes of stoves this is unquestionably true. It is not true, however, of the sheet-iron "chunk" stove, so-called. I have used one of that sort for 29 years as a heater to warm two connecting rooms. During those 29 winters we have had all degrees of arctic weather—40 below zero nights, howling blizzards of drifting snow, gales which uprooted ancient trees and tipped over miles of telegraph and telephone poles. Yet not once has my fire gone out, except when I deliberately let it die in order to take up the accumulated ashes.

In every wood-pile there are knotty and obdurate chunks which stubbornly resist the splitting axe and simply won't part into sticks suitable for the fire-pot of the kitchen range. My chunk stove welcomes any of them which its 12-inch door will admit and with the drafts properly manipulated and the damper judiciously set, will slowly consume them into a thick bed of coals, which ten hours later, wait only the addition of another chunk and the opening of the drafts to burst into flame.

Of course, the chunk must be of hard wood. Equally, of course, to ensure best results it must be both seasoned and dried. Green wood and wet wood are both barred. To make certain that our firewood is seasoned, we pile it out-of-doors in the early winter and let it stand thus through the snows and rains and freezes and thaws of the whole winter and the spring. This effectually seasons it, i. e. gets the sap out of it. Then it is re-plied in the dry woodshed, where it remains during the hot summer and the water is completely dried away. This, as the practical farmer will at once see, involves the getting the annual supply a year in advance. My wood for the on-coming winter is waiting the call on it in the woodshed where it was plied last May. The big wood pile in the back yard is planned for winter after next.

All this necessitates a degree of foresight, a measure of planning, a reasonable amount of patience—and the taking of some trouble.

But there are those among us old fashioned folks who actually think that the taking of a dollar's worth of trouble to ensure two dollars worth of comfort is a fairly profitable business proposition.

I suspect that one reason for the decreased use of wood as a fuel is due to the unfortunate myopia which seems to characterize the modernistic eye. To that eye an ant-hill of trouble today looms bigger than a Mont Blanc of trouble tomorrow or next week. An hour of "taking trouble" today seems to such too great a price to pay for a season's satisfaction, later on.

The other fellows' shortsightedness is, however, no excuse for those of us with normal vision.

It is perhaps no more discreditable to be "fussy" than to be lazy.

LEDYARD

Ledyard grange held its meeting in Grange hall Friday evening, Nov. 15. Election of officers took place with the following result. Those marked "R." being re-elected: Master, Carl H. Holdridge, R; overseer, Avery Main; lecturer, Ursula E. Avery; steward, Richard Burton; assistant steward, Paul Holdridge; chaplain, Billings T. Avery, R; treasurer, S. E. Holdridge, R; secretary, Barbara Holdridge; gatekeeper, Elmer Tubbs, Jr.; Ceres, Bernice Percival; Pomona, Dora Main; Flora, Rose Norcross; lady assistant steward, Grace Main, R; executive committee for three years, Andrew M. Avery; executive committee for two years, Elmer Tubbs, Sr.; executive committee for 1 year, Robert Percival.

Rev. Arthur Adams, of Norwich, preached in the Congregational church Sunday morning. The church voted to extend a call to Rev. Edward F. Kelly, of Drumlin Hill, Mass., to become pastor.

Ledyard grange held its annual chicken and rabbit pie supper in the vestry Wednesday evening. Ledyard suppers have become famous and it seemed that there were people from all the surrounding towns present. Nearly 400 people ate supper and the proceeds were over $200. Dancing followed the supper in Grange hall and the floor was filled from 8 to 11. An orchestra from Mystic played and Mr. Main was prompter.

Mrs. William I. Allyn and Mrs. Margaret Morgan, of Mystic, attended the wedding of Miss Martha Hallock Saturday last, Miss Hallock being a cousin of Mrs. Allyn.

Mrs. F. W. Burton is having a vacation and is visiting friends in Virginia.

Mrs. Carrie Doolittle and her son Frederick Doolittle, have purchased the James Mahoney place, in the town of Preston and expect to move to this farm next spring. This farm contains about 200 acres and was formerly occupied by the late James Mahoney.

Earl B. Geer will kill about 4c turkeys for the Thanksgiving market.

Wednesday was Donation day at the Home Memorial hospital, New London. The village has been canvassed and a great number of articles solicited. The committee in charge was Mrs. E. P. Fitch, chairman; Mrs. John G. Jenssen, Mrs. Charles Jenssen, Mrs. John B. Tourjee, Mrs. Howard Palmer and Mrs. Gerard Lafargue. Those who donated their cars to transport the articles to the hospital were: Miss Grace Knapp, Mrs. C. M. Chester, Miss Ada Banks, Hadley Fitch and William A. Dayton.

The Reading club met with Mrs. Esther Andrews of Elm street, Wednesday afternoon. After an interesting period spent in reading, refreshments were served by the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hewitt have returned after a short visit with Norwich relatives.

Charles De Blasi, of Willimantic, was a recent caller on his mother, Mrs. Philomena De Blasi.

When Washington council, Junior O. U. A. M. met Tuesday evening, plans were completed for the entertainment and dance. The committee in charge is Orrin Oles, chairman, Frank Schoonmaker, Edwin Wolverton, Holm, Bentley and Halstead Brown. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by Parker Wildes, Lloyd Brown and Edward Morgan.

Olaf Jenssen has returned to Fishers Island after spending several days with his parents, Capt. and Mrs. John Jenssen.

John Loftus, of New London, was a recent caller in the village.

W. D. Gruet has returned to Hartford after several days' stay at Groton Long Point.

Many residents of the village attended a chicken pie supper and dance held at Ledyard Wednesday evening.

Robert Whittaker was a recent caller on Willimantic relatives.

The Silver Link society of the Methodist church met with Mrs. Otto Hendrickson of Pearl street.

Wednesday afternoon patchwork was made during the afternoon after which refreshments were served by the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. John P. Ebbets have returned after spending several days in Groton.

Clarence C. Spink, of New York, is spending several days at home.

Henry E. Mattoni, character actor who played in some 300 motion pictures in the pioneer days of the movie industry, now passes his time as repair man in a Binghamton (N. Y.) sports goods store.

MOOSUP

LOCAL WELL OVERFLOWING IN THIS DRY SEASON

The well being deepened by drilling on Nathan Goldberg's place, Linnel street, was run down to 140 or 146 feet. Water was reached which filled the well immediately to overflowing. 22 gallons per minute was pumped out and there is more water than can be used or kept in the well.

Mrs. Allen C. Smith went to the Coventry Women's club meeting in Crompton, R. I. Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Denison, Harry and Miss Orra Denison were to Providence Saturday to attend the funeral of Walter F. Mason.

Miss Helen C. Smith, a student at the Rhode Island college of education, is home over each week end.

There was a supper at Moosup hotel Monday, given by Nardie Dandrie and Lino Smevieve, of Torrington and Mystic, Conn., and of Poughkeepsie, N. Y. The dining room was prettily decorated by Mrs. Adelard Maynard, assisted by Miss Yvonne Maynard and Mrs. Lillian Myers.

The M. E. Ladies' Aid society had an all-day meeting Wednesday at the church and served dinner at noon. The members are preparing for the fair.

Miss Alice K. Smith is piano accompanist for Henry Flagg, who is directing an orchestra and a chorus of women's voices.

Mr. and Mrs. Adelard Maynard, of the Moosup hotel had as guests Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Kenyon, Miss Beatrice LePage, Charles Maynard, all of Jewett City, and Miss Calista Kenyon of Norwich.

Miss Billings, of Putnam, agricultural extension worker from Storrs, had a class of 10 women Tuesday afternoon and another of girls Tuesday night at the Girls' club.

HANOVER

Mrs. Parker, of New York, has been a visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Westland.

At the annual meeting of the Norwich C. E. union held at the First Baptist church last Friday evening the Hanover society was represented by nineteen.

William G. Park was elected the lay delegate to represent the Hanover church at the council called for this (Friday) afternoon at Park church, Norwich.

Next Sunday evening, according to custom, the Hanover Congregational church unites with the M. E. church of Baltic in a Thanksgiving service. The service is held this year at Hanover and the pastor of the Baltic church, Rev. Mr. Shaw, will deliver the sermon.

POETRY

Deep Water Jack

Oh, it's "ah, fare you well," for the deep sea's crying,
You thought you could forget it, but it's no use trying,
Trying to forget it when it calls you so!
Hey, Deep Water Johnnie, kiss your girl and go.

Here's warmth, and soft living, and an easy bed!
It's toil and much peril that you're going to instead;
Hard life and bitter faring, and a poor-man's fee,
Are all of a man's portion that follows the sea.

But it's "ah, fare you well," the deep sea's calling
Back to cold and hunger and heaving and hauling,
To decks awash and frozen yards, as very well you know;
But, ah, Deep Water Johnnie, kiss your girl and go!

How can a man help it, when the God that made him
Set his feet to follow where the four winds bade him?
How should a man help it, when his heart goes a-jigging
To the sea's song and the sail's song and wind through the rigging?

And it's "ah, fare you well," for the deep sea's crying!
You thought you could forget it, but it's no use trying,
Trying to forget it, when it calls you so!
Hey, Deep Water Johnnie, kiss your girl and go!

—By Cicely Fox-Smith.

Patience

The weather prophet is a man
Who moves us oft to chide;
And yet he does the best he can
The future to decide.
Apart from all the world he dwells
His studies to pursue,
And be it known whate'er he tells
Will ultimately come true.

When he says "fair" it may be found
That skies are clouded quite.
If he says "snow" this world around
With sunshine may be bright.
But whatsoever be the text
That makes us gay or glum,
Though it be not this week or next,
That weather's bound to come.

—By Philander Johnson in Washington Star.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

"Do you still think of Bill?"

"Every time I read an autobiography."—Brooklyn.

"My wife doesn't understand me. Does yours?" "Can't say. I've never heard her mention your name."—Boston Transcript.

Visitor "I've come here for the summer."

Native "Well, you'll have to wait for it like the rest of us."—San Francisco Chronicle.

"Has anyone commented on the way you drive?"

"Yes, one fellow made a brief remark, 'Twenty dollars and costs.'"—Union Pacific Magazine.

Hubby—I see Old Man Peters left his wife close to a million. I suppose you wouldn't be averse to being his widow?

Wifey—Oh, shame on you! I'd much rather be your widow.—Detroit News.

"How goes it, Bill?" said one stock trader to another. "I hear you've got rid of a lot of your stocks. Distress selling?"

"Oh, no, thank heaven!" remarked the other cheerily. "Finesse selling, my boy. I'm now in the best position ever for a rise."—Exchange.

A certain small restaurant was kept by a man who prided himself on his cooking. He was amazed to hear a young salesman criticize a pie one day.

"Pie, young feller? Why, I made pies before you were born."

"O. K. But why sell 'em now?"—Montreal Star.

The self-made man was in the midst of his first interview. "How," inquired the reporter, "did you find time to read in those formative years?"

The self-made man patted his chest proudly.

"I kept a good book open on my desk," said he, "and read it during telephone calls—while holding the wire after someone had said 'Just a moment, please.'"—New York Central Lines Magazine.

Deer have become so plentiful near Richmond, Cal., that they are becoming something of a pest, even invading private premises and causing some damage to property. Game Warden T. D. Duncan has suggested that mothballs be spread over lawns to keep the pests from bothering property, asserting that deer will steer clear of land having the scent of mothballs or sheep dip.

It was on October 28, 1750, that Jonas Hanway, an English merchant, traveller and philanthropist, startled Paris on a rainy day by holding an umbrella which he had brought from China. It was the first appearance of the rain-shedder in Europe. Since that time the umbrella has changed little, despite more than a century of experiment. In 1773, a Paris contraption bore a lightning rod, and in 1862 a German inventor tried to put on the market an umbrella with glass windows.

Instruction in English, French and German for the taxi drivers of Stockholm is one phase of the preparations for the industrial arts exhibition in Sweden's capital next summer. An unprecedented number of foreign tourists is expected and the committee is eager to extend all possible help and courtesy to the visitors from abroad. One of the business schools in Stockholm advertises a course of fifty hours in any desired foreign tongue for a nominal sum. The drivers who "graduate" from this course will receive the right to wear an arm band inscribed, for instance, "English spoken." They will be stationed at strategic points, such as the Central Station, the leading hotels and the exits from the exhibition grounds.

Because Tuesday was sunny it made the afternoon seem comparatively long—but as a general thing the short days give a big boost to the family lighting bills; yet the comfort of electric lighting is never so appreciated as during the short and often dismal days of November.

MYSTIC

Dr. and Mrs. Chester R. Chapman were in New London this week to visit the latter's aunt, Mrs. Kate Braman, of Deep River, who has been a patient in Lawrence Memorial hospital, for the past two months, having broken her leg, just above the knee, when she fell down the steps at her home in Deep River. She was dismissed from the hospital Wednesday morning and returned to her home. Miss Margaret Bindloss, her sister, of the Mohican hotel, New London, formerly of Mystic, accompanied her on the trip. Mrs. Braman is also a sister of Palmer Bindloss of Broadway, Mystic, and has been a frequent visitor in the village. Many friends are gratified to know that she is better and is able to go home.

One hundred and twenty-five persons attended the meeting held in Robert Fitch high school at Poquonoc Bridge Tuesday evening, when an association of parents and teachers, to be known as the Home-School association, was organized. Mrs. E. Augustus Harrison of Burrows street, Mystic, was elected president. On the executive committee, David M. Bennett, also of the village, was elected one of the seven members. Before the business meeting a short entertainment was given by pupils of the school. Ruth Klein and Isabelle Hermes, of Mystic, were two of the pupils taking part.

Miss Antoinette Burdick, R. N., has returned to Norwich after spending several days with Mystic and Old Mystic relatives and friends.

The Sewing society of the Eastern Star held a whist in Masonic temple Tuesday evening, with four tables in play. Prizes went to Mrs. Hattie Brainard and Percy Chase, Moses Wilcox and Mrs. Flora Morin. Refreshments were served at the close of play.

Miss Violet Bostwick has returned to Sanford, Florida, after being in town to attend the funeral of their mother, Mrs. Ada Belle Bostwick. Her father, William Bostwick, has returned to New Haven.

The Roselle Velvet mill will close Saturday for a week, to allow inventory to be taken.

Miss Marie Holly gave a party for her Sunday school class in Columbus hall, Tuesday evening. Refreshments were served and games enjoyed. Those attending were Catherine LeBeau, Henry Thiebeault, Alfred Greenhalgh, Charles Greenhalgh, Benjamin Goulet, John Finnegan, Charles Muise, Richard Gillan, Alice Wilson, Alice Curtis, Rose Cinquanta, Josephine Cinquanta, Edna Comeau, Helen Krynski and Rita Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Harold Thorpe, Mrs. Elias F. Wilcox, Mrs. David Bennett and Mrs. Moses Wilcox motored over the Mohawk Trail Wednesday. They noticed that it was much colder, ice being on the ledges and icicles hanging from them. When they arose here Thursday morning and saw the snow they decided that they brought Jack Frost home with them, without knowing it.

When W. W. Perkins Woman's Relief corps, New London, entertained the department officers of the corps and the Grand Army post at its meeting in Union lodge rooms Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Eleanor Lucy, president of the local corps, and past department president, was one of the guests.

Dr. Francis Gordon Allanach, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Allanach, of New London, married Miss Lola Catherine Wolf, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wolf of Catonsville, Md. Thursday at the home of the bride in Maryland. Upon their return from a wedding trip, they will reside in New London where the groom is associated in the practice of dentistry with Dr. R. Scott Linsley. He was graduated from the University of Maryland last June. Dr. Allanach is a brother of Dr. Chester Chapman, of Mystic, and has been a frequent caller in the village.

Some time ago Home Memorial hospital, New London, sent out an appeal for gifts of money and useful articles for use in the hospital, and the people in Mystic and Old Mystic are responding very generously. Mrs. A. C. Colby is chairman for Mystic and Mrs. Herbert Colt chairman for Old Mystic. They have received sheets, pillow slips, jellies, preserves, vegetables, money, etc.

Mrs. Susan Tillinghast has returned from New London where she has been spending the past three months with her daughter, Mrs. Brooks. July 4, last, Mrs. Tillinghast fell on the stoop at her home here and received a fractured ankle. She has been staying with her daughter in New London and receiving treatment. Although some better, she is not able yet to get about.

Mrs. Gladys L. Flint has written a book entitled "Adventures of Brother Roland." This book is a sequel to the book written by her some time ago, "Where is Brother Robert."

Mrs. Marie T. Holmes and Mrs. Emily B. Holmes, of Old Mystic, were in Westerly Wednesday.

VOLUNTOWN

Deep regret was felt early in the week when announcement of the death of Arthur C. Burlingame, 38, of Norwich, was received. Mr. Burlingham was well known here where he was often a visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Hopkins. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ethel McFall Burlingham, a former Voluntown girl, who has received expressions of the heartfelt sympathy of a large circle of friends in her bereavement. Several from this village attended the funeral at Trinity M. E. church at Norwich Tuesday.

On Sunday afternoon, Unity circle, No. 1259, Companions of the Forest of America, held an initiation of several members in Union hall. The degree work was in charge of a degree team from New London. State officers Mrs. Mary Guest, of Bridgeport, and Mrs. Vine, of New London, were in attendance. After the ritualistic ceremonies, dinner was served to the large crowd in attendance.

David Goldberg is repairing and shingling the buildings on his property.

Tax Collector George B. Sheldon was a very busy man Saturday, collecting personal taxes from local taxpayers.

Red Cross workers are on their job this week, and it hoped to see the little red crosses in the windows of every home in town.

Alexander Tanner was called to Norwich on jury duty Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. John P. McDonald and children, Robert, Betty, Thomas and Doris, of Pawtucket, and Miss Margaret McDonald, of Providence, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McDonald over the week end.

Possum An' SweeTater

Yoh kin tawk er bout yer lasses an' yer steamin' buck-wheat cake,
Bout yer oisters fried in crackers an' yer juicy hot clam baked,
Bout yer beef-stake fried wif onyuns an' yer rosners ob cawn,
But ol possum wif sweeTaters beats 'em all sho's yoh bawn.
But take er way yer floydy eating, take er way yer fig and date
An' bring er long my possum on dat biggest ol tin plate.

Turnip-greens al bilt wid bakon, an' er cawn pone smokin' het,
I kud neber scratch dat tiket, kase it reach de tender spot,
An' hot biskets wif hot koffy makes a very hansum par,
While ol hen bile wif dumplin'—yeh, dat's passing far.
But take er way yer floydy eating, take er way yer chicken bild,
An' bring possum an' sweeTater—hush yer mouf, dat sets me wild!

Chase him out a paw-paw thicket, chase him up er simmon tree,
While he munk ob dat houn-pak sets de woods a-ring wif glee,
Round de hill an' frue de botum, up de holler by de spring,
Des a-Ow! Ow! Ow! des a hoopin'—how dat ol lead houn do sing!

Den yoh hurry fru de brars, an' yoh tumble ober logs,
Neber noin', neber karin' as yoh cher dem blessed dawgs,
An' when da al sees yoh kumin, how dem dawgs sing wif new grace,
From de young houn't sweet klur trible, to de ol houn's mity base!
An' dar on lim er grinnin', wif his tail quirld mity tite,
Hangs my friend ol Mr. Possum—how dem dawgs howl wif delite!
Denn yoh crall out fudder, fudder, till yoh hear dat ol lim krack,
Den yoh shake er luse his tail-holt, an' yoh put him in yer sack.

Den yoh totes im home an' fed him till he's fat, jest fat ex piez,
Den yoh kill im, an' yoh hang im out one frosty nite to frees,
Den yoh stuf im wif sweeTater, an' put butter al aroun,
Den yoh put im in de uven, an' yoh bake im till he's brown.

All er swimmin in his graby, an' er drippin in his fat,
Talk er about yer milk en honey—what's de hebenly food to dat?
Let dat sho-ban play its lowdest, let dat konsurt jus pas on,
I wuddent stop my eatin' ef ol Gabrel blowd his hawn.

FRANKLIN SQUARE NORWICH, CONN.

JEWETT CITY

TOURIST THROUGH SOUTH PICTURES PLACES AND PEOPLE

A friend of The Bulletin, who claims that that paper and its predecessor, The Norwich Courier have been coming into his family for a hundred years, writing to the local correspondent from North Carolina while a guest of the Asheville-Biltmore hotel, Asheville, says:

South from Richmond, Va., to Durham, N. C., going in the same direction we passed a great many young men on foot bound for the south. They all wanted to ride with us. There were usually two together, some had blanket rolls, some dress suit cases, others just a bundle.

After turning west toward Asheville we saw none of this body of young. There must have been hundreds of them. (Birds of passage).

Coming into the "mountings" of western Carolina, we began to see the mounting people (not mountain). They are nearly all blonds, blue eyes and flaxen haired. The girls are rather fine, with peach blossom complexion. Very kindly, very cordial, with quiet voices and the southern drawl—No R's in their words. They asked if we were from the North. Log cabins, with two rooms, a small log stable, a mule, a few chickens, a razor-backed hog or two.

In the towns, (cities they are called) we found cotton mills of large size and the help are all white, from the "mountings".

As we entered this city, we passed one of Sayles' mills (owner of Ponemah at Taftville). This made us feel as if we were not far from home.

We are up quite high here. This is a summer resort for people as far north as Washington, D. C.

As I sit at this hotel window looking west I can see a range of mountains, the tops of which are in the clouds, as the weather is thick today.

We expect to be in Tennessee tomorrow going north of the Great Smoky range. Today we met a goodly (also Godly) number of people (with English names) at the church. (First Presbyterian) and the minister proved that St. Paul was a Presbyterian.

In Greensboro, I went into a bank Friday to inquire about certain things that might be happening in New York and they were good enough to send to the Western Union telegraph office to find out for me what I wanted. (I could not pay them).

North Carolina is really a wonderful state, cement roads all the way through the mountains and the people are so kind.

There are very few Negroes in the mountains. At railroad stations there is a room for colored people.

The "mountings" are disappearing in the mist and I'll stop.

WESTFORD

Work is progressing on the bridges on the Warrenville-Westford road. The straightening of the road at the upper bridge will be a great improvement.

An arterian well has recently been drilled on John Trankla's place.

A social is to be held at the Hill church Saturday evening with games, stunts, music and light refreshments.

Dr. Whiton and his sister, Mrs. Laura Merrill, both of Neshanic station, N. J., were recent visitors at C. D. Chism's place.

"What makes you keep giving me fish for dinner day after day," he inquired. "Are you particularly fond of it?"

"No," she replied. "I was wholly unselfish. I read a lovely recipe about how to remove a fish bone when it sticks in your throat and I wanted to try it."—Washington Star.

ROAD SOCIETY

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Burdick, Mrs. Falck and William Burdick motored to Norwich on Saturday.

CURRANT AND GOOSEBERRY BUSHES CLEARED OFF

More than 35,000 acres of Connecticut land this summer were cleared of currant and gooseberry bushes, on which the dangerous white pine blister rust develops, according to the yearly report of J. E. Riley, Jr., agent of the United States department of agriculture. Mr. Riley is in charge of the control work, which is accomplished through the cooperation of the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment station and the federal government.

In the 20 towns composing that territory, the white pines, which are the most valuable trees in Connecticut, will not become infected with the deadly disease until the currants and gooseberries, scientificially called Ribes, can grow up again. Usually the trees are safe for four or five years. No workmen, however painstaking, can reach the roots of all bushes and in certain wet localities sprouting is sure to occur.

Eradication sometimes requires more than man-power. Scouts this summer found a plot of cultivated red currants in Bristol which grew above their heads. The men tied ropes around the bushes, hitched them to a truck and yanked them out of the ground. It was a job of two days.

Almost 754,000 wild Ribes were destroyed and 10,000 cultivated currants were uprooted in the working period from May 1 to Nov. 1. The work involved an average cost of only 25 cents an acre where eradication was done for the first time and 15 cents where it had been done years before.

Five towns made appropriations which amounted to almost half the expense for the work done within their borders. In most of the other towns, owners of pines raised some money for the eradication, but the greater part of the expense was borne by the state and federal governments.

Cornwall, Hawinton, Goshen and Barkhamsted in Litchfield county, where the white pine blister rust is worse than in any other part of the state, were scouted for re-eradication and not half the number of Ribes which formerly grew were found to be present.

Areas where the gooseberries and currants were destroyed several years ago are much freer of the disease than those which recently were cleared. Infection has been stopped with the destruction of Ribes, but it will break out again where they are permitted to grow.

Seventy-five men worked this summer with the scouts and eradication crews. Of these, 48 were employed by pine owners. Two scouts this winter will make a chart of Connecticut pine areas, to be used as a basis for next season's work.

ELECTRIC POWER TRAVELS 18 MILES TO WORK

Electricity generated at the steam and hydro stations of Connecticut power and light utilities travels, on the average, approximately 18 miles over transmission and distribution lines before it is utilized in home, office and factory. Since some generating plants are located within or very close to the city which they serve chiefly, this average furnishes an idea of the long distances over which electricity is often carried before it is available to the customer.

Interconnection of the major central stations of the state in a large superpower network has made it possible to transmit electricity generated in the western section of the state, at the Rocky river hydro development at New Milford, for example, to New London, Norwich, Putnam and other points in the eastern area, and even into Massachusetts and Rhode Island. Except in unusual circumstances, however, electricity is utilized at the nearest point possible to its generation since this minimizes the loss of power which always occurs in transmission.

By far the largest cost entering into light and power service is the cost of transmitting electricity from the generating station to the customer. Engineers estimate this cost at more than 6 per cent of the entire cost of electrical service. The generators, turbines, auxiliary equipment, fuel and water used in generation is expensive, but not in comparison with the cost of transmission lines, transformers and other essentials of the distribution system.

A man may be able to trade his reputation for money, but he can't trade back.

STATE'S WATER SUPPLIES GROWING LARGER FAST

At the present rate of construction and improvement, Connecticut water supplies within a few years will be in a position to withstand without need of conservation dry periods several times the length of the drouth of last summer, in the opinion of Edward E. Minor, president of the Connecticut Water Works association and general manager of the New Haven Water company. Mr. Minor's statement is as follows:

"Although the drouth which Connecticut experienced through deficiencies in precipitation during four consecutive months during the summer and early fall was the worst dry period in several years and undoubtedly one of the most severe which this section of the country might suffer in any year, the larger water supplies throughout the state were never in a dangerous position during the entire period. Conservation was asked in many cases in order to preserve adequate pressure in the mains for fire protection, but as far as actual shortage was concerned few of the supplies were endangered.

"Within a few years' time, judging from the rate at which improvements and additions are being made to Connecticut water works, all the larger supplies will be sufficient to withstand dry periods of several times the duration of that of the past summer without the necessity of appealing for conservation. In some cities, new reservoirs have been or are being constructed that will put the water supplies of those communities far in advance of current requirements."

UNION

A good rain on Monday eased up the trucking and carrying of water for a few days at least. The brooks and some very shallow wells were started, but there is need of much more rain before the ground freezes up for winter.

There was one of the most beautiful "sky paintings" just before and after sunrise Wednesday, Nov. 20. Whittier was right when he wrote "Aloft on sky and mountain wall are God's great pictures hung."

There seems to be no report of any earthquake shock in Union. It is well to miss some things.

The fire lookout on Mt. Ochepstuck, as well as all other fire lookouts in Connecticut was closed for the season November 17.

Miss Julia Heck, nurse in Springfield hospital, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Heck, Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Howard G. Barber spent the week end with her daughter, Mrs. George W. Coolidge and family, in Windsor.

Mrs. Helen Baldwin Bauer, of New York, was the week end guest of her sister, Mrs. H. M. Lawson.

Mrs. Susie Lawson McCrea, who spent the summer in Colorado, is now teaching in Tennessee.

Mrs. Leon Heck is teaching in Lebanon, under the supervision of our former Union supervisor of schools, Martin B. Robertson. Mrs. Heck did excellent work when she taught in Union.

Julian Carrion and family have moved to the Anson Corbin homestead, recently purchased from G. H. Webster. Their daughter is attending Southbridge high school, going daily from her home.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Agard, of Springfield, Mass., and Miss Effie Agard of Warren, Mass., were guests Sunday of their uncle, Adelbert Agard.

Wash dishes this way

See them gleam! All cleaning easier, too

IT'S almost fun! You just soak the dishes, pots and pans in Rinso suds. Then you rinse in hot water . . . and they dry clear without wiping.

So quick—so easy! The grease loosens, floats off by itself. No grit, either. Just try Rinso for painted woodwork, tubs, basins, linoleum!

A compact, granulated soap—one cupful of Rinso gives more suds than two cupfuls of lightweight soap. Thick, soapy suds — even in hardest water! Get the BIG household package of Rinso and use it on washday, too—for whiter clothes without scrubbing.

Rinso

The granulated soap for all week's wash, dishes and all cleaning.

Every pint of CLICQUOT gives you 16 OUNCES

This glass shows you how much more ginger ale you get in every pint of Clicquot.

Clicquot Club Pale Dry, unlike most dry ginger ales, gives you ¼ more than any other nationally known ginger ale

LITTLE 12-oz. bottles. That's what you get when you ask for a pint of most dry ginger ales.

Clicquot Club Pale Dry is the only nationally known dry ginger ale put up in full pint bottles. When you buy Clicquot Club Pale Dry, you get 4 ounces more for your money.

And the flavor of Clicquot Club Pale Dry is unequalled by that of any other ginger ale sold today. We use only the finest Jamaica ginger, pure table sugar, the mellow syrup of ripe fruit juices, and pure rock spring water, with a double-charge carbonation to give extra zest.

And of course Clicquot Club Pale Dry is aged. That is the secret of its rare and mellow flavor. A carefully guarded secret unknown to the makers of "family quality" ginger ales.

Once you try Clicquot Club Pale Dry in full pint bottles, you'll quickly see that here is the most convenient way of buying ginger ale. Far more economical than wasteful near-quarts that may "go flat" before you use them up . . . or little 12-ounce "pints" that won't go round.

Unlike others, all Clicquot Club ginger ales —Pale Dry, Golden, and Sec—come in clean bottles never used before. If you like a rich gingery drink, ask for Clicquot Club Golden. If your taste prefers an extra dry blend, buy Clicquot Club Sec—the ginger ale supreme.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Farmer Brown's Boy Arrives.

By Thornton W. Burgess.

Appearances so oft deceive.
Tis hard to know what to believe.
—Farmer Brown's Boy

The more Flip the Terrier thought how he had been fooled by Unc' Billy Possum, the more excited and the faster and louder he barked at the foot of the apple tree in which Unc' Billy had sought refuge. Even Bowser the Hound began to get a little of Flip's excitement and he, too, began to bark in that great deep voice of his. So when Farmer Brown's Boy came out of the house and heard the barking over in the Old Orchard, he started over to see what it was all about.

"Those two dogs are excited about something," said Farmer Brown's Boy. I wonder who or what they have found now."

When Flip and Bowser saw Farmer Brown's Boy coming, they became more excited than ever. Flip was leaping up at the front of the tree, as he barked so fast that you would have wondered how he got his breath. Of course, Farmer Brown's Boy saw Unc' Billy Possum at once.

"Well, well, well!" exclaimed Farmer Brown's Boy. "If it isn't old Unc' Billy Possum himself! It's a long time since I've seen you, Unc' Billy. I had begun to think that you had moved away or that something had happened to you. What are you doing over here in the Old Orchard?"

Farmer Brown's Boy began to climb up the apple tree Unc' Billy saw him coming and backed out along one of the branches. Farmer Brown's Boy then reached out and shook the branch. Unc' Billy hung on with all four feet and his tail. Down below, Flip and Bowser yelped and barked with growing excitement, and were ready to pounce on Unc' Billy the moment he should be shaken off. Then Farmer Brown's Boy happened to think that those two eager dogs below might kill Unc' Billy before he could get down to save him. So he stopped shaking. Instead, he climbed down out of the tree, left Flip and Bowser at the foot of the tree and got a ladder from the barn. With this ladder he could get to Unc' Billy, and did so. Unc' Billy saw him coming and that it was of no use of try to get away. He snarled and showed his teeth, but Farmer Brown's Boy reached out and got him by the tail. And then Unc' Billy tried his old trick again. He just pretended to be dead.

Farmer Brown's Boy took him down and when Flip saw that he was bringing Unc' Billy down it seemed as if he would turn himself inside out with excitement. Farmer Brown's Boy held Unc 'Billy out for Flip to smell of, but when Flip attempted to bite Unc' Billy, Farmer Brown's Boy spoke to him sharply. So Flip learned that he was not to kill Unc' Billy.

Farmer Brown's Boy laid Unc' Billy down on the ground and both Flip and Bowser came and smelled him all over. Not even when they blew in one of his ears did he move, and that must have tickled him greatly. Never did a dead Possum look any more dead than Unc' Billy looked. But all the time Unc' Billy was peeping out under his nearly closed eyelids, watching everything that was done. Was he afraid? Of course, he was afraid, but he didn't show that he was afraid. He knew that his safest plan was to bluff. He knew that as long as he remained without motion nothing was likely to happen to him. And so without protest he allowed Farmer Brown's Boy to pick him up by the tail, roll him over, and never did he move so much as an eyelash.

Farmer Brown's Boy took him down

"MONEY" IN LOST MILK BOTTLES

Do you use milk bottles for jam, kerosene, paint, and other household articles? Perhaps you use them for flower vases, or in numerous other ways. If they get too dirty, probably they are thrown out with the ashes or trash.

Such a procedure is far too common, says the bureau of dairy industry, United States department of agriculture, and adds materially to the consumer's milk bill. The annual milk-bottle bill of the nation is close to $30,000,000 the bureau says, and at least $20,000,000 of this is lost occurring after the bottles leave the dairy.

Last year in one large city, junkmen picked off the city dumps 30,000,000 milk bottles which had been thrown away. These bottles had a value of over $1,000,000.

PROFIT IN GROWING TIMBER

An example of profits that can be derived from growing timber on abandoned farm land was recently reported to the forest service of the United States department of agriculture. Earl Keene, a farmer near Golden Hill, Md., cut 2 cords of wood last year from an area of less than 2 acres which was under cultivation in 1922. Since 1922 several cords of wood has been removed in thinnings.

Piles Go Quick

Piles are caused by congestion of blood in the lower bowel. Only an internal remedy can remove the cause. That's why salves and cutting fail. Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid, a harmless tablet, succeeds, because it relieves this congestion and strengthens the affected parts. Hem-Roid has given quick, safe and lasting relief to thousands of Piles sufferers. It will do the same for you or money back. Lee & Osgood Co. and druggists everywhere sell Hem-Roid with this guarantee.

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

SOYBEANS BECOME IMPORTANT HAY AND SEED CROP

In the last few years soybeans have crop in the eastern half of the United States. As the acreage increased and new uses were found for the crop, the machinery for harvesting the seed has been developed to high efficiency. In the principal grain producing sections the grain binder, the self-rake reaper, and the combine are now used for harvesting the seed. In a publication just issued by the U. S. department of agriculture, Farmers' bulletin 1599-F, "Soybean Hay and Seed production," the story of the rapid rise of the soybean to its present place in American agriculture is traced, and suggestions are made as to the use of the crop.

Soybean hay should be thoroughly cured before being stacked, housed, or baled, as there is danger of molding when it is stored or baled too green or too soon after a rain. Soybean hay is but little more difficult to cure than hay from other legumes, and may be handled successfully by about the same methods. The crop is at its best for hay when the seeds are about half developed.

The crop will do well on many soils. It will grow well on soils too acid for red clover, sweet clover, or alfalfa. It is excellent as a summer catch crop following early crops, or for fields not in the regular rotation.

The publication discusses the time and methods of cutting for hay and gives the best methods of curing the hay; and as to the seed, it discusses time of harvesting, method of harvesting, threshing, and storage.

Tentative U. S. standards have been prepared by the U. S. department of agriculture for use in the marketing of soybean and soybean mixed hay, and standards have been prepared for grading the beans.

Soybeans which are to be stored as seed should be thoroughly dry when threshed. After threshing, the beans should be watched carefully to avoid heating and molding. Heating is especially likely to occur if the seed is bulked in large quantities in a bin or in a poorly ventilated room. Soybeans are seldom attacked by weevils or the other insects which attack most other beans and peas.

GOOD PLOWING HELPS TO CONTROL SCAB DISEASE

While the European corn borer is spending the winter in a piece of a corn stalk or in a bit of buried crop residue in the field, it often happens that another enemy of the farmer is wintering on the outside of the same crop material. This other enemy is the scab or fusarium blight that attacks wheat, barley, rye and oats, killing the seedling plants or reducing the yield. In Farmers' Bulletin 1599-F, just issued by the U. S. department of agriculture, Drs. James G. Dickson of the Wisconsin Agricultural experiment station and Edwin B. Mains of the Purdue University agricultural experiment station, Indiana, point out the following as three essentials for the control of the scab—clean plowing and proper crop rotation, use of well-cleaned and treated seed, and the growing of scab-resistant varieties.

In areas where the corn borer is now a pest the corn-borer cleanup will help to eliminate scab. The scab winters in spore cases formed on the outside of crop refuse. Moisture and warm weather cause the development and spread of the summer stages. Scab caused serious losses in the small grain crops in 1919 and again in 1928. In arid and semi-arid regions it does not affect grain. In 1919 Illinois and Iowa were centers of the principal damage.

Scab damage is likely to be most severe when a small grain follows corn, but if all corn residues are removed or buried in plowing the danger is reduced. Cleaning seed is helpful in blowing out many of the spores and in eliminating many scabby kernels which are usually lighter than the sound kernels desirable for seed. The mercury dust treatment is desirable for seed grain.

Several of the state and federal experiment stations in the region affected by scab are developing disease-resistant varieties of wheat and barley. Farmers should ask their state experiment station for advice as to the best variety available for their locality.

SWEET CREAM BUTTER KEEPS WELL.

Dairy specialists of the United States department of agriculture who supervise the making of sweet-cream butter for the navy have found that such butter can be made to keep as well in one-pound prints as when stored in tubs. Approximately 150,000 pounds of butter was put up in 1-pound packages or prints. After nearly 3 months in storage it showed only very slight deterioration in quality and was given a commercial score averaging 93.44 for the entire lot. Only fresh, sweet cream was used in making this butter. Throughout the manufacturing and printing processes sanitary conditions were rigidly enforced under bureau of dairy industry supervision.

MORE POULTRY ON FARMS THIS YEAR.

On the basis of reports received on about 20,000 farm poultry flocks, the indications are that the total number of birds in all the farm flocks of the country at the end of 1929 will be about 6 per cent. greater than the total at the end of 1928, or about the same as the total at the end of 1926, says the bureau of agricultural economics, U. S. department of agriculture.

The reports indicate that there was 2.4 per cent. fewer hens and pullets of laying flocks on October 1, 1929, than on October 1 a year ago, but the number of young chickens of this year's hatch, including pullets being saved for layers, was about 10 per cent greater than on October 1 last year.

As compared with a year ago, the numbers of young chickens have increased generally throughout the country, with 14 per cent. more in the North Atlantic states, 10 per cent more in the North Central group, 14 per cent. more in the South Atlantic and 8 per cent. more in the South Central and in the Far Western states.

The bureau believes that by the end of the year the total number of birds in laying flocks will exceed the total number at the end of 1928 and thus make up the decline in number that occurred in 1928.

FURTHER SUBSTANTIAL PROGRESS WAS MADE IN STOCK MARKET YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP)—The stock market firmly resisted selling pressure today and made further substantial progress, under the impetus of continued improvement in credit and constructive news from Washington.

Profit taking on the advance of the past two days, during the early hours of the session, inspired considerable short selling, and leading shares sagged moderately until close to midday, when they attracted sufficient buying to shake off their sluggishness, and shorts quickly covered. Closing prices were generally 1 to 17 points higher.

Strength was concentrated in the utilities, rails and chemicals. Trading continued orderly and comparatively quiet, but showed moderate expansion of volume, 3,155,650 shares changing hands, compared to 2,829,040 yesterday.

Apprehensiveness over the maintenance of high levels of employment were in the main quieted by the results of President Hoover's second business and industrial conference. A statement issued at the white house after the close of the market said that it was the unanimous opinion of the conference that there was no reason why business should not be carried on as usual and construction work expanded in every prudent direction so as to cover any slack in employment.

Henry Ford's statement that he would plan immediately an increase in wages was a surprise, in view of the recent over-production problems in the motor industry. Otis Steel and Midland Steel Products which serve the automobile industry primarily, posted notices denying rumors that any wage cut was planned.

Not least among the day's surprises was the Federal Reserve weekly brokers' loan compilation, disclosed late in the afternoon. A further reduction of $285,000,000 in loans, carrying the total to $3,387,000,000, the lowest since December, 1927, and little more than half the record total of $6,504,000,000 of Oct. 2, last, surpassed all estimates. In fact, some observers were looking for an increase. The figures indicated further wholesale liquidation of marginal accounts and outright purchases of stocks by investors.

The loan figures disclosed a remarkable outflow of funds from New York, out-of-town banks during the week ended Wednesday reducing their loans by $108,000,000 to a total of $704,000,000, the lowest since comparable statistics, dating back to Jan. 1, 1926, have been compiled. New York banks reduced their loans by more than $300,000,000 to a total of $833,000,000, and "others" by $173,000,000 to a total of $2,021,000,000, the lowest levels since September and October of last year.

The Federal Reserve condition statements showed that with the huge liquidation of stock market loans, the system was able to begin withdrawing the credit which it put out during the stock market crisis a few weeks ago. It reduced its holding of bills and securities during the week by about $76,000,000 and the reserve ratio rose from 69.5 per cent to 71.2 per cent. This was despite a moderate loss of gold. It was disclosed that exports of the yellow metal during the week amounted to $11,212,000, of which about $5,000,000 each went to Switzerland and Poland. This was largely offset, however, by a reduction of gold earmarked for foreign account, by $8,010,000. These gold movements were rather puzzling to Wall street. The Bank of England cut its discount rate by 1-2 of one per cent to 5 1-2 per cent.

Credit was so plentiful during the day that bankers said they could see nothing to delay building and public works projects which have been held up during the recent high rates. Call money again renewed at 5 per cent, and was reduced to 4 1-2 at the loan post. But funds still went begging, and were offered as low as 3 per cent outside. Money brokers said that between $30,000,000 and $80,000,000 seeking employment could not be placed.

Air Reduction sold up about 17 points, and General Electric, after gaining a couple of points in the morning, closed 13 higher. Union Pacific mounted 12 points, and such shares as Allied Chemical, American Can, American Tobacco, American Water Works, Chesapeake & Ohio, Columbia Gas, Johns Manville, Norfolk & Western, Reading, Public Service of New Jersey, North American, Columbian Carbon, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Standard Gas, and Simmons, closed about 3 to 10 points higher. U. S. Steel sold off a couple of points early in the session, but closed 1 3-4 higher. A few stocks closed lower. National Cash Register lost 5 points in profit taking on yesterday's gain of 21 1-2, and Radio sagged a fraction.

Commodity markets were irregular. Cotton futures encountered profit taking on their recent advance, and closed 35 cents to 55 cents a bale lower. Wheat futures, however, was further stimulated by bullish foreign crop reports and good export demand, and made advances of 2 cents or more.

Foreign exchanges held fairly steady, with sterling cables advancing 1-8 cent to $4.87 11-16.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP)—An extended rally in foreign loans, together with continued strength in domestic corporation issues and United States government securities, was the bond market's response today to the abundance and cheapness of money. The liveliest investment demand of the week appeared in virtually all sections of the list, although there was some shifting of funds from Liberties and treasury certificates to rails, utilities and industrials.

With the market maintaining its advance in step with the easing of loan rates, a more confident tone was apparent, with the result that foreign issues, which had been heavily sold during the recent depression, were sought in some volume. These bonds still offer high yields and in most instances are considerably below their 1929 highs, although some of the leading European government loans are virtually abreast of their maximums for the year.

French Republic 7 1-2s touched 111, where they equalled the peak quotation, while the 7s all but duplicated the performance of the higher coupon bond. German 7s rose nearly a point to 107, which compares with their high of 108. Some of the largest gains, however, were in South American issues, led by the Colombian Agricultural Bank bonds and the Rio Grande Do Sul listings. Polish issues, which have been under pressure because of uncertainties in the political situation, recovered 1 to 4 points.

Rails were eagerly bid for in the domestic list and first and secondary carriers rose between half and three-quarters of a point, on the average. An exceptionally good demand developed in Chicago Great Western 4s, St. Paul 5s and Adjustment 5s, Rock Island 4s and 4 1-2s, Denver & Rio Grande 4s, New Haven 4 1-2s, Union Pacific first 4s, St. Louis & San Francisco prior lien 4s and 4 1-2s and Erie 4s.

Industrials, specialties, utilities of good grade found an active market. Substantial transactions in International Telephone Debenture 4 1-2s, National Dairy 5 1-4s, and numerous oil company obligations brought out sizeable gains.

Three new highs were recorded in the United States government list, which turned upward in the last half hour after earlier irregularity. First Liberty 4 1-4s, Treasury 4 1-4s and Treasury 4s advanced to new 1929 peaks, but turnovers were only nominal.

Interest in convertibles and share privilege debentures was again comparatively small. American Telephone 4 1-2s showed a gain of 2 points. Texas Corp. 3s changed hands in considerable volume, but made no net change. Public Service of New Jersey 4 1-2s, on their usual small turnover, advanced 10 points.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

CHICAGO, Nov. 21.—(AP)—About 4 cents a bushel jump in wheat values resulted today from buying rushes that were largely due to disturbing crop advices from Argentina. Abandonment of the 18 per cent. of Argentine wheat acreage officially was announced, and estimates of the Argentine exportable surplus from the new wheat crop were reduced today as low as 91,000,000 bushels, a total decidedly the smallest suggested so far this season. Anxiety was aroused also by reports of heavy menace from black rust spreading in southern Argentina where the wheat harvest is yet three to four weeks distant.

Under heavy selling to realize profits, though, the day's top prices for wheat failed to hold, and the market here closed unsettled, 2 1-8 to 3 5-8 cents above yesterday's finish. Corn closed unchanged to 3-8 off; oats 1-4 to 1-2 cent up, and provisions varying from 2c decline to an equal advance.

Adding to the stimulus of big abandonment of wheat acreage in Argentine and of alarm about meager threshing returns in that country, Chicago wheat traders took sharp notice today of reduction of British bank rates as well as of dispatches from Melbourne, Australia, saying the Victoria Wheat Growers' association announced that no wheat from the 1929 Victoria crop would be available for export. Moreover, figures were at hand here showing that rainfall in the Canadian wheat belt has been under the average for the past month and subsoil moisture near spring probably would again prove inadequate. Some revival of good export demand for wheat from North America also was noted, trans-Atlantic purchases of United States and Canadian wheat today amounting to 1,000,000 bushels with the Chicago-Liverpool price difference 9 1-8 cents, the widest in a number of weeks.

Reactions from wheat bulges today showed but little force until after the market had risen to the highest level reached since Nov. 4. At that stage setbacks gained greater momentum but the market nevertheless, kept much of its gains, and the undertone most of the day was strong, helped by reports that European interests were freely purchasing wheat futures deliveries in Winnipeg. It was pointed out in some quarters that crop developments in Argentina showed a remarkable parallel to this season's crop happenings in Canada, and that in addition the Canadian prairie provinces now were going into the winter with a decidedly doubtful deficient supply of moisture.

Corn advanced today to the highest price which the December delivery has attained this month, selling pressure then increased and faced by enlarged rural offerings the market reacted sharply.

Oats averaged higher, responsive to wheat strength.

Provisions were sustained by purchases of December lard for packers and warehouses.

WALL STREET BRIEFS

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP)—The volume of bonds maturing next month is larger than usual, the total of corporation bonds, notes and equipment trust certificates falling due amounting to $84,879,840, compared with $33,810,899 in November, and $50,532,900 in December, 1928.

The American Steel & Wire Co., a subsidiary of the United States Steel corporation, plans to build two rod mills and one billet mill at Donora, Pa., at an estimated cost of $5,000,000. Between 12 and 14 months will be required to erect and install the plants.

Directors of the Missouri-Kansas Texas Lines have approved the 1930 improvement budget, totaling about $7,000,000. The order calls for the purchase of 600 coal cars, the installation of 100 miles of automatic block signals and the laying of about 60 miles of new rails.

The Otis Steel Co. and the Midland Steel Products Co., of Cleveland, have posted notices in their respective mills that there will be no reduction in wages of employes at this time.

The number of holders of Cities Service common stock increased by 55,493 during the past month, bringing the total on Nov. 15 to 393,727. The increase is the largest monthly gain in the company's history.

The production program of the Auburn Automobile company for 1930 calls for a 60 per cent. increase over the current year, E. L. Cord, president announced today.

While the general standard of food purity in London is improving, of 67,350 samples of milk tested in 12 months, 5,842, or 9.3 per cent. were adulterated or not up to standard, as compared with 8.9 per cent in the previous year.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rezall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water softens the dry food waste and causes a speedy, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rezall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 35c today at the nearest Rezall or Liggett Drug Store.

THERON E. MORGAN VS. TANYA JACKSON MORGAN, Order of Notice. State of Connecticut. County of New London, November 13, 1929.

Upon the complaint of the said Theron E. Morgan, claiming for the reasons therein set forth a divorce and custody of minor children returnable on the first Tuesday of December, 1929 before the superior court in and for said County. It appearing to and being found by the subscribing authority that the said defendant, Tanya Jackson Morgan, formerly of Norwich, Connecticut, has gone to parts unknown.

It is therefore ordered, that notice of the pendency of said complaint be given said defendant by publishing this order in the Norwich Bulletin, a newspaper printed in Norwich, two days successively, commencing on or before the 25th day of November, 1929.
WILLIAM H. SHIELDS
Assistant Clerk of the Superior Court for New London County.

TAX NOTICE.
To the Taxpayers of the Town of Sprague:

All persons liable to pay Taxes in the Town of Sprague State of Connecticut, are hereby notified that I have a warrant to levy and collect a tax of ten (10) mills on the list as made by the board of assessors and perfected by the board of relief of said town, for the year 1928, due and payable, November 1, 1929.

All persons neglecting this notice will be proceeded against as directed by the laws of this state.

For the purpose of collecting this tax, I shall be in my place of business, known as Caron's News Store, every day during November, from 1.00 p. m. to 9.00 p. m., and at the parish house in Hanover, in the village of Hanover from 4.00 p. m. to 7.00 p. m. November 22nd; also, at Versailles post office, November 25th, from 4.00 to 7.00 p. m.

After December 1, 1929, interest at the rate of 9 per cent. will be added from the time these taxes became due. All Taxes must be paid direct to the Tax Collector and all bills receipted by him, if sent by mail enclose postage if you wish a receipt.

Dated at Sprague, Conn., this 10th day of October, 1929.
E. J. CARON, Collector.

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Norwich, within and for the District of Norwich, on the 18th day of November, A. D. 1929.
Present, NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.
Estate of William A. Aiken, late of Norwich, in said District, deceased.

Ordered, That the Executor cite the creditors of said deceased to bring in their claims against said estate within six months from this date, by posting a notice to that effect, together with a copy of this order on the sign-post nearest to the place where said deceased last dwelt, and in the same town, and by publishing the same once in a newspaper having a circulation in said district, and make return to this Court.
NELSON J. AYLING Judge.
The above and foregoing is a true copy of record.
Attest, HELEN M. DRESCHER, Clerk.

NOTICE
All creditors of said deceased are hereby notified to present their claims against said estate to the undersigned at 51 Madison Avenue, New York City, New York, within the time limited in the above and foregoing order.
ALFRED L. AIKEN, Executor.

MUCH AIR SICKNESS IS CAUSED BY FEAR

NEW YORK (AP)—Air sickness is much less prevalent than sea sickness and is more easily prevented or ameliorated, says the Guggenheim fund for the promotion of Aeronautics.

Available statistics indicate, says a statement, that only about 5 per cent of the passengers in air transportation are subject to air sickness.

"In general the difficulty is derived from two causes," the announcement said, "one psychological, the other physical." Disorders of this kind are frequently the result of nervousness on the part of the individual who is not accustomed to aviation.

"The obvious solution here is, of course, the growing public confidence in aeronautical safety, and as airplane travel becomes more and more a matter of course, most of this psychological disorder will be eliminated.

"Air sickness from physical causes occurs nearly always in closed cabin planes, and the successful transport companies will be those which design their cabins as a guarantee to proper and adequate ventilation for their public.

"The general comfort of travel is also an important factor, and an efficient pilot who selects the proper air stratum and avoids bumpy riding, as far as possible, can do much to eliminate the risk of air sickness for his passengers. It can be concluded that very few people are troubled by air sickness in properly built, efficiently piloted aircraft."

CHICAGO CIVIC THEATER PLAYS ONLY SHAKESPEARE

CHICAGO (AP)—Chicago's Civic theater is to be devoted entirely to Shakespearean plays. Eleven weeks of the Bard of Avon's productions open November 11.

Fritz Leiber, director of the company, knows of no other theater in the Americas devoted entirely to Shakespearean shows. There are several in Germany and one at Stratford, England, birthplace of William Shakespeare.

The civic theater—a bandbox playhouse, seating only 866 persons—is in the new Civic opera building. There are no boxes or gallery.

Santiago de Cuba, Cuba, plans to spend $9,000,000 on municipal improvements, including a new municipal palace, police stations, public market, hospital, homes for children and the aged, and 1,000 houses for laborers.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

With today's performances, the enthralling screen version of Rupert Hughes' great story of American womanhood, "She Goes To War," eulogizing the heroic part our women played in the World war, comes to an end. Beginning tomorrow (Saturday), the tremendous all-talking outdoor drama, "The Virginian," brings to the Broadway screen the picture that has been literally stampeding audiences wherever shown. Some years ago Owen Wister wrote the absorbing novel of the lanky Virginian. Actually filmed in the heart of the cattle country, the production is authentic to the smallest detail, and will set the coldest blood to boiling with excitement before the final fade-out. From the christening dance, with the entire countryside turned out for the "big doin's," the mischievous cowboys "swappin' clothes" on the dozen sleeping babies, the roar of the round-up with the yelling cowboys riding herd on a thousand "beef critters," thrill follows thrill to a smashing climax in the great American epic of the real west. The cast might have been made to order, with Gary Cooper as the lanky Virginian, Walter Huston as the cattle thief and Gambler Trampas, Richard Arlen as the Virginian's buddy, E. H. Calvert as "the judge," Mary Brian as the little Vermont "school-marm," scared stiff in the rough cow country, and Chester Conklin, Victor Potel, Eugene Pallette, Tex Young and Dude Stevens in congenial roles. The "Talking Collegians" in "Splash Mates," and the latest Paramount Sound News complete the program. Shown Saturday afternoon only is a special added featurette, the first talking serial ever made, "The Ace of Scotland Yard," featuring Crawford Kent and Grace Cunard in a series of exciting adventures of the greatest detective force in the world. The first chapter is entitled the "Fatal Circlet," and will be followed each Saturday with a continuation of the story.

Breed Theatre

Howard Hawks, Fox Films director, whose latest effort, "Trent's Last Case," is showing at the Breed theatre today and Saturday, believes that a person's ability to find the solution of a mystery story or picture before it is disclosed at the finish is a criterion of his or her talents in the field of detection.

"The detective mind," says Hawks, "is essentially analytical. It has within the factors in a case, determine whether the evidence is direct or misleading and to a large extent combine the judicial and the police viewpoints. A person who has this type of mentality usually is able to make an accurate guess as to the 'criminal' in a story or a motion picture before others discover him. Such a person unquestionably would make a good detective, should he turn his efforts in that direction."

The run of "Trent's Last Case," one of the most absorbing mystery stories ever filmed, affords everyone an excellent opportunity to analyze his or her talents along these lines. The identity of the murderer is cleverly concealed, not by adroit juggling of the action, but by the actual unfolding of the story. So far, very few spectators have been successful in their guesses until the picture reveals the real killer.

The Roth Quartet

The famous Roth quartet, which is to play in New London next Tuesday evening under the auspices of the college, have made for themselves what is conceded to be the greatest success in the history of quartet touring in America. During the early fall of 1928 they were invited to play at the famous Coolidge festival in Pittsfield, Mass. This invitation they accepted, and came to make four appearances following which they had arranged to return to Europe within the period of a week. American music lovers were not to be so easily denied, for they insisted that their stay be extended for another week or so. This they decided to do, but after a week there were more engagements and then another week and still more until they stayed as long as they possibly could to fill these dates. On the first of November 1928 they returned to Europe where a long tour awaited them, leaving behind them the echoes of one of the greatest ovations ever given a chamber music ensemble.

The extent of their success can be easily seen when one realizes that when they arrived from Europe they were absolutely unknown to every one, except a few friends of Mrs. E. S. Coolidge, who had selected them above all others, yet when they returned after staying about forty days in America they had played seventeen engagements, all of which took place during what is considered the dullest part of the concert season.

Gridiron Romance

Another romance of the gridiron will culminate Nov. 27, at the close of the football season, when Art Pharmer, backfield star of the Minnesota Gophers, marries Miss Margaret Smith, of Minneapolis.

The new teeth of Lee Sheldon, Poplar Bluff, Mo., did not fit very well, so he decided to wear them at night to break them in. It was all very well until he awoke and missed them. A pain developed in his stomach and he was taken to a hospital for examination. Two days passed and the pain increased. Sheldon was reported in a serious condition. Then his wife telephoned that she had found the teeth near the bed. The pain ceased and a few hours later Sheldon was released, cured.

GYPSY FORTUNE TELLERS ORDERED TO QUIT BUSINESS AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 21—The police this evening ordered a band of gypsies that have been occupying stores for the purpose of telling fortunes to discontinue the business or face trial in the police court. There were four such places, three of them on Bank street. The fourth was on Main street. The move by the police was a result of City Manager William A. Holt requesting that action be taken to put an end to the so-called fortune telling by the nomads. Prosecuting Attorney Max Boyer was consulted and he made it known that the practice of telling future happenings by the so-called seers or clairvoyants was a violation of the law. Automobile Patrol Officer Augustus Ray notified the gypsies to discontinue their practice. In most instances the gypsies rent unoccupied stores.

TWO HARTFORD GIRLS LOITERED ABOUT STATION

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 21—Two young girls who reside in Hartford were arrested here this evening by Special Agent John Anderson, New Haven railroad police, on a charge of loitering. The girls were locked up at police headquarters and tomorrow will be in the police court. The girls had been loitering in the waiting room at the union station the greater part of last night and again today.

New London had its first real taste of winter today. With lower temperature prevailing than has been the case heretofore, snow started falling about 6:30. The fall was light but was sufficient to give the ground a white surface coating until the sun broke through and melted it.

The police are gradually rounding out their vacations and all the officers will have concluded their annual absence of two weeks from duty before the end of next month. Automobile Patrol Officers William Corcoran and Jeorge Cockell and Patrolmen Michael Dorsey and Dennis Cavanaugh have terminated their vacations this week and Patrolmen Lawrence Fardy, William Graham and William Riordan are off duty for two weeks.

NON-RESIDENT HUNTER HARD HIT BY NEW FEE LAW

It is safe to predict that within another year there will be a greatly lessened number of hunters and fishermen to procure licenses to engage in that form of sport, for the law recently enacted covering the license fees will become effective after the first of the year and provides for a big advance in license fee. The non-resident hunter is the hardest hit. For next year his fee will be $14.

CAR SMASHES COLUMN AT HARWOOD RESIDENCE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 21.—Harold C. Bolton, 439 Pequot avenue, charged with driving while under the influence of liquor, pleaded guilty. He was fined $100 and costs, but $50 of the fine was ordered remitted. Bolton was driving on Ocean avenue last night and when south of Willetts avenue and where the street has been excavated to permit water pipe repairs, the driver lost control of the steering wheel. The car climbed the curbing and crashed against one of the brick and granite columns at the entrance to the home of P. LeRoy Harwood, which was demolished. The automobile was only slightly disfigured and the driver escaped injury. The police were notified and on their arrival at the Harwood residence Bolton was with his car and visibly intoxicated.

Felix Lyle, of 573 Main street and employed as a presser, was charged with non-support of his wife, Mary, and their infant daughter, Constance. The case was continued a month and Lyle promised to provide properly for his wife and child.

Mrs. Viola Potter and infant daughter, 7 Huntington street, and Morris Morosini, Mystic, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Miss Teresa Sullivan, of Plainfield; Ernest Jeffreys, U. S. Coast Guard; Mrs. Harold Grimby and infant daughter, Mystic; Miss Eva Tracy, Westbrook; Joseph Mugovero, 417 Montauk avenue; Edward Dwiazdowski, Montville; Walter Miller, Mystic; Andrew Larsen, steamer New London; Mrs. William Darrow and infant son, 49 Phillips street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Marian E. Capwell has sold a house and lot on Warren street to Joseph and Jane Bonafede.

Alfred and Guildo Minucci and John Garofoli have sold a house and lot on Colman street to Leo and Theresa Reckholts.

The funeral of Mrs. Katherine Ross, wife of Richard Ross, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence of her mother, Mrs. Mary Watt, 179 Bank street, and was attended by a large gathering of mourners. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Frank S. Edmonds

Funeral services for Frank S. Edmonds, formerly of Norwich, who died at Odd Fellows home, Groton, were held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the home, the services being conducted by Rev. George R. Atha, pastor of Groton Heights Baptist church. Burial was in the home cemetery.

Andrew F. Smith

The funeral of Andrew F. Smith was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at his residence at Thames View, Norwich, the services being conducted by Rev. Herbert E. Hutchins, pastor of Central Hill Baptist church. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Hubbard E. Stewart today ordered the suspension of the driver's license of Carl E. Sewell, U. S. Coast Guard.

Howard Kenney, submarine base, reported to the police this morning that his automobile was stolen last night while parked on Pequot avenue near the Pequot laundry. A short time later the auto was found abandoned on the Military highway, Groton, where the rear of the auto hit it when he had concluded his ride.

The state police of Centerbrook barracks today requested that the New London police inspect an automobile owned by John LeBert, 57 Federal street, for it was believed that Lebert had been in collision with another auto and that Lebert was guilty of evasion of responsibility. When inquiry at the Federal street house was made, it developed that the owner of the auto had moved to Middletown. The state police are of the opinion that LeBert's auto collided with another machine on Haddam bridge several days ago, and the driver sped away without stopping to ascertain the extent of the damage resulting.

Mystic Boy Missing

The state police, Groton barracks, and the New London police have been requested to make a search for Billy Hardwick, 16, Mystic youth, who ran away from home yesterday. No reason is known by his parents why he should run away.

MARKED $2 BILL COST SOLTZ A FINE OF $200 FOR "PORK"

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 21.—Max Soltz, proprietor of the market, 56 Main street, was in the police court this morning charged with violation of the liquor law by actual sale. He was fined $200 and costs. Soltz was arrested yesterday by Detective Sergeants John Cavanaugh and Nelson Smith and Patrolman Dennis Murphy, upon information supplied them by a Negro who informed the officers that Soltz was selling liquor and that anyone having the proper password and money could obtain the booze, which was sold in pints. The customer should enter the market, ask for a "pound of pork" and pay for the purchase with a $2 bill. The Negro was given the money, but the numbers on the bill were noted. The spotter soon returned with a bottle of hooch, which he said he had purchased of Soltz. Later the officers procured a search warrant from Judge Daniel M. Cronin and arrested Soltz, but a search of the store did not result in additional liquor being found. Soltz, when arrested, stoutly denied his guilt, but when the cash register was opened and the $2 bill found, Soltz did not longer allege innocence.

The trip of Police Captain Charles A. Pinney and Desk Sergeant William T. Babcock to Bridgeport, New York and Springfield, Mass., for the purpose of obtaining information and ideas in connection with the conduct of police schools, terminated yesterday because of the death of Sergeant Babcock's grandmother in New Haven. Sergeant Babcock will not return to New London until after the funeral. Captain Pinney returned to New London today.

Peter M. Berry, 1007 Pequot avenue, has returned, having spent several days in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Damon and two children, of the Golden Spur, have gone to Sag Harbor to remain for the balance of the winter.

Mrs. Charles E. Foley, who has an apartment at the Crocker house, is in Brooklyn, N. Y., visiting her daughter, Mrs. William H. Thompson.

Mrs. Joseph Robinson, Milton, Vt., is visiting her sister, Mrs. M. G. Pattee, of 74 Williams street.

Nagle—Carr

Announcement is made of the marriage at St. Michael's church, New York, Monday by Rev. John J. E. O'Brien, of Thomas J. Nagle, son of Mr. and Mrs. David A. Nagle, 58 Cutler street, and Miss Cecelia G. Carr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Carr, of Boston, formerly of New London. Francis P. O'Grady, of this city, was best man and Mrs. Anne Ulrich, New York, was matron of honor. Upon the conclusion of their wedding tour, Mr. and Mrs. Nagle will reside in New London.

Severino Cruz, submarine base cook, was arrested by State Police Officer John Smith yesterday, charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law in failing to return canceled registration plates after they had been demanded. Cruz will explain in Groton town court Monday next.

W. J. Flanagan, Worcester, Mass., was arrested by special agents of the New Haven railroad last night, charged with train riding. Flanagan is locked up at Groton police station and will be in the town court Monday.

Rev. Arnold J. Fenton, rector of the Seabury Memorial Episcopal church, Groton, has returned from Metuchen, N. J., where he attended the funeral this week of Mrs. Fenton's mother. Mrs. Fenton will return to Groton Saturday.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

At last we have a football movie with real football players in it! In "The Forward Pass," which begins Saturday at the Palace theatre, the entire University of Southern California football squad, which played out a thrilling 13-13 game with Notre Dame before 120,000 spectators at Chicago, last Saturday, was used for all the football scenes, many of the players also taking part in the other scenes of the picture. It is truly a magnificent sight to see these sun-browned huskies of the Pacific coast in action.

Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and Loretta Young are starred in this movie, and if you have seen them in action, you know what that means. Action, pep, romance, plenty of all three are produced when that stellar pair get together in one movie.

Owing to the originality of the plot, it would be unfair to reproduce it. Sufficient to say that the picture opens with Stanford college and Whittier battling fiercely for victory. There are only a few minutes to play and the score is tied at 7-7. Marty Reid, quarterback of the Stanford team is playing hard for a break. He is supposed to be the best quarterback the college ever had, but he is afraid to take punishment. Hard tackles and bruising contact make him scared. That is his only fault. Finally in this game, it is up to Stanford to risk all on a forward pass or suffer a tie. Reid, already badly crippled, goes back into the game, with the hope of winning. He makes a first down by a pass, but his plans to dropkick go wrong at the final moment, and it is fourth down and plenty to go. The ball whirls back to him and he staggers back to let fly a pass, but it falls and the game ends in a deadlock. Two huskies had been put in by the Whittier coach to scare Reid, and apparently they had done so. How he breaks down in bitterness, and almost quits football forever, until a certain influence brings him back, makes this picture a masterpiece of drama—one of the best college pieces that has yet been screened.

Today for the last time the Palace presents Dorothy Mackaill in that sweeping epic of the west, "The Great Divide." Don't fail to come and see and hear this thrilling c[illegible] the east and the west—with brains and nonchalance pitted against grit and brute strength.

Palace Theatre

Another treat is in store for patrons of the Palace theatre. On Friday the Palace will take pleasure in presenting the Bulkeley High School band in addition to its regular program. The band, which includes 35 of the finest preparatory school musicians in this section, will play both popular song hits and college melodies.

Dressed in their snappy new outfits, the band members will be doing their best, for on the following day comes the outstanding Bulkeley athletic event of the year—the football game with Norwich Free academy—a struggle as traditional as any between the oldest colleges of the country.

The band will make its appearance on the Palace stage twice Friday—once at 4 p. m., and again at 8:30 p. m.

an Announcement

THE PRICES of Zenith Radio receivers will not be reduced. The forced sale of distress merchandise at cut prices proves conclusively that the public has refused to purchase partially-developed, inefficient screen-grid sets ...that radio buyers have refused to accept the obsolete non-screen-grid type radio of last year's vintage.

The public has judged and, as we anticipated, distress stocks are the result.

No radio manufacturer is powerful enough to force obsolete radio on the public, even at present cut prices.

Zenith Radio receivers are fairly, justly and honestly priced. The quality put into them, together with genuine Automatic Tuning, precludes their being sold for less money. Zenith has no distress merchandise and will maintain its position in the industry. More Zeniths are being bought than ever before in Zenith history.

When you buy a Zenith Radio receiver you are getting greater dollar-for-dollar value...in quality, design, construction, and performance, in year-ahead development, and in lasting worth...than in any other radio.

Children Cry for it

Children hate to take medicine as a rule, but every child loves the taste of Castoria. And this pure vegetable preparation is just as good as it tastes; just as bland and harmless as the recipe reads. (The wrapper tells you just what Castoria contains.)

When Baby's cry warns of colic, a few drops of Castoria has him soothed, asleep again in a jiffy. Nothing is more valuable in diarrhea. When coated tongue or bad breath tell of constipation, invoke its gentle aid to cleanse and regulate a child's bowels. In colds or children's diseases, use it to keep the system from clogging. Your doctor will tell you Castoria deserves a place in the family medicine cabinet until your child is grown. He knows it is safe for the tiniest baby; effective for a boy in his teens. With this special children's remedy handy, you need never risk giving a boy or girl medicine meant for grown-ups.

THE WEATHER

Conditions

The great area of high pressure from the Arctic region is centered tonight over the middle Missouri valley moving southeastward. Pressure has fallen decidedly from Alberta and Montana northeastward to Hudson bay with two centers of depression, Edmonton, Alberta, and Churchill, Man. These disturbances are moving rapidly southeastward.

The weather will be cloudy over middle and southern sections east of the Mississippi river Friday and snow or rain is probable in Tennessee and portions of Kentucky, West Virginia, Virginia and North Carolina and rain in the states farther south. Otherwise generally fair weather is probable Friday and Saturday in the Washington forecast district.

Continued cold weather Friday and Friday night will be followed by rising temperature Saturday except in the extreme south.

Winds

North of Sandy Hook: Moderate winds mostly northwest and north and fair weather Friday.

Sandy Hook to Hatteras: Moderate to fresh north and northeast winds and increasing cloudiness Friday, probably followed by rain over extreme south portion.

Forecast

MISS ELLEN KILROW DIES FROM HEART ATTACK

Miss Ellen Kilrow, 45, died suddenly Thursday afternoon from an attack of heart disease. She was born in this city, the daughter of the late John and Bridget Kilrow, and spent most of her life in Norwich. She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Charles Schroth and Miss Mazie Kilrow, both of Newark, N. J., and one brother, James Kilrow, of Boswell avenue. She was a member of St. Mary's parish. Her many friends in this vicinity will be grieved on learning of her sudden death and will extend their heart-felt sympathy to the immediate members of her family in their bereavement.

Shower For Miss Eleanor Tomanio

A miscellaneous shower was held recently at the home of Miss Catherine Hilderbrand on Boswell avenue, in honor of Miss Eleanor Tomanio. During the evening many games were played and vocal and piano selections rendered. Dancing was enjoyed with music furnished by the radio. Refreshments were served by the Misses Hilderbrand and Tomanio. Among those present were: Mrs. Henry Hilderbrand, Mrs. Walter Krohn, Miss Julia Welton, Miss Minnie Quinley, Mrs. Maynard, Mrs. Joseph Busch, Mrs. Franklin Early, Miss Alice Kane, Mrs. Nathan Simcox, Mrs. Morgan, Mrs. John Nolan, Miss Anna O'Connell, Mrs. Frederick Chabonneau, Mrs. Thomas Wise, Miss Ida Marshall, Mrs. Joseph Wierzberski, Mrs. P. Tomanio, Miss Mary Barry, Miss Clara Tomanio, Miss Helen Carvis, Mrs. Eva Rigby and Miss Catherine Hilderbrand.

Miss Goldblatt Resting Comfortably

The many friends of Miss Esther Goldblatt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Goldblatt, of North Main street, will be pleased to learn that she is resting comfortably at W. W. Backus hospital after undergoing an operation for appendicitis.

On Thursday, Mrs. Amos Aubrey and Mrs. Felix Barry, of Seventh street, made the trip to Malden, Mass., to visit the grave of Rev. John J. Powers, where miraculous cures have been reported.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Boyle, of Manville, Mr. and Mrs. John Donohue and children, Constance and Vincent Donohue, of Woonsocket, have returned to their homes after spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Simon Fahey of North Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles White have returned to their home at Providence after spending a few days with relatives in Greeneville.

TAFTVILLE

Louis Wohlleben, of South A street, has accepted a position with Wilbur L. Baldwin.

Local weather prophets are completely puzzled by the present weather. With a snowstorm in progress Thursday, came reports of dandelions in bloom at Riverside grove, violets on Maennerchor avenue, wild mustard along the Old Canterbury turnpike, and huckleberry bushes and pussy willows in bloom in the North Third avenue section, the weather sharps hardly know what to expect next.

Recent rains have swelled the Shetucket river to normal, wells have begun to fill up, and the Lisbon pond, which for the first time in years was almost completely dry, has begun to show improvement.

Mrs. William Bailey, of Fanning avenue, Norwich, has been visiting Mrs. Joseph Wood of the Old Canterbury turnpike.

The members of the American Legion auxiliary held a meeting Thursday evening in the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah building. The new president, Miss Aurette Fournier, presided. Routine business was transacted, and a donation of $5.00 was voted for the Taftville chapter, American Red Cross. The retiring president, Mrs. Edward J. Kelly, was presented a past-president's badge, the presentation being made by Mrs. Thomas Perkins Sears, state vice president. For obtaining the most new members to the auxiliary for 1928 and 1929, Mrs. Andrew Frohmader was awarded a prize. After business, refreshments were served by Mrs. Theodore J. Belval and Mrs. James Emerson.

William Emerson, of Blissville, and Robert Graham, who left last week for Cristobal, Canal Zone, Panama, arrived at their destination Thursday.

Report of the death of William Ince, of Winchester street, Norwich, was received with regret by residents of Lisbon, where the deceased at one time resided, when conducting a large squab farm on the Bundy Hill road.

While the snow quickly cleared from local streets, a traveling man stated Thursday that while en route to Taftville from Worcester, Mass., he encountered snow three inches deep and that it took him three hours to make the trip here.

Turkey raisers in the surrounding districts have some unusually large flocks of fine looking birds this year because of the dry season.

Many local societies and clubs are making donations to the Taftville chapter, American Red Cross.

FUNERAL

Adam Troeger

Rev. William Penner, pastor of the Taftville Congregational church officiated at funeral services held for Adam Troeger at his late home on Highland street, Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends, and among the mourners was a delegation from the Taftville Maennerchor club in which the deceased had held membership. Beautiful floral remembrances were grouped around the casket. The bearers were: John Grieshammer, Christopher Krauss, Charles Volkman, Adam Heinrich, Adam Seidel and Martin Krauss. Burial was in Maplewood cemetery where Rev. Mr. Penner read the committal service. Undertaker George G. Grant was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

AMERICAN LEGION IN CAMPAIGN TO BOOST MEMBERSHIP IN COUNTY

A membership campaign is now underway among the thousands of posts of the American Legion throughout the country and the posts of New London county are working diligently to bring a substantial increase over previous years. Robert O. Fletcher post, No. 4, of this city has organized with Herman Hildebrand as chairman and he has worked out a campaign with which it is expected that the membership of the local post will be doubled.

Mr. Hildebrand and his committee feels that if the ex-service men and women of the town and city would only realize what membership in this organization means that the quota set for the drive would soon be reached. It is not for the material gain that membership in this organization might bring that memberships are solicited. It is because there is comradeship and strength in organization and through that mutual idea that the many problems which confront the veterans now and in the years to come may be successfully met. Individually the ex-service man weighs but little, but organized his voice and influence will be as far reaching as the organization.

The American Legion in Connecticut closed the past year with the largest membership in its history but the peak of membership has not been reached and in the campaign now underway it is expected that every post in the state will show an increase for the year 1930 of at least 50 per cent.

In forwarding the campaign, those at the head of the movement say that an ex-service man should consider it is an honor to belong to such an organization, it is a right that he has won through his service to his country, a right which many would give a great deal to have but it is a privilege reserved for a small percentage of our population. Even with its membership throughout the land at 800,000 there are many more hundreds of thousands of eligibles that the Legion wants in its ranks. By their membership in the Legion they will be carrying on not only for themselves but they will give the organization more weight in carrying on in their work for the disabled veterans, their comrades of the great war, the men who cannot fight for the rights that are theirs, the men for whom the war will never be over and whose welfare and well being is being looked after by the Legion, the organization that puts this work first on their program. By their membership they will help care for the widows and orphans of the deceased veterans, a work which is assuming great magnitude with every coming year. By their membership they will help all the projects that the Legion has worked out and is carrying on to the betterment of every community in the nation. These projects are many and the Legion through its past record is looked upon in every nook and corner of the country as a valuable asset to the community fortunate enough to have a Legion post. The men of the Legion were ready to give all to their country in the time of war and are just as ready today to answer the call when they are needed in any work that may be assigned to them in furthering the betterment of that country for which they fought. In time of disaster the papers have always shown the Legion first on the scene with organized workers carrying on until relieved by regular agencies and during National Commander McNutt's term of office in 1929 the groundwork of a fund of approximately $8,000,000 was laid so that money necessary in carrying on this work would be on hand and available in the time of need. This fund is being raised among the members of the Legion and the public will be relieved of another of its problems through the efforts of the men of the Legion. To know the work accomplished by the Legion one must become a member of the Legion because they do not advertise their deeds on the street corners; their satisfaction comes from the knowledge that they have once more heard the call and have answered it.

"It is hoped that when a man that is eligible is approached and asked to sign on the dotted line he will realize the privilege that is his and join the ranks of his comrades who have consecrated and sanctified their comradeship by devotion to mutual helpfulness."

LEBANON D. A. R. CHAPTER SENDING BOX SOUTH

Governor Trumbull chapter, D. A. R. met Monday afternoon in the parlors of the First Congregational church at Lebanon, with an attendance of 11 and the regent, Miss Annie Gillette presiding. The meeting opened with salute to the flag; Lord's prayer and singing of America. A letter was read from Miss Katherine Nettleton, state regent, thanking the chapter for the pleasant time enjoyed at the last meeting, and another letter from Miss Street, state vice regent, about the manual.

Miss Clara Gillette was voted in as a member upon application. Flag lessons were read by Mrs. Gurdon Chappell, lessons on conservation and thrift by Miss Blanche Smith. A most interesting talk on the work of the American Legion was given by one of the members, Mrs. James R. Case of Danbury. Current events were read by different members.

Articles of clothing, books and toys were brought to pack a box to send to the Tamassee school, South Carolina. The meeting closed with the D. A. R. pledge.

Mrs. O. L. Pultz and Mrs. David Pitcher were the hostesses.

Connecticut Regulates Small Loans

Connecticut is one of 28 states which have passed small loan laws, in their war upon loan sharks, which carry as punishment for violation, both fine and imprisonment. Twenty-five of these states limit the amount of the loan to $300 and only one such loan may be made by one company to one person.

Twenty-three states do not permit the charging of "fees," limiting the cost of the loan to interest only. Twenty-seven states require that the interest be computed only on unpaid balances and do not permit the deduction of interest in advance. Twenty-nine states limit the interest on loans to 3 1-2 per cent a month or less.

DENTISTS OF COUNTY ELECT THEIR OFFICERS

Officers were elected as follows by the New London County Dental society when it held its annual meeting at the Mohican hotel in New London:

President, Dr. Charles W. Sullivan this city; vice president, Dr. Robert Chandler, of New London; secretary and treasurer, Dr. Robert Lonagran, of New London; executive committee, Dr. M. Hertz, of New London, Dr. M. Mullen, of this city and Dr. McDonald, New London.

The meetings for the year are to be held on the first Tuesday each month with a lecture at each meeting.

WILL OF MISS SCARLETT DISPOSES OF ESTATE

Bequests made in the will of Miss Caroline B. Scarlett, who died last Sunday at the age of 94 at her home, 46 Grove street are $1,000 each to Charles J. Searle of Chelmsford, Mass. a nephew, and to Mrs. Janet Searle of Portland, Me., widow of Dr. Frank W. Searle, a nephew.

The Grove street house is left to a cousin, E. Milton Bragg of Boylston, Mass., and a lot which adjoins the house and fronts on Broad street is left to Edward A. Bragg of Worcester, Mass., a friend.

Attorney Charles L. Stewart, who drew the will, is made executor and to him are left all of the household furniture, furnishings and books. In a memorandum left with the will he is directed as to the disposition of certain articles and he is directed to dispose of all the rest in such a way as in his judgment will best carry out the wishes of the testator.

The will was drawn June 18, 1918, was witnessed by Jennie Tefft Gallun, Gertrude A. Gallun and Mary Lewis Stewart, and had been filed for probate with the Norwich probate court.

COURT CONTINUES CASE IN JOHN PINA ARREST

The case of John Pina, 27, of Palmer street, charged with statutory rape, was continued until Nov. 30 in the city court Thursday morning. The continuance was granted at the request of Humane Officer Frederick H. Wyant, and Pina was released on bonds of $1,500.

Pina is charged with living with a minor girl as man and wife. He is understood to have applied the past week for a marriage license but was informed that he would have to secure the written consent of the girl's parents before the license could be issued.

COURT GIVES DISCHARGE TO WEST MYSTIC MAN

At the city court session Thursday morning, Samuel M. Sanford, 35, of West Mystic, was discharged when he was presented on a charge of failure to grant the right of way. He was arrested Wednesday morning as the result of an automobile accident at Norwich Town. He was driving his machine out of a private driveway when a machine owned and driven by Arthur Sylvia of No. 248 Main street came along the main highway. In order to avoid a collision Mr. Sylvia drove his machine into a cement abutment at a gasoline station.

Hostess to Bridge Club

Mrs. C. D. Johnson of West Main street was hostess this week to the Tuesday Bridge club. Prizes were won by Mrs. Fred G. Prothero, Mrs. C. D. Joslyn and Mrs. C. B. Carpenter.

NORWICH TOWN

THANK OFFERING MEETING OF DORCAS SOCIETY

The November meeting of Dorcas Home Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church was held Thursday afternoon in the vestry with an attendance of 18. The president, Mrs. William Weaver, presided over the business period which was preceded by an interesting program under the direction of Mrs. George Manning on "Thank Offering," as this was the special meeting for that purpose, for which each year Dorcas society sets aside one month. Mrs. Manning opened the meeting with prayer and the responsive reading was by Mrs. Weaver. Miss Doris Rose accompanied at the piano for the hymns. "Thank Offering" formed an acrostic on a blackboard, the letters denoting the different factors supported by the Home Missionary society of the Methodist church as follows: T, for teachers; H, homes and hospitals; A, aid students; N, Negro schools in the south; K, kindergarten; O, orphanages; F, free service hospitals; F, friendship homes; E, education; R, rest homes and recreation halls; I, Indian work; N, new work; G, girls' business home, good will and industries. Mrs. Manning gave an explanatory talk along the lines of each letter. Verses of scripture passed each member on slips of paper, had the same letters as in the acrostic. As each member placed her thank offering on a table she read her special verse of scripture. This was followed by a talk on the Morgan Memorial of Boston, by the pastor, Rev. George Warren Potter and all formed a circle while repeating the Mizpah benediction. Mrs. Wellington Miner and Mrs. Arthur Fulton assisted by Miss Alice Brown, served sandwiches, cake and cocoa. The thank offering is to go toward the payment of 500 deaconesses and more than 500 missionaries of the Home Missionary society of the Methodist church.

Mrs. Mary Gaffney and daughter, Miss Marionity Gaffney accompanied by a friend were callers recently on Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin L. Kennedy and Miss Alice H. Kennedy. They motored down from their home in Danielson.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Whiteman were in the gathering Tuesday at Mechanics hall, Westerly, of Shore Line club, No. 6, Social Corner.

GRANGERS INVITED TO M. E. CHURCH SUNDAY

Next Sunday will be Grange Sunday at the Methodist Episcopal church with a special service at 7:15 in the evening for the grangers. The pastor Rev. George Warren Potter extended an invitation of Norwich Grange, an invitation to Norwich Grange. Patrons of Husbandry at the last regular meeting to attend the service and the invitation was accepted. The pastor will deliver a stereopticon lecture on "Farms and The Man" which tells the story of agricultural missions of the Methodist church. This is comparatively a new and important phase of the work in mission fields. During the course of the lecture about sixty beautiful colored slides will be shown. The members of the grange are to meet at the new grange hall at 7 and march in a body to the church. The stereopticon machine will be operated by Ralph Smith.

Members of Troop 2 Boy Scouts are to take a hike Saturday afternoon, after attending the regular meeting Friday night.

HAD 137,373 BATHERS AT HAMMONASSET BEACH

Bathers at Hammonasset beach numbered 137,373 persons the past season according to the statement issued by the state park and forest commission. A second large bathing pavilion containing two thousand lockers was completed for use by July 21, bringing the total lockers available to over 4,000, each of which may be used jointly by three persons and successively by different groups. The record capacity for one day occurred on July 28, when 9181 persons used the bathing facilities. The second pavilion extends the length of the beach front in use and under the protection of the lifeguards to more than 1600 feet, and beyond this on either end are the bathers from the short term and long term camps. Nine persons in every ten using the beach for bathing, bring their own suits. The California type of men's suits with shirt and belted trunks was very popular this season.

Despite the large number of bathers, no fatalities by drowning occurred, although during the season the force of eleven lifeguards, who take turns guarding the bathers, effected 42 rescues, of whom 18 were men, 12 women and 12 children.

The first-aid room maintained to care for persons taken ill or meeting with minor accidents, justified its existence by the treatment of 748 persons among the total of 613,279 visitors, or one for every 820 persons on the beach. A rest room set aside for the accommodation of mothers, babies and elderly people was of service to 3,491 persons in 1929.

The clamshed was wholly inadequate to feed those who had not brought their own lunches and is now being quadrupled in capacity in preparation for the season of 1930. The refectory for the sale of ice cream, soft drinks and popcorn, with its counter space 148 feet long, was able to handle the crowds.

Camping is growing rapidly in popularity and the developed camp sites were filled to capacity during most of the summer. The short term, or "two-night" camps, accommodated 10,598 people who spent 26,040 camp days at the beach. Long term, or permanent camps, were used by 4,821 people, with a total of 33,705 camp days. No charge is made for short term camps for two nights. For long term camps, arrangements are made in advance by correspondence with the service manager J. M. Park at Hammonasset beach. For this privilege a charge of 50c per day is made.

That Hammonasset beach is used chiefly by Connecticut people is indicated by the record kept of the addresses of persons checking their valuables at the bathing pavilions. Out of 10,029 persons 8,754, or 87 per cent were from this state, Hartford furnishing the largest quota, 2,552; with New Haven next at 1,594; and New Britain, with 1,252 persons. One hundred and ten towns were represented in this record. Bathers from other states in this register numbered 1,275, or 13 per cent, Massachusetts in the lead with 267, and New York with but 240 registries. Twenty-two states were represented, including California and Georgia.

The proportion of one or two night transient campers from other states was larger than that of bathers their number being 715 or 36 per cent as against 2,008 Connecticut residents or 74 per cent. Ninety-seven Connecticut towns were represented by short term campers.

In the long term camps 392, or 62 per cent were from Connecticut. Of the remaining 243 parties 169 came from Massachusetts with only seven other states represented including New York. The Massachusetts patronage of this park is largely from the Connecticut valley for which Long Island sound is the nearest outlet to the ocean.

The commission concludes from these figures that, including day visitors as well as bathers, over 90 per cent of the attendance is drawn from Connecticut and more than half of the remainder from the upper Connecticut valley in Massachusetts, with about 4 per cent from all other portions of the United States.

BANKER GIVES ADVICE TO SENATE LOBBY COMMITTEE

Told Members That the Coalition Tariff Majority Was Partly to Blame For the Stock Market Plunge—Some Members Were Astounded by the Reasoning of Fred I. Kent, New York Banker, in Defense of His Attack Upon the Action of the Democratic-Republican Independent Group.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23—(AP)—Senators from the coalition tariff majority partly blamed for the stock market plunge by Fred I. Kent, New York banker, challenged his declaration through three hours questioning today but he stuck to his opinion.

Called by the lobby committee because of the attack on the democratic-republican independent group's actions, the banker maintained it had caused the senate "to cease to function.' The tariff debaters demanded how he would write the contested bill, and he advised that all republicans should stay together and put through a bill supported by a majority of that party—regardless of individual or group opinions.

The independently-minded committee members obviously were astounded by this reasoning and two or three occassionally hurled questions at Kent simultaneously.

Senator Borah, of Idaho, leader of the republican independents, and Senator Walsh, of Montana, acting democratic leader, participated with Chairman Caraway in the severe examination.

Senator Glass, of Virginia, a former democratic secretary of the treasury, joined the committee—although not a member—to inquire into the banker's ideas on the stock market situation.

Standing and learning over the committee table, Borah informed Kent the coalition had announced no program for downward revision o fthe industrial tariff rates.

"It was not announced," Kent insisted. "In a way that impressed people that way. I know that there was fear among industrialists as to how the tariff was going to develop."

Kent persisted that the public mind was "uncertain" because of the failure of the senate to pass the tariff bill, and asked whom he blamed for that, he named the republican independents. Asked how he would remedy the situation, he insisted that the independents should work with the republican majority and seek to convince its own party of its views and abide by the decision of the majority of the party.

Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, asked Kent if he thought the republican independents should have supported the tariff bill "regardless of their own views."

"They should have convinced a majority of their party that they were right," Kent replied.

"But they couldn't do that,' Walsh deminded.

"Then maybe, they weren't right," Kent replied.

Pressed to tell what he would have done if he had been a member of the senate opposed to the rates in the tariff bill, Kent said he would have tried to convince the other members of his party that he was right.

"If you couldn't do that, then what would you do?" Walsh demanded.

"That would depend on what was said," Kent returned adding that he would vote for what he believed to be for the "best interests of the United States."

After examination of Kent was completed, Chairman Caraway announced no hearings would be held next week while the senate was in recess.

The only other witness today was J. A. Arnold, manager of the Southern Tariff association, who told of attempts to organize the Western Tariff association and the National Tariff council in the west. The purpose of both associations, he explained, was to promote protective tariff sentiment.

Proclamation For Decennial Census

President Hoover Calls Upon the Country to Give Accurate Responses to All Inquiries.

WASHINGTON, Nov. [illegible] As the chief citizen of the [illegible] President Hoover reminded [illegible] citizens and persons in [illegible] nation today of their duty [illegible] questions put by census [illegible] beginning next April.

"No person [illegible] harmed in any way by furn[illegible] information required," he [illegible] emphasizing that the census had nothing to do with taxation, military or jury service, compulsory school attendance or similar matters. Any person refused to answer is subject to penalty.

The president's proclamation called upon everybody in the United States to cooperate with the army of census workers who will be going from door to door next spring and after. He noted the law required the decennial count to determine representation of the states in the house.

The proclamation read:

By the President of the United States of America.

A proclamation.

Whereas, by the act of congress approved June 18, 1929, the fifteenth decennial census of the United States is to be taken beginning on the first day of April, nineteen hundred and thirty; and

Whereas, a correct enumeration of the population every ten years is required by the constitution of the United States for the purpose of determining the representation of the several states in the house of representatives; and

Whereas, it is of the utmost importance to the interest of the people of the United States that this census should be a complete and accurate report of the population and resources of the nation;

Now, therefore, I, Herbert Hoover, president of the United States of America, do hereby declare and make known that, under the law aforesaid, it is the duty of every person to answer all questions on the census schedules applying to him and the family to which he belongs, and to the farm occupied by him or his family, and all other census schedules as required by law, and that any person refusing to do so is subject to penalty.

The sole purpose of the census is to secure general statistical information regarding the population and resources of the country, and replies are required from individuals only to permit the compilation of such general statistics. No person can be harmed in any way for furnishing the information required. The census has nothing to do with taxation, with military or jury service, with the compulsion of school attendance, with the regulation of immigration or with the enforcement of any national, state or local law or ordinance.

There need be no fear that any disclosure will be made regarding any individual person or his affairs. For the due protection of the rights and interests of the persons furnishing information every employe of the census bureau is prohibited, under heavy penalty, from disclosing any information which may thus come to his knowledge.

I, therefore, earnestly urge upon all persons to answer promptly, completely and accurately all inquiries addressed them by the enumerators or other employes of the census bureau and thereby to contribute their share toward making this great and necessary public undertaking a success.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed the great seal of the United States.

Done at the city of Washington, this 22nd day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine, and of the independence of the United States,—the one hundred and fifty-fourth.

HERBERT HOOVER.
President of the United States.
HENRY L. STIMSON,
Secretary of State.

Definitions Of Tame And Wild Jackasses

Representative Howard Comments Upon Appelation Applied to Western Senators by Senator Moses.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22—(AP)—Definitions by which to distinguish the wild jackass from his tame brother were given in the house today by Representative Howard, democrat, Nebraska, in commenting upon the recent appellation applied to western senators by Senator Moses, republican, New Hampshire.

They were:

"Tame jackass: A middle western citizen who believes that the New England element in our country has in some mysterious manner been given the divine right to levy tribute upon the people of all the agricultural states and particularly in the middle west.

"A wild jackass: Mentally speaking, of course, is a male western citizen who is now entertaining some doubt as to whether Almighty God ever granted that permission to our New England friends, and is now kicking up his mental heels very vigorously in opposition to that damnable doctrine."

The Nebraskan added he thought that a fair definition and hoped his New England friends would communicate it to their constituents in order that they can "lift a vast volume of correspondence from my poor shoulders," on the question of jackasses.

Saving Miles of Walking.

Can you imagine what shopping would be like if there were no advertisements?

How would you go about finding what you want without advertisements to rely upon?

Probably you would start at the "likely" stores and keep on and on, tramping up and down aisles, questioning salespeople and floor walkers, till your nerves were frazzled and your feet were sore.

Instead you can sit down with The Bulletin at home and find out in a few minutes just what stores are featuring the things you need. You know they will be dependable goods at fair prices. With the advertisements as a guide you can plan your route, get your shopping done early and have time for a movie or a chat with your friends.

Women who stay young use the advertisements to save steps.

SOVIET FORCES CAPTURE 8,000 CHINESE SOLDIERS

Result of Vigorous Counter-Attacks—300 Officers Were Taken With the Chinese Troops and the Entire Body Was Disarmed—Chinese Lost 10,000 Rifles, Field Guns and Equipment—Also a Considerable Quantity of Ammunition.

KHABAROVSK, Siberia, U. S. S. R., Nov. 22—(AP)—The official Tass News Agency reported tonight that more than 8,000 Chinese soldiers and 300 officers had been captured and disarmed by soviet forces in a series of vigorous counter-attacks.

The report stated that about 10,000 rifles, a considerable quantity of field guns, ammunition, miscellaneous arms and equipment had been taken by the Red Soldiery. The counter-attacks were described as directed against continuous provocative assaults by Chinese along the soviet border in the trans-Baikal and coastline districts during the past three weeks.

THREE SCENES IN CHINA OF TENTATIVE WARFARE

(By The Associated Press)

The nationalist goverment of China, which grew out of the military movement of 1926, was contending today against three great challenges to its continuance. Armed forces were attacking it along the Manchurian-Siberian border in the far north; civil war raged in central provinces; and in Kwangtung province, whence sprang the progenitors of the government, the city of Canton was threatened by a new combination of rebel forces.

Within the past few days airplanes of the soviet government have bombed cities along the Chinese eastern railway at the border of Siberia, where soviet artillery has destroyed stations of that railway for which Russia contends with China for possession and control. The governor of the great area of Manchuria, Chang Hseuh Hiang, is reported to be seeking independent negotiations with the soviet powers on the railway dispute, asserting that the nationalist government is too occupied with civil war to aid Manchuria in its conflict with Russian troops.

In central China, the Kuominchun, translated "people's army," is at grips with the nationalist government troops in a civil war that threatens to spread from Hupeh and Honan provinces. In this area the forces engaged have been estimated from 150,000 to 250,000.

Far to the south, the Kwangsi province rebels are reported engaged in a concerted movement with the "Ironsides" regiment, which seceded from the government, and are advancing toward Canton in Kwangtung province.

Harassed by this new menace in South China, Chiang Kai Shek, president of the nationalist government and general in chief of its forces, has withdrawn a portion of his troops which have been fighting the rebellious Kuominchun in central China, in order to relieve the threatened Cantonese government.

Thus the Cantonese, who, led by Chiang Kai-Shek, began a march northward more than three years ago and subjugated all China to create a nationalist government in which all elements should be unified, are back today fighting to maintain themselves in the province from which they sprang.

DOCTORS ADMIT THAT CLEMENCEAU IS DYING

PARIS, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Bearded in his lair, the Tiger Clemenceau fought off death tonight with grim jaws and indomitable grit.

The doctors of the war-time premier admitted late today that he was dying. Dr. Degennes, who attended Marshal Foch in his last illness, said Clemenceau had been suffering from a crisis of uremia that had continued for 18 hours and could not possibly last another 24.

Unless an unexpected improvement occurred, Dr. Degennes and his colleagues believed Clemenceau could not survive the crisis. They sent for oxygen tubes a little before 4 p. m.

The 88-year-old statesman's resistance was weakened today by the intense pain he was suffering. His marvelous courage helped him stifle any expression of pain while he was conscious, but he moaned and cried out during his intermittent spells of unconsciousness.

"I am suffering atrociously in my intestines," he told Dr. Degenues in a matter-of-fact tone, without a hint of self-pity.

Then he lapsed again into unconsciousness.

Minister of Colonies Pietri, an intimate friend of Clemenceau, said on leaving the house late tonight:

"There are some battles one cannot win; this one is lost."

READJUSTMENTS TO CLOSE FORD ASSEMBLY PLANTS

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Readjustments that must be made in preparation for next year's production, will bring about a shut-down of from 10 days to two weeks in each Ford assembly plant throughout the country, it was learned today at the executive offices of the Ford Motor Co.

Some of the plants already have closed and others will follow suit, as their stocks of materials are worked up, it was explained in emphasizing that the plants will not close simultaneously. All the material on hand in each assembly plant is to be worked up before that plant closes. Under this arrangement many of the assembly units with large stocks on hand may not close until after other plants have reopened.

A shut-down will not be necessary in the Detroit area, it was said, because the workers can be shifted from one line of work to another pending completion of the readjustment of plant equipment.

CONFESSION TAKEN BY FOUR PERSONS AND A MACHINE

SEATTLE, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Four persons and a machine recorded the confession of Decasto Earl Mayer that he killed James Eugene Bassett, former naval officer of Baltimore, who had been missing since Sept. 5, 1928, Prosecutor Ewing D. Colvin announced today.

The machine was a "lie detector," a device which registers changes in blood pressure and respiration in response to emotional reaction. Colvin said the graphic record made by the indicators on the lie detector, under intensive questioning, had made Mayer despondent of keeping his secret any longer and that the prisoner made a definite and positive avowal of the crime in his presence.

Three other persons, Colvin said, who had been sent out of the room for the moment, listened to the confession with their ears to the doors. They were to make signed statements late today.

GUARDIANSHIP HEARING OF STANLEY M'CORMICK

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Dr. Adolph Meyer, psychiatrist in chief, Johns Hopkins university, Baltimore, took the stand today at the guardianship hearing of Stanley McCormick, incompetent multi-millionaire, and testified the patient has shown marked improvement since [illegible]

Dr. Meyer was called as a defense witness in a suit brought by Mrs. Katherine McCormick, the wife, to oust Mrs. Anita McCormick Blaine and Harold F. McCormick, sister and brother of the patient, as guardians of her husband and custodians of his [illegible] estate.

REASSURING REPORTS ON BUSINESS GIVEN HOOVER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The volume of reassuring reports on business which has been compiled at the presidential conferences here was increased today by a further survey of the railroad and general building needs for the coming year.

Executives of virtually all the carriers telegraphed from their meeting at Chicago that their requirements in construction expansion, freight cars and steel rails would equal if not exceed those for this year, and that a movement even to increase these is being actively pressed.

"This program will assure larger employment in the railway equipment industry next year than in 1929 and a very substantial addition to the railway demands for steel," President Hoover said, in making public the telegram from R. H. Aishton, president of the American Railway association.

There will be no white house conferences tomorrow and the series will be concluded Monday with the visit here of the representatives of the farm organizations. The public utilities conference here has been called off because of the meeting in New York Tuesday.

NEW AVIATION SPEED RECORD FOR WOMEN

METROPOLITAN AIRPORT, Los Angeles, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Miss Amelia Earhart, of Boston, established a new women's aviation speed record today, making an average of 184.17 miles an hour over a mile course in four laps.

The fastest lap, clocked by Joe Nikrent for the American Aeronautical association, was 197 miles an hour. The previous record, Nikrent said, was 156 miles an hour by Mrs. Louise Thaden, of Pittsburgh.

JAMES M'ALPIN PYLE BEING SUED FOR DIVORCE

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Mrs. Anita Merle-Smith Pyle, Far Hills, today filed a petition asking the court of chancery to award her a divorce from James McAlpin Pyle, Norotom, Conn., on the grounds of desertion.

Accompanying affidavits recited the desertion occurred Sept. 6, 1927. The couple were married in the Central Presbyterian church, New York, April 29, 1922. Pyle was said to have formerly been a member of the law firm of Pratt & McAlpin, New York.

PERJURY CASE FROM ALBANY BASEBALL POOL

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The affairs of the Capital City and Business Men's association—more commonly known as the Albany Baseball pool—were dug up out of the past today and aired in the trial of James J. Otto, its former president, for perjury.

Otto was indicted on three counts charging him with giving false testimony before the February and March federal grand juries this year concerning the activities of the pool.

ARAB LEADER MAY CLAIM ECCLESIASTICAL IMMUNITY

JERUSALEM, Nov. 22—(Jewish Telegraphic Agency)—It was learned here today that the Mufti, religious leader of the Arabs, may claim ecclesiastical immunity to avoid appearing before public sitting of the Palestine inquiry commission and being publicly cross-examined by counsel.

If this is upheld by the commission the Mufti will be heard in the privacy of his own apartment. His objections to a public session are said to be based on old Turkish law. Chief Rabbi Kook probably will claim a similar privilege.

STORM WARNING ISSUED BY WEATHER BUREAU

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22—(AP)— The weather bureau tonight issued the following storm warning:

"Advisory 9:30 p. m. northeast storm warnings displayed from Virginia capes to Beaufort, N. C. Disturbance over north eastern Gulf of Mexico moving northeastward will cause strong north east winds probably reaching gale force late tonight or Saturday morning."

JURY DISMISSED IN THE ANDREWS MURDER CASE

CLEVELAND, Nov. 22—(AP)—The jury deliberating the case of Frank E. Andrews, charged with first degree murder in the death of his infant son, Chester, 18 months old was dismissed in common pleas court here late today when they had failed to reach a verdict after having the case for 30 ours.

Andrews and his counsel offered a defense of habitual "fits" which it was claimed had afflicted the man since infancy. Andrews himself said on the witness stand that "everything went black" and he didn't know what he was doing.

COMMUNIST AGITATORS DISPERSED BY POLICE DOGS

TEMESVAR, Rumania, Nov. 22—(AP)—Police hounds were used by 200 officers today in dispersing communist agitators who were attempting to coerce socialist workmen of factories here. The police reported that more than 100 persons, including women, were injured and that they had arrested 36.

SENATE ADJOURNED SINE DIE LAST NIGHT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22—(AP)— The senate adjourned tonight sine die at 10 p. m. still arguing over the unsettled tariff legislation, congress ended its extra session tonight for a week's holiday before the regular long term opens in December.

House republicans referred caustically to the senate's failure to complete the tariff bill, the last of the four legislative recommendations submitted by President Hoover to the session.

The tariff comes up again in the senate next month as unfinished business and leaders of the coalition of democrats and western republican independents, which has control of the bill, believe it can be disposed of before the first of the year. They intend to continue the elimination of proposed industrial rate increases and confine the measure to higher duties for agricultural products.

Leaders of the senate and house buried their differences over the tariff long enough to go together to President Hoover and inform him that his special meeting was adjourning. He told them he had nothing more for this session.

Senator Jones, of Washington, acting republican leader, said the congressional committee had told the president that congress had completed its work "insofar as possible." Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, the house republican leader, later said to newspapermen that the representatives of the house "didn't have their tongues in their cheeks" when they reported to the president.

JUROR IN M'MANUS CASE REPORTED HE IS ILL

NEW YORK, Nov. 22—(AP)—Possibility of a mistrial being declared when George McManus is called to the bar of general sessions, Monday morning to hear further testimony linking him with the murder of Arnold Rothstein, the gambler, was seen today when a juror reported he was ill.

Judge Charles C. Nott, Jr., with consent of state and defense counsel, designated a physician to examine the juror, whom he declined to identify, and report to him Monday as to the juror's physical condition

Five days already have passed since McManus was called to trial, three of them being used in selection of the "blue ribbon" jury.

THREE DEATHS FROM STORM IN SOUTHERN STATES

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 22—(AP)—Three deaths today had been attributed to the south's foretaste of winter, which has brought snow to eight states weeks in advance of the usual peppery falls.

Finding late yesterday of the body of F. A. Corley of Norphlet, Ark., who apparently was a victim of the cold and the death of Ed. Bullard, 22 state highway employe, in an automobile accident directly resulting from the low temperatures, brought the death list to three.

Luther Monday of Atlanta, was killed near Smackover, Ark., Thursday night when struck by an automobile as he was repairing his car on a roadside during a snowstorm.

KELLOGG HONORED BY THE PILGRIMS SOCIETY

LONDON, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Frank B. Kellogg, former American secretary of state, emerged from private life to receive the homage of the Pilgrims society tonight and to urge reduction in the land and sea forces of the world sufficient to prevent their use for anything but national protection.

RADIO NETWORK FOR LONG ISLAND RUM RING

NEW YORK, Nov. 22—(AP)—Robert Lacy, 27, a radio engineer, today in federal court told a jury of erecting a radio network for Rudolph Wyik, one of the eight defendants on trial on charges of operating a Long Island rum ring.

Lacy testified that he erected land sets at Long Beach, Fla., Beaufort inlet S. C., and in Brooklyn, and equipped the schooners William Litchfield, Henrietta, Vinces and Amaranth with similar apparatus. He also told of repairing sets at Wyik's direction and of erecting several other stations, the location of which was not brought out. Lacy was a reluctant witness.

Radio apparatus taken from the schooner Litchfield when it was seized by prohibition agents in March, 1928, with a $400,000 liquor cargo, was among the government's exhibits.

EXPLAINS FINDING ON LIQUOR LAW FELONY

PEORIA, Ill., Nov. 22—(AP)—Federal Judge Louis FitzHenry today issued a statement to correct an opinion handed down yesterday which, he said, either by inadvertent use of a word or by misquotation, conveyed the impression that he held any person knowing of another's possession of liquor to be a felon.

In the opinion, upholding the constitutionality of the Jones law, Judge FitzHenry had said the buyer of liquor or any one knowing of a violation of the Jones law was—unless he reported his knowledge to the proper authorities—a felon. He based the opinion on a law passed in 1790 which made a felon of any person knowing of the commission of a felony without reporting it.

"I don't believe I said possession was a felony, but if I did it was incorrect," he said. "However, any person witnessing a violation of the Jones act without reporting it would be a felon."

SIX MEN UNDER ARREST IN BUFFALO FOR COUNTERFEITING

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 22—(AP)—Six men were arrested and a complete outfit for making at least $100,000 in bogus bills seized today in what federal secret service agents said was the first successful raid on a plant for making bills counterfeiting the new small sized currency. A score more arrests were predicted.

The agents, who had been watching a house at 146 Hoyt street here for the past few months, swooped down there today and arrested George Miles.

At almost the same time Anthony Fetto, Angelo Micciehi and J. P. Cataldo and Joseph Barratti, were arrested in Rochester and Joseph Bartolato in Buffalo.

SECRETARY GOOD BURIED WITH MILITARY HONORS

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa, Nov. 22.—(AP)—James W. Good, late secretary of war, sleeps tonight beneath a blanket of flowers on an Iowa hillside. He was buried this noon with military honors befitting his rank.

Hundreds of sorrowing Iowans, who had known "Jim" Good while he was a Cedar Rapids attorney, united with officials of the state, the nation and the army in according him a last tribute. As Taps were sounded by the 14th Cavalry bugler the cabinet officer was laid to rest beside his parents, only a few miles from the farm on which he was born 63 years ago.

LOSS OF $30,000 PEARL NECKLACE REPORTED

NEW YORK, Nov. 22—(AP)—The loss of a pearl necklace valued at $30,000 belonging to Mrs. W. P. Gilmour, a social registerite, was reported to the police today.

Mrs. Gilmour was wearing the necklace and was shopping with Miss Geraldine Farrar, the noted contralto, and it was Miss Farrar who first noted the loss of the jewels as they were entering Mrs. Gilmour's automobile after leaving a mid-town shop.

RED CROSS OFFERS AID TO TIDAL WAVE VICTIMS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22—(AP)— The American Red Cross today offered its assistance in relieving victims of the tidal wave off the Newfoundland coast. The offer was made to H. E. Mahan chairman of the central committee of the Canadian Red Cross.

SLAIN MAN WAS VICTIM OF LOVE-INSURANCE MONEY PACT

CHICAGO, Nov. 22—(AP)—A coroner's jury listened to a highly pitched melodrama today in a somber funeral chapel and returned a verdict recommending that Mrs. Genevieve O'Brien and Samuel Howard Dorr be held to the grand jury on a charge of murder for the admitted slaying of Mrs. O'Brien's husband, William, in a love-insurance money pact.

O'Brien was shot early Wednesday when he returned home from work as a street car conductor. During daylight hours he was a county employe. He died last night. First Mrs. O'Brien confessed the shooting, then Dorr took the blame and Mrs. O'Brien said they had planned to kill their respective mates and flee with insurance of $5,000, which Dorr, as an agent, had sold to O'Brien.

As the inquest verdict was read, Dorr's wife leaped from her chair grabbed at Mrs. O'Brien and shouted hysterically:

"Murderess! You're responsible for all this!"

Mrs. O'Brien leaped from her reach and policemen came between them. Mrs. Dorr was dragged from the room screaming.

TO CLOSE HOLY CROSS CEMETERY TO VISITORS

BOSTON, Nov. 22—(AP)—William Cardinal O'Connell of the Boston archdiocese announced today that the Holy Cross cemetery at Malden would be closed to all but funerals beginning Monday. The cemetery has been visited by thousands during the past few weeks following reports of miraculous cures at the grave of Rev. Patrick J. Power.

In a brief announcement the cardinal said that the cemetery would be closed until a thorough investigation had been made of the situation which has arisen as a result of the reported cures. He added that he hoped the public would abstain from visiting the cemetery tomorrow and Sunday "so as to avoid the great inconvenience arising from such numerous crowds as have been gathering there lately, especially on Sundays and holy days."

EIGHT SOUTHERN STATES BLANKETED BY SNOW

ATLANTA, Nov. 22—(AP)—A blanket of snow, the earliest in many years, tonight covered eight southern states in whole or in part, as winter sent the thermometer toward new low levels for the season.

A snow storm that blanketed most of Arkansas yesterday spread southward and eastward last night covering north Louisiana and north Mississippi, Tennessee, Kentucky and portions of Virginia and North Carolina at depths varying from a thin fringe to eight inches or more.

The snow reached as far south as Shreveport, La., where a fall of two inches broke all known records for that vicinity. The storm also extended below Tupelo, Miss., and Sheffield, Ala., where more than three inches was recorded.

JURY SELECTED FOR TRIAL OF TEXTILE WORKERS

MARION, N. C., Nov. 22—(AP)—Previously formed opinions that the defendants are guilty, expressed by many members of the special venire called from the adjoining county of Burke, caused examination of more than 50 veniremen today before a jury was selected for the trial of four United Textile Workers of America members in McDowell county superior court here on charges of rioting and resisting an officer.

Selection of the jury was completed late this afternoon Judge G. V. Cowper, presiding, immediately adjourned court until tomorrow morning, when the state will begin presentation of its evidence. Textile strike disorders in which the defendants are alleged to have taken part form the basis for the state's charges.

A. E. HARMON NAMED TOWN CLERK OF COVENTRY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 23.—Albert E. Harmon has been appointed town clerk of the town of Coventry to succeed to the late Louis W. Daniels who was re-elected for the two-year term October 12, and died last Saturday. The appointment, made by the board of selectmen, is dated Monday, November 18, and Mr. Harmon is already performing the duties. He had served as assistant town clerk to the late Mr. Daniels for the past 12 years and is, therefore, thoroughly qualified and familiar with the work. Strangely enough, Mr. Harmon was appointed by a democratic board of selectmen 12 years ago to fill the unexpired term of Town Clerk Edgar Colburn, who also died in office. Since that time, or for 12 years, Mr. Harmon has been republican registrar of voters; deputy sheriff of Tolland county for the past 14-years; Tolland county sealer of weights and measures for several years. He has been chairman of the Coventry republican town committee for over a score of years and sealer of weights and measures for the town for a long time.

Arrangements were in charge of Avery and VanZandt of this city.

A notable improvement that will be of great benefit to about half a hundred property owners is underway in the "over the river" section. Several hundred feet of large drain pipes are being laid in a network beneath the street surface and properties to carry off surface water to the Willimantic river. In past years there have been complaints from property owners of the section bounded by Mountain, Hayden and Pleasant streets and Lebanon avenue of flooded cellars, gutters and driveways during freshets and storms. At a recent meeting of the common council Alderman William E. Webber introduced a resolution authorizing the purchase of pipe and the laying of the same. The work is being done under direction of Superintendent Edwin O. Sumner of the street department following plans of Acting City Engineer John F. Collins. Hundreds of feet of 30-inch tile pipe is being installed to a point on the south side of Hayden street and a line of 24-inch pipe from Mountain to Whiting streets, connecting with the 30-inch line. This connected line will then be continued along Pleasant street to the dry brook on land of Samuel Chesbro opposite the Pleasant street entrance to the footbridge. The water will then flow into the river.

JEWETT CITY

EIGHT PLACES RAIDED FOLLOWING SPOTTERS' VISITS

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Nov. 23.—Stanton Briggs, of Willimantic, in company with eight other federal prohibition officers from southern and western Connecticut; Deputy Sheriff John McGuire, New London County Detective William Lewis, assisted by local officers, staged a big clean-up liquor raid Friday afternoon.

The actual seizures of illegal liquor were comparatively small and included five and one-half cases of home brew, beer, with a small quantity of alleged moonshine in bottles. Stool pigeons, working here during the time of the world's baseball series, visited all of the places where raids were made and secured evidence of actual sale.

It is said that these liquor spies operated here for more than a week.

The following eight persons, all charged with actual sales of liquor in violation of the law, are under $500 bonds to appear in the Griswold town court Saturday morning before Judge John T. Barry: Lucien Marcotte, Charles Morvay, Steven Nolle, Alexander Behnke, Mike Katgul, Albert Stzakna, Frank Branshaw, Rosie Wanda. The warrants for the arrests were drawn by Prosecuting Attorney Richard J Dudkowski. The raid was pulled off with carefully planned accuracy, practically all the places being visited at the same time. There was considerable excitement about the borough when a dozen strange officers dropped in from all quarters of the town.

Pay personal taxes, 7—9, every eve. May be mailed. Positively $1 extra after Dec. 15, 1929. No bills will be sent. T. E. Shea, collector.—adv.

SORROW IN THE BOROUGH FOR DEATH OF O. L. JOHNSON

The news of the death of Oliver L. Johnson at his home in Norwich Friday was received with regret in Jewett City, where he had been connected with the Aspinook bleachery since 1898, being its manager and treasurer until two years ago, when his health would not permit his giving his attention to these duties. He visited the plant last week. By order of the borough officials, the flag at Fanning park was placed at half mast and the flag at Aspinook bleachery will be at half mast for several days.

The junior members of the King's Heralds will sing and there will be the reception of the mite boxes.

With the mercury down to 20 at 6 a. m., Friday, local ponds were skimmed with ice. This reading was the coldest this fall by 10 degrees.

Another big shipment of rayon looms for the Ashland mill, which arrived Thursday, were being unloaded Friday. They are to be put in operation without delay.

Three gents on motorcycles, wearing leather caps a la aviator, with everything flapping like loose topsails in a storm, clad in the sort of suit told about in Mother Goose rhymes in reference to the Leather Man, went through the town Friday at terrific speed. It appeared to be a contest to see which of the trio could create the most disturbance, for everything was wide open.

W. B. Montgomery has completed the enumeration of children of the town of Griswold, between 4 and 16. Of the total of 1,375, there are 644 public school pupils, 543 attending the parochial and out-of-town high schools, and 188 under school age.

A number of borough people who are planning for beautiful window boxes with flowers in their finest bloom, during February and March, are planting daffodil, hyacinth and tulip bulbs this week. After being placed in the dark cool cellar until after New Year's, and taken up then into the light and heat of the living room, they will give pleasing results of bulb forcing in their varied display of color.

Patrick H. Sullivan, of Pawtucket, Thomas P. Wallace and Raymond J Doyle, of Providence, were callers at the home of E. H. Hiscox, Friday afternoon. The visitors are railway mail clerks, all from the Boston and New York railway postoffice. Mr. Hiscox had seen neither of these friends from the road since his retirement 11 months ago. Mr. Sullivan is a gifted musician and the quartette joined in singing a few of the night line songs, with Mr. Sullivan at the piano. The three visitors are city clerks and distribute letter mail for the carrier delivery of Boston on the night mail train.

SUPT. CHAS. D. CORNELL IS LEAVING JEWETT CITY

Charles Dwight Cornell, who has been employed at the Ashland Cotton Co., since 1915, is leaving that company, his resignation being effective today (Saturday).

Mr. Cornell came to Jewett City in 1915 from White Rock, R. I. His first employment at Ashland was as second hand of weaving under Peter Cooper. In 1919 he succeeded Mr. Cooper, now deceased, as overseer of weaving and filled this position with ability until July of this year when he was promoted to superintendent.

Mr. Cornell is of fine character and from the beginning has been highly regarded and respected. His resignation is keenly regretted by the operatives of the plant who have come to know him so well.

Since the organization of the Ashland club, ten years ago, Mr. Cornell has been its treasurer and this in itself is proof of the confidence in which he has been held by his associate workers.

Thursday night at the Ashland club, this organization sponsored a farewell party to him and a big crowd of members was on hand to wish him luck and bid him farewell.

During the evening the St. Mary's trio of Norwich, Ed T. Connelly, Michael J. Farrell and Nicholas J. Spellman, put over a half-hour act that was bright and snappy and greatly appreciated by all.

At the conclusion of the entertainment, Welfare Supervisor Prentice W Chase, representing the operatives of the weaving department, the overseers of the plant and the membership of the Ashland club, presented Mr. Cornell a beautiful Hamilton white-gold watch, chain and Masonic charm.

Mr. Cornell responded most cordially, expressing his regrets at leaving those whom he had come to know so intimately, but urging that the club and the operatives of the plant carry on. He thanked all who had contributed toward the beautiful gifts which had been presented to him and stated that he would always cherish these with fondest memories of his pleasant associations during the past 14 years.

At the conclusion of Mr. Cornell's response, Mr. Chase, in behalf of the overseers of the plant, extended to him an invitation to be their guest at a dinner party at New London Friday evening, his invitation was gratefully accepted and the party, 11 in number, met at the Mohican hotel Friday evening.

Mr. Cornell has not made known his plans for the future, but it is understood that he will leave with his family shortly and that he has under consideration an attractive position, not apart from the textile industry, but one which will take him away from the producing or manufacturing end of the business.

Two Hungarian engineering students, Sulkowsky and G. Bartha, recently arrived in Sydney, Australia, on a tour of the world on a motorcycle and sidecar. They expect that in the course of their world tour they will travel about 60,000 miles.

DR. MASLEN AGAIN FACES CHARGE OF INDECENT ASSAULT

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 23—Dr. James C. Maslen was again presented in the town court this morning to face additional charges of alleged indecent assaults on minor female children There are two counts in the new complaint, one count alleging such an assault as has been mentioned on a child on July 15 last and another count alleging an assault on another child on July 23 The case was continued for a hearing until next Tuesday. Dr. Maslen being released under bonds of $10,000 furnished by Harry W. Clarke.

Dr. Maslen already is bound over to the superior court under bonds of $2,000, following a hearing several weeks ago in the town court on charges like the ones preferred against him today, and there is the likelihood that this case will be heard at the January term of the Windham county superior court.

There was no explanation in court or police circles today as to how information was obtained warranting the filing of the new counts against the accused.

Philip Burnham of this town was before Judge W. Fenner Woodward in the town court this morning following the completion yesterday of a six months term in the county jail at Brooklyn, to answer to a charge that he operated a motor vehicle while intoxicated. He was found guilty and given an additional sentence of six months in jail, execution of this sentence being suspended during good behavior. The six months he has just completed serving was on a sentence imposed upon him in the Putnam city court for operating a motor vehicle while he was under the influence of an intoxicant.

When a meeting of the Wescott and Wilcox Old People's Home, Inc., is held next Tuesday evening the members will be asked to pass on the matter of accepting the layout or platting of the property as made by W. K. Pike, C. E.

The members also will decide in regard to selling or leasing any part of the association's property, and fixing the price for selling or leasing. The property is at the corner of North Main street and Westcott road and includes a number of acres. The state acquired some of the property incident to the development of Westcott road, the outlet from Danielson to the Providence highway and the value of this particular parcel finally was fixed after a hearing before Judge Nickerson, formerly of the superior court, sitting as a special commissioner.

Tonight at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lyonell Gauthier on Hawkins street a lingerie shower was arranged in honor of Miss Doris Billings of Dayville. About 25 were in attendance. Orchid and yellow were the shades used in prettily decorating the home. An incident of the evening was the showering of the bride-to-be with rose petals from a basket suspended overhead. Games were played and there were other diversions to make a very pleasant evening. Refreshments were served.

Madeline Bernier, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bernier of Water street, died this afternoon as the result of burns she sustained last Saturday morning. The child was less than a year old. The child was lying in her crib near a stove in the home while her mother was engaged with a routine of duties about the premises. It is believed the child's coverings became ignited by reason of being too close to the stove After the child had been treated by Dr. W. A. Tanner she was removed to the Day Kimball hospital at Putnam, but has been at the home here for several days past.

Every dog has his day, and here in Danielson on Saturday many dogs will have a day, for the Windham County Kennel club has arranged for them to be on display at the town hall building and to compete there for ribbons in their respective classes. That they show to their best advantage proud owners will have them thoroughly groomed and the dog show officials will see to it that they have a proper setting The county kennel club was organized several years ago and has members in various parts of Windham county and have been uniformly successful. More than 100 dogs will be on the bench here Saturday evening, and will come under the eye of well known judges.

Observance of Thanksgiving here contemplates a quiet holiday in keeping with the traditional spirit of the day Manufacturing plants will be closed and business generally suspended. The post office will be on holiday schedule.

Miss Helen Palmer is to present an antique saw-buck table to the Wadsworth Athenaeum of Hartford as an added feature of the rare collection of early Colonial furnishings there. The table has been in the Palmer family for several generations, and it is understood that $2,500 has been offered for it by a collector said to have been representing Henry Ford.

PUTNAM

DETECTIVE WHEELER TO INVESTIGATE RECTORY BREAK

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Nov. 23.—County Detective Rowe B. Wheeler of Willimantic was here today to confer with Captain of Police William J. Jarvis regarding the burglary at the rectory of St. Mary's church two weeks ago Captain Jarvis said this afternoon that Detective Wheeler will aid him in checking up of details surrounding the arrest of Nicola Marela of Springfield, bandit-burglar arrested in Palmer Tuesday when an attempt to burglarize a clothing store was frustrated by Palmer police. Although all clues possessed by the investigators at the present are being run down, none have brought any evidence that will solve the mystery of the break.

Putnam has contributed largely to the growth of the operating system of the telephone company in eastern Connecticut, according to a report by officials of the local exchange today in which is noted a net gain of 78 stations has been made since Jan. 1. At the beginning of the year, Putnam had a total of 2,542 stations and the report today indicated that service is being rendered at 2,620 different points in the district. The report showed that many extension connections go to make up the total number of stations in the Putnam loop.

Funeral services were held this morning at 9 o'clock at St Mary's church for Money Messier of this city killed Tuesday when a truck in which he was riding was struck by a light engine at Attawaugan crossing. Rev U. O. Bellerose, pastor of St. Mary's celebrated a requiem high mass at the church service and officiated at a committal service at the grave in St Mary's cemetery where burial took place.

A general alarm from Box 42 at 11:30 this morning sent the apparatus at the Central station in Union square to a six-tenement block on Main street to extinguish a chimney fire. The blaze was quickly extinguished with the aid of water from the booster tank on the pumper wagon. Only slight water damage was done to the structure.

Sessions were suspended today in the grammar schools of the town in accordance with the operating programme, which allows the faculties of the schools one day a year for visiting other schools.

The first real touch of winter struck northern Windham county today sending the mercury to a record low mark of 13 degrees, reported in Woodstock Hill and in Pomfret. In the city the thermometer dropped to 15 degrees this morning at 7 o'clock.

Miss Winifred Mellor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Mellor of Grove street, was hostess at a miscellaneous shower Thursday evening in honor of Miss Elizabeth Moras of Bradley street, whose marriage to Leroy Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W Thompson of Woodstock avenue, is to take place Saturday, Dec. 7. The evening was devoted to bridge and was concluded with a luncheon served by the hostess. The guests included Miss Moras, Miss Geraldine Frost, Miss Mabel Thompson, Mrs. George Vaughn, Jr., Mrs. Ralph Spencer, Miss Katherine Thayer, Mrs. Leonard H. Mellor, Jr., Mrs. Edward Fisher, Mrs. Daniel Durand and Miss Annette Johnson Miss Moras received a host of beautiful gifts.

Funeral services were held this afternoon at the home of Charles Smith on South Main street, for William Smith, old-time fiddler who died suddenly Wednesday at his home in Phoenixville. Rev. H. H Hodge, pastor of the First Baptist church of this city, officiated at the service and a committal service held at the grave in Phoenixville cemetery.

In a judgment returned today by Henry N. Beaulé probate judge, the petition of Aldeas Martin of South Meadow street to have his wife, Mrs. Bella Martin, removed as a guardian of their son, Aldeas, Jr., was denied. The case was tried a week ago in probate court.

The Biblical drama, the "Return of the Prodigal," is to be presented at the Congregational church Sunday evening as the feature of the Friendly Evening service. The public is cordially invited to attend these services.

A union Thanksgiving service under the auspices of the Putnam Council of Churches is now being planned for Thanksgiving day. The service will be held at St. Philip's church on Thursday morning, Nov. 28, at 10 o'clock. Rev. E. P. Wright, pastor of the church, will be the preacher. All the people of the city are cordially invited to attend.

The distributing point of the Beacon Oil Co. on lower Main street is nearly completed. The oil tanks are ready for operation, tests proved recently, and the final touches are being placed on the company's office building. A building, once a garage, is being converted into a storage building for greases and other petroleum products. The plant greatly improves the civic appearance of that section of the street.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Bernier of Providence street have returned from a wedding trip spent in New Hampshire.

As a final reminder, all boys who are planning on making the trip from this city to attend the Brown-New Hampshire state football game at Providence Saturday must be at Putnam high school at noon. The cordon of automobiles will leave promptly at 12:30 in order to be at the stadium at 2 o'clock. Lieut. Ross V., Urquhart, commandant at the state police barracks in Danielson will detail two officers to escort the cars to the Rhode Island state line.

The cold wave which followed the first snowstorm of the year, caught many motorists unprepared this morning. Cars appeared on the streets with steaming radiators which had frozen in the descent of the mercury. There was a rush today to procure alcohol to be used in prevention of further freezings.

Small ponds and brooks were ice-coated this morning and, with the inch or more of snow which remained from Thursday's storm, a real winter picture was presented in the rural districts.

At intervals during the day, automobiles from other sections of the state were seen passing through the city displaying blue banners with the insignia of Yale university on them. The caravan of New Haven automobiles carrying rule rooters passed in advance of time set today years ago the Yale and Harvard rooters passed through this city aboard special trains en route to New Haven or Cambridge for the east's outstanding gridiron classic. Until late today no special was seen passing through either over the Norwich branch or the main line of the midland division.

OUR DELEGATES TO LONDON

Following conferences which have been held in Europe the claim has been made that different results might have been obtained if the make-up of the delegation had been different. The inference was that it was a battle of experts and that better chances of an understanding would have existed had statesmen and perhaps civilians been involved.

President Hoover has made up the delegation to attend the London conference in a manner which indicates that he appreciated the importance of the gathering, the things to be discussed and the desirability of a successful outcome. He has named men of recognized ability, fully equipped to deal with such questions as are brought up and he has made selections which are certain to appeal to his countrymen.

In the first place he gave recognition to the desirability of having members of the United States senate as delegates, thereby preventing any such situation as developed in the Wilson administration. The senate has its part to play in the adoption of any treaty that may result and he has named leaders of the respective parties as delegates.

It was to be expected that Secretary of State Stimson would be included in the delegation and that ambassadors in European countries would be named because of their understanding of the situation, but the addition of Dwight W. Morrow, ambassador to Mexico, and the selection of Secretary Adams of the navy department had not been anticipated.

And yet what better selections could he have made? Ambassador Morrow is a highly valuable man at any conference. He has proved this since going to Mexico City, if it wasn't realized before then, and it is the logical thing that Secretary Adams should be named. It is a matter that concerns his department directly and, while he can be expected to look well after the interests of this country and the president's policies in regard to the limitation of armament, his presence will give assurance that our means of defense will not be overlooked.

The delegates will go with a full and able corps of experts, headed by Admirals Jones and Pratt, who know our navy and the international naval situation thoroughly. The make-up of the delegation and its aides is, therefore, impressive.

WHERE WAS THE LOBBYING?

When the Caraway committee was named it was selected for the purpose of pursuing an inquiry into lobbying conditions. It has carried on certain inquiries which have made a good impression and some which have made a bad impression. It has developed methods and tactics that have not always been to its credit, but it appears to have gone far afield when it calls before it those who have seen fit to indulge in the criticism of the senate.

Some few days ago a New York banker, who cannot by any stretch of the imagination be included in the list of lobbyists, gave expression to his conviction that the attitude of the senate, because of the coalition's work, had had its influence in bringing about the stock market disturbance. He has been called before the committee and repeated for the benefit of that body what he said and why he said it. He insisted that he had been correctly reported and he stood by his statement.

But was the committee trying to throw a fright into the banker and any others who have or are inclined to give expression to their views concerning senate action? Was it trying to convey to the country that anyone else who dared to exercise his right could expect to be hauled over the coals? Was it trying to give the impression that the banker had committed a high crime in giving voice to his belief just because it happened to concern the senate?

Throughout the questioning of the banker it didn't appear that he was connected in any way with lobbying activities, something about which the committee was expected to learn the facts. He hadn't tried to influence the action of the senate in any way whatever. All he had done was to open his mind, but it has been previously disclosed that the committee doesn't take kindly to those who talk when in its opinion they talk too much.

We are getting to a pretty situation if it is so that a responsible person cannot give expression to his views without being made the subject of an investigation.

TAKING LIFE AS ACTS OF MERCY

Perhaps nothing has served to stir up a greater discussion than the acts of those people who have taken the lives of others for the purpose of ending suffering. There are those who have advocated it, those who believe that authority should be given to end the existence of those incurables who are suffering and who in many instances plead for the end. This wouldn't be done unless it had been established beyond all question that recovery or relief were impossible, and yet when such a suggestion is made it never fails to arouse the strongest kind of opposition on the ground that many lives might be ended in such a manner for ulterior purposes. The fear of that possibility is a commanding one, since it would put tremendous power and responsibility in certain hands.

It was not long ago that a son killed his mother in France as an act of mercy. That was the claim he made, and it seemed to be supported by facts. He was prosecuted for the act but received a verdict of not guilty from the jury. There was an appreciation of the circumstances which prompted the act in spite of the law against taking life.

This month, in Minnesota, a banker took the life of one of his daughters because she was a permanent invalid and a deaf mute. He forestalled any prosecution by ending his own life at the same time, paying a terrible price for doing what he considered an act of mercy for his child. Just why this double tragedy should have occurred is not made clear by the reports, inasmuch as the child did not appear to be suffering. The feeling of the parent because of her condition can easily be appreciated. In all probability she was incurable and yet the greater suffering may have fallen on the shoulders of those who were charged with her care. The suicide by the father indicated that he knew he had gone contrary to the law and that he in all probability would be so judged.

It is a question whether any law could be adopted that would insure protection to the sufferers and make certain that deaths, which might be hastened as acts of mercy, were justified. There are cases which could be quoted to support both sides of the question.

In the death of Oliver L. Johnson Norwich has lost one of its best citizens. During all his life, which had been passed in Norwich or its suburbs, he had been closely identified with its industrial and banking interests and had climbed to the top of the ladder of success because of his keen business ability, his practice of fair dealing and his regard for fellow men. He rose to a captain of industry through his sterling qualifications, his sound business policies and the fine understanding which he maintained with his employes.

Mr. Johnson was ever interested in Norwich and its development, deeply concerned in its welfare, and there was no worthy cause that failed to elicit his support. He gave himself wholeheartedly to whatever object aroused his interest and whether it was in church, business or social activities he shed an influence that was for the greatest good. Even though his chief business activity has been in Jewett City, where he was responsible for the steady developments which have taken place at the Aspinook plant and in which community there was felt the same highly beneficial effects of his presence, there never was any lapse of interest in home affairs.

Mr. Johnson was a man of high ideals, a gentleman in every sense of the word, courteous, generous and democratic; a man among men, who has contributed greatly to the good of this community during his more than three score and ten years. He was a man of many friends and whose friendship was highly esteemed.

In his death Norwich suffers a distinct loss but it has reason to long cherish the memory and the example of a man who was successful in all walks of life, who was universally liked and of whom it can be said that the community was the better for his having lived here.

FOOTBALL

It is only a matter of a few days now before the football season will be at its end for 1929. Today will mark the completion of most of the schedules and the playing of some of the critical games. Another week and the football can be put away until another autumn.

Football is a rugged out-door sport but one that has been getting a steadily increasing public support. It is a game which has undergone certain changes for the better, changes which have removed much of the former brutality and roughness and through what is termed the "opening up" of the game there has developed a greater popularity.

Football is a game which is for the most part confined to educational institutions, but the hold which it has upon the people is well illustrated by the provisions which now have to be made to accommodate them. Not so many years ago wooden stands were sufficient to meet the seating requirements for the spectators. Today all of the big colleges are equipped with a bowl, stadium or other great permanent structure for the accommodation of the crowds of 60,000, 70,000 or 80,000 enthusiasts, and then all are not able to get in that would desire.

Football is a great game for the development of physical well being, quick thinking and quick acting. It permits of much strategy and the display of both brain and brawn, with plenty of opportunity for the fleet of foot as well as the quick mind.

Football is one of the sports which has not been taken up to any great extent by the professionals. It remains the big amateur sport and is the means of providing funds for maintaining many other collegiate sports which might find hard sledding otherwise.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

There are few things that so arouse the better elements in man than music when it is given in a cheerful environment. The following is a sample of the powerful influence of music when given under favorable circumstances like that of The Sailor's home in Boston: "We once heard a song sung at the Sailor's Rest, which made such an impression on a sailor who had caused his mother great anguish on account of his wild ways, that he bought a ticket that night and went home to ask her forgiveness. There is no way of telling how much good has been wrought in the kind hearts of the sailors through the society's music at the Sailor's Rest and chapel. Martin Luther said it is one of the most magnificent presents God has given us. Also "Music is a discipline and a mistress of order and good manners, she makes the people milder and gentler, more moral and more reasonable." The sailors are people, who are pleased with even one song.

We frequently run across the statement that "money is power". The statement is doubtless correct in all the channels with which money is associated—the good and the bad alike. It is a fine illustration of how a thing in itself positively neutral, by its use can rise to the highest point of glory or make "its bed in hell", and that it is doing continually. When we see money saving helpless little children from the awfulness of starvation in China and other distant portions of the globe, perhaps to a lesser extent, we say that "it ascends up into heaven"; but when it urges a brute to strangle a sick woman in her hut for a paltry sum, we also say that it "makes its bed in hell". Money is neither to be worshipped nor cursed. What we all need to say is—from the least unto the greatest is—"Lord help me to use it to thy glory!"

"If this beastly weather continues much longer I shall go crazy!" remarked a certain woman a number of years ago to the writer. Now what was that horrible weather condition that threatened this woman with stark madness? Well, it was nothing less than five or six days consecutive autumnal days, in which the sun did not show his face. Of course that was perfectly awful in itself. But added to this was the unusual density of the clouds. Just think of it, less than a week of unusual cloudiness that followed 20 days of as glorious sunshine as ever gilded those New England days with supernal splendor! Wasn't that enough to put anybody, save only the most impervious into the madhouse? Unfortunately there is no record of this woman's mental condition during the long period of sunshine. This was all forgotten when the first clouds came.

Probably this cloud-stricken woman—referred to in the last paragraph—was not in the habit of going about her daily cares singing this great hymn of the ages:

"Father, whatever of earthly bliss
Thy sovereign hands denies,
Accepted at the throne of grace
Let this petition rise":

No, one of the very least thoughts in her mind was "a calm, a thoughtful heart, from every murmur free", because there had been several consecutive days of gloom that had brought on despondency to which she had given herself absolutely. One is inclined to think that the "blues" are not brought on so much by external conditions as from a certain internal tendency to magnify molehills into mountains, and a lack of spirit to rise above it.

One is sometimes tempted to ask if in this modern age are not losing the sense of the beautiful. As to paintings have we anything today that will compare with the works of Titian, Michael Angelo, Tintoretto, Raphael and others who lived in the middle ages? As to sculpture are not the old masters of Greece and Rome, as well as others who lived in the distant past, still the masters from whom modern artists draw their inspiration? We still hold in profound veneration the tombs, temples, palaces and various other monuments done by the ancients who, up to the present, have not been equalled, and certainly have not been surpassed. In building why do we so often attempt to reproduce the old New England colonial mansion? Simply because for dignity, beauty and general utility for household purposes, it has never been surpassed. There is absolutely no reason for giving up anything simply on the ground that it is old.

In dealing with the question of art, John Ruskin has this important remark to make—and who among our modern writers can speak with greater authority? "High art consists neither in altering nor in improving nature for "Whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are pure': in loving these, in displaying to the utmost of the painter's power such loveliness as is in them, and directing the thoughts of others to them—this is art". While the sense of the beautiful can be cultivated to a high degree of perfection, still the sense of the beautiful must be inborn if it is to attain any considerable degree of importance. Education and learning are very important, but alone they never made a real artist, any more than they ever made a real orator, musician, or statesman. Unless the artistic instinct is innate, you cannot have an artist of the first magnitude.

If in this age, or in the one preceding, we have not developed the highest exponent of the fine arts, along other lines we have done things of which no contry need to be ashamed. The trend of the American spirit has been along practical, natural lines. It was an American who made the Atlantic cable a practical thing. Two Americans taught the world how to navigate the air. It was an American who presented to the world the automobile and it was to this present generation. It is American banking system that has saved more than one European nation from bankruptcy. Sometimes our multi-millionaires are slurred on the other side of the Atlantic, but when financial panic looms up as a dreaded spectre, a Rockefeller or a Morgan steps into the breach and the market resumes its equilibrium. This certainly is one form of greatness. We ought to be thankful that no one nation has a monopoly of greatness!

Before another week has fully passed, the usual Thanksgiving season will have been observed as it has been done throughout our American life. There are the best of reasons for the continuance of this time-honored institution. The good old Pilgrims never did a wiser thing than when they gathered in their first autumnal harvest from the soil of a new continent and celebrated the event by recognizing the goodness of God in making the growing season propitious. They recognized the same mighty hand that guided their frail ship across the stormy Atlantic was still making the elements favorable, and in all the intervening years the sturdy, though rocky, soil of New England has never yet failed of its increase. Thus far it has proven true that "seedtime and harvest, and cold and heat, and summer and winter, and day and night shall not cease as long as the earth remaineth

NORWICH'S THANKSGIVING CUSTOM OF BURNING BARRELS.

Next Thursday evening, in accordance with the town's immemorial custom, it is likely that the Thanksgiving holiday will be observed by the usual barrel-burning rites, but on a scale even less extensive than ever. For years past the Thanksgiving bonfires have been growing smaller annually. The reason is largely economic. Twenty-five years ago it was the common thing for families to buy their flour and sugar by the barrel; and the disposal of the empty containers in those days at times constituted something of a problem. In those days therefore the elders looked on indulgently when every hill in Norwich, almost, blazed out on Thanksgiving night in huge pillars of fire, formed by barrels strung on poles 10, 15 or 20 to the pole, the barrels having been collected in divers devious ways by neighborhood boys for months beforehand.

But today people buy flour and sugar by the sack, and this circumstance, among others, is why barrels hereabout are now scarce and high-priced. As a result, the youth of Norwich no longer finds such condonation as it once did for its barrel collecting activities. Moreover, the use of galvanized iron barrels as receptacles for ashes has further reduced the visible supply of combustibles.

Nobody knows how far back the Norwich custom of barrel-burning on Thanksgiving night may go. Certainly it dates to colonial times, according to Frances Manwaring Caulkins' "History of Norwich". In Chapter XXXIII which contains a biography of Benedict Arnold the traitor, whose boyhood was spent in Norwich, she tells the following story:

"It is remembered also that having at the head of gang of boys seized and rolled away some valuable casks from a shop yard, to aid in making the usual Thanksgiving bonfire, the casks were arrested on their way by an officer sent by the owner to recover them: upon which young Arnold was so enraged that he stripped off his coat upon the spot and dared the constable, a stout and grave man, to fight."

This incident occurred probably prior to 1750.

The first write-up which the custom had in The Bulletin appeared in the issue of Nov. 28, 1884, as follows:

"The illumination of the hills about Norwich Thanksgiving night by the juvenile brigades of barrel burners bore witness that the boys of '84 have not allowed this ancient local custom of their great great grandfathers to deteriorate one whit since the time it was originated, a date which seems to be irrecoverably lost in the days of antiquity. Each year the youngsters seem to organize instinctively by companies, first for the foraging of the whole town for empty flour barrels, and each gang has its district, its rendezvous and its storehouse, and the unceremonious taking of empty barrels wherever they may be seen is permitted without complaint by the entire population. The total capture of the gangs will average from 1,500 to 2,000 barrels yearly.

"These genuine old-fashioned bonfires made on the hilltops are as like the old bonfires with which the barbarians of Britain celebrated their victories and their festivals on the hills from 'Land's End to John o' Groat's' as barrels can make them, and illuminate the valleys far and near.

"It is useless to try to fathom the depths of time in which this Norwich juvenile custom is sunk. Locally tradition carries it to the boyhood of Benedict Arnold. Back of him can be traced the celebration of important events in this country by bonfires, and one still remains in practice in the hill towns of eastern Massachusetts, where on the 5th of November, the anniversary of 'Guy Fawkes' treason and gunpowder plot' is celebrated with big bonfires of brush, because the loyal sons of Great Britain established the custom as an expression of joy that treason was not successful when Americans were British subjects, and New England was a province of the British government.

"The loyalty and all that the bonfire originally celebrated, have ceased to be of any interest to men or boys of this age, but the boys keep up the fire because they enjoy the bright light and excitement of it. This same anniversary was probably celebrated all over New England, and it requires no great stretch of the imagination which carries with it a conviction of probability to assume that the enjoyable custom was transferred from an English anniversary to the first and best of Norwich holidays by the Norwich boys of long ago.

"Wherever the custom originated, it stays with us, and as generations of boys go and come there is no less of ardor or devotion to this festal custom which is indulged in by the boys of no other New England town."

Some further light may be shed on the possible origin of the custom by a letter signed "Fleur-de-Lys," which appeared in The Bulletin on the day after the preceding article was published:

"Mr. Editor: Allow me to remind you of a fact which in my view adds much probability to your suggestion that the Thanksgiving bonfire may have had its origin in the practice of making huge bonfires and burning Guy Fawkes in effigy (for that formed part of the original programme) on the 5th of November. Thanksgiving day was formerly and for a series of years appointed on Nov. 5.

"What is more natural than to suppose that the two customs, regularly observed on the same day, became linked in the minds of the people, and that when one was transferred to a later date the other followed, its original import having been lost sight of through the lapse of time?"

On Nov. 27, 1885, the Bulletin followed up the foregoing articles with this vivid item:

"The fascinating barrel crusade which has enlisted the energies of the boys of Norwich every November from time immemorial culminated last night in the annual bonfires upon the hills which surround the city. Between 5 and 8 o'clock the sky was lurid with light in all directions, and the yells of the youngsters as they danced around the burning piles like young Comanche Indians could be heard in the business center.

"To the adult mind there is too much labor in this enterprise for the small amount of fun realized. The watchfulness, persistence, skill and speed which the business of 'hooking' barrels develops in the average boy is truly amazing. The few very shrewd persons of mature years who have been outwitted by the youngsters in their raids upon the family ash-barrel declare that the practice develops genius; but few men ever test the boys enough to be sure that this declaration is true.

"When the evil eye of a barrel-whacker is placed on the ash-barrel it is useless to try to save it. The bottom either falls out mysteriously or else the barrel goes off itself in the night.

"The calls for barrels to preserve the apple crop this fall have made the task of collecting the barrels a little harder than usual, and the result has not been as satisfactory as it has been sometimes; but it is safe to say that 1,000 barrels, most of which have been surreptitiously seized in the past 20 days, made the hills bright and the boys happy last night"

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22—It is remarkable how many different names talkative old guard members of the senate have been able to invent and apply to their insurgent colleagues on the republican side.

Think 'em over. Fess of Ohio coined the "pseudo republican" expression; Reed of Pennsylvania put in the "Al Smith republican" idea, which McMaster of South Dakota countered with his "Joe Grundy republican" jibe at the old guardsters.

But peppery George Moses of New Hampshire, who has a gift for epigrammatic wise-cracking, capped the climax with his "sons of wild jackasses" remark.

And while all this pother is being kicked up on the republican side over a party split, observers are apt to ignore the democrats' trouble with their own one-man bloc.

You might call it the Blease bloc, for Senator Cole Blease stands all by himself, a rebel against party leaders and caucus control so far as his primary pledges will permit.

People His Boss.

"I vote as I please," Blease told the senate in outlining his political creed. "I recognize no caucus. I recognize no leader. I recognize no boss but the people of South Carolina.

"When they do not like the way I vote, they can have another senator and I shall make no complaint. I had to beat one to get here, and I can not blame another trying to beat me if he wants to come to the senate. That is for him to determine and the people there to decide."

Yet the Blease bloc is not without its own troubles. The senator saw also fit to explain to the senate an incident following the celebrated row on the senate floor between the late "Pitchfork Ben" Tillman and his colleague from South Carolina.

Tillman saw to it that a provision was put into party platforms in that state requiring any man offering himself for senator or member of the house in the primaries to pledge himself to vote, if elected, with the democratic majority "on party questions."

His Ultimatum.

"My oath requires me to vote with the majority of my party on party questions, but I do not propose to let a party question be something that is decided by any two men on this side of the chamber or by any group of men on either side of the chamber," Blease declared.

Incidentally, in connection with these Blease bloc declarations, the senator tilted with Caraway of Arkansas over the sub-committee investigating lobbies, which Caraway heads.

Blease asserted that he held himself responsible for what he said in the senate both there "and outside, too."

"All right," said Caraway, but nothing happened, so it was not an invitation to come out in the alley and fight it out.

Crossing the senate aisle again for a moment, it seems a pity Moses was muzzled in the chair when his "jackasses" remark was discussed. He managed to edge in only once, under guise of a parliamentary ruling.

"If the senator (Wheeler of Montana) can find a more fitting appellation for the gyrating crew that runs the senate, the senator from New Hampshire will be glad to make use of it," he said.

Approves Bingham's Course.

C. W. Morrill of Winchester, Mass., writes the following letter to the Boston Transcript:

"Instead of condemning Senator Hiram Bingham of Connecticut the writer believes that he should have the support of the eastern industrial states. He tried to get expert advice on the matter of the tariff. He turned for that advice where one would naturally turn. The senator evidently suspected no injury to the welfare of the country. Nothing has been brought out that any injury has been sustained.

"Our system of law requires that we start with the supposition that a man is innocent until proved guilty. It seems that the senators appointing themselves the inquisitors, prosecutor and judge, for political reasons alone, are willing not only to blacken a man's name but readily override our fundamental conception of justice.

"Should not many of these senators be investigated? Many a man feels that such men as Borah and other western senators are too friendly with sovietism. They are forcing the will of a minority, as far as numbers go among the people of the country, on the majority.

"In the case of the tariff this is killing the goose that lays the golden egg. The farmer's best market is the consumer in this own country; that is, most of the farm products are sold in the United States. If the western farm senator wants all the tariff on farm goods and leaves the industrialists without protection they are destroying their largest market by attrition.

"This is having some effect on the stock market. The writer has talked with several small investors, or buyers of stock in the market. They severally believe that if the coalition keep on monkeying with the tariff that the prosperity of the country will be impaired and therefore it is unsafe to buy stocks at the present time.

"Apparently against their better judgment, for it seems unfair to explain it in any other way, many democratic senators voted with the western senators in condemning Senator Bingham, a conscientious man, who represents an industrial state and therefore the industrial east.

"Wouldn't it be a wonderful thing for Pennsylvania to send "Solomon" Grundy to the senate? He surely would be a strong man for the east, for without the power of the senate back of him he successfully withstood the inquisitors and prevented them from riding over him rough shod."

YOUR HEALTH

Safeguarding the Mental Health of the Preschool Child.

By Arnold Gesell, M. D.
Director, Yale Psycho-Clinic, Yale University, New Haven, Conn.
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

The hygiene of the child must begin with the protection of his physical growth. Nothing is more important than his nutrition, but he is a mental as well as a physical being from the moment he is born. Mind and body grow stronger together. Even in an infant, we must begin to think about safeguarding mental health. The early years influence the mental stamina of later years.

The mind grows. This growth cannot be measured by inches or pounds but it can always be estimated by the manner in which the child learns the art of living. Tots learning, with the help of father and mother begins extremely early. Nature unassisted never takes care of the details. The child must not only have the right kind of food, he must learn to eat the food in the right way (without undue fussing and fastidiousness.) He must not only have the necessary hours of sleep, he must go to sleep in the right way. These are not purely physical matters. They are psychological. The beginnings of mental hygiene consist in good personal habits of eating, sleeping and elimination, of play, of obedience and of social behavior.

Parents can best protect the young child's mental health by keeping the parent-child relationships wholesome. The child needs affection, but he also needs good cheer and an increasing amount of parental detachment which will give him a chance to acquire self reliance. His personality grows from day to day. We safeguard the strength and balance of personality by respecting the psychological importance of everyday situations of life. Through praise rather than scolding, through encouragement rather than domination, through happiness rather than through failure, he learns self confidence and good will. Thus he acquires a sense of values and a sense of security which will be of lasting importance for his mental health. This sense of security weakens even in very young children if the relationships of father and mother are not harmonious.

Nothing, therefore, is of more general importance for the early mental welfare of the child than the home atmosphere. Parents in their zeal may try too strenuously to shape the child into a preconceived pattern of their own. Guidance and growth are better methods. The child must achieve his own personality by increasing self-control and self dependence. Parents may guide; but the child must do his own growing.

Sunday Morning Talk

Thanks-Living the Best Thanksgiving.

As we think of all our Heavenly Father does for us each day our hearts are filled with wonder that God should consider such worthless ungrateful creatures. How often we complain if we feel we have too much or too little rain. But how seldom we think to thank Him when He sends the much-needed rain. When we think of His marvelous goodness should not our hearts be filled with love and gratitude. Is it enough to express our gratitude in words? Should we not express it in our lives. By living the very best Christian life possible and by telling others of all our Saviour has meant to us. By leading them to see what it means to be a Christian. By calling their attention to the numerous blessings they receive each day of the year. Should we strive to do each day, at least one thing just for our Saviour. Should not our love and gratitude be so great that we gladly do the hard things. Feeling that in this way we may in a small way show our love for we know that all we are and all we have we owe to our Heavenly Father. Christ was ever thanking His Heavenly Father and ever lived the thankful life. How thankful we should be for health. When we see those deprived of this great blessing we begin to realize what it means. We are too apt to take our many blessings for granted as our right. May we in the coming days show forth to all our gratitude. How much happier our lives would be also the lives of those about us.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Wants Cars to Stop at Perry Ave.

Mr. Editor: Will you please allow me space in your paper to protest against the conditions to which the people residing on Perry avenue and Bushnell place are subject in taking and leaving the trolley cars. They have to walk quite some distance in the highway to where the cars now stop and the speed at which the automobiles travel makes it extremely dangerous to stand in the center of the highway when the car is coming.

There have been fatal accidents in that neighborhood of late and we feel the least the trolley company might do is to stop at Perry avenue and let us off and on the cars on the avenue side instead of in the highway. We cannot always go with our children to the car and we are afraid to send them alone.

An appeal was made to the trolley company sometime ago to have the cars stop at Perry avenue but this has not yet been done. If the trolley officials will not give us any relief there must be some one to whom we can appeal before there is a serious accident at this place.

Woman's City Club: Tuesday, Nov. 26th at 4 p. m. Mrs. Charlotte P. Gilman on "This Business of Being a Mother." Child Study Group free. Other club members, 25c admission.—adv.

Miss Deborah A. Garvey of Winchester street has left to spend several days in New York, later traveling to the middle west to visit her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Nolan of Chicago, Ill.

CARBERRY MADE SUBSTITUTE IN FIRE DEPARTMENT

A meeting of the fire commissioners, Amiet J. Brosofske, chairman, Herman Stelzer and Peter Sellas, was held Friday evening in the office of Chief Henry R. Taft of the local fire department in the central station. Thomas J. Carberry of No. 40 Lafayette street, a call man on Squad A, was made a permanent substitute, as the result of the vacancy caused through the death of Charles H. Culver, who for many years was connected with the department. With the promotion of Fireman Carberry, Gerard A. Driscoll, son of Police Officer Timothy Driscoll of Cliff street, was named a call member to fill his place.

Special Soloist at Church

The special soloist at the Central Baptist church Sunday evening will be Miss Guthrie who has studied in London and is now studying in New York city. Miss Guthrie has sung in Toronto, Canada.

The following numbers will be rendered at the evening service, "Light of the World" by Stearns, "Hear, O My People," by Stevensen; "Cast Thy Burden on the Lord," by Hamblin.

The pastor will give a brief Thanksgiving message on "America Blest and a Blessing."

At the morning service Dr. Pitt will speak on "The Blessedness of Giving." The decorations for Thanksgiving Sunday will consist largely of baskets of fruit and vegetables which will be sent to worthy families after the service.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Friedrich and family of Andover have been in Norwich, calling on Mr. Friedrich's sister, Miss Tillie Friedrich.

Mrs. Lucy A. White of Voluntown is spending this week with her two brothers near Norwich.

OBITUARY

Oliver L. Johnson

After a long period of ill health, Oliver Lewis Johnson, prominent citizen and widely known manufacturer, died Friday afternoon at 12:30 o'clock at his home, No. 96 Union street. He was seized with a heart attack a week ago and failed steadily from then on. For three days before his death he had been unconscious.

Mr. Johnson was the son of the late Oliver Lewis and Martha Munford

Johnson and was born in Franklin, October 26, 1852. His father was the son of Captain Oliver Johnson and was a well known farmer and lumberman in Franklin. In 1865 Mr. Johnson came to this city to enter the employ of his uncle, Isaac Johnson, a Water street merchant. Three years later he became associated with the Norwich-New York Transportation company, becoming superintendent and treasurer.

While connected with the latter organization he attracted the attention of Moses Pierce, and when the latter determined in 1893 to organize a new company to finish cotton goods, he chose Mr. Johnson to be the first manager and treasurer of the Aspinook company in Jewett City. Mr. Pierce was then an elderly man and the active burden of mangement fell onto Mr. Johnson from the start. The successful upbuilding of the Aspinook Co. became his life work, and its present preeminent position in the finishing industry of the country is due to his efforts and to the organization which he built up and the policies which he inaugurated.

Mr. Johnson was very active in affairs of the Aspinook company up to about two years ago when because of failing health he was forced to give up active management of the plant, resigning as treasurer and manager in favor of his son Philip A. Johnson. However, he continued in an advisory capacity, continuing as president of the company up to the time of his death.

He was keenly interested in every enterprise for the good of the community. He had been actively connected as a director or trustee of the W. W. Backus hospital, Norwich Free Academy, Otis Library and Johnson Home, serving at one time as secretary of the Backus hospital board. He was one of those most deeply interested in the Norwich Golf club, holding the office of president in the Golf Club Land company at one time. Mr. Johnson was identified with Park Congregational church from its inception, having its welfare close to his heart. He was senior deacon of the church at the time of his death.

Mr. Johnson was a trustee of the Y. M. C. A., and his connection with the United Workers extended over a long period of years. He was in charge of the annual audit of books at the latter organization for 30 years.

He was also actively associated with the business life of the community as a director and officer of local banks. He served for several years as president of the Thames National bank and was vice president of the Chelsea Savings Society for several years.

Outside of Norwich his business interests were evidenced by his having been director of the Ashland Cotton Co., of Jewett City, the Hampton Co. and West Boylston Mfg. Co. of East Hampton, Mass., the Hampshire Spinning Co. and Hawthorne Spinning Co. of Clover, South Carolina and the Norwich and Worcester Railway Co.

Although he never had any desire for public office Mr. Johnson was ever interested in the affairs of his community and was ever ready to assist in furthering its welfare. Politically, he was a consistent republican.

He was united in marriage to Fannie Chester Johnson in Norwich by Rev. Dr. Leonard W. Bacon on June 9, 1881. Six children were born to them, three dying in infancy. Another son, Robert C. Johnson, passed away in 1924.

Surviving are his widow and two sons, O. Chester Johnson of Plainfield, N. J., and Philip A. Johnson of Norwich. He also leaves five brothers, Isaac Johnson of Windham, James Johnson of Scotland, John Perkins Johnson of Duluth, Minn., and George A. Johnson and William C. Johnson, of Wichita, Kansas, and four sisters, Mrs. Henry Hatch and the Misses Clara and Sarah Johnson of Windham and Mrs. Halsey W. Kelley of New York city. There are also six grandchildren.

The passing of Mr. Johnson takes from the community one whose place will be difficult to fill. Enterprising and progressive with a large vision, he had many friends and was justly regarded as one of the most substantial men of Norwich. He was always ready to lend a helping hand to his fellowmen and was respected and admired, by everyone who knew him. A wide circle of friends, both here and elsewhere, are deeply grieved to learn of his passing.

Mrs. James H. Maloney

After a lingering illness, the life of Mary T. O'Neil, wife of James H. Maloney, came to a peaceful close Friday afternoon at her home, 87 Cliff street. She was born in this city, the daughter of Timothy and Hanora Brennan O'Neil, and spent most of her life in Norwich, and in 1889 she was united in marriage with James H. Maloney at St. Patrick's church by Rev. U. O. Bellerose.

Of a kind and pleasing disposition, she was well loved by all who knew her. She leaves a host of friends. The deceased is survived by her husband, a step-daughter, Mary H. Maloney, three sisters, Mrs. John M. Mallon and Miss Annie C. O'Neil of New London and Miss Bridget L. O'Neil, of Westerly and by one brother, Eugene O'Neil, of Westerly and several nieces and nephews.

PARK CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH PASTOR IS FORMALLY INSTALLED

Rev. Theodore Merrill Shipherd, who was called to Park Congregational church in June and took charge as pastor the second Sunday in September, was installed to the pastorate there with impressive services held Friday evening at the church before a congregation that nearly filled the body of the church. The installation sermon was by Rev. Willis H. Butler, pastor of the Asylum Hill Congregational church, Hartford.

An organ prelude by the church organist, Miss Anna L. Taft, opened the exercises at 7:30 o'clock and was followed by invocation by Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, pastor of Greeneville Congregational church, who acted as moderator of the service. Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, scribe of the ecclesiastical council held in the afternoon, read the minutes of the council and the Scripture lesson was also read by him.

In his inspiring sermon Rev. Mr. Willis took for his text, Ezekiel 8:16, "And he brought me into the inner court of the Lord's and behold, at the door of the temple of the Lord, between the porch and the altar, were about five and 20 men, with their backs toward the temple of the Lord and their faces toward the east, and they worshipped the sun."

In part he said: The attitude of these sun worshippers on the temple porch is one with which every minister of religion is familiar today. He is frequently reminded of the fact that people who once upon a time were devoted to the church, have turned their backs toward the temple and are seeking inspiration for living from other sources. Suppose we consider some of the answers which are commonly given to account for this changed attitude.

One answer is that the church has ceased to be a source of light; that it does not satisfy the demand of intelligent people for a religion which is rational; that instead of clarifying the issues of life, the church only confuses them and makes it hard for a person who uses his mind to believe what the church teaches concerning such important matters as God, duty and immortality.

It must be admitted that this attitude is not without some justification, and I can sympathize with those who, when they have gone to church hungering for the bread of life, have been handed a stone, some antiquated doctrine, hard, stale and without spiritual nourishment. It is true that there are churches whose theological teaching is impossible for men and women whose minds have been trained to use the modern, scientific method, but I have observed that those who are most outspoken in their criticism of the church because it is behind the times, are not as familiar with what is actually being preached from Christian pulpits today as they might be. Some of them have not heard a sermon for 20 years. They imagine that while they have advanced, all preachers have stood stock still and are as antiquated in their views as they ever were.

After making all due allowances for the failure of the church to satisfy the exacting demands of the intellectuals, who turn their backs toward the temple because they think they have outgrown the church and its teachings, I am inclined to think that the reason they do this is not because they need a new religion. If the plain truth were known it is because they have lost their interest in religion.

The great need of the world today is not the discovery of new truth but the disposition to apply the truth that has already been discovered to human needs. If anybody thinks that he can find a surer cure for personal and social ills than that which the religion of Jesus offers, let him leave the Christian church and worship the sun if he wants to do so.

This leads to the consideration of another answer that is sometimes given to the question "Why do people leave church?" We are told that the church is too gloomy and that people want more gladness in their religion. Here again one is obliged to admit that this criticism is not without some justification. It is true that the exterior and more particularly, the interior of many churches is unattractive and forbidding, and that the people whom one sees gathered there are not especially cheerful looking group, that both the words and music of the hymns that are sung are funereal and that much of the exhortation from the pulpit is prohibitive.

Personally, I much prefer the dim light of a Gothic cathedral or the dignified simplicity of a New England meeting house. I suppose it is true that, compared with the theatre or a hotel parlor, a church seems a gloomy kind of a place to many people, and that may be the reason why they turn their backs toward the temple and their faces toward the sun.

The temple is not altogether dark and gloomy, said the speaker in conclusion. There is light there, it may be soft and subdued, but it is sufficiently strong and steady to reveal all the truth it is necessary for us to know and there is music there, sometimes in the minor key, but it is sweet music nevertheless, because it is sung by those whose wills are in harmony with the will of God.

Rev. William S Beard, of New York city, gave the address to the people, his charge consisting of the three words, "Mind the Light," which came from the lips of an old lighthouse keeper, the story of which he related. In his charge he said you of this church bring the folk to Rev. Mr. Shipherd and through him to the light.

The address to the pastor-elect was given by Rev. Samuel H. Howe, pastor emeritus of the church, who said that he did not intend to give him any instructions as he is a past master in the ministry, but went on to tell of the problems that are facing the people and ministry.

Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, pastor of the United Congregational church, extended the right hand of fellowship to the pastor-elect in behalf of the New London association of Congregational churches and ministers.

The service concluded with prayer by Rev. Sherrod Soule, secretary of the Home Missionary society of Connecticut, and benediction by Rev. Mr. Shipherd.

The ecclesiastical council, which met in the afternoon at 3:30 o'clock and was called for by the New London association of Congregational churches and ministers endorsed Rev. Mr. Shipherd as pastor of the church. Rev. Mr. Ricketts was moderator of the meeting and Rev. Gurdon G. Bailey, pastor of the First Congregational church, Norwich Town, scribe. Present were 13 lay delegates, 22 ministers and three guest ministers.

Following adjournment the visiting delegates were served supper by the members of the Women's Federation of the church under direction of Mrs. Raymond B. Sherman, chairman, and Mrs. John F. Rogers, co-chairman of the committee in charge.

COLLEGE PRESIDENT SPOKE BEFORE WOMAN'S GUILD

President Katherine Blunt of Connecticut college was the speaker Friday afternoon at the Community house before the opening meeting for the season of the Woman's Guild of the United Congregational church.

Introduced to the large gathering by Mrs. F. W. Lester, president of the guild, President Blunt spoke in an interesting way of some of the ideals of the college, of the large body of students who have a very real interest in the intellectual side of college life, and of the consideration that the faculty is giving to a proposal for honor courses that would serve as a stimulus to intellectual interest and independent work among students. She mentioned student self-government that is carried out in a very satisfactory way and went on to say that one of the great needs of the college is more scholarship endowments, for Connecticut college is woefully lacking in this sort of aid that can be given to students. In comparison with Vassar, where she said the average scholarship is $500, the average at Connecticut college is only about $100 and can be given to only about one-tenth of the students. It is a thing greatly to be desired that friends of the college should provide for scholarships that give $1,000 or $500 or smaller amounts that could be applied to help worthy students.

President Blunt answered a number of questions from members of her audience and after her address tea was served in charge of Mrs. Marcus Leith and Mrs. Henry F. Lyon. Mrs. Herbert W. Gallup and Mrs. A. D. Lathrop poured.

BONFIRE WITHOUT PERMIT; HENHOUSE CAUGHT FIRE

A hen house, 5x6 feet, located in the rear of No. 74 Orchard street and owned by Mrs. Anna McCarthy, was badly damaged by fire Friday evening. John T. Murphy, a son-in-law of Mrs. McCarthy, was burning leaves in the yard and while he went into the house it is believed that a spark alighted on the small structure, setting fire to it. In answer to a telephone call Engine No. 3, Chief Henry R. Taft and Deputy Chief Dennis Brennan responded and laid a line of water hose with which they combatted the flames.

The chief said Friday evening that several residents in that section have of late been denied permission by him to start rubbish fires due to the low water pressure and the lack of fire fighting facilities there. The chief reprimanded Mr. Murphy for burning the leaves, as he had not come to him and sought permission to do so.

FUNERALS

Elijah W. Lathrop

Many relatives and friends attended the funeral of Elijah W. Lathrop, held Friday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at his home in the Gardner lake section of the town of Montville. Rev. William D. Barnes of Hartford conducted the service and the burial was in West Plain cemetery. Rev. Mr. Barnes conducting the committal service. The bearers were Austin Lathrop James, Earl and Lawrence Lathrop, William R. and Gilbert Denison and William Saunders. There were many beautiful floral tributes. Undertaker C. A. Gazes had charge of the funeral arrangements.

THREE IMPORTANT PROBLEMS FOR AMERICAN DIPLOMACY

There are three important problems for American diplomacy, said Dr. R. L. Morrow of the history department at Wesleyan, when he lectured upon this subject Friday evening at Samuel Huntington school under the auspices of the Business and Professional Women's club. He was introduced by Miss Bernice Willey, president of the club.

Taking up first the traditional attitude of the United States in isolation from European affairs, Dr. Morrow showed how we have been gradually breaking away from this in our relation to the League of Nations and the question now is what shall we do about isolation if we are to accept the advantages and responsibilities of the league.

Another question is about the world court. The proposal made by Elihu Root as a solution of our attitude toward the world court is to come up before congress at the next session and Senators Borah and Johnson are already opening fire on it.

The third question is in regard to naval armament. Dr. Morrow sketched the developments in relation to this and spoke of the coming naval conference between the powers, but said it looked less hopeful in the last few days because of a declaration that Japan wants a 10-10-7 naval programme and because Ambassador Dawes had said there would be a five-power agreement or none at all.

DANCING CLASSES HAVE SPECIAL PARTY AFTERNOONS

Dancing classes under the instruction of Miss Helena Crandall, with Mrs. William R McCord as patroness, conducted a pretty series of parties this week at Odd Fellows hall, with guests at each to enjoy the programmes. For the Friday afternoon interpretive class the incoming march was led by Betty McWilliams and Elizabeth Main, Katherine Mitchell and Jean Shipherd, there were favors and the programme included an exhibition of tap dancing, a solo from the baby class, exercises, Russian dance and French dance.

On Tuesday afternoon the Tiny Tots and the intermediate class had their party, with favors, and the afternoon occupied with a class dance. The ball room class enjoyed its special day on Wednesday afternoon, with favors, and the programme consisted of fox trot, Paul Jones, Virginia reel, and waltz, with children from the tap dancing class giving an exhibition dance. Mrs. Harry Stebbins is pianist for the classes.

FINED $25 IN COURT FOR RECKLESS DRIVING

At the session of the city court Friday morning Charles Jaskiewicz 38, of this city, was presented on a charge of reckless driving and fined $25 and costs. The accused was arrested Thursday evening after the car he was driving collided with a trolley car and a machine driven by Clinton Thompson of Stetson street. The arrest was made by Officer Michael Pounch. The accident happened on West Main street at Falls avenue. The trolley and both machines were damaged as a result of the collision.

WOMAN, SON INJURED IN CRASH INTO POLE

A woman and her 6-year-old son are in a serious condition at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, New London, suffering from injuries received in an automobile accident which occurred about 3:15 o'clock Friday afternoon on the Norwich-New London highway near Jerome farm, just south of Perry's garage. They are Mrs. Julia Romanonak and her son, James, of No. 215 West Main street, this city. The driver of the machine, who was also slightly injured in the collision, is John Sak of 9 Aqueduct street, this city.

It is understood that Mrs. Romanonak and her son were on their way to New London to visit her daughter, who is a patient at Dr. Lena's hospital in New London, where she underwent an operation for appendicitis recently. They were being transported to New London by Mr. Sak, who, it is said, was traveling at a terrific rate of speed. The machine left the highway, crashed into a telegraph pole with such force that the engine was pushed back to the rear seat and the pole was moved some distance. Five cross arms on the pole were broken off and the car was demolished.

The woman and her son were taken to the office of Dr. James J. Donohue in Montville, where they received first aid treatment and were later rushed to the New London hospital, where they are in a serious condition. Mrs. Romanonak received lacerations and contusions of the face, several fractured ribs and a bad laceration of the right knee. The boy sustained a traumatic shock and was rendered unconscious. An x-ray was taken at the hospital to determine the extent of his injuries.

The operator of the machine was also removed to the Lawrence hospital, where his injuries comprising a laceration of the right hand and cuts about the face and body, were attended and he was later released. The accident was investigated by State Police Officer Smith of the Groton barracks, who arrested Sak on a charge of reckless driving and placed him under a bond of $1,000. Early this (Saturday) morning he was allowed his freedom when bonds were furnished for his appearance in court.

ARCANUM BRIDGE TEAMS WIN FROM WESTERLY

Four of the six teams of the Arcanum club were winners here Friday night at the club rooms when they met the players from the Square and Compass club of Westerly in the fourth night of their bridge whist series and the Norwich men won out by the total score of 13,300 to 11,227, which cut the Westerly lead on the total series to 138.

Following the play the members of the two teams enjoyed a lunch with escalloped oysters, rolls and coffee served at the club house.

Because of Thanksgiving day coming next week, there will be no play that week but the teams will meet the next time in Westerly the following week.

INVITING N. F. A. TO HEALTH PLAY CONTEST

Mrs. William L. Harris, Jr., representing the state tuberculosis commission, was at Norwich Free Academy Friday morning, where she presented before the senior class the health play contest for high schools which closes in New England on Apr 1, 1930. It is hoped that Norwich will enter this year's contest.

This contest is open to junior and senior high schools and to private and parochial schools of the same grade in all of the New England states. The plays submitted must deal with some aspect of individual or community health or hygiene. The plays may be written by an individual or by a group as a class project. The contest is of interest primarily to the English and dramatic classes. Other departments of the school may participate by furnishing assistance in the preparation of the plays for production and in the actual production itself.

The conditions provide that four typewritten copies of each play submitted in the contest must be delivered to the office of the state association not later than April 1, 1930, unless the state association fixes an earlier date for the filing of plays in the state contest.

Plays must be typed on sheets 8 1-2" x11" and mailed flat, not rolled.

All plays must be accompanied by a statement that the play has been produced before an audience. This audience may be the school assembly.

The plays must be in one act, one scene, and must run no longer than 20 minutes.

WILL ENFORCE PARKING RULES ON BATH ST.

Parking regulations on Bath street, one of the busiest and also narrowest streets in the city, will be strictly enforced in the future, according to an edict issued Friday by the police commissioners, as a result of the congestion that has been caused at various times by illegal parking. Those who overstay the 40-minute parking limit, where permitted, will be tagged, it was announced. A police officer was on duty on the street Friday to tag cars that had been allowed to remain parked over the time limit by their owners.

NEW SYNAGOGUE SERVICES ATTRACT LARGE CONGREGATION

The Friday evening service of the Norwich Community synagogue, held at the B'Nai Brith rooms, had an attendance of more than 200 worshippers.

The outstanding interest among the large gathering was manifested by the young people who constituted about half the number present. Rabbi Iro Eisenstein conducted the services and personally chanted the prayers, and also led in the community singing.

For the sermon of the evening, Rabbi Ira Eisenstein conducted the services as interpreted by science, and truth as interpreted by the great Rabbies." The sermon was a learned exposition of the truth as the guiding precept in human life conducting to happiness.

After the services Rabbi Eisenstein introduced an innovation by calling upon the gathering to join him in singing songs relating to the ushering in the Sabbath. To carry out this new idea Rabbi Eisenstein brought with him 200 song sheets which were prepared specifically for Norwich by the United Synagogues of New York. The rabbi, after several efforts, succeeded in teaching to the gathering, first the melody, and then the refrain. He then had the women sing in competition with the men and the contest created great interest and amusement.

Before adjourning Rabbi Eisenstein invited the women present to come to the B'Nai Brith rooms at 3 o'clock, Saturday afternoon to organize a society of Jewish women for the purpose of discussing topics of the day and other matters of interest. Rabbi Eisenstein offered to make these meetings interesting by lecturing either upon civic or spiritual subjects which may be interesting and instructing to his listeners. By calling for a show of hand to find out how many women present were interested in the suggestion the rabbi was grateful at finding a very enthusiastic response.

Abner Schwartz, president of the Norwich Community synagogue, addressed the gathering, asking them to become members of the new modern synagogue. Mr. Schwartz said that the interest and enthusiasm of the greater part of the modernly inclined Jewish men or women of Norwich resulting from the services so far held, exceeded all expectation and he expressed the hope of being able to make the new synagogue a permanent institution.

ACADEMY AFTER FIRST GRID WIN AT BULKELEY IN 13 YEARS THIS AFTERNOON

Seeking the first gridiron victory in Bulkeley's own lair since a stalwart Academy team stopped the Tigers, 13 to 0, in 1916, a fighting bunch of Wildcats will invade Mercer field in the Whaling city this afternoon intent on making up for this long space between wins with a smashing victory. Between 2,000 and 3,000 Academy supporters are expected to accompany the team and a crowd of 6,000 or 7,000 is expected to jam Mercer field for the 66th renewal of this feud, between probably the oldest schoolboy rivals in the United States.

Both teams are in excellent shape for their biggest test of the year and also their final game. Both coaches, Courtland C. Whitney and William F. (Billy) O'Brien, have confidence in their charges to come through with a victory and make the season a success.

Academy Slight Favorite

The Academy is entering the annual classic a slight favorite on its season's record, which shows two victories, five defeats and one tie against no wins for Bulkeley five defeats and three ties. Bulkeley stock, however, took a long step upwards last Saturday when the Tigers battled Chapman Tech to a scoreless tie. And then Tech trimmed Westerly, conference champs, yesterday.

Comparison of the teams with clubs they have played in common, however, shows today's game to be a mighty even matter. The Academy lost to Windham, 6 to 0, but Bulkeley tied Windham, 7 to 7; N. F. A. beat Chapman Tech 14 to 2 and Bulkeley tied Tech, 0-0; N. F. A. beat Stonington, 6 to 0 and Stonington beat Bulkeley, 12 to 0; Westerly beat both teams by one touchdown. In games with members of the "Big Three" of Connecticut Bulkeley with New Haven Hillhouse and the Academy with New Britain high, the Eastern Connecticut schools were able to hold their bigger opponents to ties.

N. F. A. After Second Place

The Academy, aside from the old Bulkeley rivalry to prod it on today, will also be fighting for a second-place tie in the conference. A win for the Wildcats will give them a deadlock with Windham for the second place. Bulkeley, on the other hand, is fighting also, this to escape holding the cellar position alone. Bulkeley, by winning can jump into a tie with Chapman Tech and force their city rivals to share last place with them.

The game will start at 2:30 and the Chapman Tech team will be a guest the game. Each school held pep rallies Friday at which coaches, players and managers in addition to the principals spoke.

CLARK NAMED HEAD OF CHICAGO STADIUM

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Sheldon Clark, vice president and general manager of the Sinclair Refining company, today accepted the presidency of the Chicago Stadium corporation, succeeding Paddy Harmon, builder of the $7,000,000 sports arena.

Clark, nationally known sportsman accepted because he said he considered it more or less of a civic duty, and with the provision that he might serve without financial remuneration of any kind.

The new president indicated that he would appoint a general manager to assume the actual task of directing the stadium's activities, also that his term of office would be temporary, pending selection of a suitable official to devote his entire time to the athletic and exhibition building.

Clark said he had no intention of severing his present business connections.

"In the stadium," Clark said in his prepared statement, "Chicago has the finest facilities in the world for sports events, trade shows, conventions and other indoor attractions. I am one of those who believe that athletics and sports, properly conducted, are as important a factor in the lives of our people, as possibly even the arts, and if I can, in my small way, contribute to its success, I feel, as a Chicagian, that it is my duty to do so.

"While I am president of the Stadium corporation, I shall give such of my time to it as may be necessary, without financial remuneration of any kind."

Speculation regarding Clark's possible choice as general manager included Dick Quinn, general manager of the Detroit Olympia arena, and John F. Cullerton, manager of properties of the city department of public works and former fire commissioner.

Nate Lewis, matchmaker of boxing bouts for the stadium, will be retained in that capacity, the new president indicated.

Harmon, who was forced to resign the presidency, an office he had held since the building was opened last March, did not attend today's meeting of the board of directors. Harmon, however, who owns 42 1-2 per cent. of the stock in the corporation, still retains his membership on the board.

FAST GAME EXPECTED WHEN OCKFORDS MEET WORCESTER

The New London Ockfords football team will play the Worcester All-Stars at Mercer field, New London Sunday afternoon. The game is scheduled for 2:30 p. m.

The Worcester team is coming to New London with a somewhat heavier team than the Ockfords will put on the field. Their line will average nearly 190 pounds from tackle to tackle, and their ends 166 pounds. With this heavy forward wall will be a speedy backfield that averages just under 160 pounds. Winson will fill one of the halfback positions after the game has gotten under way, and is expected to give the Ockford wings plenty of trouble as he is one of the fastest runners in the state. He has beaten such sprint experts as Hussey, Bowman and McAllister, all recently prominent in scholastic sprint events. The starting backfield are a regular college combination that have had a great deal of experience together. Baul, 225 pound guard, outweighs the Ockford's heaviest man.

Fullback Flynn is a fine broken field runner and passer. O'Gorman, a fine defensive end and pass receiver teams nicely with Flynn in the aerial work.

The Ockfords will have two new men in their lineup Sunday. Buck Gavitt of the 1927 Brown freshmen and Fred Booth of Boston university will be in tackle and guard positions. Francis Herbert and Oliver Moore of Norwich will fill halfback and guard positions respectively. Wally Rice and Joe Allen are expected to be the shining lights in the backfield.

VELVETMEN PLAY THE GOODYEAR TEAM SUNDAY

It is hoped there will be a good sized crowd turn out on Sunday afternoon when the Velvetmen meet the fast travelling Goodyear soccer team on the J. B. Martin ground in a return game. The locals went to Goodyear last Sunday and gave the upstate boys their first defeat of the season. They are coming down to Taftville with their strongest lineup as they are out for revenge. The J. B's are to have a stiff practice session this afternoon in anticipation of this game. The team will be chosen from the following players: F. Orcutt, F. Hargreaves, E. Eccleston, A. Bjork, A. Heaton, L. Fay, H. Seidel, E. Erickson, J. Houghton, F. Thompson (Capt.) I. Archibald, R. Labenski, H. Troger. The kick off is at 2:30 p. m.

WITH BOOTH IN LINEUP YALE RULES SLIGHT FAVORITE FOR TODAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Yale blue and Harvard crimson, clashing at Cambridge in their 48th game since 1875, will dominate the football picture in the east tomorrow.

The colorful background of 54-year-old rivalry, the glamorous presence of the sophomore spark plugs—Albie Booth of Yale and Barry Wood of Harvard—and the sheer might of two of the most powerful teams in the section make this the game of games. It will attract a capacity crowd of 58,000 to the Harvard stadium.

As though to lend dramatic effect to the struggle, such prominent elevens as Pittsburgh, Colgate, Pennsylvania, Cornell, Columbia, Syracuse, West Virginia, Washington and Jefferson, Carnegie Tech, Penn State, have ceased firing until Thanksgiving day.

With the big guns of these and others silent, the spotlight of principal public interest tomorrow will be shared by the Bucknell-Fordham battle at the Polo Grounds, a peculiarly promising tussle between two leathery elevens that have done big things this season; the 63rd renewal of the ancient rivalry between Lafayette and Lehigh at Bethlehem; the Army's intersectional duel with Ohio Wesleyan at West Point; the Navy's meeting with another of those hard-hitting Methodist elevens, West Virginia Wesleyan, at Annapolis; and the attempt of Rutgers at the Yankee stadium to improve upon its showings of recent years in its annual game with New York university.

Of these half dozen outstanding contests perhaps the hardest to dope are the Yale-Harvard, Bucknell-Fordham and Lafayette-Lehigh affairs.

Yale, on its record, has been made the favorite, but the Eli chances are believed to depend to a large extent upon the physical well being of Booth, the 144-pound quarterback who scored all of the Yale points to beat the Army. The Bulldog was able to trim Princeton without Booth, who was on the sidelines with a muscle injury, but Harvard is a different proposition.

Without any grounding in tradition, the Bucknell-Fordham encounter nevertheless promises to be one of the best of the day from a football standpoint. Fordham is unbeaten with only two ties to mar its record. A victory over Bucknell would mean an undefeated season, but in the fight of the Bisons' slashing win over Penn State last week Coach Frank Cavanaugh is far from confident.

Lafayette figures to win from Lehigh if you care for comparative scores, having beaten the Rutgers eleven that defeated Lehigh. But Lehigh, with a crack backfield, hopes to upset this line of reasoning and win for the first time in a decade.

The Army, Navy and New York university should win but not without knowing they have been in a battle. Brown may have a busy afternoon with one of the best New Hampshire teams in recent years.

Three intersectional games involving small schools represented by big teams promise plenty of fireworks. Villanova, having crushed Duke, is favored over North Carolina State at Philadelphia, but there is no way of getting a true line on the respective merits of Drake and Temple, which clash in the same city, or of Duquesne and the Haskell Indians, colliding at Pittsburgh.

Western Maryland, the little giant-killer that upset Georgetown and shares alone with Pittsburgh in the east the distinction of being unbeaten and untied, expects to make St. Francis its next victim at Altoona, Pa.

Well, today's the day when the Academy and Bulkeley get together down at New London to see which knows the most about football.

Oh yes, we'll go down and root for dear old N. F. A. Not that it will do much good, but because we couldn't rake up five bucks for a ducat to the Yale-Harvard game.

You know at those big games you pay five smackers for a seat over in East Boston somewhere while the game is being played in Cambridge. Unless the old lamps are pretty bright or you're endowed with second sight you don't know much what's going on.

But down at New London you'll at least see some kind of football and you won't have to pawn the family jewels to do it. And you can come home and get the old beans right off the fire rather than having to eat ham sandwiches at 35 cents per bite.

No, I ain't going to make any predictions as to the outcome of this Academy-Bulkeley game. Neither team has a startling record, Bulkeley having won no games while the Academy has won two this season, if that means anything.

But let me tell you something, folks: if the Bulkeley team can pass a football like the Bulkeley band can pass out music then the dear old N. F. A. ain't going to burn no bonfires tonight.

Went down to the Palace theatre to hear that band yesterday and believe me, folks, it was some band. I've heard college bands that couldn't come anywhere near that band when it comes to music.

But ain't some people dumb. A coupla janes was sitting in front of me when the band played the Academy Alma Mater. One jane says to the other, "What song they playing now?"

"The Alma Mater," says the girl. "Oh, yes," says the dumb one, "that was the theme song in Alma, Where Art Thou? wasn't it?" "Why is everyone standing up?" she asks a minute later. "Oh, because they play Alma Mater in the seventh inning of a football game and everybody wants to stretch for good luck," informs the other dumb Dora.

And speaking of standing up when they play the Alma Mater, that's something that kinda puts me in a quandry, whatever that is. You know I was one of them students that had a star after her name when them sheep-snins was passed around.

When you saw the star after a student's name you looked down to the bottom of the program of graduation exercises and you saw it meant "special." I guess the printer left out the word "thick" after that "special."

But as I was saying, when they play that Alma Mater I don't know whether to stand up or remain sitting, seeing as how I didn't really graduate. But yesterday I think I solved the problem—I kneeled. Which was neither sitting nor standing.

Well, Academy, let's go get 'em today. As Mr. Hamilton said when he introduced the Bulkeley band, "We hope you beat 'em 81 to 0."

ACADEMY FOOTBALL SQUAD INVITED TO PALACE THEATRE

The members of the Academy football squad are invited to be the guests of Manager R. B. Hamilton at Monday night's performance of "Forward Pass." The picture is typical of life in a large university to which many of the Academy students will go after graduation from the Academy. There is, of course, a college romance running through the picture but the most interesting scenes are those of the football game and the life of the college football player. A real football game is shown on the screen with close-ups that give one a better view of the game than if one was actually in the stadium. The scenes are all taken in and around Stanford university and the game is played in the famous Rose Bowl. The pictures of the cheering sections and the huge crowds with the real football atmosphere are exceptionally fine.

DIAZ REFUSES TO BOX KOZIOL AT NEW BEDFORD

Al Koziol, Norwich Cyclone, through his knockout of Johnny Mack of New Haven last week, must have thrown a severe scare into the hearts of other lightweights in New England, for Johnny Diaz whom he was supposed to have boxed at New Bedford Monday night has run out of his bout. Koziol is now without an opponent. Endeavors were made to shift Young Lefty (Young Sousa) to a bout with Koziol but Lefty objected saying he was satisfied the way he had been matched. It seems that Koziol is having a hard time getting opponents since his win over Mack.

DANCE AFTER THE BULKELEY-ACADEMY GAME

The New London Boys' club is sponsoring a dance in the Garde balroom at New London in honor of the Bulkeley and Academy football teams after this afternoon's game. Last week the Boys' club was host to the Chapman Tech-Bulkeley teams at a similar affair.

Piquette Outpoints Pena

BRIDGEPORT, Nov. 22—(AP)—Lou Piquette, 120, of Bridgeport, outpointed Johnny Pena, 120, of New York, in the feature ten-round match of the Puritan A. A. boxing program here tonight. Piquette, after a slow start slugged his way to victory.

Ed Keeley, 205, of Bridgeport, knocked out Ray Kennedy, 195 of New York, in the first round of the semi-final. Georgie Paulin, 112, of Bridgeport, won in six rounds from Tommy Abobo, 112, of New York. Dominick Felice, 146, of Mamaroneck, N. Y., knocked out Paul Kyvie, 150, in the third round. Eddie Conley, 140, Danbury, outpointed Manuel Canto, 141, of Bridgeport, in the opening four rounder.

Y. M. C. A. QUINTET OPENS SEASON AGAINST NEW LONDON ALTEX FIVE

The basketball season will be with us tonight at the "Y" floor when Randy Whaples tosses up the ball between the opposing centers of the Altex Quintet of New London and the Norwich "Y" Five.

New London is coming up strong with a lineup composed of former

ENOCH ECCLESTON
Y. M. C. A. Guard

Chapman Tech players. In the forward berths will be Mortensen and Farnham two of the fastest men in the vicinity. Trude will be at center with Hewitt and Montgomery doing duty in the back court.

Norwich will have the fastest team ever seen on the Y floor this evening

AUBREY BROWN
Y. M. C. A. Forward

when it takes the court. Mgr. Leffingwell has signed "Mondi" Normandin, well known athlete and formerly of the Plainfield Pros, to team up with Brown at the forward positions. Capt. Harris will play the pivot position and Pingree and Eccleston of the Taftville Crescents will be assigned to take care of the New London forwards. Al Grebe, Ludlow and Leffingwell will be able to step in any moment when needed, and cause considerable trouble for the opposition.

Mgr. Leffingwell has already booked Stamford, Ansonia, Greenwich, Middletown, New Britain, Sub Base and New Haven to appear here this winter and is negotiating with the Heller Bros. for a game Thanksgiving night. No expense is being spared to give Norwich fans a good basketball team.

In the preliminary game at 8 p. m. the Gamma club will encounter the "Y" Emps. The Gamma club, last year's church league winners are out to give Coach Conklin's boys a setback as a starter.

DEVOS WINS EASILY FROM HARRY EBBETTS

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Rene DeVos, Belgian veteran, easily defeated Harry Ebbetts, sensational blonde youngster, in the feature ten round bout here tonight. The match was scheduled to produce the next challenger for Mickey Walker's middleweight title. DeVos weighed 160 3-4, Ebbetts 160.

For the first three minutes of the first round, Rene had a very troublesome time with the heavy clouting youngster. The tenth round was another desperate session, but in between, Rene of Belgium was the master. The decision in favor of DeVos was unanimous.

The bout had its biggest moments in the first round when Ebbetts, a smashing puncher with his right hand, nailed DeVos three times on the chin. Three times Rene was forced to blink and hustle away from there to keep erect.

Rene talked things over with his handlers before the second round opened and from then on held the upper hand.

Ebbetts, ace of young middle-middleweights, had a shade the better of the second as Rene laid back, learning a thing or two about fighting styles himself.

Black Bill, Cuban entry in the tournament organized to discover a new champion in the leaderless flyweight class, won a slow ten-round bout from Eugene Huat, French title-holder, in a match held after the feature bout. Black Bill must now defeat the winner of a Ruby Bradley-Midget Wolgast match to gain recognition of the New York state athletic commission of the new champion. Bill weighed 110 3-4, and Huat the same.

Joe Banovic, Binghamton, N. Y., light heavyweight, won the opening ten round bout from Joe Barlow, of Boston, on a foul in the seventh round. Banovic weighed 178 1-2, Barlow 177 1-2.

Waging his first war in America Riccardo Amis, Spanish light heavyweight, scored a technical knockout over Joe Judge, of Philadelphia, in the fifth round of a six round match. Amis bruised Judge badly and had him bleeding freely from cuts about the mouth when the referee halted the fray after 1:13 of the fifth.

Billy Bruns, Worcester, Mass. light-heavyweight, easily won the decision over Howard Bush, of Baltimore in the opening four rounder. Bruns weighed 170; Bush 165 1-2.

Billy Tirrell Gets Varsity Letter

W. H. (Billy) Tirrell of this city was among those of the Wesleyan varsity football team to be awarded the varsity letter. Tirrell played the backfield during the season and made a mighty fine job of it.

WOOD AND BOOTH SEEN AS STARS OF TODAY'S GAME

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Two sophomores, both outstanding quarterbacks, will command nation-wide attention here tomorrow, when Harvard and Yale come to grips for their 48th gridiron clash.

Barry Wood, playing his first year of varsity football, will carry most of the Crimson's chances of victory on his shoulders and the Blue's supporters have placed all of their hopes in one basket and given its custody to little Albie Booth, who has turned an almost certain Yale defeat into victory at least twice this season.

Booth appeared in good shape here this afternoon when the Yale squad held its final practice on the Crimson varsity's practice field. He was closely inspected by the observers and he cranced about for their benefit without showing any trace of his well advertised injury.

The Yale squad arrived here early this afternoon and despite the cold weather, went through a 45-minute workout session, Arnold Horween, the Harvard coach, thought the weather a bit too chilly for his charges and he excused them from all exercise.

Though Harvard appeared doomed to start its most important game as the underdog, Horween and his players appear to have plenty of confidence, which is not shared by those who waxer on football games.

The starting lineups, as announced by the rival coaches, follow:

Harvard.		Yale.
Douglas	L. E.	Hickok
Barrett	L. T.	Marting
Trainer	L. G.	Hare
B. Tinchnor	C.	Palmer
Talbot	R. G.	Greene
W. Tinchnor	R. T.	Vincent
O'Connell	R. E.	Barres
Wood	Q. B.	Booth
Putnam	L. H. B.	McLennnn
Devens	R. H. B.	Austen
Harper	F. B.	Ellis

Officials: Referee, Ed Thorpe, DeLa Salle; umpire, W. R. Crowley, Bowdoin; field judge, T. J. McCabe, Holy Cross; head linesman, A. W. Palmer, Colby.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL IS DYING OUT, SAYS FLETCHER

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 22.—(AP)—College football, hit recently by an exhaustive bulletin of the Carnegie foundation which accused it of a "spirit of professionalism" tonight faced another criticism in a statement by one of the greatest players of recent years, Coach Bob Fletcher of the Case School of Applied Science, that "only a few college players nowadays play the game because they like it."

Announcing his resignation as the Case coach today, to be effective after the Thanksgiving game with Western Reserve university, Fletcher declared that "inter-collegiate football is dying."

Football games will continue to draw big crowds for a few years but the game will not hold the public as it has in the past, Fletcher said.

The former star quarterback of the University of Illinois declared there was a "changed attitude" among college players of the last few years. "The youngsters of today care more for the social life at college."

With a few exceptions, Notre Dame outstanding, Fletcher said college teams lacked discipline. He cited the weak showing of Michigan early this season as an example and said the recent improvement of the Wolverines was accomplished only by discharging eight members of the team in order to have harmony on the squad.

Fletcher has been coach at Case since 1924. With several good seasons to his record, he faced even better prospects next year with almost an entire team of veterans. He said, however, his retirement from football would be permanent, and that he would associate himself in a business capacity with an Ohio oil company as soon as the present season ends.

ZUPPKE TAKES EXCEPTION TO FLETCHER'S STATEMENT

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Coach Robert C. (Fighting Bob) Zuppke of the University of Illinois football team, commenting tonight on the statement of Coach Robert Fletcher of Case School of Applied Science in Cleveland that "football is dying out as an intercollegiate sport," said:

"It seems that the cry 'football is dying' comes from colleges where the teams are losing. Nobody wants to pay to see a poor team so they stay away and coaches say the game is dying. They frequently say in the east that interest in the game is lagging but it is only because the western teams are getting the better of them."

Zuppke was coach at Illinois when Bob Fletcher was quarterback of the Illinois team. He said "some reporter probably caught Fletcher in a gloomy moment." He seemed surprised at Fletcher's statement that there is little discipline on college teams and that Notre Dame alone has true discipline.

"There is less discipline at Notre Dame than at many colleges," Zuppke said. "Nearly every team has good discipline. There has been no dissention on the Illinois squad even when the team lost although there was said to be trouble."

Maloney Beats Christner

BOSTON, Nov. 22—(AP)—Jimmy Maloney, Boston heavyweight, defeated K. O. Christner, of Akron, Ohio, by uncorking a furious closing drive here tonight in the Boston Garden's feature contest. Maloney was behind at the half way mark, but his solid body punches had the Ohio rubber worker in distress at the close. Maloney scaled at 196 and Christner was a pound heavier.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

The Cunning of Unc' Billy Possum

By Thornton W. Burgess.

It may be but the merest glance
That finds for you the needed chance.
—Unc' Billy Possum.

Farmer Brown's Boy had caught Unc' Billy Possum. Now that he had him, he was undecided what to do with him. Of course, you know just as well as I do that Farmer Brown's Boy had no intention of hurting Unc' Billy. He thinks too much of his little friends in feathers and fur to want to hurt them in the least. He is their friend, just as I hope that you will always be their friend.

"Well, Unc' Billy," said Farmer Brown's Boy, "you are pretty good. Yes, sir, you are pretty good. If I didn't know you of old, I would think that you actually are dead. I suspect Flip thinks you are. I know Bowser doesn't. You and Bowser have met before and Bowser isn't one to have the same trick played on him twice. You haven't fooled Bowser a bit. I wonder how long you will keep it up. If it were not that I have to go to feed the hens, I would sit right down here and watch. But the hens are hungry. So am I. So I think we'll take you along with us and try our little experiment by and by."

Carrying Unc' Billy Possum by the tail, Farmer Brown's Boy started back for the barn to get some grain for the hens. Bowser trotted at his heels and Flip danced and pranced and jumped about him barking, for he was very much excited. So it was that they reached the barn Farmer Brown's Boy looked around for a box into which to put Unc' Billy. A box was on top of a barrel. Farmer Brown's Boy laid Unc' Billy Possum on the head of another barrel standing alongside. Unc' Billy lay there perfectly limp. He certainly did look dead. Farmer Brown's Boy lifted the box down. As he did so, Unc' Billy seemed to just slip over back of the two barrels. Farmer Brown's Boy was so intent on his box that he didn't notice what Unc' Billy had done. When he turned to look for Unc' Billy he wasn't there.

Farmer Brown's Boy hastily looked around. Unc' Billy wasn't to be seen. Meanwhile Flip was barking excitedly and trying to force his way behind the two barrels. That told Farmer Brown's Boy what he wanted to know.

"So that's where you've gone!" he exclaimed. "Well, we'll soon get you out of there."

He took hold of one of the barrels and rolled it to one side. There was no Unc' Billy to be seen. But there was a hole in the floor. Farmer Brown's Boy remembered then that hole behind the two barrels had been there for some time. He had intended to fix it long ago. Unc' Billy Possum had just slipped through that hole and down under the barn. Farmer Brown's Boy ran out the backway and called Flip. There was an opening under the barn there. He sent Flip in to drive Unc' Billy Possum out. He could hear Flip barking excitedly underneath, but Unc' Billy didn't come out.

It was getting late and Farmer Brown's Boy had to go to feed the hens. Then he had to go in to breakfast. Flip was still under the barn, so Farmer Brown's Boy knew that Unc' Billy Possum was also still under the barn. When he came out after breakfast he could hear the muffled barking of Flip. If he could have seen underneath there, he would have discovered that Unc' Billy had climbed up on a beam, beyond the reach of Flip, and there was making himself very comfortable while he grinned down at Flip.

He had been very cunning. Yes, sir, he had been very cunning, had Unc' Billy Possum. He had watched for his chance and he had taken it. He wasn't out of his troubles yet, but he wasn't a prisoner, and that was something.

The next story: "Unc' Billy Has a Feast."

POETRY

The Cost of Living.

What is the cost of living?
The price of bread and a bone?
The thirst of the parched lips for drink
And the cry for food alone?
Masters of fact and figures,
Ye who have writ the scroll,
Count ye the cost as a huckster's charge
With never a thought of soul?

Ye with the bloodless story
Of figure and fact arrayed,
Heard ye no tale of the mother's pain
On the bed where the child is laid?
Ye tell of the cost of living—
Took ye no thought on it;
The anguished price that a mother pays
And the patience infinite?

What is the cost of living?
Saw ye no blind and lame?
Heard ye no cry of a soul's despair?
Saw ye no blush of shame?
Met ye no disappointed?
Dried ye no tearful eye,
That wept o'er the clay of an idol, dead,
Ere the sun was noonday high?

What is the cost of living?
Heard ye of men who died
High on a cross of shattered hopes
And longings unsatisfied?
Saw ye no slaves unwilling,
Heard ye no bitter cry
Of men accursed with the taint of sin,
Fearing to live or die?

What is the cost of living?
All of our toil and tears,
All of our doubts and sorrows,
All of our woes and fears.
Grim and with greed unceasing,
Life for his debt claims pay,
Never the sum decreasing,
Now, or ever, or aye.

—James Foley.

November.

Today November is a crone,
Wrinkled, loneless, drear,
Bent her back, blurred rheumy eyes,
Dropping tear on tear.

Yesterday a winsome lass,
Ready to beguile
Blushed she in a golden dress,
Softly sweet her smile.

Oft a wanton wild is she,
Torn her flimsy gown,
Calling to her lover, Wind,
Up the hill and down.

Once I met her, eyes downcast,
Nun-like, sober clad;
So she walked the whole day through
Calm, unsmiling sad.

One day wild, impetuous,
Next day meek and mild,
Kin to April in her moods,
Is this autumn child.

TWO BRAKES DEFECTIVE—DeSANTIS IS FINED $25

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 22.—Before Judge Oliver H. Williams Friday in the Third District court, John DeSantis, 78 Oak street, arrested by Officer Charles E. Button, pleaded guilty to the operation of an automobile not equipped with at least two powerful brakes. Prosecutor Ferguson told the court that Nov. 20th the defendant backed a Graham truck out of the Morrone garage into Main street as an automobile was proceeding up Main street in a northerly direction and in spite of the fact that the latter car swerved to the left the truck backed into it. In the test of brakes the northbound car was found to have proper brakes but on the truck, with the foot brakes at 20 miles per hour, it took 45 to 40 feet to stop the truck and with the emergency at the same rate, 100 feet. DeSantis was fined $25 and costs, which was paid.

Two Cars—One Set Of Plates

Percy E. Bilven, residing beyond Hope Valley in the town of Hopkinton, arrested by State Trooper John S. Edwards, Jr., of the Hope Valley, R. The accused claimed to have sold a car and then bought it back and in stretching the time to avoid payment for new registration had operated two cars on one set of plates. He was fined $5 and costs.

Fined $50 For Speeding

Leon Eugene McLaughlin, contractor, of New London, was brought before the court by Trooper Edwards, who testified that on the Nooseneck Hill road Nov. 20th, the accused had travelled to the Wyoming blinker light at a speed of between 65 and 72 miles without slackening speed. Defendant said he had driven fifteen years for 30,000 miles, this was his first arrest and he had never been in an accident. He said the Hope Valley road was the safest in New England and he did not consider that he had endangered lives. He was fined $50 and costs.

Peckham Appeals From Fine

Charles F. Peckham, charged with failure to return to the site of an automobile accident on the Klondike road, out of Bradford Thursday noon, at first entered a plea of not guilty but later changed it to guilty. Prosecutor Ferguson informed the court that Blanche Morgan, 10, was struck and knocked down as she attempted to leave the auto operated by her grandfather and in which was her father, as she and two other children were returning from school. The defendant was observed to proceed 50 or 60 feet, get out and look back and then continue. Some 30 minutes afterward after the accused had gone a mile and a half, he returned to the location of the accident where he was met by Officer Robert M. Kessel, who was sent to investigate and who issued the court summons. The accused said he had nothing to say in court as notice was given of an appeal after Judge Williams had imposed a fine of $100 and costs. Hattie E. Green and Ernest Green became surety in the sum of $500 bonds, when it was stated that aid was to be sought from the N. A. C.

Lunburg Injured Two

Gottlieb E. Lunburg, 16, of East Greenwich, pilot at the Charlestown aviation field, was taken into custody Thursday night by Westerly police on a charge of drunken driving, following injuries inflicted by the auto driven by the defendant upon George Quattromania and Mrs. George P. Clark of Shannock, R. I. Lunburg pleaded guilty. His case was continued one week for sentence and bond was set at $3,000 for which Alanson B. Colvin, of Charlestown, R. I., became surety. The case was continued to November 19th.

Judge Williams inquired as to Quattromania's condition at the Westerly hospital where he was taken following his being struck, and the state attorney declared that the injured man had regained consciousness. The doctor in attendance had informed him that fatal injuries in all probability had not been sustained and the x-ray taken would probably develop no complications.

New writ entered before the calling of the docket—Standard Oil Co. of New York vs. Frederick R. Savage. Continued two weeks. Civil docket—Morris Plan bank of R. I. vs. John Cusick. Continued nisi. McCaskey Register Co. vs. Economy Garage. Continued nisi. Alfred Homan vs. Francis J. Cypher. Utilities Co. vs. Harry Peckham and Utilities Co. vs. A. L. Panciera, each continued two weeks. A. M. Gencarelli Co. vs. Frank Cella. Continued one week.

Judgments—Jerry Dotolo vs. George L. Edwards. Plaintiff testified that actual damages to auto amounted to $90.33 and that three weeks' use of car was lost. Judge Williams had the case marked defaulted and judgment entered.

Howard M. Wright, of Pawtucket, R. I. vs. Edith Mazota, of East Weymouth, Mass. In this suit for damages to auto sustained in a collision at Ashaway, R. I., in which suit was brought for $500, the case was marked defaulte dand passed for proof of claim.

NEIGHBOR'S DOG GIVES ALARM FOR FIRE ON AYERS' FARM

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 22.— Fire Chief George E. Egger received a telephone call Friday at about 1:30 a. m. to visit District No. 6, outside Westerly fire district and fight a fire on the Hobart B. Ayers farm. The place is on the cross-road from Dunn's Corners to Bradford and is occupied by Ichabod E. Burdick. Chief Egger had a sufficient number of firemen summoned by telephone to man the Ahrens-Fox motor pumper which was soon on its way to fight the fire which threatened the farmhouse and barns, with other buildings. The first move of the fire-fighters was to approach the building surrounding the burning garage and toolhouse in which there were two automobiles from which the fire is thought to have had its origin. They emptied the contents of the booster tank to prevent these buildings from becoming ignited by the intense heat. Attention was attracted at first to the burning garage by the barking of a neighbor's dog and the Burdick household and neighbors were aroused to fight the fire with water taken from a well, until the arrival of the Westerly firemen. With the water exhausted from its tank, the motor pumper was located by a pond of brook water and 800 feet of hose was laid for two lines of hose to work from in preventing the spread of the flames to the barn from which the live stock had been let out and the farmhouse. The fighters were successful in preventing a spread of the blaze which destroyed only a corn crib. Non-combustible shingles were of great assistance to the firemen in their fight. The place is known as Cedar Brook farm and the timely warning of a neighbor, Miss Jennie Opie, alarmed the Burdick household of the fire.

Besides Chief Egger, Assistant Engineer Columbus Pasetti, Charles Raithel, driver, and Daniel McGouran, were the firemen responding. Mr. Burdick carried fire insurance on his automobile, but did not know about the buildings or the other car. It was impossible to give an estimate of the loss. Mr. Burdick was enthusiastic in his praise of the Westerly fire department and the manner in which Chief Egger handled the situation. It was the coldest night of the year, the mercury being below the freezing point, which increased the difficulty of the work and added to the hardship of the firemen. This was lessened, however, by hot coffee and lunch provided by Mrs. Burdick.

CLARK BROTHERS KILLED WHILE CLEANING CHIMNEY

A telegram was received Friday morning by Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown from Chief of Police John O'Brien of Brooklyn, N. Y. asking the Westerly police to look up the relatives of Alton L. Clark, 22, son of Harriet L. Clark, formerly residing at 3 Park avenue, Westerly. Clark was reported as found dead by Brooklyn police at the foot of stairs on South 3rd street, Brooklyn, N. Y. Chief Brown and Town Solicitor Ferguson communicated with the Brooklyn authorities and learned that Clark had met death when he fell from a chimney. Chief Brown detailed Officer Charles Button to get in communication with Mrs. Harriet Clark, mother of Alton L. Clark. It was learned that Clark and two other men, one said to be his brother, William Clark, of North Arlington, N. J., were at work cleaning the inside of a chimney when they fell 75 feet to the building below. Both Alton and his brother were killed instantly. They were the sons of Charles and Harriet L. Clark, Alton having lived for two years with his parents at 3 Park avenue. The family moved from Westerly to Arcadia last spring. While in Westerly Alton was employed as an apprentice by Fred W. Harvey, local plumber. Besides the father and mother there are four brothers: Milton, Raymond, Harold and Gurdon and two sisters, Miss Una Clark and Mrs. Sidney Fiddes, of Providence.

Mrs. William Swainson substituted at the Goodyear school Thursday for Miss Ella Day, who was ill.

Mrs. Hopkins and daughter Gladys, were in town Thursday.

MOOSUP

The Sunday evening public services at the Methodist Episcopal church of Moosup are growing in interest and congregations, owing to the special programs being presented by the pastor. Sunday evening next, Dr. A. Elwyn Tingley will answer the following questions: "Are the cures reported at the grave of the Rev. Father Power in Malden Massachusetts, genuine?" "Why the marked lack of reverence in our churches today?" "Why are there so many bootleggers unblushingly plying their nefarious calling in our towns and cities?" "Should a minister engage in sports and amusements?" "Should politics be discussed in the pulpit?" "Does Sunday baseball or Sunday movies contribute toward the best interests of the community?" "Have we too many churches, and, if so, why?"

There will also be a brief story-sermon by the pastor, based on the recent book by A. Hamilton Gibbs, "Harness, or The Tie that Binds."

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY

Armistice and Thanksgiving Day.

When the flags snapped out like a great glad shout
When peace came in and war went out
What a lot we had to be thankful for then
When our streets rang loud with our marching men
When the guns ceased growling and the ships turned prow
Toward home with the laurels on our soldier boys brow
How we shouted and hurrahed; how our hats flew high
When our brave soldier boys came marching by
How we wept for the maimed and cheered for them all
How we grieved for the dead and prayed for their soul,
How our hearts gushed free with warm thanks then
To our brave soldier boys who became fighting men
And what a Thanksgiving when the days rolled around
How we cooked and we baked with a joy profound
That a cruel war was over and a victory had been won
And the boys could come home with their job all done
And how it all happened in a wonderful way
This Thanksgiving so close to Armistice day
And what a lucky thing, we gladly cried then
With our big double reason for Thanksgiving when They'll stand forever close in this very same way
Our Thanksgiving morning and Armistice day.

The years have gone by, its November once more
And these two great days are as close as before
And we'll cook and bake and we'll boil and brew
As we pour out the Thanksgiving for our blessings two
Of course we'll remember, how can we forget
Our big added reason and yet and yet
It was only last winter, in the shelter of a wall
In a bleak November, there stood a soldier tall
And he wasn't young at all, in that glad way
That he'd been young once on an Armistice day
And all day long in a deep haunting cry
He tried to sell poppies, that few seemed to buy
He and needy comrades in a cold bitter day
Offering us remembrance, yet many turned away.

Oh it matters not how long or how very hard we pray
And praise the Lord on Thanksgiving day
We will never be thankful, our as thankful as we should Unless we've remembered and plainly understood
That Armistice day with its bittersweet joy
Belongs to our gratitude as do these dear boys
Who had given up so much that they all might be
And now they are selling poppies that so many fail to see
So when we pile our tables with good material things
Let's remember always, always that these may take wings
And when we fill our hearts with Thanksgiving cheer
Let's be sure we are not forgetting as we did last year
Let's be sure we all remember and especially when we pray
What a lot of Thanksgiving goes to Armistice day.

Thanksgiving

To the Giver of all blessings,
Let our voices raise in praise,
For the love and countless mercies
He hath sent to crown our days;
For the homes of peace and plenty,
And a lamb so fair and wide,
For the labor of the noonday,
And the rest of eventide.

For the wealth of golden harvests,
For the sunlight and the rain,
For the grandeur of the ocean,
For the mountain and the plain;
For the ever-changing seasons
And the comforts which they bring,
We would thank Thee, our King.

CHATTY LETTER FROM AUNT JERUSHA.

Dear Social Corner Editor and Friends: It has been some time since I sent a line to the Circle, and as I see there is lots of space left will see if I can write anything to interest anyone.

First I want to tell Green Hollow she has not been to school in Brunswick district for more than 30 years as I moved here in this district 30 years ago next March and there has been no school since I came and I think it was two years before that that school was consolidated with the village school so she must forgot, time slips away fast. But we had nieces and nephews that went to school to the village after consolidation and their father drove the Pudding hill team. Now why didn't you call when you were riding through the district as I live not far from where the old schoolhouse stood and if you came round by or through the village up through Brunswick you came right by my gate. Better take Aries in and come up and call and talk it over. Would be glad to see some of the sisters and will make a cup of tea as my tea kettle is usually "biling". Many laugh at me when they come in to hear it "bile" but it is company and to hear a tea kettle singing sounds homey and warm and steam is good for the health in the room. But water is not to be wasted as my well in the house has been dry for six weeks sure, so have to go out in our lot quite a step. Mister puts a barrel on the drag and takes the horse and draws it up to the door after he fills the barrel from the well that lasts about three days for all purposes but cooking and my tea kettle, which he brings by the pail full. It is some work but am very thankful to have this well which has never failed us in the 30 years I've been here. Never gets lower than about a foot, but in the house the well has been dry a number of times.

It has been a very dry time and lots of folks are short of water. The old saying is "fire and water are very good servants but hard masters."

Dear Aries: Received your nice letter and will try and write before it is too long. Am very sorry for Adam and you too and hope he will get settled soon. I dread the winter although I don't know as I would care to leave my home. No, I don't do fancy work, never did any such kind of thing, am good for nothing at any kind of work short of kitchen such as playing tunes on washboard and waving the dishcloth. My sewing used to bear examination but not now. I used to knit stockings, but no more for me. I have cut and made over more than two bushels of stockings for my children but they were better quality stockings than you get nowadays.

Well, I believe it is raining a little and hope it will rain so as to reach the wells.

Am sorry to see so many sisters passing away I miss their letters as I always read the page if I don't attend the gatherings which I should try to do if I could reach them more easily. I don't go out anywhere much and have not been to see my daughter since last March, and she is only about 9 1-2 miles away.

Now I guess I must stop or I'll have more than my share of room and that would not do. With sympathy and best wishes to all sick and shut-ins, I remain the same old AUNT JERUSHA

MY TRIP TO WEST UPTON

Dear Social Friends and Editor: It is beautiful sunshine after the much needed rain. Now I am going to try and tell you about my trip to West Upton.

I have been invited many times to visit a friend and old school-mate who had made her home in West Upton many years. We (my daughter and husband and myself) planned to make the trip Nov. 17th. The weather was rather doubtful the first part of the day, showing clouds and bits of sunshine once in a while.

However, we started out about 10 o'clock. I do not know how many miles we went before reaching Douglass woods, a place I had always wanted to see. I expected a long, dark, gloomy stretch of woods, but instead found it had been trimmed and cared for—and the road was in fairly good condition—nothing at all gloomy about it. I love the woods and nature. We could see pines, laurel and ferns. It must be a lovely drive when the laurel is in full bloom.

Not being familiar with the roads we went over it twice, which made our trip longer. Finally we found it at last after having gone 54 miles. My friend was looking for us and delighted when we arrived, about noon. She had a warm cozy house in several rooms.

She is 88 years old and has a neice and husband living in the house with her. We had many nice things to look at and found they had been busy like the rest of us preparing for a church sale and doing 101 other things this busy time of the year. We stayed about two hours and soon were on our way back home. It began to rain a little when we got into Rhode Island, but we got home safely. We planned to make this trip in October but business prevented. We rode 93 miles in all, and were delighted with our journey. I am afraid my letter is too long, or beyond the limit, so I will sign off with all good wishes for everybody and a bountiful Thanksgiving to all.

ANN TENNA (Club 4)

TEN DAYS ON THE CAPE.

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: I am sorry that I took another's name, so I will try again. I enjoy reading the letters and especially on travel.

I have taken several trips this summer and the one I enjoyed the most was a camping trip down on Cape Cod of ten days.

We camped in a locust grove with a wayside stand in front of use. From the time we landed with our trailer till our tent was up and supper started, was just eight minutes. We have a very fine equipment for traveling and camping.

I don't think there were many beauty spots on the cape that we did not find. Provincetown is a wonderful place, many of the streets are very narrow some almost as narrow as cow paths. We saw many artists with their painting kits and beautiful paintings.

Close to our camping place was the road side stand where we could get anything from a bar of soap which is very essential while traveling, to the richest Jersey cow's milk. We had every thing very convenient.

And what delicious coffee we did serve at our table for we had a real table with four legs and chairs with backs, to sit on. We had fine weather all the time, not a drop of rain. After staying there for ten days it was with regret that we folded our tent and started for home, to again take up the work where we left off. I will try the name ROSALYN

THANKSGIVING.

Dear Social Corner Friends: I wonder what each one is most thankful for this year.

But I think we can always be thankful for improvement in living conditions, that we have better and more advanced ideas and understanding of everything that belongs to human welfare.

Such a wonderful age that we have been privileged to live in. I fancy no age has held so much to be interested in; for we have seen the discovery and invention of almost everything we now use and enjoy.

The surprise and excitement as each new invention was announced has been more thrilling it seems than anything that future years can present.

Thanksgiving dinners and planning of the Christmas gifts are probably absorbing everyone's attention just now perhaps more than any more important subject.

As the number in our family for the holiday weeks is very changeable and uncertain, we just adopt the old fashioned plan of housekeeping for these times and just cook up a whole lot of all kinds of good foods; and then we can all enjoy some leisure together without too much kitchen work for anyone. A favorite menu of the family is:

Scalloped oysters, roast pork and chicken, mashed potato and turnip, brown bread, boiled buttered onions, cabbage salad, cranberry sauce, pumpkin, mince and apple pie, cocoanut and chocolate cake, nuts and grapes.

MARJORY.

WRITES CORNER ON BIRTHDAY.

Dear Social Corner Editor: What a beautiful day today, and as it is my birthday I am making quite an effort to write a letter for the Corner page. I am 61 years old and one pleasant thing about it is I won't have to pay any more poll tax, not but what I was willing to to have the vote, as I think the vote was worth it.

I want to tell you all of the nice time Club No. 4 had at South Killingly, Nov. 7. The people there have a fine community house in an ideal place for our time, inside and out. The view is wonderful from the hill top and I could look and enjoy it very much. I met a number of my old friends, but I regretted not seeing Twice Twenty and hope her health will be better so we can see her at Plainfield Dec. 5 and all the others we love to meet. I enjoyed the time at South Killingly as that is one of my old home churches. There I sang in the choir nearly 40 years ago when Rev. William Bard was pastor. It was a pleasure to meet Rev and Mrs. Coolidge, the present pastor and his wife. I shall never forget the little white church on the hill top, as it brings back many pleasant memories.

Aries: Would like to remind you that if you come to Plainfield, Dec. 5, please bring the songbooks that we have used at our times and if you can't come please send the books anyway. Hope you will be there.

I thought I was at a funeral some of the time and I did not feel natural at all. I felt more like singing "Jingle Bells" and whistling for all I was worth. I won't say anything about my feet. Will leave that part for you to guess.

Buz: Was pleased to see you as you were quite a stranger.

Moses' wife and her helpers: I want to thank you all for the nice dinner and so nicely served. It certainly did taste good. I only was sorry I couldn't eat more, then I thought of Luticia and indigestion and I tried to be thankful that I didn't. I hope all of you will plan to go to Plainfield and we will no doubt have a nice time.

I wish to express my sympathy to all those that are ill or in any trouble. I read years ago there are only two kinds, one you can help and one you cannot so try and not worry over that you can't help. Best wishes to all. 1926.

COUNTING OUR BLESSINGS

Dear Social Corner Readers: I was "among those present" at the meeting of Club No. 2 at the B. M. last week Tuesday and had a fine visit there. Everyone looked happy and interested. We were served a most appetizing dinner and there was an abundance of good things. At each plate was an attractive Thanksgiving card. I find a Social Corner gathering is something long to be remembered. I was obliged to leave early for shopping and a visit to a shut-in. I was glad to note the tribute in Saturday's paper to Elator Lavendar whose passing brought sorrow to many. I regret more than before that it was not my privilege to attend her birthday party a few months ago.

I have enjoyed the letters about humming bird nests as I have often wondered what their nests were like.

Although our page was not filled last week there were some letters that are very helpful and worthwhile. There seems to be space for all to write who will whether briefly or at greater length. Nearly everyone has something to pass on in some line if only a word of cheer or appreciation of some helpful letter or poem.

This is the season when we are wont to think over the blessings the year has brought us. Few of us there are that cannot call to mind a goodly list of these. All too often we are not appreciative of the common blessings that we take for granted and seldom think of at all until we lose them. Preparations will now be in order for the many family gatherings which bring so much cheer and happiness. It is well to remember that luxury is not essential to real Thanksgiving joy. It is the truly thankful spirit that will make Nov. 28 a happy day, not a super-abundance of food. Passing on a bit of cheer to help some one less fortunate will help to make our cup of happiness full. All of us are thankful for the Corner and all it means to so many. As one of the earlier writers I extend a cordial welcome to all new members. I find an inspiration in these lines:

"Be strong.
We are not here to play, to dream, to drift;
We have hard work to do and loads to lift.
Shun not the struggle—face it:
'Tis God's gift." EVELINE BURR.

FINE TIME AT CLUB 6'S MEETING

Dear Social Corner Members: Club 6 had a very pleasant time today at their meeting in Westerly. Maybug made a splendid hostess and no one would have known but what it was her every day job instead of her first attempt. There was an abundance of excellent food. Club 6 is surely made up of good cooks who are willing to cook for the dinners. Bonny Belle had charge of the program which consisted of readings, jokes and stunts. It was voted to give $10 to the Red Cross and $5 to the Peoples' Mission; also to buy things needed in the kitchen to help in getting the dinners. We were glad to have members of Club 2 with us.

Estelle: We missed you.

Powaget: Just learned today that you were in the hospital, and hope you are soon back home much improved in health.

Many of you will remember the good time we all had at Powaget's cottage at Quonochontaug two years ago. Her address is Mrs. Mabel Pickup, Westerly hospital, Westerly, R. I.

Ann Tenna: I certainly agree with you about the decorations in Danielson for Armistice day. I was through there the day before on my way to Putnam so had a chance to see them. We then went to Providence and back home through Hope Valley so had a nice trip.

Sumac: You are not the only one who has to make inexpensive gifts. There are many of us in the same boat. I agree with you that the members of Club 6 better get busy and write some letters for the Corner page Fyrethreum: Was so hoping you would meet with us today. Do come out next month. We miss you.

Rosalind: I know that fried pies are delicious. My mother used to make them. I often think I will make some and then never get to it.

B. Natural: Am so sorry you are having such a hard time.

Here is a cake recipe I like:

Sift 1 cup of sugar, 1 1-2 cup of flour, 1 teaspoon of baking powder and a little salt into the mixing bowl. Add 1-2 cup of milk, 1-2 cup of butter and 2 eggs. Beat well, add 1 teaspoon of flavoring. Bake in two layers.

Winter Robin: If it's not a secret give us the recipe of the cake you brought today. It was fine. E. L. M.

APPRECIATES COOPERATION

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I wish to thank you all who so kindly helped with the dinner at the Buckingham Memorial, Tuesday. It was a lovely day, a jolly gathering and a bountiful dinner. I also thank those who sent me gifts and cards for my birthday. Allow me to express my thoughts in this poem:

"These are the things I prize
And hold of deepest worth:
Light of the sapphire skies,
Peace of the silent hills,
And after showers
The smell of flowers,
And of the good brown earth
And best of all, along the way
Friendship and mirth."

Sympathy to those in sorrow, sunshine to those shut in and best wishes to all. TRUE BLUE

HELP WANTED IN MAKING PAPER PULP.

Dear Editor: Here We are breaking into print again for the good of the Corner page. The letters lately have been very interesting and we hope all will write often, both long and short letters just make the effort knowing your contribution is going to help some one else, or is going to bring entertainment to some shut-in or lonely person. Sumac's letter described just the things I wanted to write about but could not get up steam enough to compose. Gack's letter was fine. Come again.

Kochia's remarks about the Salvation Army are true. I have heard more than one soldier say he had to pay high prices for anything he ever got from the other organizations at the front.

We like to read of the habits of birds and flowers, also like the "smiles."

Glad to see Ann Tenna is near us again and that Nonesopretty has not forgotten the Corner page. Yes, Adam, has started for Yucatan to see the wonderful old city they are uncovering, the buildings of which are covered with hand carving reckoned to be—well, very old—thousands of years perhaps.

I have always had difficulty in keeping dahlia bulbs through the winter. The other day I saw how a lady keeps her roots so I pass it on to you. Obtain some metal cans or containers. Cut the dahlia stems about half an inch above ground level. Dip the ends in air-soaked lime to control mould and crown rot; fill the cans with roots and then dust sulpher into the can to control mildew. Store in a temperature of 48 degrees.

Will some one tell me the method used in converting newspapers into pulp in the home, out of which statues, lamps, vases, etc., can be made? One friend suggests that one might chew the papers up instead of chewing the rags; while another friend suggests putting the papers through the meat chopper, and still another suggests putting papers in the churn with sour milk. Please tell me some other methods.

I have before me a picture from a daily, showing wonderful articles made from common news-paper pulp. It is used the modeling clay but no directions are given.

Where is Bella D?. Here is an "epitaffy" for your collection.

"Gaze on this grave, next week it may be you
Of one who thought a bonded label true.
Behold the widow weep, her bosom rent
That thus ends many a noble (?) experiment!

D. Dalmar.

This is for the newly weds:

"Mary made a little cake
To please her husband's palate
Hubby put it on a stick
And used it for a mallet."

This is for all and sundry:

"Don't explode your lamp of reason
All in one great blinding flash;
Candles in and out of season,
Beat sky-rockets all to smash.

Thank you for your yellow slip in September. ARIES

WORKING ON CHRISTMAS GIFTS.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I agree with Rosalind that our page is looking slim so I guess it is about time I added my bit for I haven't written since July. I was very glad I was able to meet with Club No. 6, Tuesday when I saw so many friends to chat with. May Bug, the hostess, was a girl chum of mine when our parents lived in a two tenement house on the post road over 50 years ago. The dinner was all one could wish for and the programme was very amusing and caused much laughter.

Yes, I remember the fried apple pies when I was a child. Haven't seen any for many years.

Oriole, Miss New Jersey and N. S. sisters: We missed you at our corner Tuesday. Perhaps you will be able to attend our next meeting.

I am busy making little gifts for Christmas. One is a pin ball. I cut 23 pointed pieces of not too stiff card board, cover with silk pieces, sew on back side and fill with woolen pieces cut fine and pressed in hard. Sew up and finish with any color ribbon to hang it up by and both plain and fancy headed pins. When finished they are very pretty and useful gifts.

What a beautiful rain we had Monday. My well at the farm has been dry since mowing. We can only draw half a pail of water but hope that more will follow. There is an old saying that winter never will set in until the ponds and brooks are full.

For several weeks I have been taking electric treatments in town and shall continue to take them for some time.

Now people are planning for Thanksgiving and I am planning to meet my children and grandchildren at the old homestead over the week end and may each and every one of us be thankful for our blessings, is the wish of STRANGER IN THE CITY.

A VISIT TO FATHER POWER'S

Dear Social Corner Editor and Friends: You like the rest of us have read in the papers of late of the miraculous cures made at the grave of the priest that died over 63 years ago.

A party of six of us started Wednesday morning at 7 a. m. for Malden, Mass. It was a beautiful springlike morning and the journey was most enjoyable. The writer believed that such cures were possible, but some of our party did not believe. We arrived in Malden about 1.30 and soon found Holy Cross cemetery. There outside of the cemetery were long lines of autos parked on either side of the street and up the side streets. In the cemetery were two long lines moving inch by inch; one leading to the grave and the other to the chapel. As it would take all day to get to either place, we took a round about path and got within ten feet of the grave on the other side of the fence that was erected to keep people from reaching the grave except by the line of two abreast. I had a clear view of the greatest collection of human wrecks I have ever seen assembled together, they knelt, made the sign of the cross, kissed the slab or deposited money, rosary beads or images of the master or the virgin Mary. There was a pile of rosary beads 18 inches high on the grave. As soon as the pilgrims knelt and placed their gifts on the grave two policemen raised them up and told them to go and say their prayers in the chapel. A man, evidently the sexton or an employe of the cemetery would go to a pile of dirt near the grave and cover the grave with it. In a few minutes this earth was gathered up by the pilgrims and put into bags or handkerchiefs to carry home. One woman led a four year old child to the grave. The child fell down on its face and kissed the grave after which the mother gathered up a handful of earth from off the grave and put it into the child's mouth. A mounted policeman kept moving among the crowd commanding the people to keep off the other graves. The approaches to the priest's grave are being ruined by the ceaseless trampling of thousands of feet. Other graves and yards are being trampled into mud. The grass is completely trampled out and it will be necessary to put a restriction on those that go there in order to save other graves, the owners of which I should have thought would have put a stop to this disregard of others. The line to the chapel was as long as the other line, so we could not visit it as our party wished to do. On our way back we stopped at Ford's Wayside Inn in Sudbury and saw a most wonderful display of antiques in a house 245 years old. Every room is furnished the way it was in 1700 when it was called the Red Horse Inn. The wall paper on Lafayette's room is the original paper. In the parlour is where Henry W. Longfellow wrote his Tales of a Wayside Inn and everything he speaks of is right there. It is still an inn where guests are accommodated on the third floor. The kitchen was a wonderful place with its wooden dishes and iron utensils. In the dining room were the pewter dishes. It made my Dr. A. R. blood tingle with the spirit of the Revolution. Outside the yard and on the road was a slab on which was inscribed "Here is where Washington passed by on his way to Cambridge to take command of the troops.

L. T. H.: Very busy these days. Hope you are on the gain. Went to Newport three times last summer and look forward to the next.

Violet: Have not had time of late to ring up. Have been away from home so much. Hope all is well with you.

NIGHTHAWKS.

Dear Editor and Corner Friends: Several summers ago, while staying for a time in a good sized city I heard the note of nighthawks every evening about sunset. At first I could hardly believe my ears it sounded so strange in a place where pigeons, English sparrows (correctly termed house sparrows), starlings and an occasional robin seemed the only bird residents. Nighthawks are seen but seldom near our home in the country, why should I hear them so much in the city? But an article in a recent Saturday Post entitled "City Birds," explained the mystery to me.

It seems that the nighthawk, which by the way is not a hawk at all but a cousin of the whippoorwill, lays its eggs in places exposed to the sun such as rock surfaces or bare spaces of ground in meadows, etc. Now it has discovered that the flat pebbled roofs of city buildings is a splendid substitute and in the main safe from its chief enemies, marauding cats and blue jays. The whippoorwill also lays its two eggs very carelessly as it seems to be in some little depression or hollow, scarcely a nest at all but I do not think it has taken to city ways as yet.

Another bird mentioned in the article was the duck hawk. An individual has established itself on Wall street and makes an easy living catching pigeons.

I remember seeing one of these pigeon hawks, we used to call them after one of our own birds. There was something terribly business like and relentless as he pursued his terrified prey. The duck hawk is one of the swiftest fliers and the pigeon well knew that only a miracle of good luck could save him. Flying faster than any good pigeon normally flies and with his pursuer almost upon him he espied a small opening in the barn and dashed to safety. This hawk always captures his prey on the wing for that is the only way he knows how to hunt.

I wonder how plentiful the purple martins are nowadays? We have none about our homes but there are many swallows and chimney swifts. The latter are never seen to light except in hollow trees, chimneys, etc., for their feet are useless for perching like other birds but instead are used to cling to surfaces.

I wish some of our members could write us about the nests and habits of native shore birds.

Long ago I read a story about a pair of kingfishers and wished that I might see one of their nests but never had the opportunity to gratify my curiosity. BO PEEP.

TRIBUTE TO LAVENDER.

Dear Social Corner Friends: Another dear member has gone to her reward—Lavendar—Mrs. Louisa Olin. We all remember her smiling face as she sat in the lovely lavender chair—that her son, Walter, painted for the day—in the dining-hall on the Willimantic camp ground, Sept. 12, last. Mrs. Olin was a wonderful woman. I have known her for a number of years and I have always found her the same. She was very proud of her home and children, always thinking of their comfort. She enjoyed the Social Corner gatherings and attended all that her health allowed. If one knew her it was to love her. She certainly will be missed. The floral tributes were beyond description. They were very beautiful and many. I will close with a verse that I think fits her case:

"Unanswered yet? Faith cannot be unanswered:
Her feet are firmly planted on the Rock;
Amid the wildest storms she stands undaunted,
Nor quails before the loudest thunder shocks.
She knows Omnipotence has heard her prayer,
And cries, "It shall be done," sometime, somewhere."

SHORTAGE OF LETTERS.

Dear Social Corner Folks: We must get busy and send more letters. The page looks small some weeks. I attended the last meeting of No. 4 and had a very nice time; wish I could go more often. Today I found an old Bulletin with the Corner page, dated April 21, 1923, and there was the same complaint that we are having lately—shortage of letters.

I was interested in the letter from Free Air, entitled Bad Signs, and had a good laugh over it, it is worth reading. Balsam Fir also had a good letter in the same paper. I think she must be something like myself, busy most of the time making something out of next to nothing.

I have just finished a rug, started another and have a quilt partly done. If nothing happens will get them done before Christmas.

Scottie: I came near calling on you two weeks ago Monday. It was commencing to rain so I hurried along. Hope you are well and that we meet at the anniversary meeting in Norwich.

We have all had a lovely mild fall and are thankful for the nice rain; we surely need it. Best wishes to all.

AUNTY JANE, (Club No. 4)

WHAT ARE WE COMING TO!

Dear Editor and Social Corner Family: Some have been wondering where I am, so will say like General Pershing when he landed in France with the A. E. F., "Napoleon here I am."

The old saying is "procrastination is the thief of time," but believe me, procrastination is not the thief of my time for I am busy early and late and often wish I had four hands. But I thank the Lord that I can do it.

Glory be, what is our dear country coming to? All we see and hear is people out of work, and if a man goes looking for work he is told they do not hire them after 35 or 40 years of age and then then they have to have a physical examination.

I often wonder who or what is to blame for the disgusting conditions that exist today.

Well, I finally got to one of the meetings a week ago Tuesday and Mayflower and myself, with our guests enjoyed ourselves very much.

J. H.: What about that letter you were going to write? Rather get busy.

Well there is a poem my mother liked. I ran across it a few days ago:

A Good Name.

Children choose it, don't refuse it:
'Tis a precious diadem;
Highly prize it, don't despise it:
You will need it when you're men.

Watch and guard it, don't discard it;
'Tis more precious far than gold;
Never leave it, always own it:
You will need it when you're old.

Then endeavor now and ever:
Keep this blessed treasure safe;
Never loose it, always own it:
You will need it when you die.

Happy Thanksgiving to all.

BLACK EYED SUSIE.

RECOLLECTIONS OF THE SCRIBE

Dear Corner Members: Now it came to pass in the days when the pumpkin reposes in the cellar and the thoughts of the people turn to the manufacturer of mince pie and the turkey goeth forth with fear and trembling, even on the 13th day of the month of November, that certain of the maidens and matrons of Club No. 1 did convene and gather together in the halls of justice dedicated to the chief scribe and those of high authority in the city of Willimantic.

And behold, they did congregate from far and near, bringing with them many distinguished titles.

And lo, a Whirlwind appeared in the midst of them did frolic about till many of the matrons and maidens were swept with gales of laughter.

Now, at the time when the clock in the tower had proclaimed the hour of noon, it came to pass that the high priestess of the kitchen did bring in and set forth on tables, viands of such delectableness that the beholders licked their chops and breathed sighs of deep appreciation.

Now, therefore, at this time, there sat in the midst of them at the festive board a stranger who had never before gathered with the maidens, matrons and elders of the congregation; and she said within: "Now, concerning this gathering, lo, they are a goodly people; it were well that I gave ear and hearkened to the voice of the prophetess. Moreover, the feast is pleasing to the sight and if I cease not to wag my jaws I shall partake to repletion and be conveyed to my abode on a shutter." Now, therefore, when the banquet was concluded there arose a voice among the rulers proclaiming: "Go to now, who will come forth and labor and gather that which will provide eatables with which to grace the board at our next pilgrimage to these the halls of oquity?"

Now, after this, it came to pass that there arose a murmur among the congregation, and many were prostrated and sore afraid at the task set before them, and lo, the stranger in the midst of them marveled not, for she perceived that the providers of the feast had burdens that were grievious.

But, lo, even ere the people did begin to mourn at the vision of only hot dogs to consume at the spread which was to follow in the days previous to the time when the matrons and maidens would be much wearied and sore vexed in spirit at the selection of gifts and the creation of choice morsels for the gathering of the manifold tribes, there arose and came forth from the midst of them one who presented the bold front of courage and she did approach and summon one of these who like Dorcas sat diligently stitching. And straightway she who was called did arise and follow and together they did consult and take counsel.

Now after these things, when many days had passed, and the time was at hand for the re-assembling of the multitude and also of the setting forth of the feast, that the housewives, maidens and elders did gaze with delight upon the marvelous repast spread before them and they smacked their lips and said: "Of a surety the taste is like unto nectar and ambrosia."

And she that was a stranger at the feast that was before, did say: "Now, therefore, I will gird up my loins and get me up to the halls of justice that I may mingle with the throng and also partake of this abundance. And she did even as she had said.

And it came to pass that when she had come into the assemblage that she lifted up her voice and did utter these sayings: "Be hold, this is a Corner, not in wheat, but in friendliness. Verily it is good to be within its borders. May it flourish and spread forth its spirit of good will even unto the 14th and 15th generation. Selah."

ORCHID

A MONTH IN MASSACHUSETTS.

Dear Social Corner: I suppose Club No. 6 is meeting today—Tuesday, the 19th—somewhere in Westerly. But I am far from the Granite town. I am spending the month of November in Massachusetts. Having married into a Massachusetts family, I am a sort of daughter-in-law of the good old state. A few days ago I stood at the grave of the progenitor of the family in America, who came from London, England, and located in Boston in 1646. He was buried in King's Chapel burying ground and his tombstone is an antique specimen.

I spent the first ten days of the month at Hotel Arlington in Boston and found it a pleasant hostelry. The advantage of staying at a hotel over visiting is that one can do what one pleases, go where one likes, retire when one chooses, rise the same, eat what one wants, and no more than one wants. Since that time I have been visiting relatives in the suburbs. But visiting has been pretty good, in spite of the big eats with which I have had to wrestle. Just now I am at Wellesley, two miles from the college, where I will remain over Thanksgiving. Then for home. Be it ever so humble there is no place like home.

I very much enjoyed the account given by Y. Y. of her trip to the mountains, as well as Sumac's letter telling of her voyage to Block Island. Now I call upon Idaleane to tell us of her tour into the dominion of King George. I am sure it must have held many interesting incidents.

With kind regards to all.

LUCILLE DREW (No. 6)

GREETINGS FROM I. J. B.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: It is a long time since I have written.

True Blue: Many thanks for the lovely sunshine box. So nice of Canterbury Bell in bringing it to me. Many thanks.

Pippin: Sorry not to have seen you at Buckingham. Was not able to go. I had a very bad fall but am feeling better now. Come again.

Joan: How are you? Thanks for peppers. They were very nice.

Keziah Doolittle: When are you coming to dinner?

Attely: Hope you arrived home all right.

Deborah: How are you and June Days?

Biddy: How are you?

Best wishes and sympathy to sick and distressed I. J. B.

MAKING OXFORDS FROM OLD SHOES.

Dear Editor and Corner Folk: A long time since I have tried to fill some space in the Corner page. The letters have been so interesting I have just left it up to the "other fellow" week after week.

I felt badly to miss the meeting at South Killingly, but during that week home seemed the best place for me and as Zany is not well I had a little party on that day to drive the blues away. When I was a youngster and lived on a farm out of South Killingly mother used to take sister and me to that church for Sunday school. And, well so I remember one Sunday evening concert when we had pieces to speak and were all dolled up for the occasion with hair all crimped and tied with blue ribbons. The concert went off alright but on the way home there was a terrific thunder shower. We were soaked to the skin, crimps all gone and little brooklets running from our hair, down our backs. The horse was frightened but mother was a good horsewoman and got us home safely even if it was so dark one could hardly follow the road, which was for the most part through woods.

I have always understood that at all Corner meetings each one who attended was supposed to take food enough of some kind so that on a pinch they could make a dinner of it. Now if that is true why should the hostess furnish so much? Why not she and her helpers furnish the drink and trimmings for their part, be the crowd large or small, and leave the rest for the other people? I believe in each one taking what they choose then if the dinner is not first class it is no fault of the hostesses, and a hint for some to do better next time. Some one said to me once "Suppose we all bring cake?" "Then we will all eat cake," I replied.

I know of only one time when the dinners of Club 4 have not been all that one could ask for, both in quantity and quality. That time was our last meeting in Danielson. I was in charge and have no one to blame only the weather man. It was terribly hot all the week up to that day. I did not feel like cooking, neither did some others. We had a great plenty but the variety was limited. Who said tomatoes? Didn't they taste good though? And such lovely ones. Wish I had had sense enough to take home two or three for the seeds. I do not know why I ask but if any one has any of those seeds to spare a package of them before Feb. 1, would be very much appreciated by me as I raise several dozen plants and have no good seed this year.

I wonder if any of the sisters make oxfords of their discarded high top shoes? They are all right for wear around the house and it means quite a saving if one has two or three pair laid by. I am now wearing my last pair and this is the way I fix them: Cut the top off evenly wherever desired then cut the lining a little shorter and glue to the leather with mucilage. Put a little blacking on the edge and there you are, a good pair of shoes right in style and if you kept them until high schools come in favor again they would surely be out of date.

At the Putnam meeting I promised Bay State, Irma and Emily LeCann my recipe for filled cookies. Forgive me for being so slow.

Filled Cookies: 1 egg, 1 cup sugar, 1-2 cup butter or other shortening, 2 teaspoons cream of tartar, 1 teaspoon soda, 1-2 cup milk, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla and about 3 1-2 cups flour. To make the filling cook 1 1-2 cups chopped seedless raisins, 1-2 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon flour and 1-2 cup of water until it thickens. Let cool and spread a spoonful between 2 pieces of cut-out cooky dough and bake in a moderate oven. Keep your dough as soft as you can work it.

Primrose: A pleasant surprise, thank you.

Irma: Thank you. Hope to be with you at the next meeting.

Best wishes for all.

TWICE TWENTY.

PLEASED WITH ROSALIND'S LETTER

Kind Editor and Social Corner Friends: While reading the Corner page today I noticed Rosalind's letter and was much pleased to read about fried apple cake. It just made me want to go and make some. I make them with green apples, but cook in as little water as possible. Dried apples are the best, with a little orange peel in it, same as in school days when mother made them. I have cooked green apples in double boiler with no water. When I put in the crust to fry I put a little water on half, then put in apple, fold other side over and press together with a fork. Am never bothered with apple running out when frying.

Your letter of good time at club No. 4 was so good. Sorry R lost her pumpkin. Irma, it was so good of you to send her another one, and a squash for good measure. I bet the sad look on her face disappeared when she saw them in the mail. I hope the squash tasted as good to her as mine did, the one Aunt Jerushie gave me. Best ever eat. One piece I cut up in small pieces, put salt, pepper and butter with a little hot water over it and was ready to eat it in a short time. The other piece I peeled and cut the same then peeled two good-sized carrots chipped off in thin pieces, put with squash, salt, pepper and a tablespoon of bacon fat and hot water. I thought that the best I ever eat.

Ann Tenna: Glad to see your letter and hope to often now. You are all settled for winter. I dread to think of winter, but my limb is getting better slowly.

Meadow Lark: Your tribute to Lavendar was fine. She was a dear friend of mine, around 27 years ago. The more I met her the better I loved her. I was saddened to read of her death. I wish there were more like her to brighten the world and cheer the sad hearts in it. I did not see her often in late years, but will miss her when in Willimantic.

Green Hollow: Why didn't you shout sooner about the lovely views on that road. I think I know you alright, but time flies so fast. Hard keeping up hey, or are you as spry as when we went after wintergreen berries, I met the teacher you mentioned at Norwich fair a year ago. Did not know her at first; had changed so. Lots of changes since you moved away. Pleased to hear of Thelma. Write again.

Aries: Did not see your letter in Corner. Busy, bet, as usual. Has Adam gone south yet? Too bad the cold makes him suffer so. Tell him to keep an eye on the widows in Florida. Too bad you cannot go along to protect him.

Prairie Chicken: Why is a woman like a pack of cards? You have to have a heart to get her a diamond to please her, a club to live with her and a spade to dig her grave. Hope you send some spice of life to cheer up the clouds.

Just I: Where are you, or how are

REID & HUGHES The Home of Toyland

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Fifty years ago this week was an uneventful period in Norwich. Little out of the ordinary occurred to take up the attention of the citizens. Interesting events culled from the files of The Norwich Bulletin of November, 1879, are as follows:

Monday, November 17, 1879—The attraction at Breed hall for Thursday evening is the American drama entitled, Kit, the Arkansas Traveller, which has played for a long time and has attracted large audiences, together with the tableaux, Two Old Boats. Tickets are now on sale at Noyes & Davis.

Street Commissioner Cole has discovered that the cleanings from the lower streets make first-class dressing for hilly thoroughfares. It dries out hard and smooth and proves a valuable resistant to the heavy rain, preventing the heavy washes to which these streets are subject.

The school boys who have not the means to purchase bicycles have brought out the old bone-shaking velocipedes again and are once more on the road.

Tuesday, November 18, 1879 — The Rev. James L. Smith intends to make his annual visit to his former home in Virginia immediately after Thanksgiving day, and will be pleased to distribute among the needy colored people of that vicinity (including Miss Thomas' school) whatever our citizens may be able to contribute for the purpose in the way of cast-off clothing, boots and shoes, etc. Packages may be left at Bidwell, Bacheider & Co. shoe store or at the repair shop of James L. Smith, Bath street.

As the infant son of Mr. Gordon Wilcox was going down Market street, yesterday, near the corner of Little Water street, carrying a chisel in his hand, he fell upon the pavement, striking his forehead upon the tool, making a slight wound.

Fourteen vessels arrived at the lower coal wharf with cargoes, on Sunday and Monday. The railroads can hardly keep cars supplied for its transportation to its destination.

Wednesday, Nov. 19, 1879—At the Central M. E. church this evening, there is to be an illustrated lecture by William Hurd, Esq. The illustrations comprise 4 life size paintings, showing the effect of alcohol on the human system. The seats in the body of the house are to be reserved for the children of the Sunday school.

Monday evening a brakeman fell across the track at the Norwich & Worcester depot, just as the train was coming in, and but for the presence of mind of the station agent, who dragged him from the track, he would have been instantly killed. The boys are looking forward to the fall vacation.

A delegation of Sedgwick post, G. A. R. will be entertained by the Perkins post, at New London, this evening.

Thursday, Nov. 20, 1879—The revival meetings at the First Baptist church are exciting considerable interest in its neighborhood. The Rev. Mr. Bentley's fine solo singing attracts good audiences, nightly. Several have already manifested a desire to lead better lives.

The ties have been laid and a new track has been laid down on the curve of the Norwich & Worcester road back of the bank buildings on Shetucket street. The old track is to be taken up as soon as the new one is ready for use.

The bus Eagle was disabled last evening near the horse railroad turnout on Franklin street, while en route for Bean Hill, by the breaking of the hind wheel. It contained some twenty-five passengers at the time of the accident.

Friday, Nov. 21, 1879 — Telephonic communication has been established between the office of Mr. Joseph Hill, at the lower coal dock, and the office of Mr. G. A. Harris, freight agent of the Norwich and Worcester railroad company.

There have been 111 applications for licenses filed in the town clerk's office, thus far, of which 55 have been recommended by the selectmen.

The William M. Williams Steam Fire Engine Co., are to have a social New Year's eve.

The Buckingham Guards, Company B of the Independent battalion, received their new uniforms yesterday, wit hthe exception of their shakos and knapsacks.

Lizzie D. Chapman, only daughter of Mr. E. F. Chapman, was married to Burrill A. Merrick, at the residence of her father, Wednesday evening, by the Rev. Dr. Jewett, rector of Trinity church.

Saturday, Nov. 22, 1879 — The life saving station located at Watch Hill point is now in good working condition under Captain Joshua P. Clark's command.

Mr. Erastus O'Brien, well known member of the firm of O'Brien & Brewster, died suddenly of heart disease at midnight Friday, at the age of about 50 years. He was a native of Poquetanuck. He came to Norwich in 1865 and formed a partnership with John D. Brewster which has continued unbroken for the last 14 years.

The Rev. L. W Bacon contemplates preaching a series of sermons, shortly, showing what excellences in the Roman Catholic church, the Protestants have cause to admire and imitate.

The Norwich Literary society is to give an entertainment on Friday evening next, and a matinee on Saturday afternoon, at the rooms over the Boston store, which is to consist of recitations by Prof. Charles Roberts, Jr.

SOCIAL CORNER

you? Don't be a slacker like me. I will send in the poem, "The Loom of Time," so others can have it, it is so true. Best wishes to all. L. T. H. (Club 2)

A FEW HELPFUL SUGGESTIONS

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: Will pass along a good remedy for small rugs that sometimes slip on the floor, when stepped upon. Take pieces of old velvet or plush and sew on under side of rug, but not necessarily the whole to be covered, and you will find the nap will prevent slipping and keep the rug in place. I have tried this plan and found it satisfactory. Often we hear of people falling while stepping on a small rug, on smooth surfaced floor, and more especially from a new rug, than one having been used for some time.

Now, on another subject. To those who prefer sugar in their cup of tea, put a lump of sugar with the tea, into the tea pot, before you add the boiling water. It will improve the flavor. I have tried this suggestion and like it very much.

I, for one, regret to see the number of letters diminishing on the Corner page, but suppose each and every writer has her own individual reason for their absence. Personally, I do not have opportunity for a weekly contribution, but will share my bit as time affords. I think we would all be sorry to see the Corner page discarded by the editor, but I fear if we neglect it too much, we must not be surprised to see other reading matter, advertisements, etc., replace pen name signatures.

We shall soon celebrate the annual Thanksgiving day and hope we may all enjoy the family gatherings and good dinners, with gratitude for the many blessings that are ours. I think we all have a share of troubles and perplexities, also look on others whose troubles we would not wish to exchange with.

Thanksgiving day will bring many pleasant memories of the past. As a child I can remember how my mother used to tell me about going to her grandmother's home, when she was a little girl, and in those days frequently the first sleigh ride of the season was one of the joys of Thanksgiving day. Surely weather conditions in recent years have changed. For at present time the dandelions, pansies and several other hardy plants are in out door blossom. The green, grassy lawns do not appear to be ready for a covering of snow flakes.

Kind wishes to all, sympathy to the sick and shut-ins.

JENNIE (Club No. 1)

ENJOYS THE CORNER

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members: It is a long time since I have written but have read the letters and have enjoyed every one of them. I like the Corner, you meet so many people and a good many you know. I have been very busy doing different things and Christmas will be here soon and will have to make things for Christmas.

I like this verse:

Say Something Good.
Pick out the folks you like the least and watch 'em for a while.
They never waste a kindly word,
they never waste a smile.
They criticise their fellow-men at every chance they get.
They never found a human just to suit their fancy yet.
From them I guess you'd learn some things if they were pointed out;
Some things that every one of us should know a lot about.
When some one "knocks" a brother, pass around the loving cup.
Say something good about him if you have to make it up.

Best wishes to all, MIG (No. 5)

JOINS THE CORNER.

Editor Social Corner: I have paid one visit to the Social Corner club No. 4 meeting at South Killingly recently. I enjoyed the day. I think it a good thing, and I think it will grow to be more and more interesting as time goes on. I want to be a member of the Corner and the club then I can continue to meet with them whenever I wish. I would like a pin. I wish to take for my pen name

TURQUOISE

LIKES THE LONG LETTERS.

Dear Friends of the Social Corner: Well, our first snow did not last long. The babies were very much interested in it and it surely was hard to answer their questions.

Sumac: Do not know who you are but I do like your letters. I should like to meet you.

There seems to be quite a discussion over the length of letters. I like the long ones. They are always interesting and full of helpful hints.

I am going to try to write more often. I like to see the page full.

UTILITIES, RAILS AND SPECIALTIES STRONG POINTS IN STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 23—(AP)—The stock market presented a fairly firm front to a normal week-end selling movement today, which depressed several of the trading favorites 1 to 6 points. These losses, however, were largely counter-balanced by gains elsewhere in the list, running from 1 to 17 points.

Selling pressure tended to retard rather than accelerate the pace of trading, and the day's turnover amounted to only 2,923,240 shares, as compared to 3,138,660 yesterday. Utilities, rails and several of the specialties generally gave a good account of themselves.

The selling appeared to be primarily profit taking on the rally that has been in progress almost steadily since the middle of last week. The realizing was regarded as moderate in view of the extent of the recent advance, and the closing of the market tomorrow.

A further development in the cheapening of credit appeared in a 4 1-2 per cent renewal rate for call loans, the lowest since March of last year. The rate was unchanged during the day, and will carry over the week end, as the loan desk will not operate tomorrow. Surplus funds were again offered in the outside market at substantial reductions from the official rate on the floor of the exchange. Time loans were quoted at 5-5 1-4, as reduced from 5-5 1-2 yesterday.

The board of governors of the stock exchange felt that sufficient progress had been made along the road to normalcy to return to full five-hour trading sessions next week, trading having been on a three-hour daily schedule for nearly three weeks. It was decided, however, to close the exchange for the remainder of the week, beginning with the Thanksgiving day holiday next Thursday, to give the severely tried commission house forces a much-needed vacation. The recent closings have merely given them a chance to clear up their work, and it is felt that a real rest from the strain of the past six weeks should be provided.

The day's business news was meagre, and attention was focused on the reassuring statements as to the maintenance of high levels of employment and wages, and consequent sustained high public purchasing power, emanating from President Hoover's conference with business leaders yesterday. The week end business and trade reviews reported a more optimistic feeling in most quarters with the return of normal conditions in Wall street. Industrial activity was said to have shown some further slackening, however and conservatism was noted in wholesale purchasing. Retail buying f seasonal merchandise, however, was said to have been stimulated by the cold weather.

The day's selling movement carried General Electric, Allied and Chemical, and Union Pacific down about 5 to 8 points.

U. S. Steel closed at 167, off 2 3-4, and American Telephone, Anaconda, Atchison, American Tobacco B, Johns Manville, Kennecott and Fox Film A lost 3 or 4 points. Philadelphia Co., a closely held issue which appears on the tape only about once in a moon, traded at 175, off 94 points from the previous sale.

American Machine and Foundry had one of its rapid spurts, touching 190, up 17 points. J. I. Case and Otis Elevator mounted about 13 and 14 points. U. S. Industrial Alcohol and Peoples Gas about 11. American Power and Light, Chesapeake and Ohio, Delaware and Hudson, Du Point, Gillette, Kroger Grocery, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, National Cash Register, Pacific Lighting, Underwood Elliott and Stone and Webster closed 2 to 6 points up.

Foreign exchanges were quiet and inclined to ease. Sterling cables sagged 1-8 cent to $4.87 9-16. The Canadian dollar, however, rallied 1-8 cent to 98 7-8 cents.

Commodity markets generally sagged, wheat futures lost a cent and more with a letup in export demand, and corn eased about 1-2 cent with large Argentine offerings. Cotton futures broke rather sharply, but rallied a little from the day's lowest levels on unfavorable weather reports, and closed with net declines of 70 cents to $1 a bale.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Nov. 22—(AP)—Wheat somersaulted backward in price today, reversing a lively upward jump earlier. It was surmised by some observers that heavy selling which broke out here and at Liverpool toward the last was due to letting of large speculative holdings.

Advantages were being taken of persistent unfavorable crop advices both from Argentina and Australia, besides, North American wheat export business today was uninspiring, the purchases for trans-Atlantic shipment totaling but 700,000 bushels.

Chicago closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, 1c to 1 1-2c a bushel under yesterday's finish. Corn closed unchanged to 1-2c off, oats 1-4c to 2-3c and 1-2c down, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 17c.

At first the Chicago wheat market was dominated by early steep upturns of values at Liverpool that gave emphasis to reports of radically adverse crop conditions in the leading countries south of the equator. According to some dispatches, black rust was extending into Buenos Aires province, a section of Argentina which until now had escaped. Word from Australia was to the effect that the new crop exportable surplus there promised to be hardly half the amount which the previous crop had afforded. There were also reports that United States wheat at the Gulf of Mexico was commanding the highest premium yet on the 1929 crop.

Of a sudden, however, the tenor of much of the news began to change, and something of a rush of selling of wheat future deliveries set in here after announcement that the Liverpool market had undergone a break during the final trading there which practically wiped out gains. Simultaneously came assertions of a British trade authority that Argentine might still produce an average.

Talk was heard, too, that Liverpool's failure to hold price advances today was due to heavy selling done there under orders from Chicago possibly to close out so-called spreading operations with Winnipeg or this city. In any event, the net result was that final transactions here were almost the day's bottom level.

Corn gave evidence of weakness apart from the effect of wheat market downturns. The action of corn was largely ascribed to selling from western sources and to widespread cold clear weather, favorable for shelling operations and to an increased movement of the corn crop. Oats weakened with corn.

Provisions tended upward, responsive to higher prices on hogs.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 22—(AP)—The bond market ended a week of steady, improvement today with numerous high grade domestic corporation loans at or near their top prices for the year. Volume of trading declined, but there was enough demand to send more than a score of low coupon rails up ½ to 2 points.

Money rates again declined. Time loans at 5 to 5 1-4 per cent for all maturities, were a shade easier, while the renewal figure of 4 1-2 per cent for call funds was the lowest in a year and a half. The money markets were dull.

Liberty bonds and Treasury certificates worked irregularly lower, although the First Liberty 4 1-4s made a new 1929 high at 101.

Atchison General 4s reflected the stronger position of the entire list by rising half a point to a new peak for the year at 94 1-2. Atlantic Coast Line First 4s and Missouri Kansas Texas First 4s also exceeded their previous tops. There was likewise strength in the Chicago & Northwestern issues.

Industrials were inclined to drag, but there was substantial buying in some of the popular utilities, including American Telephone 5 1-2s and debenture 5s, Detroit Edison 5s, and Utah Power & Light 5s. Cincinnati Gas & Electric 4s fell more than a point. National Dairy Products 5 1-4s stood out in the specialty section, rising a full point to within a fraction of their high.

The foreign group was again buoyant, although trading slackened. French Republic 7 1-2s closed at the new high of 116 3-4, on a small turnover, while the 7s equalled their top price. Argentine government issues were marked up 1 to 4 points and Colombian loans advanced to about the same extent.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre.

The Old West lives and rides again in "The Virginian," the all-talking, all-outdoor masterpiece of film production which opens at the Broadway today. Owen Wister wrote the immortal story which has been called the "great American novel," a story told in plain simple language, but nevertheless thrilling in every syllable. The tale of the lanky Virginian with his lazy drawl and slow smile, but lightning trigger finger, who drifts west and falls into the foreman's job at the old Box D, will never grow old. His pal, Stevie, his best loved enemy; Trampas, the cattle-rustler; his new sweetheart, the "schoolma'm from Vermont," with all the other lovable characters from the book are all in the cast, in Nature's own scenic settings, in the heart of the Wyoming cattle country, for "The Virginian" was filmed "on location" and entirely out-of-door. The gigantic trail-herds on trek to market, fording and swimming raging streams, the hard-riding cowboys, resting at the trail-fire at sundown, the garish noisy bar and gambling hall, with its sudden quarrels and as sudden hushes, the "christenin' dance," with it hilarious "baby-brandin'," that immortal scene with its "When you call me that—SMILE!" and the famous duel at sundown, are all reproduced with thrilling fidelity, the recording of the dialog being particularly excellent. Gary Cooper is at his best in the title role, with Richard Arlen, Mary Brian, Walter Huston, E. H. Calvert, Eugene Pallette and a score of other favorites contributing heavily to the fun and action of the film. Added featurettes include the Paramount Sound News, the Talking Collegians in "Splash Mates," a novelty singing skit "Travelling Along," with a group of hoboes "restin' up," and a Saturday special, the first talking serial ever made, "The Ace of Scotland Yard," with Crauford Kent.

LORETTA YOUNG

Palace Theatre.

Today, the day of all days in intercollegiate football, the day that Harvard clashes with Yale in the greatest of all gridiron rivalries. This is the day the Palace theatre has chosen to present for the first time its Vitaphone talking classic, "The Forward Pass," starring Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Loretta Young and a host of others including the members of the football team of the University of Southern California—the same boys who a week ago played out such a thrilling epic with Notre Dame at Chicago. Truly this picture is a feast of action and romance.

In fact, this plot would bear inspection if it had nothing to do with gay, jazzy life at college and bubbling comedy of co-ed life. Even the football sequences, which are very prominent, have their vital relation to the story. They supply plenty of physical action, but they aren't in it just for that. Every incident contributes to the swift pace of the tale that is unfolded.

All these preliminary remarks are necessary so that those who saw the wonderful work of that new team of film lovers, Loretta Young and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., in "Fast Life," will not miss them in "The Forward Pass." The football picture is entirely different and of course lighter in tone than the film that brought fame to the youngsters. But it gives them splendid histrionic opportunities, which they take advantage of with vim and enthusiasm.

How Loretta and young Doug "eat up" those chances! It's no wonder they're hailing beautiful little Loretta as one of the screen's foremost dramatic actresses, and it's not a marvel that they now say "Douglas Fairbanks, Senior" when they wish to designate young Doug's distinguished dad.

"The Forward Pass" is a picture anyone will enjoy, and you can't afford to miss the work of the two youngsters, which is going to put them right in the first rank of screen artists.

Sale of Land.

James L. Case, realtor, has sold for Gustave E. Lambert, Jr., a tract of land located in the Fanning avenue section to Harold D. Larrabee. The tract adjoins the rear of Mr. Larrabee's house lot on Williams street and he has made the purchase for additional ground space.

Moving Pictures at Y. M. C. A. Sunday.

In keeping with the Thanksgiving season, the local Y. M. C. A. management has arranged to show moving pictures of the Pilgrims, on the coming Sunday at 4 o'clock. The adult public is cordially invited.

The struggle for religious freedom as typified by the story of the Pilgrims is shown, starting with the experiences of the Seperatists as Scrooby, England, their migration to Holland during 1607-8.

Twelve years later, the departure of the devout band for America. The voyage of the Mayflower. The landing on Plymouth Rock. Hardships and sufferings during the first winter. The refusal of the Pilgrims to return to England and other incidents revealing their faith and devotion to the ideal of freedom in religious thought and expression.

This picture story, true to history, is well worth seeing, a large audience is confidently expected. While adults are specially invited, boys and girls 15 and over will be admitted. Parents may bring their children 11 and over, but none under 11 are expected.

Next Week at Woman's City Club.

The Child Study Group of the Woman's City alub gathers for its November meeting, next Tuesday, the 26th at 4 p. m. Mrs. Charlottle Perkins Gilman will be the speaker, taking as her subject, "This Business of Being a Mother."

Every member of the class is urged to be present, to hear this worthwhile subject discussed. All other club members are eligible to attend the meeting by paying a small admission fee.

The Music Round Table meets Tuesday evening at 7.30. The subject will be "Orchestral Music." Miss Margaret Driscoll will report on current events, and Mrs. Louise Schwenek will be the vocalist for the evening.

Breed Theatre.

The Breed theatre will present tomorrow night to Norwich, George Jessel, in his first singing-talking feature production, "Lucky Boy." It tells the story of the rise to fame of a boy from New York's East Side to Broadway fame and a position in society through marriage to one of its fairest daughters.

Jessel sings from start to finish of the picture, there being five songs heard in it, and he also engages in a lot of dialogue and wise cracking, with a music shop, vaudeville, a night club and a Broadway musical show the background for most of the action. "Lucky Boy" promises to be something quite unique in sound pictures. It is a Tiffany-Stahl production, directed by Norman Taurog and Charles C. Wilson from a story by Viola Brothers Shore, with sound recorded by RCA Photophone. The cast includes Margaret Quimby as the heroine, Rose Rosanova as the mother and William E. Strauss, Gwen Lee, Richard Tucker and Gayne Whitman, among others.

Connecticut College Concert.

When the famous Roth Quartet of Budapest appears next Tuesday evening in Bulkeley Auditorium, New London, local music lovers will have the chance long looked for to hear what is considered one of the greatest quartets ever heard in America. At no time in the history of chamber music in this country has any organization created the sensation which these four players have made in their first weeks in America.

Until three years ago the perfection, and virtuoso quality of this quartet was the prime ambition in the life of Feri Roth, the youthful leader of the organization. Like many others he studied hard, worked hard, played, taught and did everything to equip himself for the work which has brought him such unusual success. Then he met the players who now form this little organization, told them of his ambitions, and luckily they too were of the same mind. The story of the first year is a succession of work, practise, and more work, and more practise. The patience of these four young men was remarkable, for they would not play in public until they were absolutely sure of their ensemble. Months after their first meeting they gave their first public concert, and were rewarded for their weeks of toil.

Connecticut College which is bringing them here is to be thanked by all lovers of music for making this treat possible.

Next Week At Central Baptist Church.

Regular routine business was transacted. A letter from David A. Brown was read acknowledging the donation of $50 to the Palestine Emergency Relief fund. A banner was awarded the auxiliary by the council of women's auxiliary lodges for the greatest increase in membership for the past year. It was voted to hold a benefit card party for the relief of some destitute families.

After the meeting was closed, in due form, a social hour was enjoyed with the members of Rose of New England lodge. Miss Sarah Nowick served refreshments, assisted by several of the sisters.

LADIES AUXILIARY A. O. H.

The regular semi-monthly meeting of Ladies auxiliary, A. O. H., No. 54, was held Wednesday evening with the secretary, Mrs. M. V. O'Neill presiding, in the absence of the president. Miss Nellie McCarthy, and the vice president, Mrs. Catherine Sullivan, who attended the installation banquet of Auxiliary 26 in New London. A pleasing financial report of the recent whist and pinochle was read by the chairman, Mrs. Annie Connelly, and arrangements were made for another to be in charge of Mrs. Julia Breen. The joint installation of the Norwich societies will be held in A. O. H. hall Sunday, Dec. 15, with a dinner consisting of roast pork and ham, potato salad, baked beans, pickles, rolls, assorted cookies, coffee, ice cream, soda and cigars, and served by a local caterer. It is expected that the state officers and other prominent Hibernians will be present.

V. F. W. AUXILIARY

The regular monthly business meeting of R. E. Hourigan auxiliary, No. 894, Veterans of Foreign Wars of the U. S., was held at the post rooms, Olympic building on Monday evening, with the president, Mrs. Agnes Poliquin, presiding. Following the official business, and officers' reports, the report of the department inspector, Mrs. Eva Ward of Bethel, who visited and inspected the auxiliary on Oct. 25th was read. She stated that the books of the auxiliary were in excellent condition, and complimented the president, on her officers and her floor work.

The relief committee, Mrs. Emma Raymaugh and Mrs. Clara T. Holmes, reported an Armistice day visit to the state hospital, where they brought the ex-service men fruit, candy and tobacco, and to Uncas-on-Thames where they brought assorted fruit, grapes, etc. Packages of candy, smokes, cards, etc., were sent to the comrades of Hourigan post, who are patients at the naval hospital, Brooklyn, N. Y., and the veterans hospital, Northport, L. I.

Numerous other relief business was acted upon. A motion was passed to secure a copy of the Star Spangled Banner in the Key of A, for use at the meetings, as authorized by the department of Connecticut. It was decided to hold a social meeting on the next regular meeting night, Monday, Nov. 25th, Mrs. Mary Hull, to be in charge of the social evening.

The sisters are all notified that the meeting of the fourth district, county council, department of Connecticut, will be held on Sunday afternoon, Nov. 24th at Pawcatuck, at 2:30 p. m.

WOMAN'S RELIEF CORPS.

Sedgwick Woman's Relief corps, No. 16, held its regular meeting Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock in Buckingham Memorial with the president, Mrs. Althea Brown, in the chair.

At 12:30 o'clock a chicken-pie dinner was served. The invited guests included Dept. Commander James Haggerty, G. A. R., of Willimantic; Chief of Staff Comrade James Young and Chief Mustering Officer Comrade Northrup; President of the Dept. of Connecticut W. R. C., Mrs. Mary Gregory; Dept. Treasurer Mrs. Lura Dutton; Dept. Chaplain Miss Annie Smith; and the department executive board consisting of Mrs. Ethel Tourtellotte, Mrs. Jayne Seed and Mrs. D. Louise Atterbury. Also members of the local G. A. R. veterans. A number of members of Westerly, Mystic and Stonington W. R. C. corps were guests. The attendance at the meeting numbered 77. Four candidates were initiated. A goodly sum was realized on the last supper. The meeting closed with the salute to the flag.

NOTORIOUS LOUIS RUSSO LOCKED UP AT NEW LONDON POLICE STATION

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 22. — Louis Russo, alias Louis Yenkle, long sought as the ring-leader of the gang of crooks who robbed the mill of Cohen Brothers at Colchester last June, when $50,000 worth of silks were stolen, was arrested this week at Newark, N. J., as told in The Bulletin's Colchester column Thursday. Russo was brought to New London late today by State Police Officer William Elmer MacKenzie of Groton barracks and was locked up at New London police headquarters to await presentation in the Colchester justice court tomorrow. He will be bound over to the superior court in heavy bail to await trial at the January term of the higher court.

New York Police Grateful

That the 60 members of the New York police department, who came to New London Wednesday for the purpose of paying a last tribute of respect to the memory of their associate officer, John J. Duffy, slain by a gunman's bullet, when committal services were held in St. Mary's cemetery, following funeral services being held in New York, appreciated the various acts of courtesy and hospitality displayed by the New London department, was evidenced tonight by the reception by Acting Captain James C. Sullivan of a message of appreciation from Captain John Reddan, 23rd precinct and who was in charge of the visiting patrolmen. Captain Reddan was warm in his praise of the New London department's various acts of cooperation in bestowing honors upon the heroic metropolitan officer who met his death in the performance of duty and the endeavors to make the visit of the New York officers to New London as agreeable as possible.

GEO. O. WRIGHT FORGOT LICENSE WAS NECESSARY

George O. Wright, nurse, residing at 318 State street, was arrested late today, charged with violation of the state law, prohibiting the practice of chiropody without a license. He was released from custody upon furnishing a surety on his bond of $200 and will be in court tomorrow. Wright, who has been a conspicuous figure about the street's several years, was an adept at massage, finally entering the field of chiropody. Complaint was made to the state department of health because Wright had not procured a license. Prosecuting Attorney Max Boyer issued a warrant for Wright's arrest, which was served on Wright at his residence by State Police Officer Edward Hill.

John Sak was arrested this afternoon by State Police Officer John Smith, charged with reckless driving in Waterford and will be in Waterford town court Monday.

CHARGED WITH PERJURY—ARTHUR PERRY IN CUSTODY

Arthur Perry, 54 Howard street, was arrested this afternoon by State Police James Dygert, charged with perjury and will be presented in the police court tomorrow. In default of bail of $200, Perry was locked up. Perry over a year ago, was driving an automobile on Broad street and at the corner of Brainard street a child in attempting to cross the highway, was struck by the auto and sustained such injuries that she died a short time later at Lawrence Memorial hospital. The driver's license of Perry was suspended by the state motor vehicle department, and it was never returned. Recently Perry sought and obtained a license to drive, and in his affidavit, declared that he had never been arrested for violation of the state motor vehicle laws or any other law, when in reality he was arrested on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of the child. When this fact became known to the motor vehicle department a request for Perry's arrest was made and a warrant for his apprehension was issued by Prosecuting Attorney Max Boyer.

At the annual meeting of Father Jovnt branch, Ancient Order of Hibernians, held last night in Moose hall, Main street, the following officers were elected: President, Michael Enright; vice president, Frank Kennedy; financial secretary, Morgan Flaherty; recording secretary, George Kennedy; treasurer, William T. May; sergeant-at-arms, Florence Sullivan; sentinel, Thomas Hill; standing committees chairman, William Lonergan. The chaplain is Rev. Dr. Timothy M. Crowley. The officers will be installed Dec. 5 by County President Joseph Nevins of Norwich. The installation ceremony will be witnessed by state and county officers. At the next meeting of the order, President Enright will appoint his committees.

Throughout the city, three cases of scarlet fever and one of diphtheria developed during the week.

Died at Masonic Home

News has been received in Niantic of the death at the Masonic home, Walingford, last night of Miss Isabelle Wilson, 76. Miss Wilson is survived by a sister, who also resides at the Masonic home. When the Misses Wilson entered the home because of advanced years they gave the use of their Niantic home on York avenue to the Masonic Charity foundation.

Harold Palmer, Pequonnoc Bridge, was arrested at 1:15 this morning by Patrolman Edward Griswold, Groton police department, charged with driving while under the influence of liquor. He was released upon furnishing a surety on his bond of $200 and will be in Groton town court next Monday morning.

W. J. Flanagan, of Worcester, Mass., who claimed to be a former railroad employe and who was arrested Wednesday night by railroad special agents charged with train riding, will not be in Groton town court Monday next. Prosecuting Attorney Harry Brogan ordered Flanagan released and instructed Captain of Police Andrew McCarthy to warn Flanagan to keep out of the town. Flanagan was arrested at Midway when stealing a ride on a freight.

Game License Fees Boosted

After Jan. 1 the fee to be taxed fishermen or hunters will be greatly increased because of the passage of the new law. A resident of this state will pay $3.35 as against $2.35 heretofore, for either a hunting or fishing license. A non-resident fisherman has been paying the same license fee as is charged in his own state, which, ordinarily is $5, but after the first of the year the fee will be $5.35. The fee for non-resident's hunting license will be $10.35. The fee for a combination hunting and fishing license has been $3.75, for residents of the state, but after Jan. 1, the new fee will be $5.35. A fee of $11.25 has been charged non-residents for combination licenses, but the new fee will be $14.25. Boys under 16, who have been issued trapping licenses have always paid $2.25 but now they will be compelled to pay $3.35 for their sport.

An attachment of $2,800 in favor of the Nustone Products corporation against the Ocean Beach Park Development company, returnable before the present term of the superior court, has been released, as was revealed today by documents filed for record at the office of the city clerk.

NEW SYRIAN CHURCH CORNER-STONE LAYING

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 22—Ceremonies attending the laying of the cornerstone of the new St. Anne's Syrian Catholic church, which is being erected at the corner of Connecticut avenue and West Cult street, will be held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The stone will be blessed by Bishop Nilan from Hartford, or his representative and members of the clergy of New London and nearby cities will witness the ceremonies. The sermon in connection with the laying of the stone, will be delivered by Rt. Rev. Msgr. Michael Henry May, rector of St Patrick's parish, Norwich. Monsignor May is a native of New London, has traveled in Syria and the other eastern countries, and doubtless will have an interesting and eloquent message for the congregation assembled for this important event for the New London Syrian Catholics.

WALLACE A. BECKWITH DIES—WAS CIVIL WAR VETERAN

Wallace A. Beckwith, 88, died this morning at his residence, 438 Williams street, after an illness of many months. He is survived by two sons, Frederick Beckwith, of Providence, and Lloyd Beckwith, of this city, and by two daughters, Mrs. Edward Ables and Miss Josephine Beckwith, both of New London. A brother, George Beckwith, of this city, also survives. Mr. Beckwith was a Civil war veteran and was the oldest living member of Nameaug Engine company, also held membership in Brainard lodge of Masons. Mr. Beckwith was for many years employed by the government, being a customs inspector with duty at the state pier.

Adam Wilson, of Eastern Point, Groton; Mrs. Edward Otis, Hamburg; Mrs. Arthur Fressel, 2 Division street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Advised to Leave Town

There was no session of the police court today. Two Hartford girls, who were arrested by Special Agent John Anderson last night at the union station, charged with loitering, were ordered discharged by Prosecuting Attorney Max Boyer. The girls were advised to get out of town.

PATROLMAN REHN FINED FIVE DAYS' PAY FOR NAPPING

City Manager William A. Holt today rendered his finding in the case of Patrolman Walter Rehn, charged with neglect of duty in being found asleep in an automobile while he was supposed to be performing patrol duty. The city manager finds the patrolman guilty and imposed five days' fine, which means that Rehn will be compelled to perform duty for five days without receiving compensation.

Mrs. John E. Wells, wife of Professor Wells, of Connecticut College for Women, is visiting relatives in Philadelphia.

Mrs. John Byrkman, 69 West street, has concluded a visit of three weeks in New York, New Jersey and Long Island.

Mrs. Michael Colamdene and infant son, 321 Jefferson avenue, at Home Memorial hospital wer discharged today.

Yale Squad Goes Through

The Yale football squad passed through New London this morning at 11:09, en route from New Haven to Cambridge, Mass., where tomorrow the Bulldog will be the opponent of Harvard in the annual gridiron game. The New Haven railroad has arranged for the handling of immense crowds of fans. Besides special trains being operated tonight and tomorrow, several trains will also be run in two sections, including the Knickerbocker Limited and the Merchants' Limited.

W. E. COLE, NEW HAVEN, WANTED BY STATE COPS

An automobile driven by W. E. Frankie, submarine base, and a car registered in the name of W. E. Cole, New Haven, collided last night near the Rotisserie Inn, the New Haven auto overturning, but so far as could be ascertained none of the passengers of the New Haven machine sustained injury. The accident was reported at the state police barracks, but Officers James Dygert and Frederick Johnson were unable to find Cole or any of the occupants of the overturned auto, who, it is believed, were given a ride to New Haven in a passing auto. An effort will be made to find Cole and cause him to make an explanation as to his reason for failing to wait at the scene of the accident and relate his version of the crash. Frankie informed the officers that the New Haven car sideswiped his machine on a curve.

The New London Hi-Y club, at its meeting Wednesday evening at the "Y" took steps looking toward more adequate representation at its regular meetings. A committee composed of Allen Beebe, Bulkeley; Ralph P Smith, Jr., Bulkeley; Morris Bennett, Chapman Tech, and J. M. Messick, Bulkeley, was appointed by President James Morrissey to work out the programs for the coming month. It was agreed that a speaker should be secured for next week, initiation of new members come two weeks from this meeting and induction the following week. The plan of the club is to vote on names of new members even before they are approached upon the subject. Those whose applications have been accepted and who have signed membership cards recently are: John Barrett, Harold P. Dimmock and Eldred Miner, Chapman Tech; and Louis Priolo, George E. Rowley, Richard P. Scholfield, Frederick F. Shurts and George P. Spinner, Bulkeley. It was voted that there should be four teams in a contest for attendance and new members, two representing Bulkeley, and one each for Chapman Tech and Robert E. Fitch. Leaders of these teams elected are: Bulkeley Grange, Allen Beebe; Bulkeley Black, Herbert Vogt; Chapman Tech, Eldred Miner, and Robert Fitch, Paul Shepler. These team captains will meet after school Tuesday next to work out the details of the plan.

Ann P. Scott has sold a building lot on Hillside road to James P. and Etta H. Sullivan.

Four babies were born in less than 24 hours at Lawrence-Memorial hospital yesterday. Three of the new arrivals were girls.

FUNERALS

Rev. Morten Olsen

The funeral of Rev. Morten Olsen, pastor of the Norwegian church, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Thames street chapel, the services being conducted by Rev. O. M. Johnsmold, of Brooklyn, N. Y. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

John S. Crawford

The funeral of John S. Crawford, of 282 Williams street, was held at 9 o'clock this morning at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church and was attended by a large assemblage of mourners. The solemn mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Raymond Crawford, of Coventry, R. I., a nephew of Mr. Crawford, with Rev Michael Reagan deacon and Rev. George Clark sub-deacon. As a waiting hymn, Edward F. Murray sang "Home Sweet Day." The bearers were James, William, Thomas and Andrew Crawford, brothers of the deceased, and William Crawford and Walter Elliott, nephews. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, where the committal services were conducted by Rev. Fr. Crawford, assisted by Rev. Raymond J. O'Callaghan.

SNOW OR RAIN TODAY AND TOMORROW

Norwich Bulletin

NORWICH, CONN., SATURDAY, NOV. 23, 1929

FULL ASSOCIATED PRESS DESPATCHES

The Bulletin.

Norwich, Saturday, Nov. 23, 1929

THE WEATHER

Conditions

The northwestern disturbance has moved rapidly southeastward to the Red river of the North valley and pressure remains low over the Hudson Bay region. A disturbance that developed over the middle Gulf of Mexico Thursday night is advancing northeastward with center off the northwest Florida coast.

High pressure prevails from Texas northeastward to Quebec and Nova Scotia.

The gulf disturbance will move northeastward and the northwestern disturbance will move east-southeastward. As a result precipitation mostly in the form of snow except in the south Atlantic states is indicated for virtually the entire Washington forecast district within the next 24 to 36 hours. The precipitation in the southeastern states will likely end by Sunday.

Storm warnings are displayed on the Atlantic coast from Beaufort, North Carolina, to the Virginia Capes.

Winds

North of Sandy Hook: Moderate north and northeast winds, increasing and overcast weather, possibly rain over south portion Saturday.

Sandy Hook to Hatteras: Increasing northeast winds becoming strong and possibly reaching gale force over south portion and overcast thick weather with rain Saturday.

Forecast

For Southern New England: Cloudy, probably occasional snow in west and north portion and snow or rain in southeast portion Saturday and Sunday; little change in temperature.

TAFTVILLE

There was an attendance of about 50 at the meeting of the Men's club of the Taftville Congregational church held in the church vestry Thursday evening. The business session was presided over by the president, Albert Airey and the secretary-treasurer's report was given by Robert E. Cooper. After the business period Mr. Airey introduced Judge Arthur F. Libby of Norwich, who gave an address on the Prohibition question.

Judge Libby told how the advocates of prohibition had been working for over 100 years to have the amendment passed; and it was a significant thing that any amendment which had been passed had never been repealed. In fact, it can never be repealed unless 37 states vote to do so; so that at any time 12 states can block any amendment or repeal. He told how the Volstead act was passed as an enforcing act for the amendment, which was passed first. Alcoholic liquor was defined as anything having more than one half of one per cent alcoholic content. This was as distillers themselves had defined it after the Civil war.

The supreme court has held that an amendment after being proposed and ratified, shall be enforced the same as any other. He told how the act may be concurrently enforced by the several states and the federal government, and explained the stand of New York in passing the Mullen-Gage act, nullifying prohibition as far as the state was concerned. He explained how difficult it was for senators and representatives to carry out the wishes of their constituents if they did not know which way "the wind was blowing," and advised everybody to write their congressmen just how they stand in the matter.

At the conclusion of Judge Libby's very interesting and instructive talk, the club gave him a vote of thanks, and during the social session which followed refreshments of coffee, cheese and ham sandwiches were served by Terence M. Buckley, Walter S. Grant and Albert Airey.

Found Dead In Bed

Mrs. Sarah Bessette, 66, who has been employed as a maid at the Ponemah house was found dead in bed Friday morning. She had been a sufferer from asthma for some time and it is believed that she expired during an attack of that disease. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Thomas McAndrews of Stamford.

The committee in charge of the annual turkey supper of the Taftville Mannerchor club has sent out invitations for the affair and up to date there have been over 600 acceptances.

NORWICH TOWN

At the meeting of the Boy Scouts of Troop 2, connected with the Methodist Episcopal church, Friday evening, Patrol Leader Arthur Bennett had charge. The troop will hold a hike and treasure hunt this (Saturday) afternoon, weather permitting.

A new member was added to the Wolf Cub pack of scouts at the meeting Friday afternoon.

Discharge at Backus Hospital

Patients dismissed Friday at the Backus hospital were Hazel Babcock, Sterling, and John Novak of Lisbon.

NORWICH SOCIETY IN NEW YORK RECALLS MEN OF THE HOME TOWN

The fall dinner of the Norwich Society of New York, was held last Monday night at the New York Athletic club through the courtesy of Howard C. Russ, a member of the Athletic club. The menu was the following and it was universally agreed that the cuisine left nothing to be desired:

Blue Point Cocktail
Radishes Olives
Green Turtle Soup a l'Anglaise
Mignon of Lamb with Bacon
Potato Parisienne New String Beans
Salade Escarolle Fines Herbes
Pumpkin Pie Cheese
Cafe Noir

President F. Olin Howe mentioned several telegrams and letters received from absent members and then called attention to the fact that during the past year the society had lost two members—Edgar T. Kingsley, one of the early members, having died the early part of the year, and Louis J. Chamansky having recently been taken very suddenly.

Eulogies Delivered

Francis P. Bent then delivered a very eloquent eulogy referring to Mr. Chamansky's life in Norwich and his phenomenal success in his chosen field. His ability and worth were recognized through his being appointed some time ago a member of the board of managers of R. H. Macy & Co., although at the time of his decease he was a resident of Boston.

President Howe then referred to the shock which was felt by all several days ago upon learning of the death of Gen. William A. Aiken, the father of Alfred Aiken, an honored member of the Norwich society. Mr. Bent, with deep feeling, then extolled General Aiken in the following vein: "He was one of the old Norwich aristocracy, but democratic in his treatment of his fellowman. His attitude was always as upright and stately as the elms which line old Washington street. His demeanor was as placid and calm as the Thames as it flows on towards the sound, and his character was as beautiful and sweet as the arbutus that is found on the hills surrounding our dear old Norwich."

Resolutions were adopted that the secretary write letters of condolence to the surviving members of the families above referred to. In the case of General Aiken, the chair suggested that a formal resolution would be most appropriate.

Elected to Society

Dr. Louis Alofsin, as chairman of the membership committee, then read the names of the following who were unanimously elected as members of the society:

Dr. Arthur H. Terry, Jr., Richard C. Morse, Ronald M. Byrnes, Harwood Byrnes, F. Stowell Gilbert, John Edson Brady, Theodore Haviland, H. Francis Andrews, James P. McIntyre, Samuel S. Sternfield.

The suggestion was offered by the president that Frank H. Cantwell, now manager of the Stratfield hotel at Bridgeport, be made a member of the society because of his former affiliation with Norwich and Norwich boys, and he was voted in by acclamation.

Carl Schraubstader, formerly with the Cornell glee club, and a composer, sang a very witty parody to the tune of "Lover Come Back to Me," but based on the frequent margin calls which have been made within the past three weeks upon some members of the community, entitled "Sucker Come Back to Me."

President Howe remarked that when the executive committee met to consummate arrangements for this dinner, it was suggested that possibly only one dinner a year should be held hereafter instead of two. He said that the vote was overwhelmingly in favor of one in the spring and another in the fall, and emphasized the fact that the number present and the enthusiasm shown, together with the considerable number of new members enrolled, amply testified to the correctness of the committee's decision.

Two Honorary Memberships

The president further said that when John Jacobson, a pal of Esmonde M. O'Brien, of Norwich, who is attached to Commander Byrd's retinue, and F. E. Meinholtz, the New York Times radio operator at this end of the South Pole expedition, spoke to the members of the society last spring, the customary courtesy of honorary membership was not extended, through an oversight, and the secretary was accordingly authorized to notify both speakers that the society had now made them honorary members.

Whipple Tells War Experiences

Sidney H. Whipple, one of the recent acquisitions of the Norwich society, a graduate of N. F. A., and who subsequently attended Trinity college, was a cadet in the British Royal Flying corps prior to the entry of the U. S. into the war. Mr. Whipple spoke very interestingly as to his experiences while a member of the squadron attached to the British Fourth army in the battle of the Somme. He was then flying a Bristol plane, powered by a Rolls Royce, and had several very narrow escapes and thrilling adventures with Richtofens Circus, so-called, which he recounted graphically. The final words of Mr. Whipple were to the effect that from his observation and harrowing experiences during the war, he was firmly convinced that there was nothing to be gained by war to anywhere near compensate for the tremendous losses and suffering so that any action which any of the major governments of the world may take to prevent future wars should be advocated and endorsed by our citizenry.

C. F. Noyes on Real Estate

Charles F. Noyes then gave his associates a very vivid and elucidating discourse upon the present real estate situation in New York, regardless of the recent collapse of the stock market. He stressed the fact that there were still extraordinary possibilities offered the younger generation if they would only take the bit in their teeth and work, and get away from the idea that success is handed to one on a silver salver. The stability of real estate, as differentiated from constantly fluctuating stock values, was mentioned.

Continuing, Mr. Noyes then told the inside facts as to the story recently appearing in the press relative to "Charlie Noyes' Dream" for a 150-floor building on the site bounded by Broadway, Worth, Duane and Church streets, having an area of 180,000 square feet available as a base, or several times the area covered by the Equitable building. It seems that King George originally made a grant of this particular property in 1771 and there are certain factors in connection therewith, such as the fee of the highway passing between the two blocks mentioned being owned by the proprietors of the adjoining property, which make this plot of ground unique and highly desirable for such a structure. Mr. Noyes indicated how thoroughly he believed in the practicability of a building of this huge height, and as showing that his opinion was backed up by other hard-headed businessmen, he mentioned the fact that certain prominent officials of one of the largest banking institutions in the country had already offered their aid towards raising the necessary funds to complete the project.

It was said that nothing could be done for several years relative to construction because of existing leases, but Mr. Noyes assured his hearers that should they be on deck seven or eight years hence at a Norwich society dinner, they would speak of this, not as a dream, but as a reality.

Ronald M. Byrnes, one of the newly elected members, and a vice-president of the National City Co., then paid Charles F. Noyes a well deserved and well turned compliment. He indicated that the future of the country was secure as long as there were men of the calibre of Charlie Noyes engaged in great constructive undertakings; that had all of those in the market (prior to the recent break) been working industriously instead of hoping to live and profit by the work of others, it would have been an entirely different story. He also made the emphatic statement, which was echoed by all, that Charlie Noyes would have made an equally great success in any other venture than real estate in which he might have become engaged, because of his perseverance and vision.

As an indication of the rapid growth of the institution with which he is connected, Mr. Byrnes stated that the latest report available (for 1927) showed that the National City Co. had done an annual business of $2,000,000,000 on a capital of $25,000,000.

Wall Street Sidelight

A sidelight upon the recent panicky condition in Wall street, as it appeared to one of the fraternity of brokers operating there, was given by Warren K. Dowe. His theory was that high wages, such as never before existed during peace times, gave the ordinary laboring man money to invest for the first time in his life. Some stocks, such as some public utilities, were selling up to 30-50 times the earnings of the particular company. The radio industry was advertising itself day and night in millions of homes until many thought that radio must be a huge bonanza. Likewise, the mushroom growth of the aeroplane industry offered a wonderful opportunity for speculation on a grand scale.

And then as the stage was all set, along came Chancellor Snowden's warning to British investors throughout the world to lighten up on their American investments and return their gold to London, where it was sorely needed. And then followed the cataclysm. It was Mr. Dowe's sanguine belief that the stock list is now filled with bargains which will not be seen again in a generation, many high class securities now being available on a basis of a yield of 10 per cent.

Many companies are said to have retired their bonds and preferred stock out of earnings. Up until recently corporations have used their surplus funds on a large scale in the call market earning 8-10 per cent. In the future, with call money at a nominal rate (which will probably prevail) there there will be one of two uses for their funds: (1) to be put into plant construction, or (2) to pay out dividends to stockholders. Mr. Dowe advocated at this time buying stocks outright rather than on a margin. He also announced his belief that it was now the patriotic duty of every man to take some of his funds, and after thinking the situation over carefully, to invest in sound stocks and hold them for the rise, which in his estimation is sure to come in the course of the next year or so. It was his idea that this would tend to stabilize conditions so that there would be no disagreeable aftermath to the paper losses (or actual) which have occurred during the past three weeks.

Bill Klein then regaled the members with some very tender reminiscences of Norwich. Other speakers were Richard C. Morse, Harwood Byrnes, Dr. Arthur Terry, Jr., E. J. Crawford, Dr. Somers, Winslow T. Williams and Bruce Taylor, a guest of ex-President Albertson.

The chair broached the matter as to its being the intention of the executive committee at a later date to send out a questionnaire to all members of the society, giving certain salient facts such as home and business address, phone number, nature of business in which engaged, etc., with the object of possibly doing some reciprocal good to each other in a business way. It was also thought that this would tend to increase the membership of the society, as some members would know of other Norwichites who had never joined, and who were eligible.

Winslow Williams then offered the suggestion that in like manner as with the New England society, the Norwich society consider having only one dinner a year, and using the extra available funds towards helping any family needing financial assistance—although the scope of the contemplated philanthropy was not indicated. It was, however, voted to postpone the consideration of this matter of one or two dinners a year until the annual spring dinner, when there normally would be a larger delegation present to pass upon such an important question.

The meeting was adjourned somewhat after 11 o'clock.

Those present were: Alfred Aiken, A. H. Gates, R. C. Morse, Joseph E. Shea, Louis M. Alofsin, Dr. Comeau, William B. Klein, Royal B. Klein, Joseph F. Klein, Peter D. Burns, Jr., R. M. Raphael, H. R. Raphael, F. Stowell Gilbert, Charles Delaney, William T. Converse, Arthur H. Terry, Jr., William P. Crawford, J. Olin Howe, J. H. Albertson, James A. Somers, Wallace Falvey, Charles F. Noyes, E. J. Crawford, Edward H. Miller, William T. McNamara, John R. Powelson, Arthur W. Coote, C. N. Hulburt, Howard C. Russ, Arthur M. Brewster, Rufus Burnham, Winslow Williams, Joseph D. Herr, Frank A. Lester, H. Francis Andrews, Theodore Haviland, Patrick O'Brien, Sidney H. Whipple, Raymond F. Royce, Harwood Byrnes, Ronald Byrnes, Raymond Stefferson, Tom Browne, W. P. McIntyre, John T. McIntyre, Dr. Herman Alofsin, Merrill T. Lynch, Charles D. Lynch, Earl Conant, Warren K. Dowe, Arthur Norton, Charles Nichols, Charles Nichols, Jr.

The society officers are desirous that any one knowing of a son, brother, cousin or other relative living in New York or its environs who does not attend these semi-annual dinners should notify Secretary John R. Powelson, in care of Chicago Pneumatic Tool company, 6 East 44th street, New York city, who will be glad to see that an invitation is sent for the next meeting.

HAD BIG AUDIENCE FOR PLEASING ENTERTAINMENT

Fully 1,000 men and women attended a pleasing entertainment programme at St. Patrick's hall, Friday evening, held for the benefit of the poor of St. Patrick's parish. Stars of the radio and stage were heard in vocal selections, piano numbers, humorous stories and talks, and a feature moving picture, Drusilla with a Million, was shown to the delighted audience.

An interesting talk on clean motion pictures was given by Anthony Matrie, Knight of St. Gregory, and former president of the Holy Name society of Chicago. Mr. Matrie talked at some length on the movement for clean motion pictures and urged his audience to get back of the movement. The speaker told of a new religious picture which will soon be released, and explained in detail a number of the scenes in the picture. James P. Morgan of the National Diversified Corp., through the courtesy of which organization the evening's entertainment was arranged, gave a short talk on the clean motion picture movement. James Montague, radio and concert entertainer, was heard in piano selections and Marguerite Lester, soprano, entertained with several numbers. Others on the programme were George Warwick, humorist and cartoonist, and Frank T. Maloney, radio and concert baritone.

During the afternoon, there was a matinee performance for the children of the parish, several hundred attending. Those assisting at the entertainment were Austin Furlong, William McKnight, M. J. Murphy and John P. Corcoran.

Mohegan Church Services

At the Mohegan church Sunday morning the sermon will be an especial one for young people, though much of it will also apply to all ages. The theme will be "Open Doors." The minister, Herbert W. Hicks, of the New London Y. M. C. A., announced at the first session of the Bible school last week, that there would be Bible school sessions each Sunday. All who show perfect attendance for three months or longer will receive pins indicating the length of time of perfect service. Any young people of the community will be welcomed, both at the church service at 11 and the service of the Bible school immediately following. Plans for an illustrated lecture, to be held in the church on a Sunday evening in the near future were also mentioned.

Those present were: Mrs. Wilfred LeBlanc, Mrs. Garbriel Paquette, Mrs. John Kelly, Mrs. Arthur Allard and the Misses Florence LeBlanc and Theodora Allard. Later in the evening radio selections were enjoyed and refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. John Kelly. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Garbriel Paquette of Germania avenue.

DANGER LIES IN BULKLESS DIETS

Eat ALL-BRAN and Prevent Constipation

Thousands of people wonder why they are suffering when they try to be so careful regarding their diet. They have headaches, bad complexions and are unhappy because their old-time strength and vigor are gone.

Constipation is often the cause of this bad health. And lack of bulk in the diet is usually the cause of constipation. Roughage is needed daily to sweep the system clean of poisonous wastes. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN will supply this roughage.

ALL-BRAN works as nature works. It is guaranteed to bring relief — to prevent constipation.

Ready-to-eat with milk or cream. Delicious in flavor. Add it to your muffins and other hot breads. Try the recipes on the package. Doctors recommend ALL-BRAN because it is 100% bran. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Served in hotels, restaurants and dining-cars. Sold by all grocers.

SOVIET CAVALRY HAS CUT OFF RETREAT OF CHINESE

At Khailar, in Manchuria, the Soviet Forces Have Penetrated Behind the Chinese Army's Position—Reports Tell of Severe Fighting—Chinese Casualties Have Been Estimated at 12,000—Chinese Troops Have Abandoned All Pretense of Defending Chinese Eastern Railway West of the Khingan Mountains.

TOKYO, Nov. 24—(AP)—A telegram from Japanese sources in Harbin today said soviet cavalry and tanks had penetrated behind the Chinese army's position at Khailar, in Manchuria, cutting off the Chinese retreat. Severe fighting was reported.

Japanese sending the message believed the soviet forces now hold the whole area west of the Khingan mountains.

Another Harbin telegram estimated Chinese casualties at 12,000. Chinese likewise were reported losing heavily on the border east of Khailarx. The message said soviet troops had extended their line around Muling west of Pokranichnaya. Khailar was reported captured.

Advance of the soviet forces in Manchuria, driving the Chinese troops before them and capturing thousands, has been reported persistently over a period of several days.

Russian sources announced Friday night that more than 8,000 Chinese soldiers and 300 officers had been captured and disarmed in a series of counter-attacks along the Manchurian front. Dispatches said 10,000 rifles a considerable quantity of field guns, ammunition, and other equipment had been taken by the red army.

Mukden reports said occupation of Dalainor and Manchuli, in western Manchuria, by the red army, was officially admitted yesterday. Tokyo received word that Chinese military headquarters on the western Manchurian frontier was being moved from Khailar to Buchatu, 150 miles southeast. The same dispatches indicated that the Chinese intended to make the Khingan mountains their main line of defense.

CHINESE ABANDON DEFENSE OF RAILWAY

TOKYO, Nov. 24—(AP)—Dispatches to Renzo, Japanese news agency, from Harbin and Mukden, Manchuria, said the Chinese military had abandoned all pretense of defending the Chinese Eastern railway west of the Khingan mountains and were fleeing eastward, looting on the way.

Civilian and soldier refugees were described as demoralized.

CHINESE COMMANDER ON WESTERN FRONT KILLED

LONDON, Nov. 24—(AP)—A Reuters dispatch from Harbin today said soviet forces are reported to have captured Khailar and Muling. The Chinese commander on the western front is reported to have been killed. It was thought probable that a state of seige would be declared tomorrow.

BOMBS WERE DROPPED ON KHAILAR BY SOVIET PLANES

HARBIN, Manchuria, Nov. 24—(AP)—The population of Khailar for the second time since the Sino-Russian break last July, today was preparing to move owing to the reported steady advance of the soviet forces.

The exodus started yesterday after a night air raid by soviet planes which dropped bombs and flares, giving Khailar its greatest scare in its thirty years existence.

The Chinese Eastern railway was bringing every available coach to aid in the evacuation of its workers and their families. Special trains were jammed to capacity by the panicky population and no endeavor was made to collect fares.

Harbin newspapers estimate that four soviet divisions now are in Manchuria, each division having approximately 15,000 men. The population of Khailar is about 20,000. It is the center of the Barga sheep district and sends the bulk of its wool to the United States and Canada.

GEORGES CLEMENCEAU TO BE BURIED UPRIGHT

PARIS, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Georges Clemenceau, the father of victory, his sufferings ended early today by ing life, tonight was being taken for death which closed 58 years of a fight-eternal rest in the loniliness of a little wood near Mouchamps in his beloved vendee.

The body of the man who had been a firm and fiery premier for France in her trial of the World war was carried through the darkness in an automobile hearse, over 250 miles of road toward the southeast to a spot within 30 miles of the sea he loved so well.

There he will be buried tomorrow morning under the trees in a grave that his chauffeur and friend, M. Brabant, dug for him today. He will enter the soil of his France for which he had fought so vigorously at a spot he himself had selected. The grave will be marked by a stone friends had sent from Greece which he had erected several years ago with few if any sharing his secret.

He will be buried upright, as his father was before him. What he desired above all was to carry out to the end his appearance of a hard exterior, which all knew covered a warm heart. He lived and wanted to die "a man." In one of his last lucid moments on his deathbed he said, "I want no women; I want no tears. Let me die before men."

Clemenceau in death as in life rejected ostentation and ceremony. He asked that when death came to him that he should be permitted merely to disappear. He wished a funeral as quiet, as drab, as bare, as those for a million of "his boys" killed in the long struggle which his leadership helped turn to a triumph and caused a then feverishly grateful parliament to acclaim his "Father of Victory."

FRENCH PAY TRIBUTE TO CLEMENCEAU AS SUPERMAN

Paris, Nov. 24.—(AP)—The French today paid tribute to Georges Clemenceau as a superman, saying his career as "victory" premier in the World war proved that France always finds the leader capable of guiding and saving the nation in a great crisis.

The sharpest critics of the press admitted this claim this morning. His energy and will were called "relentless," and "remorseless." Editorial comment said he never flattered or quailed when fighting evil or destroying men or political combinations that incurred his wrath.

Many of the newspapers dwelt on the long residence of Clemenceau in the United States, his lectures there to students and finally his marriage to one of them, Miss Mary Plummer of Springfield, Mass.

MAN FOUND FATALLY SHOT IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Nov. 24—(AP)—A man identified from papers in his pocket as James Burke, 26, was found with a bullet wound in his right temple today on a deserted runway of an East Side warehouse. He was taken to Flower hospital, and died two hours later without regaining consciousness.

A watchman who lives near the place where the man was found told police he was attracted by the grinding of automobile brakes and saw a taxicab back into the runway. A minute later he said he saw a tall man wearing a fedora hat and a short man wearing a cap, both laughing, step into the cab and drive away.

Police were faced with an apparent lack of a motive for the shooting of Burke, whom they described as an unemployed laborer and for whom they could find no police record. Robbery as a theory was discarded when $13 was found in his pockets.

Burke was believed to have moved recently to Second avenue from the West Side.

SHORT OPERA SEASON IN BOSTON ENDED IN RIOT

BOSTON, Nov. 24.—(AP)—A two weeks' opera season put on for Boston's music lovers by the Cosmopolitan Opera company, at the Arlington theatre, came to a riotous close on the last night because singers refused to sing unless they received what they said was owed them and the idea spread to a restive audience which stormed the box office for its money back.

The crowd of several hundred waited more or less penitently for an hour after the curtain had been scheduled to ring up on the first scene of "Aida" while the cast and the manager argued back of the stage until someone in the balcony jumped up with the cry "If we don't get the show we want our money back."

A rush started for the box office, windows were smashed, and a riot call sent out. Fifteen policemen responded, but they were swept aside by the crowd, which included students who had been stimulated by the Harvard-Yale football game that afternoon, and it was not until ten o'clock that the officers aided by reinforcements succeeded in clearing the theatre.

Tomaso Nazzaro, manager of the company, announced that everyone would receive his money back tomorrow, but that satisfied the crowd no better than his offer to split with the company $200 in the box office receipts left after several previous debts had been paid satisfied the cast or stage hands. He said that $19,000 of the company's $23,000 debts were paid off.

POLICEMAN SAVED SANTA CLAUS FROM DROWNING

WILKES BARRE, Pa., Nov. 24.—(AP)—While thousands of children shrieked in terror Saturday a mounted policeman spurred his horse into the swollen Susquehanna river and rescued Santa Claus from what seemed certain to be a watery grave. Then the policeman towed Santa Claus to shore. The shrieks of terror turned to screams of delight as the children realized that Christmas had been saved from being a total loss.

It had been advertised that Santa Claus was making a special airplane trip here to visit a local store. As a result children from all over the valley traveled to Kirby park to welcome the spirit of Christmas. The airplane appeared from the north and circled the park. Santa Claus was seen to climb out on a wing and leap. But as his parachute unfolded it was caught by the wind and carried south and instead of landing on the lawns, Santa struck the Susquehanna with a mighty splash.

Sandy Underwood of the Forty Fort airport portrayed the role of Santa and a pilot from a Philadelphia airport, whose name was not learned, piloted the plane.

NATION-WIDE SEARCH FOR MRS. B. M. CROUSE

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—(AP)—A nation-wide search, with more than 50,000 persons engaged, has been inaugurated in an attempt to solve the mystery of the disappearance of Mrs. Beecher Maynard Crouse, wife of a Utica, N. Y., millionaire, police disclosed today.

Mrs. Crouse disappeared from her home in Utica the night of November 14. Her husband until a month ago, was president of the First Bank and Trust company, of Utica.

REPORT OF THE FEDERAL POWER COMMISSION

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Expressing doubt that the objective of the federal water power act of 1920 had been achieved, the federal power commission said today in its annual report that hydro-electric had failed to forge ahead of steam power development because of reduction in cost of steam generation and because of the lack of "constructive public cooperation."

State Inheritance Taxes, $3,598,333

Four Estates Paid a Tax in Excess of $100,000 Each—Four Others Paid a Tax of Less Than 50 Cents.

HARTFORD, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Payments of individual estates ranging from $225,794.23 to 38 cents, went to make up the total of $3,598,333.35 which the state received in inheritance taxes during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1929, as shown by the annual report of State Treasurer Samuel R. Spencer. Besides those in Connecticut, estates in 31 other states and ten foreign countries contributed to the total. Four estates paid a tax in excess of $100,000 each and four others paid a tax of less than 50 cents. The total inheritance tax payments for the 1928-29 fiscal period reached a new high total, the previous high mark having been $3,010,652.78 in 1927-28.

The estate of Harris Whittemore, of Naugatuck, which paid a tax of $225,794.93, was the largest single contributor to this classification of state income. Next in order of size of tax paid were the following: Edward Miller, Meriden, $159,933.52; Susan V. Hotchkiss, New Haven, $146,744.55; Gertrude K. Thorne, Greenwich, $130,775.99; Elisha P. Cronkhite, Greenwich, $90,915.57; Mary H. Greims, Ridgefield, $90,689.32; Frederick J. Kingsbury, New Haven, $77,043.22; John B. Phillips, Stamford, $73,489.13; George H. Gilman, Hartford, $70,951.50; Katherine A. Stanley, Berlin, $70,940.41.

These ten estates, which together paid a tax of $1,137,278.14, accounted for nearly one-third of the entire inheritance tax income of the state.

Four of these ten estates also had an estate penalty tax assessed against them, the proceeds of which were divided between the state and the towns in which the property had been not taxed locally. The penalty taxes were: Susan V. Hotchkiss, $1,871.10; John B. Phillips, $1,236.58; Gertrude K. Thorne, $1,138.25; George H. Gilman, $548.32.

The smallest inheritance tax, 38 cents, was paid by the estate of John F. Maloney, probated in Newtown. Other small payments were: Charles T. Freeman, Boston, Mass., 40 cents; Luther Wilcox, Portland, 43 cents; and Mary Hall, Hartford, 45 cents.

Outside of Connecticut, Maine produced the largest number of estates, 28, on which taxes were paid in Connecticut, with Massachusetts second with 26.

BELIEVE NORWALK MAN COMMITTED SUICIDE

NORWALK, Nov. 24.—(AP)—The discovery of an overcoat, a flashlight, and a wrist watch on the dock at Roton Point park led police to believe today that the owner of the articles, William Bruick, 24, of this city, had committed suicide. The waters in the vicinity of the dock will be dragged tomorrow.

This morning, Bruick's automobile was found badly damaged against a fence in Wilton.

Bruick, according to the police, invited a maid in a Wilton home where he was employed as a chauffeur to go out with him last night. He left the home in anger when the maid refused his invitation, saying that he was going to commit suicide.

S. O. S. CALLS WERE SENT OUT BY A DEMENTED OPERATOR

VALENTA, Balta, Nov. 24.—(AP)—The wireless operator on the British steamer, Baron Elcho, who started four destroyers rushing to his aid when he sent out SOS calls last Thursday, saying an attempt was being made to murder him, has been removed in custody to the destroyer Witch.

The master of the Baron Elcho said the operator still maintained everybody was trying to poison him.

The Witch with the three other destroyers that answered the SOS calls headed back to Malta.

FIGHTING EPIDEMIC THAT HAS CAUSED 40 DEATHS

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, Nov. 24.—(AP)—The British authorities in the small island of St. Kitts (St Christopher) are fighting a serious epidemic which in the past four months has caused 40 deaths among the Negroes. There have been 375 cases within that period.

The disease is filaria or filariasis. It is a fairly common tropical disease resulting from the presence of certain embryo parasites in the blood.

FIVE MEN INDICTED FOR DASTARDLY CRIMES

MOUNTAINVIEW, Ark., Nov. 24.—(AP)—The torture, mutilation and then burning alive of Connie Franklin, 20, a farm hand, and an attack upon his young woman companion on a lonely mountain road 14 miles east of here last March, came to light today with the arrest of five men indicted by the county grand jury, all on first degree murder charges and two of them on statutory charges.

Pneumonia Fatal To Senator F. E. Warren

Veteran Member From Wyoming Was 85 Years Old—Was Father-in-Law of General Pershing.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24—(AP)—Death today removed from the senate the man who had participated in more of the political struggles of that body than any other person in history—Senator Francis E. Warren of Wyoming.

The 85-year-old "dean" of the senate, who had served continuously since 1895 and for three years previously, succumbed at 10.05 o'clock this morning to an attack of pneumonia after three weeks' illness, starting with bronchitis.

The veteran statesman was the oldest member of the senate both in years and length of service and was the only member who participated in the war between the states, serving in the Union army along with Justice Holmes of the supreme court, Representative Stedman of North Carolina is a veteran of the Confederate army.

His passing came as a shock to his senate colleagues and to his many Washington friends.

A turn for the worse came last night and so weakened his resistence that he was unable to rally.

Present when he died where Mrs. Warren, his son, Fred Warren, of Cheyenne, and his son-in-law, General John J. Pershing, commander of the American expeditionary force to France in the World war. General Pershing, upon his arrival from abroad Monday, visited his father-in-law and expressed confidence that he would recover.

A pioneer of the west, Senator Warren was intensely interested in development of that section, but he was best known for his work in the senate. As chairman of the powerful appropriations committee since the Harding administration came into power in 1921. He was responsible for piloting through the senate the legislation providing for the monetery needs of the federal government.

Only recently, until he became ill, he had been at work preparing for the appropriation bills which will come before congress when it convenes in regular session December 2.

Physically he was very active and despite his age refused to ride the elevators at the capitol, always using the stairs in his frequent trips between the senate chamber and his office.

Funeral services had not been arranged tonight but it was said he would be buried at Cheyenne. Vive President Curtis plans to appoint a delegation from the senate to attend the funeral and similar action is expected to be taken by Speaker Longworthy of the house.

Senator Warren was married January 26, 1871, to Miss Helen Marie Smith, of Middlefield, Mass., and a son and daughter were born of that union. Mrs. Warren died March 28, 1902, and on June 23, 1911, the senator married Miss Clara LeBaron Morgan, of Groton, Conn.

PRESIDENT'S TRIBUTE TO SENATOR WARREN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24—(AP)—President Hoover today described Senator Francis E. Warren as one of the leaders of a passing generation to whom the people of this generation owe much of their splendid heritage.

News of the death of the veteran senator was conveyed to the president upon his return from morning services at the Friends Meeting house. He issued this statement:

"Senator Warren began his public service with four years as a private and officer in the Civil war. Mayor of his city, governor of his state, senator for nearly 40 years, every stage of his life was marked by increasing industry and by devotion to national welfare. His span of life covers a generation fast passing, among those leaders he played a great part and to whom we of this generation owe much of our splendid inheritance."

TURKISH WOMEN TO VOTE IN MUNICIPAL ELECTION

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Turkish women have made another advance toward complete emancipation by winning the right to vote in municipal elections and to hold municipal offices.

Extension of suffraze has gone steadily ahead in Turkey since proclamation of the republic in 1923. The electoral system adopted under the new constitution allowed every male citizen over 18 years old to vote, although membership in the grand national assembly was limited to men over 30.

HOOVER ASKS COOPERATION OF GOVERNORS OF STATES

In Movement to Offset the Stock Market Situation by Speeding Up Programs For Public Construction in States, Cities and Counties—Today President Hoover Will Receive Heads of Farm Organizations at the White House.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24—(AP)—President Hoover completes his cycle of business progress conferences tomorrow morning by receiving heads of farm organizations at the white house.

This will be his first meeting with spokesmen for the agriculture industry since the farm relief legislation was put into operation and it is to be expected that there will be such assurances of federal co-operation as to stimulate the industry.

The president may have covered the major fields of endeavor in the country with the conclusion of tomorrow's conference. He also has called upon the governors of the states to co-operate fully with the movement to offset the effects of the stock market situation by speeding up as far as possible the programs of public construction in states, cities and counties.

Out of the conferences which Mr. Hoover began will come a more or less permanent organization within the industries which are to be formed at a meeting here on December 5. This was called today by the United States chamber of commerce which has sent invitations to from 150 to 250 business leaders representing virtually all of the business groups in the nation.

President Hoover will open this conference with a brief talk outlining his purposes and reviewing what has been accomplished. This is disclosed in a letter copies of which will be sent tomorrow to the groups and which will be signed by Julius Barnes, chairman of the board, and Will Butterworth, president of the United States chamber of commerce.

"This conference will be opened by President Hoover," the letter will say, "and is the outcrowth of a conviction on his part that American business is so organized as to be fully capable of mobilizing its forces in co-operation with government.

"It is gratifying that from such high authority should come this recognition of the efficient and trustworthiness of business organizations in this country, and there is now a responsibility upon us to discharge this trust with sober devotion and practical efficiency.

"The preliminary conferences which the president held last week with individual business leaders indicates a situation that has no fundamental weakness. Indeed the absence of weak actors and the presence of strong ones constitute tribute to the high standards and the wise practices of American business men. There are no burdensome stocks of commodities and this is owing to far-sighted manufacturing plans and to prudent merchandising efforts, aided by the wise practices of American business men. There are no burdomsome stocks of commodities and this is owing to far-sighted manufacturing plans and to prudent merchandising efforts, aided by striking efficiency in transportation.

"With no commodity price inflation there is no menace of inventory losses. There is a strong banking situation with enlarged reservoirs of credit available for industry and commerce on reasonable terms. Weak spots which have heretofore existed in American industry are showing signs of improvement.

"American industry generally is approaching the close of one of the most active and prosperous years in recent history. The problem now is, fortunately, not one of starting a stalled machine but of facilitating a present momentum on which employment and earnings and buying power have arisen to high levels. It is our belief that proven ability in practical business leadership can define weak spots and bring forward remedial measures, and thus justify a high spirit of confidence and enterprise.

"In preparation for practical steps based on accurate information we would like to have an analysis of the strong and weak spots in your field, both as to the present situation and the next six months."

CONFESSED THAT HE SHOT AND KILLED HIS FATHER

DETROIT, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Joseph Malick, 19, confessed early today, according to Wayne county officers that he shot and killed his father, Frank Malick, in his greenhouse in Ankin township, near here.

Deputy sheriffs today went to Malick home and found the pistol and shotgun with which the florist was slain, hidden where Joseph said he had put them.

Joseph confessed according to the officers, that he killed his father because a stranger whose first name was Adam, threatened his life as well as that of his father if he did not commit the crime.

The youth admitted he had quarreled with his parent and waited for him in the greenhouse, the officers said. After the slaying, Joseph said he buried the pistol in the dirt floor of the basement and hid the shotgun in the attic after taking it apart.

No warrant had been issued.

CROWDS VISITED SHRINE IN HOLY CROSS CEMETERY

MALDEN, Mass., Nov. 24.—(AP)—A freezing and leaden skied Sunday and a biting cold wind which swept the desolate acres of Holy Cross cemetery today, failed to daunt the unending line of woe-stricken pilgrims seeking relief in the reputedly miraculous quality of the grave of Rev. Patrick J. Power.

It was the last day of the pilgrimage. A ban which will close the cemetery to the afflicted until the church has had opportunity to investigate the manifold stories of miraculous cures, was to become effective at midnight. But it was estimated that at the closing hour, 100,000 persons would have attended the grave during the 24 hours.

STORMS CAUSED 11 DEATHS IN THE SOUTHERN STATES

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 24.—(AP)—Two deaths today, in Virginia and North Carolina, brought to 11 the total chargeable to last week's unseasonable foretaste of winter in the southern states. Rising temperatures gave general relief.

Henry Durney, formerly of Yonkers, N. Y., and Watertown, Mass., victim of an automobile accident during a sleet storm, died in Winchester Va., raising the fatalities in that state to four, while the fatal injury to Roland Rogers, at Charlotte, was the first from the untimely cold in North Carolina. Arkansas has attributed six deaths to low temperatures and ice.

TELLS OF DISASTER AT SEA THAT TOOK 18 LIVES

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 24.—(AP)—A description of a giant wave which wrenched off the pilot house and bridge of the small steamer Villa Hermosa off the coast of Tabasco on November 16 was given today by a survivor. It was the first detailed account of the disaster involving of 18 lives to be received here. Twenty-four other persons who abandoned the ship after the wave had hit it made shore safely.

The vessel was in coastwise traffic. Was surprised by a sudden storm. A dozen panic-stricken passengers were on the bridge and in the pilot house beseeching the captain to save them when the wave hit the ship with such force that it carried away the whole super-structure with the passengers, captain and five seamen. Eighteen other passengers and six other members of the crew were flung to the deck.

They struggled through heavy seas in small boats to the shore. The steamer, left unguided, was driven on the rocks and broke up. Several women and children were among the victims.

GEORGE M. SUNDAY HELD ON CHARGE OF GRAND THEFT

SAN JOSE, Calif., Nov. 24—(AP)—George M. Sunday, son of Billy Sunday, the evangelist was arrested at Bonny Lomond, in the Santa Cruz mountains last night on a charge of grand theft. He was taken to Santa Cruz where he filed $50 cash bond.

Sunday, who gave the name of C. E. Castleman, immediately left for San Francisco in a taxi. With him at the time of his arrest was a woman believed to have been Mrs. Maurene LaSalle, Hollywood cloak model.

Sunday recently rented an automobile in Oakland. The car was supposed to be returned November 17. After a lapse of several days the Oakland firm sought aid of police recovering the machine.

Mrs. Harriet Sunday has been reported as preparing to file papers for a divorce in Los Angeles. She has stated she surprised her husband Mrs. LaSalle in her home on the night of October 26. Warrants based on the allegations of Mrs. Sunday are awaiting service in Los Angeles.

GALE DAMAGES NORTH COAST OF PORTUGAL

LISBON, Portugal, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Troops from neighboring districts tonight were rushed to the northeast coast where a fierce Atlantic gale was reported to have done great damage. It was feared that there has been severe loss of life but broken communications prevented any exact estimate of the destruction.

Torrential rains and floods hit the coast city of Vianna Do Castello. At the nearby town of Arcos Valle De Vez the Linia rive, burst its banks, swept away bridges, uprooted trees and carried off cattle. The populace fled in panic before the swirling waters. Early reports described peasants marooned on cottage roofs screaming for help.

Enormous damage was done to the crops and two factories were blown down. The local power station was submerged and the town plunged in complete darkness making the rescue work more difficult.

ROBBER KILLED AFTER COMPANIONS HAD FLED

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—(AP)—A robber was killed tonight when he stopped, after his two companions deserted him, to shoot out with one of the players in a card game the three had attempted to rob.

A bullet from the robber's revolver struck Antonio Lanza, one of the card players in the head. He was taken to Harlem hospital. His condition was described as critical.

The slain hold-up man was known in the neighborhood as "The Jap." The man he shot it out with, Carbone Nicola, was not wounded.

WARRENVILLE BOY HURT WHEN CAR IS DEMOLISHED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Paul Meisack, 14, of Warrenville was painfully injured and the small Maxwell car he was driving was reduced to a mass of wreckage in a collision opposite Knowlton Memorial hall in Warrenville shortly after midnight this morning. The Meisack boy, who failed to have a driver's license, was headed east in the machine when a machine said to have been driven by Samuel Schors of Andover, came out of the town hall driveway. The Meisack car was struck a broadside blow that sent the machine, which was considerably lighter in weight than that operated by Schors, toppling over. Meisack was pinned beneath the car and was extricated when several men lifted the machine. He was rushed to St. Joseph's hospital and found to be suffering from severe bruises and cuts on the face and forehead and possible injuries of internal nature. An x-ray is expected to be taken to determine these. State Policemen Stevens and Daley of the Stafford Springs barracks are conducting an investigation.

NEW LONDON ELKS WIN FROM WILLIMANTIC BROTHERS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 24.—Members of New London lodge of Elks, No. 360, defeated the local Elks 7 to 5, in the first of the round-robin series of the New London, Norwich and local lodges held at the home this afternoon. Out of the ten possible points, the Whaling City brothers broke even on pool, even on cards, but were victorious three to one in bowling. The fourth point was captured in a pinfall of the bowling match of 1,740, as against Willimantic, 1,652, a margin of 87 pins. The visitors took the first string by 69 pins, the second by 39, while the locals took the third by 31. In the pool matches (count), Al Benoit, locals, beat John Griffin, New London, 50 to 44; Pete Chardore, New London, beat Ray Angier, local, 50 to 43. Earl Wadsworth, locals, beat L. B. Douglass, 50 to 38; Robert Rasmussen, New London, beat Thomas Murray, 50 to 44.

In pinochle, Willimantic won one and also one in cribbage. New London won one in pitch and one in 45. The matches: Pinochle—John Cochrane and Fred Voott, of New London, lost to G. Donald Bartlett and Andre Brindamour, 4 to 1; Dr. M. D. Riordan and Frank Lombardo defeated Joseph Foster and Theodore LaFeminine, 5 to 0.

Cribbage—William H. Nichols and T. J. Connelly beat C. Smith and Charles Brooks of New London, 3 to 2.

Pitch—Jack Denig and Maurice Collins beat Fred Roy and Wilfred Lariviere of Willimantic, 5 to 4; Al Granger and Thomas Murphy of New London beat Hevtor Gaudreau and Roland Kittredge, 5 to 4; Frank Gelinas and Octave Dubreuil of Willimantic beat Robert Collins and Joseph McGuire, 5 to 3.

Forty-five—James McDonald and Daniel Moran of New London beat Joseph Bergeron and Thomas Callaghan, 6 to 5; J. N. McGarry and J. McDonald of New London beat Thomas Murray and Jerry Haggerty, 6 to 4.

A collation was served at the conclusion of the matches by the athletic committee, Ernest LaFleur, chairman. There were about 60 visitors present. It was announced that the second meet of the round-robin series with Norwich to be held here next Sunday would be postponed, owing to the memorial exercises in the local lodge.

CITY TO VOTE ON SALARIES AT CITY ELECTION ON DEC. 2

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 24—The voters of the city of Willimantic will take action on a referendum to increase the salary of the mayor from $500 to $1,000 and fix a salary of $300 per annum for the board of aldermen, at the city election, Monday, Dec. 2. It will be the first time that a referendum will appear alongside the tickets since the use of voting machines in the city, present plans being to have the vote on the proposition taken in this manner. Permission was secured from the last legislature to increase the salary of the mayor, which has been $500 since the city was incorporated, and provide remuneration to the extent of $300 annually to the aldermen, who in the past have received no compensation.

Mayor Charles A. Gates received a petition, signed by about a score of prominent local men, that action on the matter of salaries be asked for in a clause in the warning of the annual city meeting. The authorization from the legislature provides that a majority of the voters be in favor of the new salaries before they can become effective. Members of both parties are understood to stand practically unanimous in their approval of the new salary schedule.

Joseph Boucher, local youth, is out under bonds on charges of carrying a concealed weapon and intoxication. The young man was picked up in the rear yard of 269 Jackson street early this morning by Officer John A. Lutton. A .32-calibre revolver, loaded, was found in his possession. Boucher explained that he had carried the weapon on a hunting expedition Saturday.

ELECTOR'S OATH GIVEN TO 34 NEW VOTERS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 24. — The board of selectmen and town clerk Saturday administered the elector's oath to 34 persons, 19 women and 15 men, whose names are to be added to the voting list for the city election, Monday, Dec. 2. Saturday's session was the second and final one for this purpose. One week ago Saturday 96 persons took the elector's oath, making a total of 130 new voters to qualify. There will be added to this the names of two persons who will become of age prior to the election day and who will be qualified to vote. In addition, there have been several names restored to the list, the grand total of additional names added to the voting list this year being 234.

The total new list for 1929 is at present 5,345 as against 5,111 in 1927 when the last city election took place. All of the four wards show an increase except the third, which sustained a loss of 23 within the two years. According to First Selectman William A. Buck, the number of new voters made this year is somewhat above the average for a so-called "off" year. The tentative list of "to be made voters" compiled by the registrars totaled about 353 names. Despite the fact that the voting list has been substantially increased, those who are in close touch with the situation do not expect a correspondingly increased vote to be cast Dec. 2 without considerable industrious work on the part of political workers on election day.

Following an ambitious fall and winter program, the chamber of commerce, through various committees, has at hand several important projects that call for immediate action.

The organization of a Manufacturers' bureau, functioning similarly to the Merchants' bureau within the chamber, is one of the main objectives at this time. The project is the outcome of intensive research into local industrial conditions by the industrial committee of the chamber. The bureau would investigate freight rates and other matters pertaining to industrial welfare in the community. The committee is devoting much attention to industries already established in the city and for some time has spent one afternoon each week in visiting the plants and offering co-operation to the manufacturers. The committee has also investigated several concerns interested in locating factories in Willimantic. The majority of these sought financial assistance, however, and otherwise did not meet with the qualifications set forth by the chamber of commerce.

Through the Merchants' bureau the business district of the city will again be decorated with trees and colored lights during the Christmas season. The mercantile department of the chamber also has under advisement the establishment of a small claims court, similar to the court now in operation in New London. This matter must first be approved by the state legislature to give civil jurisdiction to the local court. Still another activity under the heading of mercantile is a plan to safeguard the public from fraudulent and questionable solicitations. In the hope of avoiding some of the sad and costly experiences of which housewives and others are victims through misrepresentation, the chamber now proposes to issue an approval card to those soliciting funds, advertisements, etc. The card will be granted only after due consideration of the facts in the case. It will then be up to the public to co-operate by asking for the display of a chamber of commerce card when approached by a solicitor.
